SAUSALITAN'S LONG WAIT

Wife Greets Returning Prisoner Of War Pilot

By PAT ANGLE

For nearly six years Karen Southwick of Sausalito had looked forward to the day she would be reunited with her prisoner of war husband with a mixture of excitement and anxiety.

"I was worried about what I'd say or do first, about getting reacquainted with him after all those years," the attractive auburn-haired woman recalled today. "I wondered if we'd have anything to say to one another.

She needn't have worried about that first meeting.

"I grabbed him and gave him a big hug and put on his wedding ring. The words seemed to come much more easily than I had expected.

"He really looked great. He was thinner and grayer, but he wasn't a stranger. He still had the same little idiosyncrasies I remembered and he had maintained his sense of humor.

"I was very relieved."

Southwick, a 41-year-old Navy pilot, was shot down over North Vietnam May 14, 1967. He and his wife had been newlyweds when he was captured, married only 10 months.

One Dead And Hundreds Hurt As Bomb Blasts Rock London

LONDON (UPI) — Two powerful car bombs like those used by the Irish Republican Army (IRA) in Northern Ireland exploded in the heart of London today, killing one man, injuring at least 114 persons and doing widespread damage to such landmarks as the Old Bailey Criminal Court and the Agriculture Ministry.

The bombs—cars packed with explosives—hit the Old Bailey Central Court, blew out all the windows at the Ministry of Agriculture, damaged an army recruiting station, the headquarters of the British forces broadcasting network and other targets. There were other bomb scares and evacuation of buildings.

The bombings, which some Londoners likened to the wartime blitz, coincided with a referendum in Northern Ireland to determine whether the province would remain under London's rule or join the Irish Republic to the south. The IRA has sought to unite Ulster and Ireland by force. Spokesmen said only they suspected "Irish extremists."

In Dublin a spokesman for the Official Wing of the IRA said it had "nothing to do with the explosions in Britain."

Scotland Yard said "at least 100" persons were injured in the Old Bailey explosion alone and another 14 were hurt outside the modern Ministry of Agriculture building. Dozens were wounded in other blasts.

There were no reported fatalities.

The Old Bailey bomb destroyed the George pub across the street and blew out the front of the original Old Bailey building. A fortress-like extension opened only late last year next door lost most of its windows.

Oil Firm Successful In Challenging Pollution Law

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

SAN FRANCISCO — Prosecution of Bay Area air polluters has been crippled by an oil company's successful legal challenge to a key law.

Air Pollution Control District directors, huddling yesterday behind closed doors for an hour, unanimously voted to seek emergency legislation to reverse the ruling by the Benicia Justice Court.

Some 175 cases against polluters will have to be settled or delayed pending legislative action. The district's counsel, David A. Self, cited the disputed law as "the district's principal legal enforcement tool."

The disputed law is Section 38261 of the state Health and Safety Code, which in 1970 empowered air pollution control districts to sue polluters for $500 a day for each violation.

The challenge by Humble Oil and Refining Co., however, successfully argued the Legislature did not intend to extend the section's powers to the Bay Area district, which was formed under a separate law than other districts throughout the state.

Frank C. Chadwick, manager of Humble's refinery in Benicia, told newsmen he does not know if the company will oppose such legislation.

Chadwick, whose plant has received 122 violation notices since it came under district jurisdiction in October 1971,

Indians Prepare To Fight

WOUNDED KNEE, S.D. UPI) —Militant Indian leaders who seized Wounded Knee nine days ago and refused as "totally unacceptable" a federal government offer for terms of peaceful dispersal, said today their ranks have been strengthened by 32 more supporters who filtered into this hamlet.

A government deadline for evacuation expires tonight.

Tension was high among the Indians clustered about the little church where they have been storing food, and around which they have dug trenches.

There was shooting during the night, but it was sporadic and less than that which broke out Tuesday night and early Wednesday between Indians and federal officers holding a roadblock cordon around the settlement.

Members of the American Indian Movement (AIM) holding the town said they now had 250 to 300 supporters in Wounded Knee. Groups of women and children have left over the past two days.

The AIM forces, who seek changes in government policy toward all Indians and particularly changes in Oglala Sioux tribal government, seized hostages and took over Wounded Knee on Feb. 28 and looted its museum and trading post. The remainder of those seized, including Mr. and Mrs. C.A. Gildersleve, Mrs. A.M. Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Fritz, Mary Pike, and William Cole, packed belongings to leave today. Others already have left.

There were no indications as to what the government would do if the Indians again refused to put down their arms and depart this Oglala Sioux settlement.

The government extended the deadline on its offer Wednesday until 6 p.m. MST today to give

Ranchers Facing Rustling Problem

Cattle Thefts Show Increase In County

By ERIK M. INGRAM

Cattle ranchers in Marin and Southern Sonoma counties are experiencing an upsurge in a problem almost as old as ranching itself: cattle rustling.

Not the romantic kind of years past, but an ugly new variation in which even friendly old milk cows are prey to be bludgeoned, butchered and hauled away.

Ranchers and lawmen figure 30, possibly more, beef and dairy animals were stolen from or slaughtered on Marin ranches during the last six months. That totals about $9,000 worth of animals.

Dollarwise, it's not a staggering amount. But it does represent a sharp increase over past years and that's what worries ranchers.

The same is true for Sonoma County, where ranchers thought they had pretty well licked the problem after forming the North Coast Livestock Protective Association in 1967.

Last year, however, Sonoma livestock ranchers suffered $20,000 in losses, according to Hobart Carter, a Santa Rosa rancher and head of the association.

Carter, along with others, sees the problem as much greater than that represented by the dollar figures and says the solution is in greater cooperation between ranchers and law enforcement agencies from adjoining counties.

While state agricultural officials figure 50 per cent of the animal thefts are reported, Carter said his studies indicate only about 10 per cent are.

LT. WILLIAM JOHANSEN
Fights cattle rustlers

Thus in Marin County, he said, the actual number of cattle stolen could be 10 times the 30 reported because some ranchers refuse to report losses for fear of reprisal from rustlers, some of whom are professional black marketers.

"It's like a car accident, some people won't talk because they don't want o get involved," agreed Boyd Stewart, a long-time West Marin rancher. "They're afraid the people who did it will return and burn them out."

Stewart, 50 years in the business, doesn't share that concern and after losing two prize black angus last August posted a $1,000 reward (still offered) for the culprits who slaughtered the animals in view of Highway 1 near Olema.

Nor did he let his outrage end there. Stewart and other West Marin ranchers began working with the Sheriff's department to organize a fight against rustling.

Lt. William Johansen, in charge of the sheriff's substation at Point Reyes Station, is coordinating the effort with various agricultural groups and agencies.

Johansen sees greater cooperation between ranchers and his office as the frontline defense against rustlers, who are

Wholesale Prices Zoom Up Again

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Wholesae prices in February rose at the fastest rate in 22 years, the Labor Department said today, offering consumers little hope that retail prices will level off any time soon.

The wholesale index — covering prices of farm products and industrial goods — soared 1.9 per cent in February, biggest one-month rise since January, 1951, when the economy was suffering from inflation due to the Korean war.

With seasonal factors taken into account, the February increase was 1.6 per cent, up from January's 1.1 per cent rise but the same as December's adjusted increase.

The rapid rise in wholesale prices for the past three months will filter down to the retail level in the months ahead and give a push to the cost of living at a time when the administration is worried about a new round of inflation.

Prices of farm products and processed foods and feeds continued to rise at an unusually fast pace, 3.9 per cent, but this was somewhat less than the recent high of 5.8 per cent in December.

If wholesale prices were to increase for a full year at the February rate, it would mean an annual increase of nearly 23 per cent. The administration has set a yearly increase of 2.5 per cent by the end of 1973 as its inflation-limiting goal.

Consumer foods and consumer finished goods also jumped slower than a month earlier.

But the closely watched industrial commodities index jumped 1.1 per cent on an unadjusted basis and 1 per cent seasonally adjusted, the biggest increase since Jan., 1951.

Industrial prices make up about three-fourths of the government's wholesale price index. Since they are more stable than farm prices, they are considered a good indication of

DOG'S BEST FRIEND

They say dog is man's best friend but the opposite was true this morning when a New York City fireman carried this pooch down a ladder to safety from a burning six-story building. In all, firemen carried out 27 dogs belonging to Mrs. Agnes Fischer, owner of the building. New Centers Face Cleaner Air Checks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In a move that could have a dramatic impact on the location of shopping centers and other facilities that draw large numbers of cars, the government has told the states they should be prepared to halt such developments if they violate clean air rules.

The Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) said Wednesday it intends to publish rules next month, to become effective in June, under which states would be required to have legally enforceable ways of reviewing the location of such developments before they are built or expanded.

The laws should be capable of stopping construction if it is determined the concentration of automotive exhaust will be in violation of clean air standards, the EPA said.

The EPA gave this preliminary list of "complexes" which would be affected by the proposal: shopping centers, sports facilities, drive-in theaters, parking lots and garages, residential, commercial, industrial or institutional developments, amusement parks and recreational areas, highways, and water, sewer, power and gas lines.

The EPA's action is an outgrowth of a court victory won by environmentalists.

In January a federal appeals court said the EPA should review the plans the states had been drawing up to determine if they are adequate to meet pollution that might come from other than fixed sources — automobiles, for instance, rather than just power plants.

Plans without such measures to deal with that kind of pollution must be refused by the EPA, the court ruled in a case brought by the Natural Resources Defense Council.

Bombers Penetrate Irish Net

BELFAST (UPI) — Gunmen slipped through the biggest security net in Northern Ireland's recent history and exploded bombs in the heart of Belfast today during a crucial referendum on Ulster's future. Others dumped a dead man's body in a booby-trapped car on "Murder Mile."

With explosions and sirens echoing across the city, voters throughout the province filed past barbed wire entanglements and machinegun nests to declare whether they wanted to remain a part of Britain or be united with the Irish Republic to the south.

Police called the explosions a major Irish Republican Army (IRA) effort to disrupt voting in the referendum. They heavily damaged the city's second largest hotel, a supermarket, two shops and caused major portions of the downtown area to be evacuated.

Nearly 34,000 police and British troops were on guard against an expected burst of violence during the voting but the death and destruction came anyway. Outcome of the referendum itself was not in doubt — Protestants favoring ties with Britain outnumber Roman Catholics two to one. Many Catholics were urged to boycott the referendum.

Swiss Jail Term

ZURICH, Switzerland (UPI) — The Zurich High Court today sentenced Edith Irving to two years in jail for her role in the $650,000 Howard Hughes autobiography hoax. She had hoped to go free; the court could have sentenced her to five years.

The 38-year-old wife of author Clifford Irving, currently serving two-and-one-half years in a U.S. federal jail for selling the concocted work to McGraw Hill, pleaded guilty to charges of fraud and using false documents to cash checks at Swiss banks in the name of Helga R. Hughes.

New Rail Strike

LONDON (UPI) — The second railroad strike in seven days paralyzed much of Britain's transportation today and created chaos for hundreds of thousands of commuters.

Meanwhile, a continuing strike by 220,000 hospital employes disrupted health services for another day, bringing a warning from one union leader that deaths may occur if the walkout does not end.

Every train was halted as railwaymen stayed home again to protest a pay freeze imposed by Prime Minister Edward Heath, the Same reason for other walkouts in a so-called "strike-a-day" series across the country.

Viet Talks Site

PARIS (UPI) — South Vietnam and the Viet Cong said today they will open full-scale political talks on their country's future March 19 in a Paris suburban chateau.

The announcement came after eight meetings to settle procedural problems for the talks.

The Vietnam peace agreement signed in Paris on Jan. 27 calls or the South Vietnamese and Viet Cong to form a three-part national reconciliation council.

Open Hearings

WASHINGTON (UPI) — One day after it was rejected by the Senate, the House voted overwhelming yesterday to open its committee meetings to the public unless the members specifically in advance for a closed session.

The vote was 370 to 27. On Tuesday, the Senate voted 47 to 38 against a similar proposal.

Hit Disarm Plan

GENEVA (UPI) — Sweden and Hungary today urged the United States to drop its demand for on-site inspections to monitor a ban on underground nuclear tests.

Both countries said seismic science and technology has advanced to the point where such tests can be detected by long-range instruments.

Fire Claims 15

BRISBANE, Australia (UPI) — Two firebombs exploded and touched off a flash fire that swept through a night club early today and killed 15 persons.

Police said they were seeking one of the country's most-wanted criminals as a key suspect in the case. They said they suspected the bombing was part of an extortion plot.

Market Nations Set Dollar Terms

BRUSSELS (UPI) — The nine nations of the European Common Market decided today to ask the United States to start supporting the dollar again and to take measures at home to help solve the world money crisis, market spokesmen said.

The spokesmen said these and other proposals will be laid before U.S. officials at the emergency world money meeting in Paris Friday. They were drawn up in a two-hour meeting this morning by finance ministers of the nine or their deputies and were to be approved at a second meeting later today, before the ministers rush off to Paris.

The spokesmen said the ministers agreed the money crisis is a "global problem," to be solved by all major industrial nations, not just the United States.

But they said the United States specifically will be asked to:

—State that it thinks the current parities of international currencies, after the Feb 12 devaluation of the dollar, are correct.

—To intervene on world money markets to support these parities. The United States gave up such intervention Feb 12.

—Take such domestic measures as tighter credit, increased interest rates, and controls of amounts of money in circulation.

—Control the outflow of dollars, especially to Europe where there is 80 billion in dollars unwanted for fear their value will fall.

The spokesmen said the ministers also would recommend that all central banks — not just the U.S. Federal Reserve Board —help keep dollars off world markets.

U.S. Chamber Hits Millionaires' Tax

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U. S. Chamber of Commerce asked Congress today to repeal the "minimum tax," which was enacted in 1969 to make certain that millionaires pay some taxes, even if they derive all their income from tax-sheltered sources.

Walker Winter, chairman of the Taxation Committee of the Chamber, which speaks for 44,000 business firms, called the minimum tax a "penalty tax" which he said is "imposed on those who are properly conforming with the provisions" of the tax laws which make their income exempt from the tax collector's reach.

Two other witnesses—representing the politically liberal Americans for Democratic Action (ADA) and the Communications Workers of America—urged the House Ways and Means Committee to increase the minimum tax. The CWA called it "microscopic."

Using the "minimum tax," a wealthy individual adds up his deductions and his income from "tax preference" sources, such as the returns from oil investments or the untaxed half of profits from the sale of stocks. If they total $30,000, he owes no tax.

If they total over $30,000, he pays a 10 per cent tax on the amount which exceeds $30,000.

According to Rep. Henry Reuss, D-Wis., Treasury figures show that persons subject to the "minimum tax" have paid taxes at an actual rate of only 4 per cent of their gross income—less than half the rate paid by a $10,000-a-year worker with a wife and two children.

Winter testified that if Congress does not like the tax provisions which protect some sources of income from taxation it should attack those provisions directly.

While critics focus on the 106 individuals with incomes over $200,000 in 1970 who paid no tax, they ignore the 15,200 individuals in the same category who paid $2.7 billion in taxes, he said.

A Treasury analysis showed that most of the 106 non-payers were within the law and 75 per cent of them avoided taxes by taking the same ordinary deductions available to all taxpayers, he said.

Five Members Of Cult Nabbed

NEW YORK (UPI) — Five members of a Cuban religious cult who engaged in voodoo ceremonies that included taking cocaine and drinking the blood of chickens were arrested Tuesday night, police said.

Those arrested included Rosa Cortina, 62, who police said was high priestess of the cult, called La Santos.

Police said cocaine was an integral part of the rites practiced by the group and it had used up to one kilogram of the narcotic in its ceremonies. The group also slaughtered chickens and other animals during the rites and drank their blood, police said.

All those arrested were charged with possession and sale of narcotics.

Microwave Oven Heat Questioned

MOUNT VERNON, N.Y. (UPI) — Microwave ovens, considered a boon by many persons looking for speedier methods of preparing meals, have been criticized by the magazine Consumer Reports which claims all of the ovens on the U.S. market leak radiation.

The magazine urged the public Wednesday to refrain from purchasing those availablle because there is no present method "to discover what level of microwave radiation can unequivocally be called unsafe."

Microwave ovens cook foods and boil liquids by the passage of very short electromagnetic radar waves through glass, paper and other materials except metals.

The waves themselves are not hot but are capable of heating food in a fraction of the time needed by conventional methods.

But Consumer Reports said, under adverse conditions, some of the models tested could release relatively high radiation and could leak more radiation as they grew older.

Despite the fact that microwave ovens have passed radiation standards set by the Federal Bureau of Radiation Health, the magazine said it felt justified in recommending buying the ovens only if the manufacturers could eliminate all traces of radiation leakage.

An early reaction came from Tappan Industries of Mansfield, Ohio, whose president, Walter Gunmere, said "we know of no reports of any kind of illness, injury, damage or death as a result of microwave cooking."

Tappan makes the private label ovens marketed by Litton Industries and recently announced it intends to market the ovens under its own name.

According to Consumer Reports the main key to the leakage was the door to the oven with the automatic shutoff system running a close second.

The glass viewing door was a key source of danger since house-wives were likely to peek into the oven to see how the meal was coming along.

Vietnam Fighting Suddenly Flares

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Fighting flared to a 13-day high in South Vietnam today and U.S. officials disclosed for the first time in more than a week that U.S. B52 bombers flew raids over Cambodia, the only Southeast Asian country with no formal truce.

The Saigon command said Communist troops committed 141 cease-fire violations in the 24 hours ending at dawn today. It was the most reported in 13 days, although the command said most of the incidents were minor.

Military sources in Phnom Penh said fierce fighting between government and Communist troops raged today on embattled Highway 2, only 12 miles south of the Cambodian capital.

The sources said casualties on both sides have reached the 1,000 mark in the past two days and said the Communists have taken a bad beating from U.S. jet fighter-bombers.

"They (the Communists) keep attacking fixed government positions where U.S. jets can just mow them down," one source said. "The air support there has been effective but they just keep coming bak for more."

In Honolulu, the U.S. Pacific Forces command headquarters confirmed that U.S. aircraft, including the big B52s, struck Communist targets and supply routes Wednesday at the request of the Phnom Penh government.

The usual one-sentence announcement did not say where the warplanes struck, but for the first time in more than a week it mentioned that B52s took part in the raids. It did not mention how many planes were involved in the missions.

The Saigon command said Communist troops committed 26 more cease-fire violations between 6 a.m. and noon today and put overall Communist violations since the truce took effect Jan. 28 at 6,197.

Government statistics showed 12,736 Communists killed since the cease-fire while South Vietnamese losses were placed at 2,350 dead, 11,010 wounded and 608 missing.

Saigon And Viet Cong Begin Prisoner Swap

SAIGON (UPI) — Saigon and the Viet Cong began exchanging 7,550 war prisoners today after a dispute that delayed the operation for nearly two weeks but there was still no word on a release date for the next batch of U.S. POWs.

Five huge U.S. C130 Hercules transport jets, each carrying about 100 captured Communists, flew north from Saigon to land on a makeshift runway at Camp Evans, about 18 miles below the release point on the muddy Thach Han River in Quang Tri City, 435 miles north of the capital.

Military officials said the approximately 500 prisoners were from detention facilities on Phu Quoc Island off the southwestern tip of South Vietnam.

Before the weekend is over, 6,300 Communists will go free in phase two of the Vietnamese POW exchange. In turn, the Communists promised to release 1,250 South Vietnamese POWs Saturday.

The exchanges will occur at five other sites north of Saigon, three of them along the Central Coast and two closer to the capital.

There was no indication from the Joint Military Commission, the four-power body charged with arranging the release of Vietnamese and American POWs, on a release date for the next group of Americans. It ws believed scheduled for some time next week.

The Vietnamese prisoner exchange that began today was initially scheduled for Feb. 27, but a deadlock developed over a dispute on the release of nonmilitary prisoners. The third phase of the exchange program —the first was completed last month—was to begin next Tuesday.

DOG'S BEST FRIEND

They say dog is man's best friend but the opposite was true this morning when a New York City fireman carried this pooch down a ladder to safety from a burning six-story building. In all, firemen carried out 27 dogs belonging to Mrs. Agnes Fischer, owner of the building. Six of the animals died and 13 firemen were treated at the scene of the fire for injuries and smoke inhalation. (UPI Telephoto)

New Centers Face Cleaner Air Checks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In a move that could have a dramatic impact on the location of shopping centers and other facilities that draw large numbers of cars, the government has told the states they should be prepared to halt such developments if they violate clean air rules.

The Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) said Wednesday it intends to publish rules next month, to become effective in June, under which states would be required to have legally enforceable ways of reviewing the location of such developments before they are built or expanded.

The laws should be capable of stopping construction if it is determined the concentration of automotive exhaust will be in violation of clean air standards, the EPA said.

The EPA gave this preliminary list of "complexes" which would be affected by the proposal: shopping centers, sports facilities, drive-in theaters, parking lots and garages, residential, commercial, industrial or institutional developments, amusement parks and recreational areas, highways, and water, sewer, power and gas lines.

The EPA's action is an outgrowth of a court victory won by environmentalists.

In January a federal appeals court said the EPA should review the plans the states had been drawing up to determine if they are adequate to meet pollution that might come from other than fixed sources — automobiles, for instance, rather than just power plants.

Plans without such measures to deal with that kind of pollution must be refused by the EPA, the court ruled in a case brought by the Natural Resources Defense Council.

Plunges To Death

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Frederick Geibert, 65, an insurance underwriter, plunged 42 stories to his death Wednesday from the Wells Fargo Building.

Bombers Penetrate Irish Net

BELFAST (UPI) — Gunmen slipped through the biggest security net in Northern Ireland's recent history and exploded bombs in the heart of Belfast today during a crucial referendum on Ulster's future. Others dumped a dead man's body in a booby-trapped car on "Murder Mile."

With explosions and sirens echoing across the city, voters throughout the province filed past barbed wire entanglements and machinegun nests to declare whether they wanted to remain a part of Britain or be united with the Irish Republic to the south.

Police called the explosions a major Irish Republican Army (IRA) effort to disrupt voting in the referendum. They heavily damaged the city's second largest hotel, a supermarket, two shops and caused major portions of the downtown area to be evacuated.

Nearly 34,000 police and British troops were on guard against an expected burst of violence during the voting but the death and destruction came anyway. Outcome of the referendum itself was not in doubt — Protestants favoring ties with Britain outnumber Roman Catholics two to one. Many Catholics were urged to boycott the referendum.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Swiss Jail Term

ZURICH, Switzerland (UPI) — The Zurich High Court today sentenced Edith Irving to two years in jail for her role in the $650,000 Howard Hughes autobiography hoax. She had hoped to go free; the court could have sentenced her to five years.

The 38-year-old wife of author Clifford Irving, currently serving two-and-one-half years in a U.S. federal jail for selling the concocted work to McGraw Hill, pleaded guilty to charges of fraud and using false documents to cash checks at Swiss banks in the name of Helga R. Hughes.

New Rail Strike

LONDON (UPI) — The second railroad strike in seven days paralyzed much of Britain's transportation today and created chaos for hundreds of thousands of commuters.

Meanwhile, a continuing strike by 220,000 hospital employes disrupted health services for another day, bringing a warning from one union leader that deaths may occur if the walkout does not end.

Every train was halted as railwaymen stayed home again to protest a pay freeze imposed by Prime Minister Edward Heath, the Same reason for other walkouts in a so-called "strike-a-day" series across the country.

Viet Talks Site

PARIS (UPI) — South Vietnam and the Viet Cong said today they will open full-scale political talks on their country's future March 19 in a Paris suburban chateau.

The announcement came after eight meetings to settle procedural problems for the talks.

The Vietnam peace agreement signed in Paris on Jan. 27 calls or the South Vietnamese and Viet Cong to form a three-part national reconciliation council.

Open Hearings

WASHINGTON (UPI) — One day after it was rejected by the Senate, the House voted overwhelming yesterday to open its committee meetings to the public unless the members specifically in advance for a closed session.

The vote was 370 to 27. On Tuesday, the Senate voted 47 to 38 against a similar proposal.

Housing Policy For Future Adopted

The Marin County Planning Commission voted unanimously yesterday to adopt housing policies contained in the proposed countywide general plan.

The policies seek to keep Marin's "housing mix" the same in 1990 as it is today with 20 per cent low income, 45 per cent middle income and 35 per cent higher income.

To do so, the plan recommends a number of programs not only for new subsidized housing but for retention of existing low and moderate income housing, which could increase in value under market pressure.

The plan, which calls for a 1990 population of 300,000, proposed to restrict construction of new homes to an average of 2,100 per year between 1970 and 1980 and 1,600 per ycar between 1980 and 1990.

Planning Director Werner von Gundell estimated 14,600 will remain vacant and available for future development in 1990, allowing space for another 100,000 persons.

Former planning director Mary Summers criticized the plan's housing policies yesterday saying they establish a "quota system" for who will live in Marin.

She urged that the county propose methods of providing housing for the poor already in Marin but allow the market to determine future housing types.

To limit higher income housing when the need exists amounts to reverse discrimination, she said.

Von Gundell countered that present housing trends in Marin, if unchecked, could lead to a one-class society since housing costs have already jumped out of the reach of many.

The commission agreed, and on a motion by John F. West, seconded by William Long, approved the housing policies. Commissioner Rebecca Watkin was absent.

In a related action, the board modified the environmental quality section of the plan and created a "conservation zone" along the Inverness frontage on Tomales Bay.

The conservation zone does not prohibit development, but says special consideration will be given to unique characteristics such as marshlands.

Cotati Study Group Endorses Rezone Plan For East Section

In an attempt to provide the City of Cotati with proper rezoning necessary for growth on East Cotati Boulevard, members of a special study group last night endorsed a plan for high density residential zoning with commercial use grouped in one main area.

The long-awaited decision on the zoning of East Cotati was studied by members of the city council and the planning commission who met very little of the expected opposition from property owners in the area.

Fearing inconsistent, spotted usage, the planning commission amended the November zoning ordinance to allow high density residential along East Cotati with commercial zoning centered around LaSalle Avenue, where a commercial development is being planned by Codding Enterprises.

Sewer and water service to the area was the basis of a complaint by property owner Ed Lewitter. "All the planning in the world isn't going to create buildings," he said. "You're working in circles. You can't do anything until you provide service."

City Mgr. Paul W. Salfen told Lewitter that he could at any time hook up to the main sewer connection serving Holiday Park. Salfen added that the bulk of the residents in the area are willing to go along with the eventually planned assessment district.

Lou Codding told the committee that Codding Enterprises would be willing to pay the first $2,000 of the engineering costs for an estimate on sewer, water, gutter and drainage service.

The only opposition to the plan came from Councilman Stephen Laughlin, who said big commercial development would draw people away from the plaza. "What we've created," he said, "is high density with 20 per cent commercial. It's in conflict with the overall intention of the general plan."

Salfen said the commercial zoning would not draw from the Hub because it could not hold the large number of Rohnert Park residents also benefitting from commercial development.

Councilman Annette Lombardi said the Hub can remain a small town type of downtown but a rural atmosphere won't work on East Cotati. "Those days are gone," she said.

The committee also recommended that the planning commission come up with some strict architectural design controls similar to those used in Mill Valley.

Soybeans Seen Replacing Gold

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz says soybeans might replace gold as a standard of international wealth if farm prices continue to climb.

The treasury secretary's observation drew a laugh from a group of U.S. industrialists attending a conference here Wednesday.

"When the price of soybeans reaches the price of gold, we'll be all set," Shultz said. "We could go over to the soybean standard."

Soybean futures hit a record $7 a bushel for a brief period Wednesday, more than double last summer's price. Large exports to the Soviet Union have helped push prices up.

Meatless Day Measure Asked

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI) — To protest the soaring price of food, particularly beef, the Rhode Island Senate Wednesday night passed a resolution asking the governor to proclaim one day a week during April a "meatless day."

"By refusing to purchase highly inflated items such as beef, by seeking their protein from less costly foods and by joining disgruntled citizens throughout the country, Rhode Island consumers can make their protest more effectively heard and felt by proclaiming meatless day," the resolution said.

Prairie Dog Town Purchase Asked

HELENA, Mont. (UPI) — The Montana recreation and parks division has asked the State Legislature to appropriate $5,500 to buy a prairie dog town.

Housing Policy For Future Adopted

The Marin County Planning Commission voted unanimously yesterday to adopt housing policies contained in the proposed countywide general plan.

The policies seek to keep Marin's "housing mix" the same in 1990 as it is today with 20 per cent low income, 45 per cent middle income and 35 per cent higher income.

To do so, the plan recommends a number of programs not only for new subsidized housing but for retention of existing low and moderate income housing, which could increase in value under market pressure.

The plan, which calls for a 1990 population of 300,000, proposed to restrict construction of new homes to an average of 2,100 per year between 1970 and 1980 and 1,600 per year between 1980 and 1990.

Planning Director Werner von Gundell estimated 14,600 will remain vacant and available for future development in 1990, allowing space for another 100,000 persons.

Former planning director Mary Summers criticized the plan's housing policies yesterday saying they establish a "quota system" for who will live in Marin.

She urged that the county propose methods of providing housing for the poor already in Marin but allow the market to determine future housing types.

To limit higher income housing when the need exists amounts to reverse discrimination, she said.

Von Gundell countered that present housing trends in Marin, if unchecked, could lead to a one-class society since housing costs have already jumped out of the reach of many.

The commission agreed, and on a motion by John F. West, seconded by William Long, approved the housing policies. Commissioner Rebecca Watkin was absent.

In a related action, the board modified the environmental quality section of the plan and created a "conservation zone" along the Inverness frontage on Tomales Bay.

The conservation zone does not prohibit development, but says special consideration will be given to unique characteristics such as marshlands.

Cotati Study Group Endorses Rezone Plan For East Section

In an attempt to provide the City of Cotati with proper rezoning necessary for growth on East Cotati Boulevard, members of a special study group last night endorsed a plan for high density residential zoning with commercial use grouped in one main area.

The long-awaited decision on the zoning of East Cotati was studied by members of the city council and the planning commission who met very little of the expected opposition from property owners in the area.

Fearing inconsistent, spotted usage, the planning commission amended the November zoning ordinance to allow high density residential along East Cotati with commercial zoning centered around LaSalle Avenue, where a commercial development is being planned by Codding Enterprises.

Sewer and water service to the area was the basis of a complaint by property owner Ed Lewitter. "All the planning in the world isn't going to create buildings," he said. "You're working in circles. You can't do anything until you provide service."

City Mgr. Paul W. Salfen told Lewitter that he could at any time hook up to the main sewer connection serving Holiday Park. Salfen added that the bulk of the residents in the area are willing to go along with the eventually planned assessment district.

Lou Codding told the committee that Codding Enterprises would be willing to pay the first $2,000 of the engineering costs for an estimate on sewer, water, gutter and drainage service.

The only opposition to the plan came from Councilman Stephen Laughlin, who said big commercial development would draw people away from the plaza. "What we've created," he said, "is high density with 20 per cent commercial. It's in conflict with the overall intention of the general plan."

Salfen said the commercial zoning would not draw from the Hub because it could not hold the large number of Rohnert Park residents also benefitting from commercial development.

Councilman Annette Lombardi said the Hub can remain a small town type of downtown but a rural atmosphere won't work on East Cotati. "Those days are gone," she said.

The committee also recommended that the planning commission come up with some strict architectural design controls similar to those used in Mill Valley.

Soybeans Seen Replacing Gold

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz says soybeans might replace gold as a standard of international wealth if farm prices continue to climb.

The treasury secretary's observation drew a laugh from a group of U.S. industrialists attending a conference here Wednesday.

"When the price of soybeans reaches the price of gold, we'll be all set," Shultz said. "We could go over to the soybean standard."

Soybean futures hit a record $7 a bushel for a brief period Wednesday, more than double last summer's price. Large exports to the Soviet Union have helped push prices up.

Meatless Day Measure Asked

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI) — To protest the soaring price of food, particularly beef, the Rhode Island Senate Wednesday night passed a resolution asking the governor to proclaim one day a week during April a "meatless day."

"By refusing to purchase highly inflated items such as beef, by seeking their protein from less costly foods and by joining disgruntled citizens throughout the country, Rhode Island consumers can make their protest more effectively heard and felt by proclaiming meatless day," the resolution said.

Prairie Dog Town Purchase Asked

HELENA, Mont. (UPI) — The Montana recreation and parks division has asked the State Legislature to appropriate $5,500 to buy a prairie dog town.

The 98-acre dog town near Greycliff is owned by the Nature Conservancy, a conservation group which purchases lands and preserves them until government agencies can acquire the necessary funds to take title.

Sex Is Subject Of Doctor's Talk

Dr. Philip Grossi will discuss "The Meaning of the New Sexual Morality" at 8 p.m. Wednesday at The Port, 393 Miller Avenue in Mill Valley.

The event is the first of an eight-session series sponsored by the Marin Jewish Community Center dealing with modern problems.

Grossi will discuss the role of new sexual therapies in psychology and the implications of today's pornography, according to Yvonne Rich, adult program coordinator. Further information may be obtained by contacting the center.

ALMANAC

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Today is Thursday, March 8, the 67th day of 1973 with 298 to follow.

The moon is between its new phase and first quarter. The morning stars are Venus, Mars and Jupiter. The evening stars are Mercury and Saturn.

U.S. Supreme Court Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes Jr., was born March 8, 1841

On this day in history:

In 1894, New York became the first state to pass a law requiring dogs to be licensed.

In 1917, strikes and riots in St. Petersburg marked the start of the Russian Bolshevik Revolution.

In 1944, French authorities adopted an ordinance giving French Moslems in Algeria the same rights as French non-Moslems.

In 1962, the U.S. House of Representatives defeated a bill which would have increased its membership from 435 to 438.

A thought for the day: Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes said, "Taxes are what we pay for civilized society."

San Rafael air quality yesterday:

Oxidants, clean air.

Nitrogen dioxide, clean air.

Carbon monoxide, clean air.

Smoke particles, light air pollution.

Other areas:

San Francisco, light air pollution.

San Jose, light air pollution.

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources, while the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

inflationary pressures.

Higher prices for fuels, lumber and wood products accounted for more than half the February increase in industrial prices.

Industrial prices had increased at a rate of 0.2 to 0.3 per cent a month throughout 1972. The February surge could indicate that producers had quickly raised prices after the administration relaxed its wage-price controls in early January in favor of a voluntary set of economic guidelines.

February was the first full month that the Phase III program was in effect.

Prices for farm products, which continue uncontrolled under the stabilization program, rose faster than usual in February, the Labor Department said.

Livestock, oilseeds, milk, plant and animal fibers and live poultry, meat and animal feeds were all up for the month. Eggs, grains, fresh and dried vegetables dropped in price.

Despite continued increases in food prices, the administration still has no plans to control prices on raw agricultural products, White House aides reiterated Wednesday.

All Aboard Safe

MOSCOW (UPI) — A crippled Soviet TU-134 airliner carrying 74 persons made an emergency landing in a plowed field, but escaped with no reported injuries and only slight damage, the newspaper Komosolskaya Pravda said Wednesday.

Motorcyclist Killed In Crash On Bridge

A 19-year-old Mill Valley youth was killed yesterday when his motorcycle and a car collided on the Golden Gate Bridge.

The California Highway Patrol said James H. Cuniberti, of 2 Escalon Drive, died in a collision with an auto operated by Jerome M. Powers, 34, of 1155 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Kentfield.

Officers, who had few details of the crash, said the accident occurred about 8 a.m. while both vehicles were southbound on the span, south of the south tower.

Cuniberti suffered fatal head injuries. He was not wearing a helmet, according to the highway patrol, although one was found strapped to his cycle.

His death is the fourth traffic fatality in Marin this year, as compared to six deaths during the same period of 1972.

RELEASE

he had been taken prisoner, the 31-year-old Mrs. Southwick received "only a handful" of letters from her husband. "They were very formal, only five lines of 'how are you . . . I am fine."

Southwick in turn, was given none of his wife's letters and only small portions of the contents of her many packages.

Yesterday, they spent their first six hours together, most of it at Oak Knoll Hospital where the commander is going through medical evaluations and other routine processing for returning prisoners.

They talked nonstop, she said, and were joined briefly by Karen's parents, retired Air Force Col. and Mrs. Earl E. Sweetland of Lompoc, who have been staying with their daughter during the last anxious week.

"We were trying to cram six years of information into a few hours; We talked about everything you can imagine and it was wonderful," she said.

"She did beautifully. I was really proud of her," Mrs. Sweetland said with a fond smile at her daughter.

Mrs. Southwick said the two phone calls she received from her husband since his release Sunday helped to make the actual reunion more comfortable. "The calls were a very good idea because they broke the ice. Until I talked to him on the phone, I was very worried about how it would be."

She is, of course, hoping that her husband, who appeared to be in good physical shape, will be able to leave the hospital — at least for brief periods — within the next week.

The first thing he wants to do is to have cocktails with his wife, at sunset at the Top of the Mark, just as the couple did the night she saw him off to Vietnam.

"He said he knew that sounded mundane, but he's been thinking about it for a long time," she said with a laugh.

She has some plans of her own. "The first thing I want to do is cook him a good meal," although she isn't yet sure what will be on the menu. "I love to cook and I think it'll be something exotic."

Mrs. Southwick resigned her job as membership manager for the San Francisco Convention and Visitors Bureau as soon as she knew her husband was returning.

She is aware there may be problems of readjustment since both of them have changed a great deal in six years. "Hopefully, I'm more mature and wiser. I've always been independent and I'm even more so now.

"It will take time to determine if the many changes in each other will affect the way we will work together."

Southwick has already reacted to some of the changes he has noticed in his country. "He doesn't think much of the long, bushy hair the kids are wearing, but he likes the new men's styles."

She said he told her that — besides his family and friends — he had most missed "hot showers, good smells and good clothes" during his years of captivity.

Mrs. Southwick is intensely proud of her husband and the other POWs and is convinced the way in which they survived their ordeal says something important about America and Americans.

She is "an avid supporter" of President Nixon and worked hard for him during the 1973 campaign.

"I feel the people in this country who supported Nixon's Vietnam policy and wrote letters in behalf of the prisoners can take some of the credit for finally getting them out," she said.

On the other hand, she is "very antagonistic" toward the peace marchers and blames them for lengthening her husband's imprisonment in North Vietnam.

"I think they did a disservice to these men and to their country," she said. "Had they been a bit more patriotic and aware of the political situation, the prisoners might have been home several weeks ago.

Although it is hard to make firm plans during such an emotionally charged period, Mrs. Southwick and her husband plan to do a lot of traveling as soon as the hospital officially releases him.

POLLUTE

stressed that his company's suit did not mean it was "fighting the district's efforts to curb pollution." Its motive, he said in a letter to district directors, was to return the district to the "philosophies" in the statutes that set it up in 1955.

These statutes, Chadwick argued, relied on "voluntary corrective actions" by polluters, backed by "administrative procedures of an increasingly more formal nature." The disputed 1970 law, on the other hand, he said, "is purely punitive in nature, is counter to the spirit of cooperative action, and eliminated our right to a hearing before the district's hearing board."

Using the old procedures, he declared, "will result in better enforcement and will place emphasis on solution of problems instead of on the levying of nuisance fines."

Attorney Self, however, described those old procedures as "cumbersome."

The Feb. 27 ruling by Judge Richard J. Swan stemmed from a violation notice issued against Humble's refinery in January 1972. It was for an excessive emission from a vent on an oily water sewer.

Chadwick said the problem was corrected7by addition of ar incinerator to the sewer, but that the district nevertheless filed suit months later against the refinery for the violation.

He noted that four earlier court suits against the refinery for violating district regulations had been settled out of court. The refinery opened in 1969, billing itself as designed to meet smog control regulations. The regulations, however, have been toughened since the refinery opened.

The district has collected some $63,000 in fines under the disputed 1970 law.

The chairman of the district board, San Mateo County Supervisor Robert B. St. Clair, appealed to the people of the Bay Area to support the attempt to amend the disputed law so it can be used by the district.

A spokesman at St. Bartholomew's Hospital, less than two blocks from the Old Bailey blast, said "about 30 casualties" had been brought in. The extent of their injuries was not known.

St. Bartholomew's is one of the hospitals hit by a strike of nonmedical staffs and is accepting only emergency cases.

Six other hospitals also said they were treating persons injured in the Old Bailey blast.

Two convoys of women and children, totaling about 42 persons, left the reservation Wednesday.

But AIM leaders said they would remain here and "fight it out" with federal marshals who have surrounded the area.

Few doubted the Indians would do just that.

AIM leader Russell Means predicted "this will end up in another massacre."

OBITUARIES

Kate Zaun Robinson Dies At 95

Kate Zaun Robinson, a resident of Mill Valley for 80 years and the wife of a famed sea captain, died yesterday in a local hospital after a brief illness. She was 95.

A native of San Francisco, she and her late husband, Capt. Leighton Robinson, were married in 1900 and spent their honeymoon aboard the sailing ship Melanope, which sailed from San Francisco to Sydney, Australia, in what was then a record 44 days.

He rose from 14-year-old British sea cadet to captain, gaining a world-wide reputation as a seaman. He came to San Francisco from England in the 1800s and later was deputy ship commissioner for the Port of San Francisco for 36 years. He died in 1956.

Mrs. Robinson was a member of the Outdoor Art Club of Mill Valley for 55 years and paid off the mortgage on its clubhouse during the depression at the end of her four years as treasurer.

She also was a member of the Women's Auxiliary, San Francisco Yacht Club in Belvedere.

She is survived by a son, Shayer O. Robinson of Mill Valley, and a daughter, Mrs. Joseph B. Miller of San Francisco.

Private funeral services were held yesterday at a Mill Valley mortuary. Interment was private.

RUSTLERS

classified in two groups: professionals and transient opportunists.

The first group, the professionals, represent the greatest threat, he said, because they are getting more proficient and "if we don't do the same we're in big trouble."

Johansen's first move was to set up a meeting between Marin ranchers and officials of the livestock protective association. Since that meeting last month, about 20 Marin ranchers have joined the association and another 50 have expressed interest.

The association helps coordinate information and activities between ranchers and law enforcement agencies in Marin, Sonoma and Mendocino counties.

It also supplies members with signs offering a $50 reward for information leading to the arrest of a thief or trespasser on a member's property.

"Ours is simply a program offering a reward on the arrest of trespassers," Carter said. "We feel if we can stop people from trespassing on our property we can stop most of the thefts."

Johansen said he is also encouraging ranchers to brand their cattle since most of Marin's 45,000 cattle are not.

A uniform system of marking cattle would aid his deputies in quickly identifying animals believed to be stolen, he said, adding many of his men "don't know one cow from another."

In the meantime, Johansen said, a special training program on identification is being mapped out for his small force of deputies who are responsible for covering all rural Marin.

Since ranchers don't count their animals every day, thefts, which usually occur between 10 p.m. and 4 a.m., can go undetected for weeks and months making evidence and clues more difficult to find.

And since most of the thefts have occurred close to traveled roads, he said, he has asked feed, gas and produce companies to advise their early morning drivers to report any suspicious circumstance they notice on their rounds. "We need to get all the extra eyes we can," he added.

"Rustling hasn't grown to the point where it's a drastic problem, but we have to look to the future . . . make more people aware," he continued. "We don't want to have to look back and say we should have done something years ago."

Motorcycle Flips, Breaks Driver's Leg

Gary Lawrence Eikeland, 17, of 1703 Center Road, Novato, suffered a broken left leg at 5:20 p.m. yesterday when his motorcycle flipped over on Ridgeview Heights, north of Ridgeview Court, according to Novato police.

He was reported in good condition today at Novato General Hospital.

MRS. FINLAY

Funeral for Joan Ella Finlay, 40, of Petaluma, will be held at 2:30 p.m. tomorrow at the Sorensen Funeral Home.

Mrs. Finley was found dead yesterday at her home at 835 South McDowell Boulevard. She was a native of Philadelphia and was reared there.

After graduation from high school, Mrs. Finlay joined the Waves and served during the Korean War. She and her husband, Patrick Finlay, a salesman, lived in Marin County briefly and moved to Petaluma eight years ago.

She is also survived by two sons, Robert Finlay of Petaluma and Gilbert Finlay of Los Angeles; two daughters, Robbin and Patricia Finlay of Petaluma; her father, Robert Walton of Delaware; and two sisters, Sandy Farrel of Florida and Nancy Hughes of Pennsylvania.

Burial will be Monday in Salida, Colo.

ALMANAC

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Today is Thursday, March 8, the 67th day of 1973 with 298 to follow.

The moon is between its new phase and first quarter. The morning stars are Venus, Mars and Jupiter. The evening stars are Mercury and Saturn.

U.S. Supreme Court Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes Jr., was born March 8, 1841

On this day in history:

In 1894, New York became the first state to pass a law requiring dogs to be licensed.

In 1917, strikes and riots in St. Petersburg marked the start of the Russian Bolshevik Revolution.

In 1944, French authorities adopted an ordinance giving French Moslems in Algeria the same rights as French non-Moslems.

In 1962, the U.S. House of Representatives defeated a bill which would have increased its membership from 435 to 438.

A thought for the day: Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes said, "Taxes are what we pay for civilized society."

San Rafael air quality yesterday:

Oxidants, clean air.

Nitrogen dioxide, clean air.

Carbon monoxide, clean air.

Smoke particles, light air pollution.

Other areas:

San Francisco, light air pollution.

San Jose, light air pollution.

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources, while the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

PRICES

inflationary pressures.

Higher prices for fuels, lumber and wood products accounted for more than half the February increase in industrial prices.

Industrial prices had increased at a rate of 0.2 to 0.3 per cent a month throughout 1972. The February surge could indicate that producers had quickly raised prices after the administration relaxed its wage-price controls in early January in favor of a voluntary set of economic guidelines.

February was the first full month that the Phase III program was in effect.

Prices for farm products, which continue uncontrolled under the stabilization program, rose faster than usual in February, the Labor Department said.

Livestock, oilseeds, milk, plant and animal fibers and live poultry, meat and animal feeds were all up for the month. Eggs, grains, fresh and dried vegetables dropped in price.

Despite continued increases in food prices, the administration still has no plans to control prices on raw agricultural products, White House aides reiterated Wednesday.

All Aboard Safe

MOSCOW (UPI) — A crippled Soviet TU-134 airliner carrying 74 persons made an emergency landing in a plowed field, but escaped with no reported injuries and only slight damage, the newspaper Komosolskaya Pravda said Wednesday.

Motorcyclist Killed In Crash On Bridge

A 19-year-old Mill Valley youth was killed yesterday when his motorcycle and a car collided on the Golden Gate Bridge.

The California Highway Patrol said James H. Cuniberti, of 2 Escalon Drive, died in a collision with an auto operated by Jerome M. Powers, 34, of 1155 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Kentfield.

Officers, who had few details of the crash, said the accident occurred about 8 a.m. while both vehicles were southbound on the span, south of the south tower.

Cuniberti suffered fatal head injuries. He was not wearing a helmet, according to the highway patrol, although one was found strapped to his cycle.

His death is the fourth traffic fatality in Marin this year, as compared to six deaths during the same period of 1972.

RELEASE

he had been taken prisoner, the 31-year-old Mrs. Southwick received "only a handful" of letters from her husband. "They were very formal, only five lines of 'how are you . . . I am fine."

Southwick in turn, was given none of his wife's letters and only small portions of the contents of her many packages.

Yesterday, they spent their first six hours together, most of it at Oak Knoll Hospital where the commander is going through medical evaluations and other routine processing for returning prisoners.

They talked nonstop, she said, and were joined briefly by Karen's parents, retired Air Force Col. and Mrs. Earl E. Sweetland of Lompoc, who have been staying with their daughter during the last anxious week.

"We were trying to cram six years of information into a few hours; We talked about everything you can imagine and it was wonderful," she said.

"She did beautifully. I was really proud of her," Mrs. Sweetland said with a fond smile at her daughter.

Mrs. Southwick said the two phone calls she received from her husband since his release Sunday helped to make the actual reunion more comfortable. "The calls were a very good idea because they broke the ice. Until I talked to him on the phone, I was very worried about how it would be."

She is, of course, hoping that her husband, who appeared to be in good physical shape, will be able to leave the hospital — at least for brief periods — within the next week.

The first thing he wants to do is to have cocktails with his wife, at sunset at the Top of the Mark, just as the couple did the night she saw him off to Vietnam.

"He said he knew that sounded mundane, but he's been thinking about it for a long time," she said with a laugh.

She has some plans of her own. "The first thing I want to do is cook him a good meal," although she isn't yet sure what will be on the menu. "I love to cook and I think it'll be something exotic."

Mrs. Southwick resigned her job as membership manager for the San Francisco Convention and Visitors Bureau as soon as she knew her husband was returning.

She is aware there may be problems of readjustment since both of them have changed a great deal in six years. "Hopefully, I'm more mature and wiser. I've always been independent and I'm even more so now.

"It will take time to determine if the many changes in each other will affect the way we will work together."

Southwick has already reacted to some of the changes he has noticed in his country. "He doesn't think much of the long, bushy hair the kids are wearing, but he likes the new men's styles."

She said he told her that — besides his family and friends — he had most missed "hot showers, good smells and good clothes" during his years of captivity.

Mrs. Southwick is intensely proud of her husband and the other POWs and is convinced the way in which they survived their ordeal says something important about America and Americans.

She is "an avid supporter" of President Nixon and worked hard for him during the 1973 campaign.

"I feel the people in this country who supported Nixon's Vietnam policy and wrote letters in behalf of the prisoners can take some of the credit for finally getting them out," she said.

On the other hand, she is "very antagonistic" toward the peace marchers and blames them for lengthening her husband's imprisonment in North Vietnam.

"I think they did a disservice to these men and to their country," she said. "Had they been a bit more patriotic and aware of the political situation, the prisoners might have been home several weeks ago.

Although it is hard to make firm plans during such an emotionally charged period, Mrs. Southwick and her husband plan to do a lot of traveling as soon as the hospital officially releases him.

POLLUTE

stressed that his company's suit did not mean it was "fighting the district's efforts to curb pollution." Its motive, he said in a letter to district directors, was to return the district to the "philosophies" in the statutes that set it up in 1955.

These statutes, Chadwick argued, relied on "voluntary corrective actions" by polluters, backed by "administrative procedures of an increasingly more formal nature." The disputed 1970 law, on the other hand, he said, "is purely punitive in nature, is counter to the spirit of cooperative action, and eliminated our right to a hearing before the district's hearing board."

Using the old procedures, he declared, "will result in better enforcement and will place emphasis on solution of problems instead of on the levying of nuisance fines."

Attorney Self, however, described those old procedures as "cumbersome."

The Feb. 27 ruling by Judge Richard J. Swan stemmed from a violation notice issued against Humble's refinery in January 1972. It was for an excessive emission from a vent on an oily water sewer.

Chadwick said the problem was corrected7by addition of ar incinerator to the sewer, but that the district nevertheless filed suit months later against the refinery for the violation.

He noted that four earlier court suits against the refinery for violating district regulations had been settled out of court. The refinery opened in 1969, billing itself as designed to meet smog control regulations. The regulations, however, have been toughened since the refinery opened.

The district has collected some $63,000 in fines under the disputed 1970 law.

The chairman of the district board, San Mateo County Supervisor Robert B. St. Clair, appealed to the people of the Bay Area to support the attempt to amend the disputed law so it can be used by the district.

ing a 10-story glass and steel building had every piece of window glass blown out. Bits of the car which held the bomb were scattered at the T-shaped intersection where it had been parked.

A spokesman at St. Bartholomew's Hospital, less than two blocks from the Old Bailey blast, said "about 30 casualties" had been brought in. The extent of their injuries was not known.

St. Bartholomew's is one of the hospitals hit by a strike of nonmedical staffs and is accepting only emergency cases.

Six other hospitals also said they were treating persons injured in the Old Bailey blast.

sympathizers of the American Indian Movement (AIM) a chance to leave without being arrested.

Two convoys of women and children, totaling about 42 persons, left the reservation Wednesday.

But AIM leaders said they would remain here and "fight it out" with federal marshals who have surrounded the area.

Few doubted the Indians would do just that.

AIM leader Russell Means predicted "this will end up in another massacre."

OBITUARIES

Kate Zaun Robinson Dies At 95

Kate Zaun Robinson, a resident of Mill Valley for 80 years and the wife of a famed sea captain, died yesterday in a local hospital after a brief illness. She was 95.

A native of San Francisco, she and her late husband, Capt. Leighton Robinson, were married in 1900 and spent their honeymoon aboard the sailing ship Melanope, which sailed from San Francisco to Sydney, Australia, in what was then a record 44 days.

He rose from 14-year-old British sea cadet to captain, gaining a world-wide reputation as a seaman. He came to San Francisco from England in the 1800s and later was deputy ship commissioner for the Port of San Francisco for 36 years. He died in 1956.

Mrs. Robinson was a member of the Outdoor Art Club of Mill Valley for 55 years and paid off the mortgage on its clubhouse during the depression at the end of her four years as treasurer.

She also was a member of the Women's Auxiliary, San Francisco Yacht Club in Belvedere.

She is survived by a son, Shayer O. Robinson of Mill Valley, and a daughter, Mrs. Joseph B. Miller of San Francisco.

Private funeral services were held yesterday at a Mill Valley mortuary. Interment was private.

classified in two groups: professionals and transient opportunists.

The first group, the professionals, represent the greatest threat, he said, because they are getting more proficient and "if we don't do the same we're in big trouble."

Johansen's first move was to set up a meeting between Marin ranchers and officials of the livestock protective association. Since that meeting last month, about 20 Marin ranchers have joined the association and another 50 have expressed interest.

The association helps coordinate information and activities between ranchers and law enforcement agencies in Marin, Sonoma and Mendocino counties.

It also supplies members with signs offering a $50 reward for information leading to the arrest of a thief or trespasser on a member's property.

"Ours is simply a program offering a reward on the arrest of trespassers," Carter said. "We feel if we can stop people from trespassing on our property we can stop most of the thefts."

Johansen said he is also encouraging ranchers to brand their cattle since most of Marin's 45,000 cattle are not.

A uniform system of marking cattle would aid his deputies in quickly identifying animals believed to be stolen, he said, adding many of his men "don't know one cow from another."

In the meantime, Johansen said, a special training program on identification is being mapped out for his small force of deputies who are responsible for covering all rural Marin.

Since. ranchers don't count their animals every day, thefts, which usually occur between 10 p.m. and 4 a.m., can go undetected for weeks and months making evidence and clues more difficult to find.

And since most of the thefts have occurred close to traveled roads, he said, he has asked feed, gas and produce companies to advise their early morning drivers to report any suspicious circumstance they notice on their rounds. "We need to get all the extra eyes we can," he added.

"Rustling hasn't grown to the point where it's a drastic problem, but we have to look to the future . . . make more people aware," he continued. "We don't want to have to look back and say we should have done something years ago."

Motorcycle Flips, Breaks Driver's Leg

Gary Lawrence Eikeland, 17, of 1703 Center Road, Novato, suffered a broken left leg at 5:20 p.m. yesterday when his motorcycle flipped over on Ridgeview Heights, north of Ridgeview Court, according to Novato police.

He was reported in good condition today at Novato General Hospital.

Dixie School To Eye Layoff Alternatives

A meeting of Dixie School District teachers and administrators yesterday produced so many alternatives to a board-ordered staff reduction that another meeting was called to explore those with merit.

Forty three teachers and parents — including many of the 15 teachers issued "tentative layoff notices" in the wake of sagging enrollment — came up with 37 other suggestions, according to Clark P. Matthiessen, president of the Dixie Teachers Association.

Proposals, which include early retirements, assigning two teachers to one class, lowering class size, applying for state funds and asking voters for a tax rate increase, will be probed at a meeting next Wednesday at 3:30 p.m. in the district office, he said.

Supt. Clifford W. Campbell said the group will have to consider the long range consequences of the alternatives. "You don't overstaff your schools unless you have the money," he said.

Drunken Driving Arrest Follows Chase, Accident

A 29-year-old San Anselmo man was arrested on suspicion of drunken driving today after a high-speed chase down San Anselmo Avenue that ended in a spectacular accident on Center Boulevard.

Stephen Frankl of 9 Lansdale Avenue was treated at Marin General Hospital for cuts and then booked into Marin County Jail and released on his own recognizance to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Police said a car driven by Frankl sped down the wrong side of San Anselmo Avenue westbound about 2:26 a.m. today and careened through two stop signs with a patrol car in pursuit. The car, weaving from lane to lane on Center Bulevard, hit a street sign and plummeted into a culvert near Saunders Avenue, according to police, who said the vehicle bounced straight up twice, collided with a utility pole, bounced again and came to rest on its top.

Frankl emerged with minor injuries, police said.

Ex-Beatle Is Fined On Pot

CAMBLETOWN, England (UPI) — A court fined ex-Beatle Paul McCartney $245 today on charges he used a greenhouse on his farm to cultivate marijuana.

McCartney pleaded guilty to growing the narcotic plants, but was found innocent on two counts of possessing marijuana.

His attorney, John McCluskey, told the court a conviction would seriously harm McCartney's business interests because it would lead to his being refused admittance into the United States.

Sudanese Overthrow Try Claimed

BEIRUT (UPI) — Sudanese President Jaafar Numeiry has informed Arab leaders that Palestinian guerrillas in Sudan were trying to incite dissidents to overthrow his regime, Beirut newspaper reports said today. He then said he would try in absentia a guerrilla leader who fled to Libya following last week's attack on the Saudi Arabian embassy in Khartoum.

The newspapers quoted sources close to Lebanese Premier Saeb Salam, who received an urgent message from the Sudanese leader early Wednesday morning that said the guerrillas were plotting "operations much more serious than the occupation of the Saudi Arabian embassy."

"President Numeiry accused the Palestinians of inciting certain political factions to sedition against his regime," the newspaper said. "He said the guerrillas even went as far as placing Sudanese ministers under surveillance."

Similar messages from Numeiry were sent to heads of all Arab governments through Arab League Secretary General Mahmoud Riad in Cairo, diplomatic reports said.

In the meantime, the newspaper Al-Sahafa said in Khartoum today Sudan will try the leader of the Al Fatah guerrilla faction in Khartoum in absentia. Numeiry has accused the guerrilla leader, Fowaz Yassin, of masterminding last week's attack on the Saudi embassy in Khartoum where three career diplomats — two of them Americans — were slain by eight guerrillas. The guerrillas turned themselves over to Sudanese authorities who have said they will put the guerrillas on trial for murder.

In addition to putting the eight guerrillas on trial, Numeiry has arrested at least five Sudanese, apparently in connection with the plots against him.

The Al Fatah leader Yassin, known by the guerrilla soubriquet Abu Marwan, was said to have fled to Libya only hours before the attack on the embassy was staged.

In his speech to the nation Tuesday, Numeiry announced he was banning Palestinian guerrilla activity in Sudan. In messages to the leaders of all Arab states, he called for a conference to discuss curbs on guerrilla activities.

12 Patients Killed In Hospital Blaze

TOKYO (UPI) — A fire destroyed a five-story hospital on the southern island of Kyushu early today and killed 12 patients, one of them a 7-year-old girl. Fire department officials said 242 patients were in the hospital when the fire broke out and said 12 of them died of smoke inhalation and burns before firemen could reach them.

Showdown Likely Next Week On GOP Try On Booting Out Mills

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Republican efforts to oust Democratic Senate President Pro Tem James R. Mills of San Diego—judged as almost hopeless by some GOP senators—could come to a head late next week.

Sen. John L. Harmer of Glendale, the Republican frontrunner to replace Mills, said Wednesday he will push for a vote on the leadership question as soon as reapportionment is "laid to rest."

Harmer publicly expressed optimism about his chances in the wake of the victory of Republican Assemblyman John Stull of Leucadia in a special Senate election Tuesday in San Diego County.

The seating of Stull, expected next Monday, will even the balance in the Senate between Republicans and Democrats at 20-20.

The split raised the possibility, conceded to be unlikely by both parties, that Republican Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke, presiding officer of the Senate, could cast a tie-breaking vote in a 20-20 deadlock.

Democratic and GOP leaders said the 20-20 party balance would not mean a stalemate on legislation in the Senate. Voting on bills does not generally follow party lines in the house, which is traditionally less partisan than the Assembly.

While Harmer predicted he had a "very good" chance of ousting Mills, the Republican senator admitted he could no longer count on the 21 votes he once said he had in his bid for the pro tem position.

Harmer added there has been a "change in the psychology" of the Senate since earlier in the year that has "eroded the motivation for change."

en. Mervyn M. Dymally of Los Angeles, Democratic caucus chairman, concurred with Harmer's assessment of the Senate's mood.

"The state of affairs has been too restless for the past two months. I don't think the guys want to continue it anymore," he said.

As for the GOP's attempt to replace Mills, Dymally said, "It's over with."

Privately some Republicans nearly agree, describing Harmer's chances as "terribly slim."

The problem of replacing Mills is more difficult than just mustering one additional vote, according to Republicans. Potential Democratic defectors do not want to be singled out as the solitary deserter and have insisted on assurances that several other Democrats will go along with a GOP bid to oust Mills, Republicans said.

Harmer said he hoped reapportionment of Senate districts would be cleared up early next week, setting the stage for a pro tem vote late in the week.

Magee Sees Himself As A 'Slave'

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A psychiatrist told Ruchell Magee's murder trial yesterday the San Quentin convict thought of himself as a slave seeking freedom when he joined an escape attempt that erupted into the 1970 Marin County Hall of Justice shootout.

Magee, 33, is on trial for the slaying of Judge Harold J. Haley during the gun battle that left four men dead on Aug. 7, 1970.

Former U.S. Attorney General Ramsey Clark, who joined the defense this week, questioned psychiatrist Richard Kamisaruk, of Oakland, Calif. about Magee's background and his imprisonment in 1963 for robbery and kidnaping.

The convict spent the ensuing six years filing hundreds of legal motions with various courts, trying to have the conviction overturned, Kamisaruk said. His arrest followed a bar dispute and Magee believed no crime occurred.

"Nothing is more important to my understanding of Mr Magee than seeing these terrible things that happened to him in 1963," said Kamisaruk, chairman of the Committee on Prison Reform for the Northern California Psychiatric Association.

"The trial and its aftermath were compounded errors interwoven into a network of most gruesome significance to Ruchell Magee. The forces which were supposedly fair were muzzling him beyond his coprehension.

"Magee came to see himself as a slave and felt he had the same right as any other slave to free himself," the psychiatrist testified.

Leary Loses Plea For Delaying Trial

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Calif. (UPI) — Superior Court Judge Timothy O'Reilly refused Wednesday to postpone the trial of LSD advocate Timothy Leary for escaping from prison.

"We're going to trial March 13," ruled the judge, turning down a plea from Leary's attorney for more time. Leary is to be tried here for escaping in 1970 from the California Men's Colony, where he was serving a marijuana posession sentence, and in Santa Ana, Calif., on narcotics smuggling charges.

Flournoy Attacks Property Tax Relief-School Aid Legislation

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — "Scores of crucial ambiguities, errors and loopholes" riddle the Reagan-Moretti property tax relief-school aid act and create "staggering" problems for government, says Controller Houston I. Flournoy.

"It's one thing to have a grand concept. It is another thing altogether to draft practical provisions which will implement it," protested the controller.

Flournoy, a probable candidate for the 1974 Republican gubernatorial nomination, spoke out sharply for the first time Wednesday against the $1.1 billion bill sponsored by Gov. Ronald Reagan and Democratic Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti.

The bill, passed by the 1972 Legislature after 11th hour, high pressure negotiating, takes effect at varying intervals this year.

Flournoy told the California Taxpayers' Association he approves of the act's "basic thrust" but has "many serious reservations about it."

Not only will a "clean-up bill" be required to straighten out the confusion, Flournoy said, but "this clean-up bill itself will require a clean-up bill."

Contrasting with the administration's rosy fiscal outlook, Flournoy also said the "euphoria" generated by prospects of a $852 million budget surplus "has recently been shattered."

He blamed a federal welfare act which could cost the state up to $289 million, President Nixon's spending cutbacks and the Reagan-Moretti program which could "have a tremendously potent effect on the future financial condition of California."

Also disagreeing with Reagan and many other Republican colleagues, Flournoy said he feels "very certain" the state Supreme Court will not accept the new act as an answer to questions it raised in the landmark Serrano school case.

"It did not eliminate the vast (revenue) inequities among our school districts, which was the major concern of the court," said Flournoy, adding that "could easily" cost up to $400 million annually.

Beyond that, Flournoy said, the act "contains literally scores of crucial ambiguities, errors and loopholes in its 113 pages which may well nullify its intent."

For example, Flournoy said, the "critical" language limiting future local property tax increases "was never subjected to the crucible of legislative hearings and it shows it."

"Even more confusion," he said, surrounds provisions requiring the state to reimburse local governments for sales and property tax exemptions and state mandated programs.

"With 58 counties, over 400 cities and several thousand special districts, the problems of estimating losses from tax exemptions and estimating the reimbursement for a vast number of new mandated programs for each jurisdiction is staggering," he said.

Democrats Seek Passage Of Reapportionment Bill

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Assembly Democrats pushed today for quick passage of a major reapportionment bill despite reluctance by Republicans who want to follow Gov. Ronald Reagan and hold out for a etter deal.

Hoping to lure GOP lawmakers, Democratic leaders modified their new plan Wednesday in an unannounced floor session to sweeten the districts of four Republicans. But it didn't work, at least not completely.

After meeting with Reagan and conducting a two-hour closed caucus, GOP assemblymen unanimously decided to oppose the bill (AB8) by Assemblyman Ken Meade, D-Oakland, in a showdown vote planned today by Democrats.

"We feel we are entitled to more districts where we have a shot at winning," said Assemblyman Robert G. Beverly, GOP caucus chairman.

Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti counted on a "surprising" number of GOP votes for the Democratic bill.

In a private meeting with Republicans, Reagan said the current Democratic plan "would be extremely difficult to accept" because of several districts drawn by "very obvious gerrymandering" which erodes "good government."

Reagan said he was troubled by districts that would "divide communities of interest unnecessarily" and indicated he would prefer the state Supreme Court to do the job.

The court has threatened to redistrict the state's 80 Assembly and 40 Senate seats if the legislature and Reagan cannot agree quickly on their own reapportionment plan.

Reagan also told GOP lawmakers a recent U.S. Supreme Court decision permitting more flexibility in reapportionment should allow the legislature to avoid district lines that divide cities or other natural political boundaries.

Beverly and other Republicans generally agree the bill would protect most GOP incumbents who wish to run for reelection in 1974.

But they contend several "open" districts—where there would be no incumbent—are too heavily Democratic and would result in dwarfing the Republican party's power for years to come.

Democrwts say the plan would give Republicans 32 seats. GOP experts say it would be more like 28 to 31 seats. Currently, the Assembly has 49 Democrats and 29 Republicans with two vacancies.

One of the open seats resembles a misshapen T-bone steak, stretching from Chino in San Bernardino County north to Bakersfield and the Owls Head Mountains on the edge of Death Valley.

Another resembles an elephant seal with its nose hooking across the city of Orange and its truncated body running south to the San Diego County mountain community of Boulevard.

The third is a stumpy, relatively small district that includes sections of Contra Costa, Alameda and Santa Clara counties.

Squeezed out of their old districts would be three Democrats who are considering retiring from the Assembly— Carlos Bee of Hayward, Harvey Johnson of El Monte and John Foran of San Francisco.

Assemblyman Floyd L. Wakefield's district in the South Gate area also would be reshaped, possibly forcing him to change his residence to run in the same region in 1974.

A so-called "Cory-dor" would be created in Orange County, squirreling through the area in an effort to give Assemblyman Kenneth Cory, D-Garden Gorve, a reasonable chance of winning reelection in the generally conservative, Republican county.

Case Sent To Superior Court

A Marin Municipal Court judge yesterday ruled there is enough evidence to try Jaime Leonel Doran, 24, of San Francisco, on a felony auto theft charge.

Judge Robert A. Smallman then ordered Doran to make his first pretrial appearance in superior court Wednesday.

The Sausalito police report indicates an officer stopped a 1971 plymouth driven by Doran Feb. 26 because it was traveling the wrong way on Locust Street. A check revealed the car was reported stolen in San Jose, police said.

A passenger was arrested too, but was not charged because evidence was lacking.

Democrats Seek Passage Of Reapportionment Bill

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Assembly Democrats pushed today for quick passage of a major reapportionment bill despite reluctance by Republicans who want to follow Gov. Ronald Reagan and hold out for a etter deal.

Hoping to lure GOP lawmakers, Democratic leaders modified their new plan Wednesday in an unannounced floor session to sweeten the districts of four Republicans. But it didn't work, at least not completely.

After meeting with Reagan and conducting a two-hour closed caucus, GOP assemblymen unanimously decided to oppose the bill (AB8) by Assemblyman Ken Meade, D-Oakland, in a showdown vote planned today by Democrats.

"We feel we are entitled to more districts where we have a shot at winning," said Assemblyman Robert G. Beverly, GOP caucus chairman.

Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti counted on a "surprising" number of GOP votes for the Democratic bill.

In a private meeting with Republicans, Reagan said the current Democratic plan "would be extremely difficult to accept" because of several districts drawn by "very obvious gerrymandering" which erodes "good government."

Reagan said he was troubled by districts that would "divide communities of interest unnecessarily" and indicated he would prefer the state Supreme Court to do the job.

The court has threatened to redistrict the state's 80 Assembly and 40 Senate seats if the legislature and Reagan cannot agree quickly on their own reapportionment plan.

Reagan also told GOP lawmakers a recent U.S. Supreme Court decision permitting more flexibility in reapportionment should allow the legislature to avoid district lines that divide cities or other natural political boundaries.

Beverly and other Republicans generally agree the bill would protect most GOP incumbents who wish to run for reelection in 1974.

But they contend several "open" districts—where there would be no incumbent—are too heavily Democratic and would result in dwarfing the Republican party's power for years to come.

Democrwts say the plan would give Republicans 32 seats. GOP experts say it would be more like 28 to 31 seats. Currently,the Assembly has 49 Democrats and 29 Republicans with two vacancies.

One of the open seats resembles a misshapen T-bone steak, stretching from Chino in San Bernardino County north to Bakersfield and the Owls Head Mountains on the edge of Death Valley.

Another resembles an elephant seal with its nose hooking across the city of Orange and its truncated body running south to the San Diego County mountain community of Boulevard.

The third is a stumpy, relatively small district that includes sections of Contra Costa, Alameda and Santa Clara counties.

Squeezed out of their old districts would be three Democrats who are considering retiring from the Assembly— Carlos Bee of Hayward, Harvey Johnson of El Monte and John Foran of San Francisco.

Assemblyman Floyd L. Wakefield's district in the South Gate area also would be reshaped, possibly forcing him to change his residence to run in the same region in 1974.

A so-called "Cory-dor" would be created in Orange County, squirreling through the area in an effort to give Assemblyman Kenneth Cory, D-Garden Gorve, a reasonable chance of winning reelection in the generally conservative, Republican county.

Case Sent To Superior Court

A Marin Municipal Court judge yesterday ruled there is enough evidence to try Jaime Leonel Doran, 24, of San Francisco, on a felony auto theft charge.

Judge Robert A. Smallman then ordered Doran to make his first pretrial appearance in superior court Wednesday.

The Sausalito police report indicates an officer stopped a 1971 plymouth driven by Doran Feb. 26 because it was traveling the wrong way on Locust Street. A check revealed the car was reported stolen in San Jose, police said.

A passenger was arrested too, but was not charged because evidence was lacking.

Too Many 'Speak For Marin City'

Who speaks for Marin City? That question has been a bothersome one down through the years.

To begin with, Marin City is not a city at all, and never has been. The name "Marin City" was the tag given a World War II public housing development to house workers at the Marinship shipbuilding yards.

ORIGINALLY, Marin City was entirely government housing. To provide a voice for its residents, the Marin City Tenants Council was organized. Although it had no official status, it was widely representative, and was usually considered to be "speaking for Marin City."

When Marin City redevelopment began, private ownership entered the picture. The wartime housing was replaced by apartment buildings and single-family homes. Some of the people bought their own homes; others bought into cooperative apartments. So the tenants' council no longer represented all of Marin City. And since some of the council's leaders were among those who became property owners, it declined and finally passed out of existence.

The property owner group meanwhile formed its own organization, the Marin City Homeowners Improvement Association. This remains active and speaks on behalf of the minority of residents who own their own homes. It does not,. however, speak for those in the high-rise publicly owned apartment buildings.

ALONG WITH redevelopment, also, came formation of the Marin City Community Services District. This was set up under a California law that provides for public districts, with taxing power, to perform some of the functions of a city where no incorporated city exists.

Community services districts have legal power to provide police and fire protection, street maintenance, parks, recreation — most of the things a city government provides. But there is a catch. A community services district's only source of revenue is the property tax, and it is limited to $1 per $10 assessed valuation.

In the case of Marin City, this produces less than $9,000 per year — far too little to do any of the things a community services district has legal power to do. So the Marin City CSD has limited itself to operating the Manzanita Center, a recreation center built with a federal grant.

Sometimes the board of the community services district attempts to speak for Marin City. But many of the residents largely ignore the CDS, since it provides no real local government.

IN RECENT years, another organization was formed with a name implying that it speaks for Marin City — the Marin City Council. However, "city council" is a misnomer. There is no city and no city council. The Marin City Council is simply another unofficial organization, with membership made up mostly from residents in the public housing apartments.

The confusion as to who speaks for Marin City was shown plainly in the past few days. First the Marin City Council asked for removal of a veteran public health nurse who has served Marin City since before its redevelopment. Then the Marin City Homeowners Improvement Association came out strongly for retaining the nurse.

The fact is that nobody can speak for Marin City. And that is one of the community's handicaps.

Many voices "speak for Marin City." But none speaks for the community as a whole. And that is one of Marin City's handicaps.

Regents, Heavily Attacked, Thumb Noses At Public

By EARL G. WATERS

At a time when their autonomy, and perhaps their very existence, is being challenged from several directions, it is incredible that the regents of the University of California would take a "public be damned" stance.

Yet that is exactly what this aristocratic body has done in its refusal to make public the employment contract of university president Charles J. Hitch.

The initial interest in the contract now becomes dwarfed by the issue of the public's right to know how its money is spent. But even that issue is surpassed as confidence is shaken by the regents' action. The large question becomes whether the university has been entrusted to proper hands.

THERE IS A GROWING belief that it has not. Recently the joint legislative committee on higher education presented a report which recommends sweeping changes in university administration. Included are proposals to strip the university of much of its autonomy, reduce the terms of the regents, and change the mode of their selection.

Similar recommendations regarding the regents were made earlier by the State Coordinating Council for Higher Education. And prior to that have been various legislative proposals, notably one last year by Assemblyman Dixon Arnett, R-Redwood City, along the same lines.

The joint legislative committee, however, has gone much farther than anyone heretofore and challenged much of the "sacred" autonomy of the university. This autonomy was written into the constitution in 1849. The constitutional status of the regents, however, dates back only to 1918.

IT WAS THE OBVIOUS intent of the early constitutional framers to establish and maintain the state's center of learning aloof from political interference. But it was also obviously intended that the university would be self-sufficient by reason of endowments and public land grants.

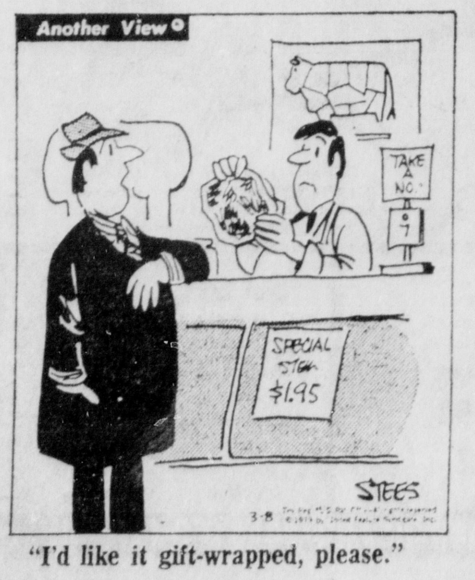
As the university grew, it came to ook to the Legislature for augmentation of its budgetary needs. This dependency has expanded rapidly in recent years until it now is requesting annual support greater than the state's total budget of 30 years ago.

Legislators are reluctant, and properly so, to appropriate funds without attaching some measure of control. But there is more to the desires of the solons for greater voice in higher education management than mere fiscal controls.

It is a belief that the efforts in higher education have not been coordinated, that those entrusted to overseeing the programs have failed to respond to the need for new goals and new policies.

It is this basic belief which has led the joint committee to call for a change in the name and authority of the coordinating council, which the committee says neither coordinates nor has the power to do so.

The recommendation to reduce the terms of the regents from the present lengthy 16 years is only symptomatic of growing discontent with the entire operation. Based upon their apparent misunderstanding of the irresponsibility to the public, as demonstrated by their refusal to let the public know how they are spending its money, any reduction of their terms short of complete elimination seems inadequate.



"I'd like it gift-wrapped, please."

Ferry Terminal Seen As 'Tourist Mecca'

What is the purpose of a ferry terminal? I believed the idea was to get commuters off Highway 101 so there would not be the need to widen this highway and the Golden Gate Bridge and to offer a less polluting, faster, more economical means of transportation to our community, to our commuters. And what do we have proposed by the Golden Gate Bridge District in the artist's sketch (approved as final) in the I-J of Feb. 24? A tourists' mecca; and, also ferry docking slips and a parking lot.

Who needs the extras, "restaurants, shops, offices" and most repugnant, "sight seeing attractions"? Who needs the congestion of cars these extras would create even before widening funds are reviewed for East Sir Francis Drake Boulevard by the Division of Highways in 1978 or 1979? Who needs more smog in our community? "Plan ahead" has been said by the Powers That Be. For whom are they planning? I see this terminal as a great money-making package for the GGBD. I don't need this development and I wonder how many others od who live here. Is it too late to protest?

Heartfelt Tribute To Mrs. Terwilliger

We enjoyed your excellent coverage concerning the activities and dedication to conservation education by Mrs. Terwilliger. We were delighted with the films of her trips shown Feb. 2 from both aesthetic and ecological aspects. Teachers could gain nature teaching techniques and an increased awareness of beautiful Marin County. The photography, music and poetry of scenes such as rustling leaves and slow motion in the "rope seaweed" scene — an effect that conveyed a real message that real lasting memories are often found in lovely nature experiences such as these trips sponsored by the Boyd Museum and so excellently led by Mrs. Terwilliger, and how often we may wish to remain in the present moment of joy!

We indeed pay tribute to Mrs. Terwilliger's many contributions to increasing our awareness and appreciation of this very special county in which we live. We are sure that our 4½-year-old daughter Lorraine's memories and conservation consciousness in the future have been enriched greatly by the dedication and generosity of time by leaders such as "Mrs. T." These nature awareness experiences are the riches that are lasting and available for everyone.

We appreciate a newspaper that can devote several articles to that which is truly the "good, the true, and the beautiful" in our life.

Stevenson Memorabilia Pleasing To Visitor

As a visitor from Scotland and an ardent admirer of Robert Louis Stevenson, I am writing to express my appreciation of the fine way you here in California dedicate yourselves to his memory.

At Monterey, going through the Stevenson House, as I had done in Samoa, where he spent the last four years of his life, I felt that the great writer's spirit was there. I could see him, propped against the pillows, writing in the bed shipped from Scotland to Samoa, and back again to California by his widow. I was thrilled to learn that in Monterey lived a lady who, 95 years ago, had sat on Robert Louis Stevenson's knee when he dined at her father's restaurant.

In St. Helena, at the Silverado Museum, I marvelled at the patience and devotion of Mr. Norman Strouse. Since the '30s, he has built up his collection of anything connected with Robert Louis Stevenson. In 1969, his persistence brought about the opening of the museum. Here, in sight of the mountain where Robert and Fanny spent their honeymoon, his collection, now grown to 3,000 exhibits, is beautifully displayed. Going from one to another, reading the neat writing of the original scripts, I felt that the great writer would be proud at the honour being done to him.

Like myself, I am sure that Robert Louis Stevenson must have left part of his heart in your beautiful California.

Flood Control Critic Only Partly Right

Robert J. Staal's letter in the Independent-Journal of Feb. 22 evidences lack of information about Corte Madera Creek both pre- and present flood control status. Even more so when he characterizes any storm we've had this season as being of the 100-year variety.

He is correct if, as he says and disputes, Chuck Murphy, county flood control engineer, rated the Corte Madera Creek Flood Control Project "as it now stands is virtually useless." It isn't entirely so, and I should know. The transition structure between the project and the natural creek is in our back yard. We've lived there for 14 years, are veterans of a variety of high and low floods, and have maintained a rainfall record for all of those years.

What the project, to the extent of its progress, has accomplished in Ross is to control the worst and most frequent flooding spot in the low stretch on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard just north of Ross Hospital . . . There has not been a sufficient flooding exposure since the project progressed to its present point to determine what will happen at the transition structure when upstream creek flow gets to those that occurred, in personal experience, on Dec. 19-20, 1969 and Jan. 21, 1970. None of these achieved the awesome 100-year storm status.

Even more significantly, and to be contemplated with trepidation, is what is bound to happen if stream flow gets to those that occurred during the storms mentioned above or occasioned by one of the 100-year variety . . . The result is bound to be flooding throughout the lower portions of Ross including Sir Francis Drake, a river down Kent Avenue, flooding at the College of Marin (a nightmare to them because they've assured construction fund grant agencies flooding wuld not occur and the college might be liable for those funds), and flooding in the Kentfield business and College Park, Larkspur, areas. In such instances, Chuck Murphy and the Corps of Engineers are so right . . .

Secretary Of Labor Brennan Proves Surprise Of New Cabinet

WASHINGTON — Now that the trial run of the new Nixon dispensation is ending, the star turn is a surprise to practically everyone except the star himself. It is Secy. of Labor Peter J. Brennan, who has shown in the cabinet post the advantages of his long experience in the jungle of New York state and building trades politics.

Big, blustery, handsome, with a vocabulary when aroused that a stevedore would envy, Brennan has been asserting his independence in setting his own pace and fashioning his own department. Insisting on the right to name his own assistant secretaries, Brennan walked into the lions' den of the White House and came out unscathed.

Those two formidable lions, H. R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman, had been asserting at least a veto right on sub-cabinet appointments across the board. Brennan went to the White House for a cabinet meeting with his own list, determined to have 15 minutes in private with the President.

A message was slipped into the meeting, "Brennan is going to blow." The secretary of labor found the President in a remarkably receptive mood. He promptly invited Brennan to ride with him on his plane to Florida for the encounter at Bal Harbor with George Meany and the grand dukes of the AFL-CIO. En route Brennan had nearly an hour with the President and emerged smilingly confident that his nominees to run the Labor Department would be approved.

HE WAS WARNED, however, by the smart young men helping him to set up his empire that this should not be taken as final victory. The sun never sets on the tireless Haldeman-Ehrlichman combine as they go about their master's business.

What sets Brennan apart from the big business and money types brought in under the new dispensation is a political base. He had a lot to do with creating the network of labor bosses in state after state that helped to contribute an unprecedented share of the labor vote in November for the Nixon-Agnew ticket.

The President wants to keep this network functioning, and Brennan is the man to do it. The secretary relied in many instances, not on top union bosses, but on officials lower down with a close relationship with the rank and file. From his present vantage point he is ideally situated to keep the network active.

THE PRESENT GLOW of optimism could be of short duration. Ahead this year, major union contracts expire, with the threat of big wage increases and even prolonged and disruptive strikes. As the administration wobbles around on the wage guideline, with the 5.5 per cent ceiling little more than a pious intention, Meany & Co. push for not less than 7.5 per cent and it could go higher.

The wage spiral aside, Brennan faces another dilemma. Conservative Republicans want Congress to pass a right-to-work law which would do away with the closed shop and the compulsion to pay union dues. In view of his desire to keep elements of organized labor within the Republican party, it is doubtful that the President himself will favor such a move.

But Brennan could hardly support a step opposed virtually without exception by the unions. Even though his New York City Construction Trades Council is ultra-conservative, certainly on Vietnam policy and as has been frequently charged on letting in minorities, it could never tolerate right-to-work.

BRENNAN'S CLOSE associates wear lapel pins of cold hard hats with an enamel American flag superimposed. The hard hats in New York violently attacked young long-haired demonstrators in the Wall Street district as they protested the Cambodian incursion. Later Brennan led a march of 100,000 construction and waterfront workers in a counter-protest.

Brennan is deeply rooted in New York-state politics, having helped to swing important segments of organized labor behind Gov. Nelson Rockefeller. When Rockefeller runs for a fifth term next year, Brennan will have an active part, if only behind the scenes. He contributed to the defeat of Rockefeller's last Democratic opponent, Arthur J. Goldberg, who also was once a secretary of labor.

In the opinion of union leaders who backed George McGovern, and even some who reluctantly followed the Meany strategy of neutrality, Brennan is considered a tool of the establishment. In his current ascendancy, prepared to do battle with all comers, this troubles him not a bit.

WINDOW ON THE WORLD

Khartoum Slayings May Bring Action On Terrorism

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

One result of the brutal murders of one Belgian and two American diplomats in Khartoum could be a new look at the whole question of international terrorism.

Another could be a new wedge driven between conservative and so-called revolutionary Arab regimes.

By carrying out their latest act of violence inside the embassy of one Arab nation accredited to another Arab nation, the Black September Palestinian guerrillas have demonstrated again that no nation is immune in their declared war of extermination against Israel, carried out in the name of a non-existent Palestinian state.

AMONG THOSE whose release from custody were demanded by the terrorists were members of the West German guerrilla group known as the Baader-Meinhof gang.

It reinforced previous suggestions that a well-developed line of communications existed between various underground terrorist movements throughout the world, including the American hemisphere.

Cleo A. Noel, the U.S. ambassador to the Sudan, was the second American ambassador to be killed by terrorists and the fourth to be seized by them. The first was John Gordon Mein, gunned down on Aug. 28, 1968, outside Guatemala City.

Two others, Clinton Knox, serving in Haiti and C. Burke Elbrick, stationed in Brazil, were kidnaped but later released unharmed.

More than 20 other American officials have been involved in terrorist incidents in the last decade.

PARTLY AS RESULT, the United States has been in the forefront of a frustrating drive to set up curbs on terrorism.

It supported an unsuccessful attempt initiated by Brazil and supported by Argentina to exclude terrorists from the right of political asylum. It died inside the Organization for American States, where it originated.

The United States introduced into the United Nations General Assembly last year measures for protection of diplomats and control of terrorism. It also was rejected.

In January, a movement for effective sanctions against countries that provide havens for hijackers was defeated in the legal committee of the International Civil Aviation Organization.

INSIDE THE ARAB world, the events at Khartoum seem likely to widen an already existing rift between hard-line revolutionary regimes such as Libya, Syria and Egypt and the conservative monarchies led by Saui Arabia.

The killings occurred inside the embassy of Saudi Arabia, a nation upon which the Palestinian Arabs depend heavily for financial support. This support now may be endangered.

It also could have an effect upon Egypt which supports the command movement but also depends heavily upon the Saudis for financial aid.

Whatever the outcome, the slayings give new meaning to a suggestion made with bitter humor by an American diplomat that foreign service officers should receive hazardous duty pay just as though they were serving in a war zone.

Too Many 'Speak For Marin City'

Who speaks for Marin City? That question has been a bothersome one down through the years.

To begin with, Marin City is not a city at all, and never has been. The name "Marin City" was the tag given a World War II public housing development to house workers at the Marinship shipbuilding yards.

ORIGINALLY, Marin City was entirely government housing. To provide a voice for its residents, the Marin City Tenants Council was organized. Although it had no official status, it was widely representative, and was usually considered to be "speaking for Marin City."

When Marin City redevelopment began, private ownership entered the picture. The wartime housing was replaced by apartment buildings and single-family homes. Some of the people bought their own homes; others bought into cooperative apartments. So the tenants' council no longer represented all of Marin City. And since some of the council's leaders were among those who became property owners, it declined and finally passed out of existence.

The property owner group meanwhile formed its own organization, the Marin City Homeowners Improvement Association. This remains active and speaks on behalf of the minority of residents who own their own homes. It does not, however, speak for those in the high-rise publicly owned apartment buildings.

ALONG WITH redevelopment, also, came formation of the Marin City Community Services District. This was set up under a California law that provides for public districts, with taxing power, to perform some of the functions of a city where no incorporated city exists.

Community services districts have legal power to provide police and fire protection, street maintenance, parks, recreation — most of the things a city government provides. But there is a catch. A community services district's only source of revenue is the property tax, and it is limited to $1 per $10 assessed valuation.

In the case of Marin City, this produces less than $9,000 per year — far too little to do any of the things a community services district has legal power to do. So the Marin City CSD has limited itself to operating the Manzanita Center, a recreation center built with a federal grant.

Sometimes the board of the community services district attempts to speak for Marin City. But many of the residents largely ignore the CDS, since it provides no real local government.

IN RECENT years, another organization was formed with a name implying that it speaks for Marin City — the Marin City Council. However, "city council" is a misnomer. There is no city and no city council. The Marin City Council is simply another unofficial organization, with membership made up mostly from residents in the public housing apartments.

The confusion as to who speaks for Marin City was shown plainly in the past few days. First the Marin City Council asked for removal of a veteran public health nurse who has served Marin City since before its redevelopment. Then the Marin City Homeowners Improvement Association came out strongly for retaining the nurse.

The fact is that nobody can speak for Marin City. And that is one of the community's handicaps.

Many voices "speak for Marin City." But none speaks for the community as a whole. And that is one of Marin City's handicaps.

Regents, Heavily Attacked, Thumb Noses At Public

By EARL G. WATERS

At a time when their autonomy, and perhaps their very existence, is being challenged from several directions, it is incredible that the regents of the University of California would take a "public be damned" stance.

Yet that is exactly what this aristocratic body has done in its refusal to make public the employment contract of university president Charles J. Hitch.

The initial interest in the contract now becomes dwarfed by the issue of the public's right to know how its money is spent. But even that issue is surpassed as confidence is shaken by the regents' action. The large question becomes whether the university has been entrusted to proper hands.

THERE IS A GROWING belief that it has not. Recently the joint legislative committee on higher education presented a report which recommends sweeping changes in university administration. Included are proposals to strip the university of much of its autonomy, reduce the terms of the regents, and change the mode of their selection.

Similar recommendations regarding the regents were made earlier by the State Coordinating Council for Higher Education. And prior to that have been various legislative proposals, notably one last year by Assemblyman Dixon Arnett, R-Redwood City, along the same lines.

The joint legislative committee, however, has gone much farther than anyone heretofore and challenged much of the "sacred" autonomy of the university. This autonomy was written into the constitution in 1849. The constitutional status of the regents, however, dates back only to 1918.

IT WAS THE OBVIOUS intent of the early constitutional framers to establish and maintain the state's center of learning aloof from political interference. But it was also obviously intended that the university would be self-sufficient by reason of endowments and public land grants.

As the university grew, it came to ook to the Legislature for augmentation of its budgetary needs. This dependency has expanded rapidly in recent years until it now is requesting annual support greater than the state's total budget of 30 years ago.

Legislators are reluctant, and properly so, to appropriate funds without attaching some measure of control. But there is more to the desires of the solons for greater voice in higher education management than mere fiscal controls.

It is a belief that the efforts in higher education have not been coordinated, that those entrusted to overseeing the programs have failed to respond to the need for new goals and new policies.

It is this basic belief which has led the joint committee to call for a change in the name and authority of the coordinating council, which the committee says neither coordinates nor has the power to do so.

The recommendation to reduce the terms of the regents from the present lengthy 16 years is only symptomatic of growing discontent with the entire operation. Based upon their apparent misunderstanding of the irresponsibility to the public, as demonstrated by their refusal to let the public know how they are spending its money, any reduction of their terms short of complete elimination seems inadequate.

Lighted Magnolia Deserves Bouquet

Bouquets to the family on Magnolia in Larkspur for continuing the tradition of lighting their glorious (soulangeana) magnolia tree at night. It is a thrill to come upon it at any time — even brightens these dark, gloomy days — but seeing it at night in its full spring glory uplifts the spirit of those who pass by.

Thank you from those of us who are fortunate to be able to enjoy it.

Ferry Terminal Seen As 'Tourist Mecca'

What is the purpose of a ferry terminal? I believed the idea was to get commuters off Highway 101 so there would not be the need to widen this highway and the Golden Gate Bridge and to offer a less polluting, faster, more economical means of transportation to our community, to our commuters. And what do we have proposed by the Golden Gate Bridge District in the artist's sketch (approved as final) in the I-J of Feb. 24? A tourists' mecca; and, also ferry docking slips and a parking lot.

Who needs the extras, "restaurants, shops, offices" and most repugnant, "sight seeing attractions"? Who needs the congestion of cars these extras would create even before widening funds are reviewed for East Sir Francis Drake Boulevard by the Division of Highways in 1978 or 1979? Who needs more smog in our community? "Plan ahead" has been said by the Powers That Be. For whom are they planning? I see this terminal as a great money-making package for the GGBD. I don't need this development and I wonder how many others od who live here. Is it too late to protest?

Heartfelt Tribute To Mrs. Terwilliger

We enjoyed your excellent coverage concerning the activities and dedication to conservation education by Mrs. Terwilliger. We were delighted with the films of her trips shown Feb. 2 from both aesthetic and ecological aspects. Teachers could gain nature teaching techniques and an increased awareness of beautiful Marin County. The photography, music and poetry of scenes such as rustling leaves and slow motion in the "rope seaweed" scene — an effect that conveyed a real message that real lasting memories are often found in lovely nature experiences such as these trips sponsored by the Boyd Museum and so excellently led by Mrs. Terwilliger, and how often we may wish to remain in the present moment of joy!

We indeed pay tribute to Mrs. Terwilliger's many contributions to increasing our awareness and appreciation of this very special county in which we live. We are sure that our 4½-year-old daughter Lorraine's memories and conservation consciousness in the future have been enriched greatly by the dedication and generosity of time by leaders such as "Mrs. T." These nature awareness experiences are the riches that are lasting and available for everyone.

We appreciate a newspaper that can devote several articles to that which is truly the "good, the true, and the beautiful" in our life.

Stevenson Memorabilia Pleasing To Visitor

As a visitor from Scotland and an ardent admirer of Robert Louis Stevenson, I am writing to express my appreciation of the fine way you here in California dedicate yourselves to his memory.

At Monterey, going through the Stevenson House, as I had done in Samoa, where he spent the last four years of his life, I felt that the great writer's spirit was there. I could see him, propped against the pillows, writing in the bed shipped from Scotland to Samoa, and back again to California by his widow. I was thrilled to learn that in Monterey lived a lady who, 95 years ago, had sat on Robert Louis Stevenson's knee when he dined at her father's restaurant.

In St. Helena, at the Silverado Museum, I marvelled at the patience and devotion of Mr. Norman Strouse. Since the '30s, he has built up his collection of anything connected with Robert Louis Stevenson. In 1969, his persistence brought about the opening of the museum. Here, in sight of the mountain where Robert and Fanny spent their honeymoon, his collection, now grown to 3,000 exhibits, is beautifully displayed. Going from one to another, reading the neat writing of the original scripts, I felt that the great writer would be proud at the honour being done to him.

Like myself, I am sure that Robert Louis Stevenson must have left part of his heart in your beautiful California.

Flood Control Critic Only Partly Right

Robert J. Staal's letter in the Independent-Journal of Feb. 22 evidences lack of information about Corte Madera Creek both pre- and present flood control status. Even more so when he characterizes any storm we've had this season as being of the 100-year variety.

He is correct if, as he says and disputes, Chuck Murphy, county flood control engineer, rated the Corte Madera Creek Flood Control Project "as it now stands is virtually useless." It isn't entirely so, and I should know. The transition structure between the project and the natural creek is in our back yard. We've lived there for 14 years, are veterans of a variety of high and low floods, and have maintained a rainfall record for all of those years.

What the project, to the extent of its progress, has accomplished in Ross is to control the worst and most frequent flooding spot in the low stretch on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard just north of Ross Hospital . . . There has not been a sufficient flooding exposure since the project progressed to its present point to determine what will happen at the transition structure when upstream creek flow gets to those that occurred, in personal experience, on Dec. 19-20, 1969 and Jan. 21, 1970. None of these achieved the awesome 100-year storm status.

Even more significantly, and to be contemplated with trepidation, is what is bound to happen if stream flow gets to those that occurred during the storms mentioned above or occasioned by one of the 100-year variety . . . The result is bound to be flooding throughout the lower portions of Ross including Sir Francis Drake, a river down Kent Avenue, flooding at the College of Marin (a nightmare to them because they've assured construction fund grant agencies flooding wuld not occur and the college might be liable for those funds), and flooding in the Kentfield business and College Park, Larkspur, areas. In such instances, Chuck Murphy and the Corps of Engineers are so right . . .

Secretary Of Labor Brennan Proves Surprise Of New Cabinet

WASHINGTON — Now that the trial run of the new Nixon dispensation is ending, the star turn is a surprise to practically everyone except the star himself. It is Secy. of Labor Peter J. Brennan, who has shown in the cabinet post the advantages of his long experience in the jungle of New York state and building trades politics.

Big, blustery, handsome, with a vocabulary when aroused that a stevedore would envy, Brennan has been asserting his independence in setting his own pace and fashioning his own department. Insisting on the right to name his own assistant secretaries, Brennan walked into the lions' den of the White House and came out unscathed.

Those two formidable lions, H. R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman, had been asserting at least a veto right on sub-cabinet appointments across the board. Brennan went to the White House for a cabinet meeting with his own list, determined to have 15 minutes in private with the President.

A message was slipped into the meeting, "Brennan is going to blow." The secretary of labor found the President in a remarkably receptive mood. He promptly invited Brennan to ride with him on his plane to Florida for the encounter at Bal Harbor with George Meany and the grand dukes of the AFL-CIO. En route Brennan had nearly an hour with the President and emerged smilingly confident that his nominees to run the Labor Department would be approved.

HE WAS WARNED, however, by the smart young men helping him to set up his empire that this should not be taken as final victory. The sun never sets on the tireless Haldeman-Ehrlichman combine as they go about their master's business.

What sets Brennan apart from the big business and money types brought in under the new dispensation is a political base. He had a lot to do with creating the network of labor bosses in state after state that helped to contribute an unprecedented share of the labor vote in November for the Nixon-Agnew ticket.

The President wants to keep this network functioning, and Brennan is the man to do it. The secretary relied in many instances, not on top union bosses, but on officials lower down with a close relationship with the rank and file. From his present vantage point he is ideally situated to keep the network active.

THE PRESENT GLOW of optimism could be of short duration. Ahead this year, major union contracts expire, with the threat of big wage increases and even prolonged and disruptive strikes. As the administration wobbles around on the wage guideline, with the 5.5 per cent ceiling little more than a pious intention, Meany & Co. push for not less than 7.5 per cent and it could go higher.

The wage spiral aside, Brennan faces another dilemma. Conservative Republicans want Congress to pass a right-to-work law which would do away with the closed shop and the compulsion to pay union dues. In view of his desire to keep elements of organized labor within the Republican party, it is doubtful that the President himself will favor such a move.

But Brennan could hardly support a step opposed virtually without exception by the unions. Even though his New York City Construction Trades Council is ultra-conservative, certainly on Vietnam policy and as has been frequently charged on letting in minorities, it could never tolerate right-to-work.

BRENNAN'S CLOSE associates wear lapel pins of cold hard hats with an enamel American flag superimposed. The hard hats in New York violently attacked young long-haired demonstrators in the Wall Street district as they protested the Cambodian incursion. Later Brennan led a march of 100,000 construction and waterfront workers in a counter-protest.

Brennan is deeply rooted in New York-state politics, having helped to swing important segments of organized labor behind Gov. Nelson Rockefeller. When Rockefeller runs for a fifth term next year, Brennan will have an active part, if only behind the scenes. He contributed to the defeat of Rockefeller's last Democratic opponent, Arthur J. Goldberg, who also was once a secretary of labor.

In the opinion of union leaders who backed George McGovern, and even some who reluctantly followed the Meany strategy of neutrality, Brennan is considered a tool of the establishment. In his current ascendancy, prepared to do battle with all comers, this troubles him not a bit.

WINDOW ON THE WORLD

Khartoum Slayings May Bring Action On Terrorism

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

One result of the brutal murders of one Belgian and two American diplomats in Khartoum could be a new look at the whole question of international terrorism.

Another could be a new wedge driven between conservative and so-called revolutionary Arab regimes.

By carrying out their latest act of violence inside the embassy of one Arab nation accredited to another Arab nation, the Black September Palestinian guerrillas have demonstrated again that no nation is immune in their declared war of extermination against Israel, carried out in the name of a non-existent Palestinian state.

AMONG THOSE whose release from custody were demanded by the terrorists were members of the West German guerrilla group known as the Baader-Meinhof gang.

It reinforced previous suggestions that a well-developed line of communications existed between various underground terrorist movements throughout the world, including the American hemisphere.

Cleo A. Noel, the U.S. ambassador to the Sudan, was the second American ambassador to be killed by terrorists and the fourth to be seized by them. The first was John Gordon Mein, gunned down on Aug. 28, 1968, outside Guatemala City.

Two others, Clinton Knox, serving in Haiti and C. Burke Elbrick, stationed in Brazil, were kidnaped but later released unharmed.

More than 20 other American officials have been involved in terrorist incidents in the last decade.

PARTLY AS RESULT, the United States has been in the forefront of a frustrating drive to set up curbs on terrorism.

It supported an unsuccessful attempt initiated by Brazil and supported by Argentina to exclude terrorists from the right of political asylum. It died inside the Organization for American States, where it originated.

The United States introduced into the United Nations General Assembly last year measures for protection of diplomats and control of terrorism. It also was rejected.

In January, a movement for effective sanctions against countries that provide havens for hijackers was defeated in the legal committee of the International Civil Aviation Organization.

INSIDE THE ARAB world, the events at Khartoum seem likely to widen an already existing rift between hard-line revolutionary regimes such as Libya, Syria and Egypt and the conservative monarchies led by Saui Arabia.

The killings occurred inside the embassy of Saudi Arabia, a nation upon which the Palestinian Arabs depend heavily for financial support. This support now may be endangered.

It also could have an effect upon Egypt which supports the command movement but also depends heavily upon the Saudis for financial aid.

Whatever the outcome, the slayings give new meaning to a suggestion made with bitter humor by an American diplomat that foreign service officers should receive hazardous duty pay just as though they were serving in a war zone.

New Drug Laws Contradict Each Other, Attorneys Say

"Total confusion."

These were the words used by a Marin attorney who often represents clients in drug and narcotic cases to describe two pieces of drug legislation passed by state lawmakers last year which seem to be at odds with each other.

The first is the Campbell-Moretti-Deukmaejian Drug Abuse Act, which provides a decriminalizing process for first-time drug offenders.

Under this bill a drug violator can be "diverted" to educational, treatment and rehabilitation programs and come off without a criminal offense on his record if he avoids further arrests for two years.

The intent of the Legislature seems clearly aimed at rehabilitating drug offenders, rather than making criminals out of them.

HOWEVER, ANOTHER piece of legislation, the long and sweeping Drug Abuse Control Act, which was AB192 and was also originally authored by Assemblyman William Campbell, R-La Puente, seems to take a different tack.

Under this act, which goes into effect today, a much tougher view seems to be taken with regard to drug offenders — at least those involved with anything other than marijuana.

The bill slipped by the notice of the press when it was signed by the governor in December, and a short Associated Press story said that "existing offenses and penalties relating to narcotics and dangerous drugs are not affected."

The few lawyers who have waded through the stack of pages which outline provisions of the act have decided, though, that there is a decided change in penalties for drug offenders.

ONE SECTION eliminates the possibility of a possessor of a small amount of any drug other than marijuana being charged with a misdemeanor rather than a felony.

In the past it has been common practice to charge a defendant who had a few pills of some kind with a misdemeanor, as has been the custom with the "one marijuana cigarette" cases.

The new bill, though, makes it mandatory that a felony be charged for possessing any drug or narcotic other than pot.

Although probation can be granted to first-time offenders, AB 192 has another stiff kicker in it.

Anyone who has been convicted a second time of any drug offense other than marijuana (possession, sale, transporting, etc.) faces a mandatory state prison sentence.

"THIS IS WHAT law enforcement officers have been crying for," said Marvin Cahn, San Rafael lawyer whose practice includes many drug offenders.

He said he and other lawyers who have researched the new laws cannot decide whethelr when the "diversionary" step is taken with a first offense, a defendant might get one more chance.

In addition to a great deal of confusion, Cahn predicts that courts will be swamped with many more defendants, faced with mandatory state prison sentences, demanding jury trials.

Roger Smith, director of Marin Open House, an anti-drug center, called the Campbell bill a "disaster" and predicted it would "escalate the problem." Smith, noting that drug addiction is behind a great deal of Marin's crime, said that treatment and rehabilitation aimed at curing the addict, not further criminalizing him, was the answer.

Plan For Saving The Dollar: Tell World It's Beyond Hope

WASHINGTON — The tragedy of the United States is that, while it is militarily the greatest power in the world, it can't do much when everybody starts dumping the American dollar.

We have been so busy defending our honor in Southeast Asia that we haven't been able to defend our money in Europe. I believe that one of President Nixon's biggest mistakes has been his optimism about the American economy. He keeps assuring everyone that inflation is licked, wages are being stabilized, and 1974 is going to be a great year for the nation's balance of payments.

The European mentality is such that the more affirmative the American President sounds about our economy, the more suspicious European bankers and money speculators become.

HAVING LIVED ABROAD for a long time I know how the people over there think, and I believe the only thing that can save the dollar is for President Nixon to stop reassuring everyone that it is healthy.

I think it is essential that the President go on worldwide television, via satellite, and make the following statement:

"My fellow citizens of the world, I wish to speak to you tonight about the American dollar. I must make it perfectly clear that despite stories to the contrary, the dollar has never been in worse shape. If Pat and I lived abroad, I would sell every American dollar I had. Our economy is hopeless and my administration does not have any solutions for saving it. I predict U.S. production will go down, wages will go up, and our balance of payments will be in a shambles.

"I urge every one of you to go to your bank tomorrow and sell your American dollars for whatever you can get for them. I feel, as President of the United States, you would rather hear the truth than be given false promises that America cannot deliver on.

"I am certain that perhaps a future President may restore the American dollar to its rightful place in the world monetary system. But, for the moment, the thing to do is to forget us and do what you consider is in the best interests of your respective countries. Thank you and good night."

NOW THE FIRST THING that would happen after the President made such a speech is that the European bankers and money speculators would get on the phones.

"Did you hear what he said?" a Swiss banker would ask a German industrialist. "He wants us to believe the dollar is in trouble."

"What kind of fools does he take us for? If he says the dollar is weak, then he must know it is strong. Sell my marks and buy dollars immediately."

Then the Swiss banker would pick up another phone. It is the head of a London insurance company calling. "I don't like it," the British businessman would say. "He kept wiping his lips while he was talking. The man's lying through his teeth. Get me out of yen and into dollars immediately."

The French consortium would call in next. "Et izz an American double-cross," the Frenchman would say. "They want to buy their dollars back cheap and stick us with gold. Zut! We will feex them. Sell all our gold and buy dollars tout de suite!"

PANIC WOULD ENSUE amongst the Arab oil sheiks.

"The Americans are trying to sink us by making us sell our dollars. Buy back all the dollars we sold, plus $500 million more, and don't worry what you have to pay for them. No wonder they call him Tricky Dick."

By the end of the day, the orders for American dollars would be so great that the money markets in Europe would have to close. A group of bankers would fly over to the Smithsonian Institution to discuss with American bankers ways of saving their own currencies. But Nixon would remain firm and insist the dollar was still the only money in serious trouble.

If Mr. Nixon has the courage to follow this game plan, he could go down as the greatest President in American economic history.

Please, sir, we beg you to do it. Nothing else has worked, so what do you have to lose?

Coffee Sunday

A coffee for Eileen Bach-y-Rita, candidate for the Mill Valley School District board, will be held at 3 p.m. Sunday at the Larry Haines residence, 28 Nelson Avenue, Mill Valley.

Education Board Wants To Shelve Organization Panel

The Marin County Board of Education will consider petitioning the state Board of Education to do away with the Marin County Committee on School District Organization and delegate its duties to the board.

Asst. Supt. Robert E. Spain said at its meeting Tuesday the board, at the suggestion of member Lee C. Richardson Jr., agreed to talk about a petition at its April 2 meeting.

All 11 members of the committee want to keep it in existence, and have requested a $3,000 budget for fiscal 1973-74 for four meetings next year, and its share of staff.

The committee was first formed in 1956, and has dealt with unification and redistricting matters — last year it redistricted the county board itself, creating two entirely new areas and preventing two incumbents, Patrick W. Pollock and Arnold Dolcini Jr. from seeking reelection.

Marin County Board Of Education Also:

PERSONNEL — Hired Jacqueline Shirley as a hearing handicapped teacher at Gallinas annex at $4,577 a year; Mary P. Honey, part-time teacher at Sunny Hills at $7 an hour; Dolores O'Donoghue, part time teacher at Loma Alta school at $7 an hour; Michael Carlson, bus driver at $3.40 an hour; Barbara Haman, bus driver, $3.24 an hour, and Marjorie Sinka, instructional aide, Marindale school, $3.24 an hour.

CONSULTANT — Agreed to pay Phillip Daro, educational specialist for the University of California, $2,000 for 20 days work training teachers of disadvantaged children, and $375 each to Kay Gingrich and Barbara Nelson for leading a learning center workshop.

MULTIHANDICAPPED — Approved applying for state funds to operate an experimental program for multihandicapped children; it's expected 12 more children will be assigned to Marin county under the state's scheme to shift patients from state hospitals.

POLICY — Adopted amendments to board policies on leaves, substitute teachers and administrators, and temporary employees, but referred an amendment on recruitment to staff for rewriting, indicating they want vacant jobs publicized to all county schools employees.

MANAGEMENT — Disagreed with a list of 11 administrators classified as "management", suggesting that the psychologist, psychometrist and regional occupation program counsellor shouldn't be on it.

PERMIT TEACHERS — After two hours' discussion decided it may recommend that teachers at the Development Center at Forest Meadows, Dominican College, should eventually all be certificated teachers, instead of permit (30 college units) teachers as is presently required; instructed its negotiators to work with the Certificated Employees Council on the suggestion and report to the April 2 board meeting.

MAGNOLIA PARK — Told George McDonald, who was concerned at the lack of speech therapy at Magnolia Park where his son is a student, that 15 of the 42 trainable mentally retarded students there from 14 to 21 years old get speech therapy, and the speech therapist, Glenn Hill, trains teachers, too.

MEETINGS — Set its next meeting for March 20, 8 p.m. at the Center Medical Hospital in Ross; and because of members' other engagements, set meetings at irregular dates: April 2, April 17, May 8 and 22, June 12 and 26, and said when the new board is seated in July regular meeting dates will be announced; adjourned at 12:40 a.m.

McEnhill, Coffees Are Announced

A coffee for Donald McEnhill, candidate for election to the Dixie School District board, has been scheduled at 8 p.m. March 12 at the Richard Conner home, 59 Elda Drive, San Rafael.

The position of Secretary-General of the United Nations has been called "the most impossible job in the world." Kurt Waldheim of Austria is the fourth man in the organization's 27-year history to hold that post. The tall, well-dressed statesman had much diplomatic experience before becoming Secretary-General last year. Born near Vienna in 1918, he fought in Hitler's Wehrmacht as an infantry officer on the Russian front during World War II. He received a law degree from the University of Vienna in 1944. Joining the foreign service in 1945, he served in Paris and later was Austria's ambassador to Canada. In 1958, he headed Austria's first delegation to the UN General Assembly.

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

By MARY LEYDECKER

New Drug Laws Contradict Each Other, Attorneys Say

"Total confusion."

These were the words used by a Marin attorney who often represents clients in drug and narcotic cases to describe two pieces of drug legislation passed by state lawmakers last year which seem to be at odds with each other.

The first is the Campbell-Moretti-Deukmaejian Drug Abuse Act, which provides a decriminalizing process for first-time drug offenders.

Under this bill a drug violator can be "diverted" to educational, treatment and rehabilitation programs and come off without a criminal offense on his record if he avoids further arrests for two years.

The intent of the Legislature seems clearly aimed at rehabilitating drug offenders, rather than making criminals out of them.

HOWEVER, ANOTHER piece of legislation, the long and sweeping Drug Abuse Control Act, which was AB192 and was also originally authored by Assemblyman William Campbell, R-La Puente, seems to take a different tack.

Under this act, which goes into effect today, a much tougher view seems to be taken with regard to drug offenders — at least those involved with anything other than marijuana.

The bill slipped by the notice of the press when it was signed by the governor in December, and a short Associated Press story said that "existing offenses and penalties relating to narcotics and dangerous drugs are not affected."

The few lawyers who have waded through the stack of pages which outline provisions of the act have decided, though, that there is a decided change in penalties for drug offenders.

ONE SECTION eliminates the possibility of a possessor of a small amount of any drug other than marijuana being charged with a misdemeanor rather than a felony.

In the past it has been common practice to charge a defendant who had a few pills of some kind with a misdemeanor, as has been the custom with the "one marijuana cigarette" cases.

The new bill, though, makes it mandatory that a felony be charged for possessing any drug or narcotic other than pot.

Although probation can be granted to first-time offenders, AB 192 has another stiff kicker in it.

Anyone who has been convicted a second time of any drug offense other than marijuana (possession, sale, transporting, etc.) faces a mandatory state prison sentence.

"THIS IS WHAT law enforcement officers have been crying for," said Marvin Cahn, San Rafael lawyer whose practice includes many drug offenders.

He said he and other lawyers who have researched the new laws cannot decide whether when the "diversionary" step is taken with a first offense, a defendant might get one more chance.

In addition to a great deal of confusion, Cahn predicts that courts will be swamped with many more defendants, faced with mandatory state prison sentences, demanding jury trials.

Roger Smith, director of Marin Open House, an anti-drug center, called the Campbell bill a "disaster" and predicted it would "escalate the problem." Smith, noting that drug addiction is behind a great deal of Marin's crime, said that treatment and rehabilitation aimed at curing the addict, not further criminalizing him, was the answer.

Education Board Wants To Shelve Organization Panel

The Marin County Board of Education will consider petitioning the state Board of Education to do away with the Marin County Committee on School District Organization and delegate its duties to the board.

Asst. Supt. Robert E. Spain said at its meeting Tuesday the board, at the suggestion of member Lee C. Richardson Jr., agreed to talk about a petition at its April 2 meeting.

All 11 members of the committee want to keep it in existence, and have requested a $3,000 budget for fiscal 1973-74 for four meetings next year, and its share of staff.

The committee was first formed in 1956, and has dealt with unification and redistricting matters — last year it redistricted the county board itself, creating two entirely new areas and preventing two incumbents, Patrick W. Pollock and Arnold Dolcini Jr. from seeking reelection.

Marin County Board Of Education Also:

PERSONNEL — Hired Jacqueline Shirley as a hearing handicapped teacher at Gallinas annex at $4,577 a year; Mary P. Honey, part-time teacher at Sunny Hills at $7 an hour; Dolores O'Donoghue, part time teacher at Loma Alta school at $7 an hour; Michael Carlson, bus driver at $3.40 an hour; Barbara Haman, bus driver, $3.24 an hour, and Marjorie Sinka, instructional aide, Marindale school, $3.24 an hour.

CONSULTANT — Agreed to pay Phillip Daro, educational specialist for the University of California, $2,000 for 20 days work training teachers of disadvantaged children, and $375 each to Kay Gingrich and Barbara Nelson for leading a learning center workshop.

MULTIHANDICAPPED — Approved applying for state funds to operate an experimental program for multihandicapped children; it's expected 12 more children will be assigned to Marin county under the state's scheme to shift patients from state hospitals.

POLICY — Adopted amendments to board policies on leaves, substitute teachers and administrators, and temporary employees, but referred an amendment on recruitment to staff for rewriting, indicating they want vacant jobs publicized to all county schools employees.

MANAGEMENT — Disagreed with a list of 11 administrators classified as "management", suggesting that the psychologist, psychometrist and regional occupation program counsellor shouldn't be on it.

PERMIT TEACHERS — After two hours' discussion decided it may recommend that teachers at the Development Center at Forest Meadows, Dominican College, should eventually all be certificated teachers, instead of permit (30 college units) teachers as is presently required; instructed its negotiators to work with the Certificated Employees Council on the suggestion and report to the April 2 board meeting.

MAGNOLIA PARK — Told George McDonald, who was concerned at the lack of speech therapy at Magnolia Park where his son is a student, that 15 of the 42 trainable mentally retarded students there from 14 to 21 years old get speech therapy, and the speech therapist, Glenn Hill, trains teachers, too.

MEETINGS — Set its next meeting for March 20, 8 p.m. at the Center Medical Hospital in Ross; and because of members' other engagements, set meetings at irregular dates: April 2, April 17, May 8 and 22, June 12 and 26, and said when the new board is seated in July regular meeting dates will be announced; adjourned at 12:40 a.m.

Plan For Saving The Dollar: Tell World It's Beyond Hope

WASHINGTON — The tragedy of the United States is that, while it is militarily the greatest power in the world, it can't do much when everybody starts dumping the American dollar.

We have been so busy defending our honor in Southeast Asia that we haven't been able to defend our money in Europe. I believe that one of President Nixon's biggest mistakes has been his optimism about the American economy. He keeps assuring everyone that inflation is licked, wages are being stabilized, and 1974 is going to be a great year for the nation's balance of payments.

The European mentality is such that the more affirmative the American President sounds about our economy, the more suspicious European bankers and money speculators become.

HAVING LIVED ABROAD for a long time I know how the people over there think, and I believe the only thing that can save the dollar is for President Nixon to stop reassuring everyone that it is healthy.

I think it is essential that the President go on worldwide television, via satellite, and make the following statement:

"My fellow citizens of the world, I wish to speak to you tonight about the American dollar. I must make it perfectly clear that despite stories to the contrary, the dollar has never been in worse shape. If Pat and I lived abroad, I would sell every American dollar I had. Our economy is hopeless and my administration does not have any solutions for saving it. I predict U.S. production will go down, wages will go up, and our balance of payments will be in a shambles.

"I urge every one of you to go to your bank tomorrow and sell your American dollars for whatever you can get for them. I feel, as President of the United States, you would rather hear the truth than be given false promises that America cannot deliver on.

"I am certain that perhaps a future President may restore the American dollar to its rightful place in the world monetary system. But, for the moment, the thing to do is to forget us and do what you consider is in the best interests of your respective countries. Thank you and good night."

NOW THE FIRST THING that would happen after the President made such a speech is that the European bankers and money speculators would get on the phones.

"Did you hear what he said?" a Swiss banker would ask a German industrialist. "He wants us to believe the dollar is in trouble."

"What kind of fools does he take us for? If he says the dollar is weak, then he must know it is strong. Sell my marks and buy dollars immediately."

Then the Swiss banker would pick up another phone. It is the head of a London insurance company calling. "I don't like it," the British businessman would say. "He kept wiping his lips while he was talking. The man's lying through his teeth. Get me out of yen and into dollars immediately."

The French consortium would call in next. "Et izz an American double-cross," the Frenchman would say. "They want to buy their dollars back cheap and stick us with gold. Zut! We will feex them. Sell all our gold and buy dollars tout de suite!"

PANIC WOULD ENSUE amongst the Arab oil sheiks.

"The Americans are trying to sink us by making us sell our dollars. Buy back all the dollars we sold, plus $500 million more, and don't worry what you have to pay for them. No wonder they call him Tricky Dick."

By the end of the day, the orders for American dollars would be so great that the money markets in Europe would have to close. A group of bankers would fly over to the Smithsonian Institution to discuss with American bankers ways of saving their own currencies. But Nixon would remain firm and insist the dollar was still the only money in serious trouble.

If Mr. Nixon has the courage to follow this game plan, he could go down as the greatest President in American economic history.

Please, sir, we beg you to do it. Nothing else has worked, so what do you have to lose?

Kurt Waldheim

The position of Secretary-General of the United Nations has been called "the most impossible job in the world." Kurt Waldheim of Austria is the fourth man in the organization's 27-year history to hold that post. The tall, well-dressed statesman had much diplomatic experience before becoming Secretary-General last year. Born near Vienna in 1918, he fought in Hitler's Wehrmacht as an infantry officer on the Russian front during World War II. He received a law degree from the University of Vienna in 1944. Joining the foreign service in 1945, he served in Paris and later was Austria's ambassador to Canada. In 1958, he headed Austria's first delegation to the UN General Assembly.

DO YOU KNOW — Where is the United Nations headquarters located?

WEDNESDAY'S ANSWER — The Incas, the Aztecs.

Nixon Says Cities Will Get Funds

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon said today the nation's cities would get at least as much federal aid as they obtained under existing urban programs if his $2.3 billion a year special revenue sharing program for community development becomes law.

"In the years immediately following enactment, funds would be used to assure that no city receives less money for community development than it has received under the categorical grant programs," Nixon said.

He made the statement in a message to Congress on community development.

In the latest of a series of messages he substituted for the State of the Union speech, Nixon also pledged to submit to Congress within six months his recommendations for programs to replace federal subsidies for housing to the poor which were suspended last Jan. 5.

The President said the suspended housing programs had been inefficient, costly and unfair, and had failed to guarantee enough of the federal cash actually reached the poor.

Nixon also said he would propose legislation to replace existing federal aid for community planning programs.

He said he would ask $110 million to pay for planning services in the fiscal year beginning July 1.

He said that was almost 20 per cent of the entire amount spent over the past 20 years on existing planning programs.

Earlier versions of the administration's special revenue sharing program contained provisions intended to guarantee that no recipient governmental unit would have to take a cut in grants as a result of the switch away from federal, narrow purpose programs.

Many mayors, especially big-city Democrats, have complained this year that Nixon is trying to reduce categorical grant programs without assuring them of adequate replacement revenue.

The President has been assuring groups of mayors for several weeks that there would be no loss of funds, but the inclusion of the provision in today's message marked his most direct, public pledge of a continued flow of federal money to the cities.

Prisoners Get Big Welcome

HONOLULU (UPI) — More than 2,000 persons today gave a tumultuous welcome to the last of the freed POWs completing Phase II of Operation Homecoming when their ambulance planes landed for refueling stopovers.

One unidentified woman greeted every returnee she could reach with a long kiss as they stepped off the planes.

"Ooh, that feels really good," one former POW said.

The first welcome on American soil for the 56 former prisoners was marred by the removal of one officer in an ambulance and a staff sergeant who deplaned on crutches.

Lt. Col. Leo K. Thornsneff was taken from the second planeload of 18, after doctors said he had developed a slight fever. They said his condition was good, but would not speculate on when he could continue on to the mainland.

Staff Sgt. William Baird, who came off the plane on crutches with his legs bandaged, was hugged and kissed and showered with leis as he went over to greet the crowd.

Navy Capt. Robert B. Fuller told the roaring crowd that "we would like to offer our humble thanks to you and all the American people who have made this great day in our lives possible."

Air Force Col. Norman Gaddis of Knoxville, Tenn, said "we return without any bitterness or delusion because we have been allowed to return with dignity and honor."

After refueling, the planes took off for air bases in Texas, California, Maryland and Illinois. Eighty POWs landed at the same bases Wednesday. All were released Sunday and Monday.

Their arrival will leave 282 Americans still in prison camps. All were to be out by the end of the month under the terms of the cease-fire agreement, but there still was no word on when the next batch would be freed.

"Happiness is a returning POW," read a rain-soaked sign greeting the 20 POWs returning to Andrews AFB, Md., Wednesday.

Air Force Col. Frederick A. Crow Jr., 47, of Hampton, Va., came off the plane and was greeted by Maj. Gen. Daniel James, the highest ranking black in the Air Force and a pilot who flew in the same unit as Crow.

Prisoners Get Big Welcome

HONOLULU (UPI) — More than 2,000 persons today gave a tumultuous welcome to the last of the freed POWs completing Phase II of Operation Homecoming when their ambulance planes landed for refueling stopovers.

One unidentified woman greeted every returnee she could reach with a long kiss as they stepped off the planes.

"Ooh, that feels really good," one former POW said.

The first welcome on American soil for the 56 former prisoners was marred by the removal of one officer in an ambulance and a staff sergeant who deplaned on crutches.

Lt. Col. Leo K. Thornsneff was taken from the second planeload of 18, after doctors said he had developed a slight fever. They said his condition was good, but would not speculate on when he could continue on to the mainland.

Staff Sgt. William Baird, who came off the plane on crutches with his legs bandaged, was hugged and kissed and showered with leis as he went over to greet the crowd.

Navy Capt. Robert B. Fuller told the roaring crowd that "we would like to offer our humble thanks to you and all the American people who have made this great day in our lives possible."

Air Force Col. Norman Gaddis of Knoxville, Tenn, said "we return without any bitterness or delusion because we have been allowed to return with dignity and honor."

After refueling, the planes took off for air bases in Texas, California, Maryland and Illinois. Eighty POWs landed at the same bases Wednesday. All were released Sunday and Monday.

Their arrival will leave 282 Americans still in prison camps. All were to be out by the end of the month under the terms of the cease-fire agreement, but there still was no word on when the next batch would be freed.

"Happiness is a returning POW," read a rain-soaked sign greeting the 20 POWs returning to Andrews AFB, Md., Wednesday.

Air Force Col. Frederick A. Crow Jr., 47, of Hampton, Va., came off the plane and was greeted by Maj. Gen. Daniel James, the highest ranking black in the Air Force and a pilot who flew in the same unit as Crow.

CRASH SCENE — At least five persons are dead and 33 hurt with four critical, in this Greyhound bus crash near Bakersfield in West Texas. The bus collided with a truck last night on a narrow bridge. It burst into flames and tumbled into a draw. The bus was on a Houston-to-San Francisco cross-country run. (UPI Telephoto)

Five To Seven Dead In Fiery Bus Crash

BAKERSFIELD, Tex. (UPI) — A Greyhound bus loaded with adults and several children collided with a truck on a narrow West Texas bridge last night. The bus burst into flames and tumbled into a draw killing a number of passengers.

The Texas Department of Public Safety first reported that 15 persons died in the accident, but the figures later were revised to "between five and seven."

Twenty-three persons were injured, four critically. They were hospitalized in nearby Fort Stockton and Iraan. Three persons escaped without injury.

The bus wreck was the third since Christmas in a 250-mile area of West Texas and East New Mexico. On Dec. 26, 19 Texans on a ski outing were killed in a bus-truck crash near Fort Sumner, N.M. and 16 others were injured. Feb. 6, seven students were killed in a school bus-train wreck in Littlefield, Tex., 17 others were injured.

Frank Cantu, of La Villa, Tex., in the lower Rio Grande Valley, said he was sitting in the rear of the bus.

"Everything happened so quick when it hit," he said. "As soon as it hit, everything caught on fire. The left side of the bus caught on fire. The passengers were in a panic.

"I pushed open three or four windows. I got the kids and a baby and its mother out. I put two kids on the side of the bridge and some more people. Then I jumped off the bridge.

Cantu said he hurt his ankle and his back when he jumped from the bridge but he spent the rest of the night in a Fort Stockton motel.

The bus was on a cross-country trip from San Francisco to Houston. Its last stop was at El Paso before the crash.

Poll Shows Finch Best Known In Governor Bid

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan's declaration that he won't run for reelection in 1974 creates a wide-open race for the Republican nomination.

The California Poll reported today that of many prominent Republicans considered possible candidates, former lieutenant governor and White House aide Robert Finch is the best known among the voters.

Pollster Mervin D. Field reported that 53 per cent of all voters asserted they "knew something" aoout Finch and another 32 per cent had heard his name.

Attorney General Evelle Younger and Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke were almost as well known. Younger's figures were 54-20 and Reinecke 47-29.

But only 35 per cent said they knew something about state controller Houston Flournoy and another 29 per cent knew his name. U.S. Health, Education and Welfare director Caspar Weinberger was least known with 21 per cent knowing something about him and 28 per cent more recognizing the name.

When level of favorability is assessed, Finch, Younger and Reinecke have high levels of favorability, although there is evidence that Reinecke is slightly more often disliked by non-Republicans than the others.

Finch drew a strong favorable or somewhat favorable impression from 40 per cent while 6 per cent had a somewhat unfavorable or strongl unfavorable impression.

With Younger, it was 41 per cent and 10 per cent while Reinecke had 38 per cent for him and 14 per cent against him.

Flournoy and Weinberger still haven't made much impression on the voters one way or the other. One-quarter of those interviewed had a favorable impression of Flournoy and 5 per cent felt the opposite while Weinberger's figures were 18 per cent and 11 per cent.

Volcano Action Is Not All Bad

HILO, Hawaii (UPI) — Having a volcano spew lava over your property isn't all bad.

A circuit court judge ruled Wednesday that any new land formed by the lava flow becomes the property of the owner of adjacent land.

Judge S. George Fukuoka's decision ended a lengthy legal battle for ownership of eight acres of land formed by a 1955 volcano eruption between the State of Hawaii and Maurice and Molly Zimring. The state had claimed title to the land but the judge ruled it belonged to the Zimrings, who had been paying taxes on it for more than a decade.

Gray Reveals Pay To Sergetti

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon's personal attorney told the FBI he acted as a "disbursing agent" and paid $30,000 to $40,000 during a six month period to Donald H. Segretti, an alleged political saboteur, Acting FBI Director L. Patrick Gray has told Congress.

Gray's statement concerning Herbert M. Kalbach came during his Senate confirmation hearing Wednesday and was the first time that Segretti, a California lawyer, had been officially linked with the White House. Previously, media reports have suggested that Segretti acted as a recruiter for political espionage against the Democrats in last year's presidential campaign.

Gray testified before the Senate Judiciary Committee for the fourth day on his nomination to become permanent head of the FBI, succeeding the late J. Edgar Hoover.

Gray also disclosed Wednesday that:

Information from wiretapped telephones at Democratic National Committee headquarters which was never made public at the Watergate bugging trial was turned over to the White House last year.

Three Nixon campaign workers who had been interviewed by the FBI in the presence of Republican attorneys later asked for second interviews alone.

In a written statement supplied to the committee about Kalmbach, Gray quoted the attorney as saying he paid Segretti's salary and expenses between Sept. 1, 1971 and March 15, 1972 without knowing what Segretti was doing with the money.

"He said he merely acted as a disbursing agent for Segretti's salary and expenses and he has no idea how Segretti received his instructions or whom he reported to," Gray said.

Money to pay Segretti, according to Kalmbach, came from campaign funds collected prior to April 7, 1972 and he kept no records on payments.

U.S. Mail Delivery Called National Joke

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. mail service has gotten worse instead of better since a reorganization 20 months ago was supposed to slow down rate increases and bring faster deliveries, Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., charged today.

Cranston was one of four senators who complained to Postmaster General E. T. Klassen at a Senate Post Office Committee hearing. Cranston said in prepared remarks that the service has become a national joke.

Sens. Lawton Chiles Jr., D-Fla., Edward J. Gurney, R-Fla., and Robert Dole, R-Kan., also testified about complaints they received from constituents.

Cranston said the mail service has deteriorated so badly since the Post Office became the U.S. Postal Service, a public corporation, 20 months ago, that "Postal Service jokes have become a national pasttime."

"America's grand experiment in a quasi-private postal service was intended to slow down the rise in mailing costs and speed up mail delivery," Cranston said. "But in more than a year and a half of operation, postal administrators have apparently decided to reverse this philosophy."

He said he has received complaints about the mail from more than 5,000 Californians during the past year.

Chiles outlined some of the complaints he received and gave these examples:

—A Lantana, Fla., man received a letter his next-door neighbor had mailed to him 14 days previously.

—An Ormand Beach, Fla., woman paid 60 cents to send a special delivery letter to White Plains, N.Y., and it took six days.

—Another letter from an architect's office to a hospital 18 blocks away took 10 days.

"That's mail service at the rate of les than two blocks per day," Chiles said. His constituents "just don't believe the problem is so hard to solve that the government couldn't solve it if it really cared," he said.

Families Sought To Host Students

The American Field Service chapter at San Rafael High School is looking for families who will be host to foreign students next year. The only cost is for food and perhaps some other incidental expenses, according to school principal Peter Palches.

Further information may be obtained from him.

Parachute Team Dies In Crash

SILER CITY, N.C. (UPI) — An Army plane carrying a famed precision parachuting team from Ft. Bragg, N.C., crashed in a wooded area near here today. Reports from the scene said at least 15 persons were killed.

Officials at Simmons Army Air Base at Ft. Bragg, 60 miles southeast of the crash site, said the plane was a black-painted EC47 used by the Golden Knights.

"Based on our reports, the plane carried an 11-man parachute team, two pilots, one crew chief and possibly another man," said a Simmons spokesman. "We're not sure."

The Golden Knights team puts on exhibitions at air shows and special events across the nation.

A newsman at the scene said there were no survivors.

Wreckage, parachutes and bodies were scattered over a half-mile area surrounding the crash, which occurred in a woods just off a highway near the tiny community of Silk Hope.

The Golden Knights are comprised of 62 crack parachutists from across the nation, mostly from the enlisted ranks. Small groups of the entire contingent are assigned to appearances by the Department of the Army.

A military spokesman said there had been no recent accidents, in his memory, involving the Golden Knights in their performances, but one member died two weeks ago in a sports parachuting show at Ft. Bragg. He was parachuting on his own, not as a member of the team.

The Army said the parachutists were enroute to Kansas City for a parachuting performance when the plane crashed.

Highway patrolmen quickly sealed off the crash site to everyone except police officers and rescue workers. The plane went down several yards off a highway.

Disgruntled Inmates Set Fire To Prison

BOISE, Idaho (UPI) — Angry because a popular convict was being sent back to maximum security, convicts at the century-old Idaho State Prison set fire to three buildings Wednesday night.

Corrections Director Raymond May reported buildings housing the chapel and the kitchen-dining facilities were gutted. He said a structure housing a laundry and recreation room was seriously burned, but the fire was under control.

May said the "disturbance"—he did not class it a riot—broke out about 7 p.m. when inmate Larry Trujillo, 26, objected to being returned from the infirmary to maximum security, several miles away from the old prison at a new site under construction.

Trujillo and another convict, Fred Boyinger, 31, were treated at the infirmary at the old prison on the outskirts of Boise and taken back to the new site.

A group of inmates decided to rally around Trujillo, May said, and apparently touched off the fires.

Boise city firemen fought the fires, and state police, and county sheriff's officers and Boise City Police converged on the prison.

About 200 men milled about in an open yard, but caused no further disturbances. Guards with rifles manned towers and walked prison walls.

Bill Evans, associate superintendent of operations, said the inmates were under control today.

CRASH SCENE — At least five persons are dead and 33 hurt with four critical, in this Greyhound bus crash near Bakersfield in West Texas. The bus collided with a truck last night on a narrow bridge. It burst into flames and tumbled into a draw. The bus was on a Houston-to-San Francisco cross-country run. (UPI Telephoto)

Five To Seven Dead In Fiery Bus Crash

BAKERSFIELD, Tex. (UPI) — A Greyhound bus loaded with adults and several children collided with a truck on a narrow West Texas bridge last night. The bus burst into flames and tumbled into a draw killing a number of passengers.

The Texas Department of Public Safety first reported that 15 persons died in the accident, but the figures later were revised to "between five and seven."

Twenty-three persons were injured, four critically. They were hospitalized in nearby Fort Stockton and Iraan. Three persons escaped without injury.

The bus wreck was the third since Christmas in a 250-mile area of West Texas and East New Mexico. On Dec. 26, 19 Texans on a ski outing were killed in a bus-truck crash near Fort Sumner, N.M. and 16 others were injured. Feb. 6, seven students were killed in a school bus-train wreck in Littlefield, Tex., 17 others were injured.

Frank Cantu, of La Villa, Tex., in the lower Rio Grande Valley, said he was sitting in the rear of the bus.

"Everything happened so quick when it hit," he said. "As soon as it hit, everything caught on fire. The left side of the bus caught on fire. The passengers were in a panic.

"I pushed open three or four windows. I got the kids and a baby and its mother out. I put two kids on the side of the bridge and some more people. Then I jumped off the bridge.

Cantu said he hurt his ankle and his back when he jumped from the bridge but he spent the rest of the night in a Fort Stockton motel.

The bus was on a cross-country trip from San Francisco to Houston. Its last stop was at El Paso before the crash.

Poll Shows Finch Best Known In Governor Bid

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan's declaration that he won't run for reelection in 1974 creates a wide-open race for the Republican nomination.

The California Poll reported today that of many prominent Republicans considered possible candidates, former lieutenant governor and White House aide Robert Finch is the best known among the voters.

Pollster Mervin D. Field reported that 53 per cent of all voters asserted they "knew something" aoout Finch and another 32 per cent had heard his name.

Attorney General Evelle Younger and Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke were almost as well known. Younger's figures were 54-20 and Reinecke 47-29.

But only 35 per cent said they knew something about state controller Houston Flournoy and another 29 per cent knew his name. U.S. Health, Education and Welfare director Caspar Weinberger was least known with 21 per cent knowing something about him and 28 per cent more recognizing the name.

When level of favorability is assessed, Finch, Younger and Reinecke have high levels of favorability, although there is evidence that Reinecke is slightly more often disliked by non-Republicans than the others.

Finch drew a strong favorable or somewhat favorable impression from 40 per cent while 6 per cent had a somewhat unfavorable or strongl unfavorable impression.

With Younger, it was 41 per cent and 10 per cent while Reinecke had 38 per cent for him and 14 per cent against him.

Flournoy and Weinberger still haven't made much impression on the voters one way or the other. One-quarter of those interviewed had a favorable impression of Flournoy and 5 per cent felt the opposite while Weinberger's figures were 18 per cent and 11 per cent.

Volcano Action Is Not All Bad

HILO, Hawaii (UPI) — Having a volcano spew lava over your property isn't all bad.

A circuit court judge ruled Wednesday that any new land formed by the lava flow becomes the property of the owner of adjacent land.

Judge S. George Fukuoka's decision ended a lengthy legal battle for ownership of eight acres of land formed by a 1955 volcano eruption between the State of Hawaii and Maurice and Molly Zimring. The state had claimed title to the land but the judge ruled it belonged to the Zimrings, who had been paying taxes on it for more than a decade.

Gray Reveals Pay To Sergetti

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon's personal attorney told the FBI he acted as a "disbursing agent" and paid $30,000 to $40,000 during a six month period to Donald H. Segretti, an alleged political saboteur, Acting FBI Director L. Patrick Gray has told Congress.

Gray's statement concerning Herbert M. Kalbach came during his Senate confirmation hearing Wednesday and was the first time that Segretti, a California lawyer, had been officially linked with the White House. Previously, media reports have suggested that Segretti acted as a recruiter for political espionage against the Democrats in last year's presidential campaign.

Gray testified before the Senate Judiciary Committee for the fourth day on his nomination to become permanent head of the FBI, succeeding the late J. Edgar Hoover.

Gray also disclosed Wednesday that:

Information from wiretapped telephones at Democratic National Committee headquarters which was never made public at the Watergate bugging trial was turned over to the White House last year.

Three Nixon campaign workers who had been interviewed by the FBI in the presence of Republican attorneys later asked for second interviews alone.

In a written statement supplied to the committee about Kalmbach, Gray quoted the attorney as saying he paid Segretti's salary and expenses between Sept. 1, 1971 and March 15, 1972 without knowing what Segretti was doing with the money.

"He said he merely acted as a disbursing agent for Segretti's salary and expenses and he has no idea how Segretti received his instructions or whom he reported to," Gray said.

Money to pay Segretti, according to Kalmbach, came from campaign funds collected prior to April 7, 1972 and he kept no records on payments.

Marin Women

(UPI Telephoto)

A New Look These Days On Antisub Plane Crews

By JAMES O. CLIFFORD

MOFFETT FIELD, Calif. (UPI) — The Navy air arm's historic battle cry of "sighted sub, sank same" isn't about to be sung out in soprano — yet.

Navy anti-submarine planes flying the Pacific out of this Naval Air Station south of San Francisco have a new look these days: female crew members.

Carol Kokes, 20, of Hay Springs, Neb., and Lee Alverson, 22, of East Tawas, Mich., are the first women crew members ever to fly on the anti-submarine Orion P-3's.

Both are qualified observes, a former bastion of male supremacy.

THE WOMEN, both third class petty officers, have logged over 65 hours flight time in the last three months.

"My job once the plane gets airborne," Miss Alverson said, "is to sit near a window aft and check for any planes coming at us."

The two belong to a training squadron and the aircraft are unarmed. The Orion, however, is capable of carrying depth bombs, rockets and torpedoes.

A Navy spokesman says the female "crewpersons" are prohibited by law from holding combat jobs. But if the law changes, they could be on the lookout for subs while flying armed planes from Moffett, headquarters for the Pacific antisubmarine warfare patrol force.

It's not easy to become a qualified observer and the women had to undergo rigorous written and in-flight testing.

The in-flight phase of their examination ranged from ditching and bail out procedures to emergency decompression and fire drills.

Their duties begin even before the aircraft, with its crew of five, plus two trainees, roars down the runway. They are responsible for checking emergency oxygen supplies and antenna wires to be sure they are operating before takeoff.

"BASICALLY, I think a woman can do what jobs a man can do," Miss Alverson said. But she admitted there were some tasks "that required a man's strength."

One of her duties, she said laughingly, is taking care of the plane's coffee pot even though hers is not a "coffee, tea, or milk" job.

"We have to make sure the pot is on board and those pots are really heavy."

The plane has two observers so Miss Alverson normally works with an all-male crew. She and Miss Kokes have only flown together on one flight.

"I get along fine with the guys," she said. "I just treat them like brothers."

Jerry Newman, a second class petty officer, says he likes working with the women.

"A lot of guys have negative attitudes about the service and flying," said Newman, 27, a radio operator from Richmond, Ind. "Guys tend to slack off sometimes but these two really throw themselves into the job."

Party Will Observe Reverend's Birthday

By MOLLY MARIN

The Rev. Stephen Reginald Hammond of Mill Valley will be honored at a party Saturday to celebrate his 90th birthday. The party will be held in the home of his son, the Rev. David Murray Hammond in Mill Valley, rector of the Church of Our Saviour in Mill Valley, served by his father prior to his retirement in 1956.

Among the 35 guests will be Mrs. Hammond and the couple's sons Dr. Harry Reginald Hammond of Fairfax, the Revs. W. Reid Hammond of Berkeley, Frederick C. Hammond of San Diego, their daughter, Mrs. Helen Biggers of La Puente and their daughter-in-law, Mrs. Keith Hammond of Ventura, widow of another son who served as an Episcopal minister.

Born in Guilford, Surrey, England, on March 14, 1883, Reverend Hammond was reared in Canada and came to the United States in 1927 to serve as rector of a church in Ventura, where the Hammonds lived for 20 years. After four years in Los Angeles they came to Mill Valley in 1951.

THE TRIP to the Orient which Susan Delaplane will conduct may be a real eye-opener.

Details are being worked out to provide an eye-lift for women travelers who opt for it. The operation, a common one in Japan, will be done by Japanese plastic surgeons. Mrs. Delaplane of Belvedere plans to leave June 18 and has arranged for stopovers at points of interest in Japan, Taiwan and Hong Kong.

NINETEEN-YEAR-OLD Toshiko Salto of Tokyo is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Robert Trieber of Belvedere this week. Her mother, a member of the World Trade Council, is a business associate of the Triebers.

Another 19-year-old woman, Joanne Hhu from Hong Kong, is the Trieber's houseguest this year while she attends California State University, San Francisco. Miss Hhu's aim is to teach biological science in Hong Kong.

MR. AND MRS. Adolph Mueller of Belvedere and their two sons, Peter and Fred, spent two weeks in Mexico in February.

First the family traveled to Mexico City to visit friends from the Muellers' Stanford University days, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Shipsey who own "Carlos and Charlie" restaurant chain in Mexico.

The Muellers visited the historic silver mining town of Taxco, which is now a national monument.

Then they went to Acapulco for deep sea fishing, tennis and beaching.

By chance, they met Mr. and Mrs. Richard McConnell of Tiburon when they isited Cuernavaca.

TELEVISION PRODUCER Fielder Cook of Kraft Television Theater and Playhouse 90 fame was houseguest of Dr. and Mrs. Eugene Kilgore of Tiburon last week.

Stopping in Marin on his way from Hollywood to his home in New York, Cook has just finished a film with Ingrid Bergman and another pilot film with an all-black cast, according to Mimi Kilgore

Designers Call Spring Wear Most Feminine

Designers say this is the most feminine spring collection they have done in years.

Dresses will be an adaptation of the shirtwaist look but softer with swingy skirts and full sleeves. Waists are gathered with a belt, sash or drawstring.

The three-piece suit outfit will include a pleated skirt, shirt and sweater jacket and coat shapes will include the flared tent, the wrap and the four-pocket trench with drawstring waist.

Like hair styles, the hat is short and small. Petite berets with short page boys, tiny brimmed cloches with short cropped hair and the turban for a neat sculptured look.

Evening wear will be subtly sexy in fabrics like silk, flowing chiffon and matte jersey. Touches will include ruffles and life-like flowers.

Dance Classes Held Saturdays

Acrobatic and tap dancing classes are being held on Saturdays at 1 and 2 p.m. at the Almonte Hall in Mill Valley.

Classes are for beginners, intermediates and advanced students of all ages, according to the teacher, Miss Love (Goldman.

Pierre Bitterer: Instant Gourmet

By JOAN LISETOR

Marin's answer to the Galloping Gourmet is the Instant Gourmet, Pierre Bitterer of San Rafael.

Bitterer has been sipping wine as he gives his instant gourmet cooking lessons at the Marin Jewish Community Center for four years. The flair he has developed he hopes will be syndicated into a television series. The producers are looking for sponsors, and, according to Bitterer, it is a $250,000 project.

In the meantime the chef will continue his instruction for groups of about 20 at the center, who, as he makes sauted veal and cucumber dishes, ask questions such as, "How much salt?"

"Some of my students never boiled water before," Bitterer explained. "Ninety per cent of them will cook what they learned in class for their husbands tonight."

Bitterer calls it instant gourmet because instead of starting with the basics, like brown sauce, which he says takes three days to make and isn't much better than ready-made, he is trying to teach the American housewife to use the most convenient methods.

"The most important thing in cooking is to have all of the ingredients ready," he said.

Demonstrating for a class he purposely omitted oil from the dough for apple strudel. He did it to show the women how to make an adjustment if they make a mistake, he said.

Bitterer's two favorite ingredients are monosodium glutamate because it "brings out the individual flavor in each food," and sweet butter, because it "doesn't detract from other foods with a chemical taste."

Bitterer uses a butane gas unit to demonstrate during classes, the same unit he brings to the table when he works as a chef. He has owned restaurants and been a maitre d' in several Marin and San Francisco locations. His Cafe Pierre in the Hotel Mark Hopkins in San Francisco closed recently, but come August he will open another restaurant in the hotel. He is off to Europe next month to purchase china, silver and select wines.

"The restaurant will just seat 60 and be very exclusive. I am going to make it like Lasserre in Paris, which I think is the finest restaurant in the world," he said. "The restaurant will not have candles. I don't like it when you can't read the menu or see the food. Your mother-in-law could be sitting next to you and you wouldn't know it. I don't mean bright lights, but you should be able to recognize the people and the food."

Booths are another no-no in the French style of dining, according to Bitterer.

Bitterer never serves more than two ounces of meat, he said.

"Portions should be small but good. A Frenchman never over-eats. He saves the best part for after dinner," the Frenchman said.

Cropped Hair Styles, Page Boy May Aid Hat Industry

By DIANA LOERCHER

NEW YORK — When hat and hair are at odds, it's the head that suffers. Hat designers of the 1960s witnessed with a mounting sense of horror the eruptions of beehives and bouffants, on which hats could find at best an unlikely and uncomfortable perch.

The young people developed a penchant for long straight hair and the uncluttered natural look, which relegated hats even further into oblivion.

With heroic optimism the Millinery Institute quaveringly continued to announce "the return of the hat," but visibility failed to lend credibility to their predictions. Like members of an endangered species forced into ever smaller patches of terrain, hats put in only fleeting appearances at such preserves as ladies luncheons, bridge tournaments, and weddings.

Still, the '70s renaissance of the '50s, with its emphasis on traditional suits and dresses, does hold out some promise for the proliferation of hats. Another auspicious sign is the current fashionability of short, close-cropped hair styles and of the page boy, both of which are particularly compatible with hats.

A CLUTCH of multi-colored spring flowers trim the side of this yellow and white straw hat by Mr. John Jr. It has a cool summer look with its off-the-face shape.

This season there is a stress on casual hats, which can be worn with pants and other daytime wear. Most popular are snappy, snug caps, inspired by tennis and newsboy hats, and soft, floppy-brimmed picture hats, all in fabrics such as denim, poplin, felt, jersey and gingham.

Straws also abound in both sporty and dressier styles. Among the most charming are the peek-a-boos, which cast a romantic filigree of light and shadow over the wearer's face. Many of the straws are shiny, wide-brimmed, and tailored, with a minimum of Carmen Miranda garnishes.

There are a few cloches to be seen (Julie Nixon Eisenhower recently purchased a small-brimmed one in coral felt from Irene of New York). Giving a similar impression of neat sophistication is the turban, also ideal camouflage for the devastated coiffure. (Mrs. Richard Nixon acquired a turquoise sheer wool wrap turban from the same source.)

"Patisserie" pastels are the spring season's most popular colors, but for those who find them too cloying there are enough naturals and navys to go around.

A New Look These Days On Antisub Plane Crews

By JAMES O. CLIFFORD

MOFFETT FIELD, Calif. (UPI) — The Navy air arm's historic battle cry of "sighted sub, sank same" isn't about to be sung out in soprano — yet.

Navy anti-submarine planes flying the Pacific out of this Naval Air Station south of San Francisco have a new look these days: female crew members.

Carol Kokes, 20, of Hay Springs, Neb., and Lee Alverson, 22, of East Tawas, Mich., are the first women crew members ever to fly on the anti-submarine Orion P-3's.

Both are qualified observes, a former bastion of male supremacy.

THE WOMEN, both third class petty officers, have logged over 65 hours flight time in the last three months.

"My job once the plane gets airborne," Miss Alverson said, "is to sit near a window aft and check for any planes coming at us."

The two belong to a training squadron and the aircraft are unarmed. The Orion, however, is capable of carrying depth bombs, rockets and torpedoes.

A Navy spokesman says the female "crewpersons" are prohibited by law from holding combat jobs. But if the law changes, they could be on the lookout for subs while flying armed planes from Moffett, headquarters for the Pacific antisubmarine warfare patrol force.

It's not easy to become a qualified observer and the women had to undergo rigorous written and in-flight testing.

The in-flight phase of their examination ranged from ditching and bail out procedures to emergency decompression and fire drills.

Their duties begin even before the aircraft, with its crew of five, plus two trainees, roars down the runway. They are responsible for checking emergency oxygen supplies and antenna wires to be sure they are operating before takeoff.

"BASICALLY, I think a woman can do what jobs a man can do," Miss Alverson said. But she admitted there were some tasks "that required a man's strength."

One of her duties, she said laughingly, is taking care of the plane's coffee pot even though hers is not a "coffee, tea, or milk" job.

"We have to make sure the pot is on board and those pots are really heavy."

The plane has two observers so Miss Alverson normally works with an all-male crew. She and Miss Kokes have only flown together on one flight.

"I get along fine with the guys," she said. "I just treat them like brothers."

Jerry Newman, a second class petty officer, says he likes working with the women.

"A lot of guys have negative attitudes about the service and flying," said Newman, 27, a radio operator from Richmond, Ind. "Guys tend to slack off sometimes but these two really throw themselves into the job."

Student Grading Of Professors Works Well At One University

RAP:

You asked whether "teacher evaluation" by students had merit.

At our university, it's done regularly, and I believe it has upgraded teaching methods. The professors profit by learning their weak points and feel good about the plus marks they receive, too. For example, if three-fourths of the class agrees the instructor moves too fast and doesn't take time to explain, he revises his approach somewhat.

One of our profs, however, throws the evaluation sheets in the wastebasket. Says they're wastes of time. He is the poorest teacher in our section. In fact, he knows less about English literature than do some of his students. Yet he refuses to be graded by a "bunch of dummies."

I think student grading of instructors (especially at the college level) should be made mandatory. Then the grades could be fed to a computer and not only the teachers but the administrators would receive the results. Only poor instructors would vote against this innovation. — HUMANITIES MAJOR

H.M.:

Administrators might vote against it too: colleges and universities are already snowed under by the "paper blizzard." Think of the extra clerical work! — HELEN

H.M.:

Our mail on "student evaluation of teachers" went about four to one against. The argument (from both sides of the desk) was that tough teachers were often unpopular and might be graded down, even though they turned out the best-prepared students.

(I still kinda like the idea, but not on a mandatory basis.) — SUE

HELEN AND SUE:

I'm a person who likes change. Old clothes bore me. I don't enjoy staying at one job over two years — but I don't quit until I have something better. Even apartments: I start looking around after about six months in one place. And I darn sure wouldn't stay in one city the rest of my life. I'm 22 and restless.

For these reasons, my girl says I'm a poor marriage risk. She thinks I'd be changing wives as often as I change my life style. She has me half convinced, but not in the way she expects: I think I'll remain a bachelor, as I couldn't conform to her stay-put ways.

Is it true that my kind of person is not husband material? — MOVING ON AND UP

M.O.A.U.:

You left out one important thing: do you tire of the "same old" people, too? If you establish lasting relationships — and really want marriage — I don't think your changeability in other areas would matter. Who isn't restless at age 22? — SUE

DEAR MOVING:

But —find a girl who has shallow roots, too. You'd never make it with "Miss Stay-Put" — unless one of you changed. — HELEN

RAP:

I'd like to warn teenage girls who enter national beauty contests. Be sure you are with a reputable organization like Miss American Teen-ager (which you wrote about in January). It charges nothing of the girls, and the prizes are great. Not so with some of the newer spin-offs!

I entered one of those contests, and discovered it was mostly for the profit of the organizers. They told me there was no entry fee but, after I registered, I was asked to either pay $100, or get businessmen to buy $100 worth of ads for the contest program they publish. I don't know how much more they would have gouged from me but, as you can guess, I didn't go on to the "national finals."

My advice: stay with the well-known contests that appear on network television. And if any teen "national" outfit asks a girl for money —bow out fast. In fact, she should turn her information over to the attorney general — ALMOST A SUCKER

PARENT AND CHILD

Time For Unhappiness On Grading

By CYNTHIA PARSONS
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

It's about this time each year that parents discover how dissatisfied they are with the type of report cards used by the schools that their children attend. It may surprise some parents to discover that there are almost as many parents dissatisfied with report cards which include comments from each teacher as there are families unhappy with numerical or letter-grade classifications.

When one second grader, who does not get letter grades on work done in school or on quarterly reports, learned that a friend going to a different school got "grades on everything," he was shocked. "Why that's not right. You're just starting out in school and they should not give you grades 'til you are way older."

There has been a trend in the United States toward the written teacher comment in place of letter or numerical grades. Generally this is confined to elementary grades, with few exceptions in secondary schools.

MANY OF the schools in England using the integrated school day and family grouping, sometimes called open classrooms in the United States, don't give any written grades to the children from one year to the next. The teacher may make an occasion to talk with the parents and tell them how their child is progressing in his work. This progress report is in regard to how well the teacher thinks that child, individually, should be performing. It is in no way a comparison among children of the same age.

Many teachers in the United States who have to write a paragraph about each child's work three or four times a year will say that such a chore is almost meaningless. Time does not permit a full discussion of a child's interest and work, hence the few sentences are merely cliches. They generally don't tell a parent anything about a student's understanding of his subject; instead they tend to describe behavior and attitude.

Such phrases as "Billy concentrated more this period during arithmetic lessons," or "Helen has done poorly this period in social studies because she's been lazy," don't give parents a clue about Billy and his ability to add, subtract, multiply and divide. They certainly don't tell the parents what Helen has learned about the early settlers in North America or British rule in India.

Opponents of letter grades argue that not much is learned either from giving Billy a "B" in arithmetic and Helen a "C" in social studies.

What, then, is to be done so that parents have a report about what their children are learning? The answer just may be for each parent to come to school at least twice a year and talk with every teacher a child has, in high school as well as elementary school. In many rural areas, as well as in large cities, adjustment will have to be made so that working parents can have appointments at their convenience — either on Saturdays or designated evenings.

This type of report gives parents an opportunity to get beyond the cliche, beyond the superficial analysis. It gives the teacher an opportunity to find out what kind of help the pupil is getting from home, and what compensatory steps need to be taken to provide what may not be readily available. The children, for example, who live close enough to a public library to use its resources, have a distinct advantage over those students whose homes can't provide good encyclopediasand other important reference materials.

IF TEACHERS were made dramatically aware that the majority of their pupils did not have access to rich library resources for homework assignments and special outside study, they might either give different homework or provide the children with access to the school library at convenient times. But without teacher-parent conferences, such a need might not surface at all.

Even if a school now provides written comments on report cards, parents might well ask also for conference time. It might be a Parent-Teacher Association project to see that every parent is able to get to school at least twice a year by providing transportation.

It's true that many teachers prefer dealing with parents "in absentia." But parents who work for understanding from mutual concern can break down this resistance, and can find out what they need to know about how well the school is providing for their child at the same time that they find out how well their child is responding to what is offered at school.

Emotions Threaten Health And Cause Physical Ills

Anger, fear, frustration and worry that is bottled up inside can threaten health and lead to a variety of symptoms including physical ones like headaches or digestive distress, warns a report by Metropolitan Life Insurance Co.

People feel pain just as intensely whether the cause is physical or emotional and failure to seek professional diagnosis and advice can and often does lead to more serious difficulty later on, the report continued.

More and more doctors, said Metropolitan Life, are aware of the connection between certain physical ailments and the emotions. Sometimes just talking over problems fully and freely with a sympathetic friend can help. And parents can practice an important bit of preventative medicine by helping their children to be in touch with their own feelings and to express their emotions constructively.

Suggestions for relieving the tensions of everyday life: balance work with play, get enough sleep and rest, work off tensions with physical exercise, talk out troubles, learn to accept what you cannot change and have regular checkups.

CMA Makes A Pitch For Proper Diet

A well-balanced diet, one that includes proteins such as meat and fish, dairy products, vegetables and fruit and breads and cereals will provide more nutrition than can be gained through supplementary vitamins, says the California Medical Association.

In terms of your health, there is no difference between the vitamins you get in these foods and those you buy in the drugstore or health food store, the CMA Health Tips newsletter reported.

Supplementary vitamins are harmless although extravagant, they said, and there is definite evidence of harmful effects from excess of Vitamins A and D.

A great deal of mythology is being circulated concerning the magical effects on sex life, fertility and mental acuity obtained by fortifying yourself with Vitamin E. The CMA said that while there is a great deal that medical science still seeks to find out about some of the lesser known vitamins such as E, it is so widely distributed in the foods you normally eat that it is virtually impossible to provoke a Vitamin E deficiency.

AT LAST THE STORY'S OUT! Why, you almost never see a wrinkle on a Hollywood Model!
The 3-Minute Miracle That Can Change Your Life!
Actually makes wrinkles, lines and crowsfeet disappear from sight for up to 6 to 8 hours or longer...
with Sensational Star-Skin
Presenting Star Skin (The Professional Temporary Wrinkle Remover) that in less than 3 minutes time can make you look up to 10 to 15 years younger.
Ever wonder why nowadays models and movie personalities seem to look 10 to 15 years younger than they really are? Plastic surgery you say? Not NECESSARILY! Not for the past few years that is . . . and don't let anyone ever tell you differently! For, what you are about to discover is the simple 3 minute trick (used by models, movie and TV personalities) that can take years off your appearance . . . make lines and furrows disappear from sight . . . actually make wrinkles vanish completely for up to 6 to 8 hours at a time . . . and it's as simple as washing your face.
NOT A MAKE-UP, NOT A COVER UP, BUT A THRILLINGLY FAST, AMAZINGLY EFFECTIVE TEMPORARY WRINKLE REMOVER! You see, until a few years ago, the only way a Hollywood model could possibly retain that vibrant glow of youth was through the use of plastic surgery, BUT THEN came news of an exciting breakthrough: News of a wondrous compound, that when applied to lines, wrinkles, crows-feet or even deep haggard-looking circles under the eyes. ACTUALLY MAKES THEM DISAPPEAR FROM SIGHT FOR 6, 7, EVEN 8 HOURS AT A TIME. (Yes, actually fades them away . . . in just minutes!) Not a makeup or cover-up that tries desperately to hide and conceal these lines and signs of age. Not a hormone or some harsh chemical compound (why it is so safe and gentle you can use it as much as 3 times a day, and as often as you like) — this temporary wrinkle remover, called Star Skin is now available in this city for you to try . . . and entirely at our expense.
JUST 2 DROPS. APPLIED IN 3 MINUTES . . . AND YOU GROW 10 TO 15 YEARS YOUNGER-LOOKING . . . INSTANTLY! To apply, simply take a drop or two on the tips of your fingers and gently pat over lines, wrinkles, crows-feet, or any other area of the face or neck you wish to make smoother, softer, firmer-looking. Then wait 3 minutes . . . until your skin revitalizes its appearance . . . takes on its youth-giving effects . . . until Star Skin vanishes from sight. Now go ahead and apply your regular makeup . . . your Star Skin treatment is as simple as that.
And remember, because Star Skin is completely safe and gentle . . . you use it once in the morning, then once again in the evening . . . to keep yourself perpetually looking younger.
So for that look of youth . . . for the most thrilling experience you have ever had before your very own mirror . . . the sheer wonder of watching yourself grow 10 to 15 years younger-looking before your very own eyes . . . visit our cosmetic department tomorrow.

Student Grading Of Professors Works Well At One University

RAP:

You asked whether "teacher evaluation" by students had merit.

At our university, it's done regularly, and I believe it has upgraded teaching methods. The professors profit by learning their weak points and feel good about the plus marks they receive, too. For example, if three-fourths of the class agrees the instructor moves too fast and doesn't take time to explain, he revises his approach somewhat.

One of our profs, however, throws the evaluation sheets in the wastebasket. Says they're wastes of time. He is the poorest teacher in our section. In fact, he knows less about English literature than do some of his students. Yet he refuses to be graded by a "bunch of dummies."

I think student grading of instructors (especially at the college level) should be made mandatory. Then the grades could be fed to a computer and not only the teachers but the administrators would receive the results. Only poor instructors would vote against this innovation. — HUMANITIES MAJOR

H.M.:

Administrators might vote against it too: colleges and universities are already snowed under by the "paper blizzard." Think of the extra clerical work! — HELEN

H.M.:

Our mail on "student evaluation of teachers" went about four to one against. The argument (from both sides of the desk) was that tough teachers were often unpopular and might be graded down, even though they turned out the best-prepared students.

(I still kinda like the idea, but not on a mandatory basis.) — SUE

HELEN AND SUE:

I'm a person who likes change. Old clothes bore me. I don't enjoy staying at one job over two years — but I don't quit until I have something better. Even apartments: I start looking around after about six months in one place. And I darn sure wouldn't stay in one city the rest of my life. I'm 22 and restless.

For these reasons, my girl says I'm a poor marriage risk. She thinks I'd be changing wives as often as I change my life style. She has me half convinced, but not in the way she expects: I think I'll remain a bachelor, as I couldn't conform to her stay-put ways.

Is it true that my kind of person is not husband material? — MOVING ON AND UP

M.O.A.U.:

You left out one important thing:do you tire of the "same old" people, too? If you establish lasting relationships — and really want marriage — I don't think your changeability in other areas would matter. Who isn't restless at age 22? — SUE

DEAR MOVING:

But —find a girl who has shallow roots, too. You'd never make it with "Miss Stay-Put" — unless one of you changed. — HELEN

RAP:

I'd like to warn teenage girls who enter national beauty contests. Be sure you are with a reputable organization like Miss American Teen-ager (which you wrote about in January). It charges nothing of the girls, and the prizes are great. Not so with some of the newer spin-offs!

I entered one of those contests, and discovered it was mostly for the profit of the organizers. They told me there was no entry fee but, after I registered, I was asked to either pay $100, or get businessmen to buy $100 worth of ads for the contest program they publish. I don't know how much more they would have gouged from me but, as you can guess, I didn't go on to the "national finals."

My advice: stay with the well-known contests that appear on network television. And if any teen "national" outfit asks a girl for money —bow out fast. In fact, she should turn her information over to the attorney general — ALMOST A SUCKER

Presenting Star Skin (The Professional Temporary Wrinkle Remover) that in less than 3 minutes time can make you look up to 10 to 15 years younger.
Ever wonder why nowadays models and movie personalities seem to look 10 to 15 years younger than they really are? Plastic surgery you say? Not NECESSARILY! Not for the past few years that is . . . and don't let anyone ever tell you differently! For, what you are about to discover is the simple 3 minute trick (used by models, movie and TV personalities) that can take years off your appearance . . . make lines and furrows disappear from sight . . . actually make wrinkles vanish completely for up to 6 to 8 hours at a time . . . and it's as simple as washing your face.
NOT A MAKE-UP, NOT A COVER UP, BUT A THRILLINGLY FAST, AMAZINGLY EFFECTIVE TEMPORARY WRINKLE REMOVER! You see, until a few years ago, the only way a Hollywood model could possibly retain that vibrant glow of youth was through the use of plastic surgery, BUT THEN came news of an exciting breakthrough. News of a wondrous compound, that when applied to lines, wrinkles, crows-feet or even deep haggard-looking circles under the eyes. ACTUALLY MAKES THEM DISAPPEAR FROM SIGHT FOR 6, 7, EVEN 8 HOURS AT A TIME. (Yes, actually fades them away . . . in just minutes!) Not a makeup or cover-up that tries desperately to hide and conceal these lines and signs of age. Not a hormone or some harsh chemical compound (why it is so safe and gentle you can use it as much as 3 times a day, and as often as you like) – this temporary wrinkle remover, called Star Skin is now available in this city for you to try . . . and entirely at our expense.
JUST 2 DROPS. APPLIED IN 3 MINUTES . . . AND YOU GROW 10 TO 15 YEARS YOUNGER-LOOKING . . . INSTANTLY! To apply, simply take a drop or two on the tips of your fingers and gently pat over lines, wrinkles, crows-feet, or any other area of the face or neck you wish to make smoother, softer, firmer-looking. Then wait 3 minutes . . . until your skin revitalizes its appearance . . . takes on its youth-giving effects . . . until Star Skin vanishes from sight. Now go ahead and apply your regular makeup . . . your Star Skin treatment is as simple as that.
And remember, because Star Skin is completely safe and gentle . . . you use it once in the morning, then once again in the evening . . . to keep yourself perpetually looking younger.
So for that look of youth . . . for the most thrilling experience you have ever had before your very own mirror . . . the sheer wonder of watching yourself grow 10 to 15 years younger-looking before your very own eyes . . . visit our cosmetic department tomorrow.

Mrs. Jack Heringer Is President Of Sausalito Police Wives Unit

MRS. JACK L. HERINGER
Heads Police Wives

Mrs. Jack L. Heringer of Petaluma is the new president of the Sausalito Police Wives Auxiliary this year.

Cheryl Heringer is a charter member of the auxiliary, which was formed two years ago to promote friendly relationships among police department wives and good community relations.

Mrs. Heringer is also secretary of the Petaluma Valley Homeowners Association and serves on the mayor's committee to restore the former Christian Church of Petaluma for use as a community center.

Mrs. Heringer is a graduate of West Linn High School in West Linn, Ore., and attended Portland College and Santa Rosa Junior College.

She and her husband have lived in Petaluma for two years, living in Marin for the previous seven years. They have two children, Yvette Dion, 9 and Jacie Lee, 2. Cheryl Heringer is interested in sewing, bicycling, gardening and reading, but likes to devote much time to community activities.

She said that the auxiliary will select a service project later in the year and plans a spaghetti dinner, family picnic and holiday parties.

Other auxiliary officers fr the year are Mmes. Blake Hoffman, vice president; Stephen Willis, secretary; Robert Klein, treasurer; James Wright, publicity and historian; and Gary Verdi, sunshine chairman.

Resolution Asks An End To School Book Sex Bias

A resolution calling for an end to sex role bias in textbooks has originated in Marin and will be submitted to the state convention f the California Congress of Parents and Teachers in San Diego in May for a vote.

The resolution came from the Henry C. Hall School Parent-Teacher Association of Larkspur, according to Mrs. Dallas Wagner of San Rafael, president of the 14th District P-TA, who submitted it to the state resolution committee.

It calls for awareness of sex role stereotypes in education,especially in textbooks, and encourages publishers to eliminate sex role bias and urges the State Department of Education to be aware of the materials being put out to schools with regard to such bias, Mrs. Wagner said.

"It is a reinforcing of awareness that we believe the state and county schools offices already have," she said.

Feminist and other women's organizations have called attention to sex role stereotyping for girls and women in textbooks for the past several years, pointing out in particular the passive roles assigned to girls and women and the active, exploring roles given to boys and men in texts.

The state P-TA meeting will be held in San Diego May 2 to 4. The Henry C. Hall unit resolution is the only resolution submitted through the 14th District P-TA which covers Marin and Sonoma counties.

Information On Foster Homes Due

An information day on foster care homes will be held Saturday at 10 a.m. at the Discovery Day School in Mill Valley.

A panel of foster families including foster children will speak and luncheon will be served at noon. Questions about foster parents and children will be answered by participants.

Some 60 children are currently in foster placement under the auspices of the Marin County Probation Department, according to Margaret Tomczak of community resource development, and homes are needed now for teen-agers.

Another community information day program on foster parents and children is scheduled for San Anselmo on April 14.

Recruitment is handled by the Volunteer Bureau of Marin, 725 A Street, San Rafael.

Marriages Remaining On Uptrend

NEW YORK (UPI) — Despite the new lovestyles — living together without benefit of marriage certificate — the number of marriages continues a 25-year upward trend in the United States.

"And they will continue to do so," say market analysts at Modern Bride, basing their projections on data from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

"By 1975, for example, there will be 700,000 more marriages than in 1965 — an increase of 40 per cent in 10 years.

About four out of five of these marriages are first marriages."

The report shows that there are around 2.2 million marriages a year in the United States. Included are the approximately 1.7 million first marriages.

The bridal market is $7 billion a year big. The market in 1970 accounted for $5 billion in retail sales, plus $2 billion more for expenses connected with the wedding, reception and honeymoon.

THE BROADWAY SCENE

Classy Little Musical Makes It Big

By JOHN BEAUFORT
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

NEW YORK — "A Little Night Music" begins with the solo entrance of a very large baritone to preside over a very small piano. At least in the musical sense, neither is overly forte. Soon, the baritone is joined by four other singers. The sonorities of the elegantly costumed quintet and the tinkle of the pretty piano establish the tone and mood for the classy operetta-style musical Harold Prince has brought to the Shubert Theater.

The rueful turn-of-the-century comedy about amorous dalliance and ardent devotion was borrowed from Ingmar Bergman's small 1955 movie classic, "Smiles of a Summer Night." The Hugh Wheeler-Stephen Sonheim version does not, at first viewing, resemble a classic in the "My Fair Lady" or "Fiddler on the Roof" sense. It is instead a leisurely, lyrically nimble, musically piquant diversion. It contrasts sharply with the chrome-edge tensions of Prince's "Company" and the gaudy retrospection of his "Follies."

Once more, Boris Aronson's setting does much to evoke and sustain the atmosphere of a Prince production. Aronson's screening birch groves and his exterior of a 19th Century Swedish country mansion — revealed in a startling theatrical stroke — rise romantically from a carpet of green.

The scenery is handsomely complemented by Florence Klotz's elegant and picturesque costumes. Tharon Musser bathes everything in luminous light and twilight; don't overlook the real candles in the banquet scene.

The resulting aura suits an ironically philosophical comedy about the pursuits of love and the foolishness of lovers. Set tripping by Sondheim, their hearts beat naturally in three-quarter time, a tempo congenial to Patricia Birch's occasional choreography.

"A Little Night Music" comprises a fragile web of interwoven plots. The Wheeler version loses the subtlety and fastidious elegance of the original; otherwise, Mr. Wheeler has handled the scenario adroitly, considering the difficulties involved.

The intrigues of this summer night principally concern a cynical, middle-aged lawyer (Len Cariou) and his very pretty, very young wife (Victoria Mallory); the lawyer's idealistic son (Mark Lambert), an intense seminarian ardently in love with his stepmother; a provincial touring star (Glynis Johns), whom the lawyer once loved; the star's current lover, a noodleheaded dragoon (Laurence Guittard); and the dragoon's beautiful, neglected wife (Patricia Elliott).

Having spent a longish first act establishing relationships, "A Little Night Music" assembles the matched and mismatched at the country estate of the actress's mother. A former courtesan, she disdains the gaucheries of an upstart age, and she does it in the grand Hermione Gingold manner. As the haughty, naughty grandmama, Miss Gingold delivers her lines with gilt-edged gusto and scoopful relish; in this era of nervously devalued dollars, we should all be grateful for the durable Gingold standard.

Miss Johns glisters amusingly as the fading but still glamorous star and she summons a wistful pathos for "Send in the Clowns." As the silly lawyer, Cariou demonstrates that the legal mind is no match for young love.

The Misses Mallory and Elliott are notably pretty and sing well. Guittard supplies the right air of fustian fury for the philandering dragoon. The cast as a whole is engaging and attractive even though the performance is not altogether consistent in style.

The pleasures of "A Little Night Music" are for the most part relaxing rather than stirring. It is a musical for those who delight in Sondheim's contrapuntal felicities and witty rhyming (the most ingenious since Cole Porter's, judging from first-night response). "A Weekend in the Country," "You Must Meet My Wife," and "The Miller's Son" (sung by D. Jamin-Bartlett) seemed to arouse the most enthusiasm.

At its best, the new show at the Shubert is wreathed in the smiles of a Broadway night.

WILLIAM LARKINS JR.
Outstanding senior

Miss Keating has been a member of the California Scholarship Federation and Honor Crew all four years of high school. She also was awarded the Daughters of the American Revolution good citizenship award.

In addition to these honors, she has been student body president, class vice president, on the Representative Assembly and chairman of the coordinating committee for the School-Within-A-School program.

She also has done summer tutoring, helped in political campaigns and worked with Young Men's Christian Association youth groups. She plans to attend University of California, Santa Cruz.

Young Larkins also has been a California Scholarship Federation member for four years and has won a National Merit Scholarship, California Scholarship, Pacific Gas and Electric Co. scholarship, Elks Leadership award and was named best actor in Marin Catholic dramatic arts.

He has been class treasurer, student body treasurer and was student body president in his senior year.

He also has participated in music, sports, dramatics and journalism activities at the school. Out-of-school, he has participated in YMCA, Marin County Youth Commission, Hike-for-Help, Walk for Cerebral Palsy and other such activities.

He plans to attend either Stanford University or the University of California.

Second place winners were Lisa Ann Bollen, a senior at Terra Linda High School, and Corwin J. Hull, a senior at Redwood High School. They received $50 each.

Third places went to Barbara Wendy Hill of San Domenico School and Mark Stewart Ward of Terra Linda High School. Their awards were $25.

Prizes were awarded on the basis of scholarship, extracurricular activities, personality, leadership, perseverance, resourcefulness and financial need.

Special "Maple Lawn Awards" of $50 were given to Diane Bessee of San Rafael High School and to Hull.

Organized Crime Said Bank Threat

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The banking industry should look on organized crime, which is spending billions in illegal booty to infiltrate legitimate business, as a competitor, an American Bankers Association conference was warned yesterday.

Infiltration into legitimate business is the major development in organized crime in the last 10 years, said Eugene T. Rossides, former assistant Treasury secretary and now a Washington lawyer.

He urged the bankers to work with police and honest business customers to fight that well-financed move into the mainstream of commerce.

The fight against organized crime, now operating on an international scale with money flowing into numbered Swiss bank accounts is a tough one, he said.

Rossides left the Treasury Department in January after serving four years as assistant secretary supervising Customs, Secret Service, and other enforcement agencies. He was a U.S. representative on Interpol, the international agency cooperating in exchange of information on crime operations.

He said American bankers are hurt by the unfair tactics syndicate-controlled businesses employ against legitimate firms who are bank customers.

"The syndicate-controlled business can arrange to block or delay a competitors flow of needed supplies, instigate labor trouble, or foul up trucking and transportation services," Rossides said.

He said that bankers and their honest customers should develop contact and cooperation with law enforcement agencies working on organized crime and banks should support community councils in developing techniques to combat organized crime.

Rossides said syndicate operators like to move into businesses with a lot of cash flow from which they can skim their illegal take.

Among these, he said, are coin vending machines, gambling casinos, and hotels and restaurants. He said they also move in on trucking and transportation, construction, and waste disposal firms.

In a time of credit crunch, syndicates can use loan sharking to drive businesses into default and thereby take over. They can use bankruptcy to hide their own illegal profits from tax investigators, he said.

"The idea that organized crime is controlled by Mafia Italians is a myth, Rossides said.

"The Mafia is only a part of organized crime. It knows no ethnic or racial barriers. The leadership includes Irish, Jews, and all nationalities.

Rossides declared he did not know of any major metropolitan area in the nation where organized crime was not operating in some degree.

He said there is no accurate estimate on the annual income of crime operations. But the take on gambling alone has been estimated at from $6 billion to $7 billion a year, he said.

Strep Infection Leading Disease

Streptococcus infection, accounting for a reported 59 cases, was the most prevalent communicable disease in Marin County last week, according to Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, Marin County health officer.

There were also 22 cases of gonorrhea, one case each of syphilis, tuberculosis and salmonella and seven cases of infectious hepatitis, she said.

Classy Little Musical Makes It Big

By JOHN BEAUFORT
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

NEW YORK — "A Little Night Music" begins with the solo entrance of a very large baritone to preside over a very small piano. At least in the musical sense, neither is overly forte. Soon, the baritone is joined by four other singers. The sonorities of the elegantly costumed quintet and the tinkle of the pretty piano establish the tone and mood for the classy operetta-style musical Harold Prince has brought to the Shubert Theater.

The rueful turn-of-the-century comedy about amorous dalliance and ardent devotion was borrowed from Ingmar Bergman's small 1955 movie classic, "Smiles of a Summer Night." The Hugh Wheeler-Stephen Sonheim version does not, at first viewing, resemble a classic in the "My Fair Lady" or "Fiddler on the Roof" sense. It is instead a leisurely, lyrically nimble, musically piquant diversion. It contrasts sharply with the chrome-edge tensions of Prince's "Company" and the gaudy retrospection of his "Follies."

Once more, Boris Aronson's setting does much to evoke and sustain the atmosphere of a Prince production. Aronson's screening birch groves and his exterior of a 19th Century Swedish country mansion — revealed in a startling theatrical stroke — rise romantically from a carpet of green.

The scenery is handsomely complemented by Florence Klotz's elegant and picturesque costumes. Tharon Musser bathes everything in luminous light and twilight; don't overlook the real candles in the banquet scene.

The resulting aura suits an ironically philosophical comedy about the pursuits of love and the foolishness of lovers. Set tripping by Sondheim, their hearts beat naturally in three-quarter time, a tempo congenial to Patricia Birch's occasional choreography.

"A Little Night Music" comprises a fragile web of interwoven plots. The Wheeler version loses the subtlety and fastidious elegance of the original; otherwise, Mr. Wheeler has handled the scenario adroitly, considering the difficulties involved.

The intrigues of this summer night principally concern a cynical, middle-aged lawyer (Len Cariou) and his very pretty, very young wife (Victoria Mallory); the lawyer's idealistic son (Mark Lambert), an intense seminarian ardently in love with his stepmother; a provincial touring star (Glynis Johns), whom the lawyer once loved; the star's current lover, a noodleheaded dragoon (Laurence Guittard); and the dragoon's beautiful, neglected wife (Patricia Elliott).

Having spent a longish first act establishing relationships, "A Little Night Music" assembles the matched and mismatched at the country estate of the actress's mother. A former courtesan, she disdains the gaucheries of an upstart age, and she does it in the grand Hermione Gingold manner. As the haughty, naughty grandmama, Miss Gingold delivers her lines with gilt-edged gusto and scoopful relish; in this era of nervously devalued dollars, we should all be grateful for the durable Gingold standard.

Miss Johns glisters amusingly as the fading but still glamorous star and she summons a wistful pathos for "Send in the Clowns." As the silly lawyer, Cariou demonstrates that the legal mind is no match for young love.

The Misses Mallory and Elliott are notably pretty and sing well. Guittard supplies the right air of fustian fury for the philandering dragoon. The cast as a whole is engaging and attractive even though the performance is not altogether consistent in style.

The pleasures of "A Little Night Music" are for the most part relaxing rather than stirring. It is a musical for those who delight in Sondheim's contrapuntal felicities and witty rhyming (the most ingenious since Cole Porter's, judging from first-night response). "A Weekend in the Country," "You Must Meet My Wife," and "The Miller's Son" (sung by D. Jamin-Bartlett) seemed to arouse the most enthusiasm.

At its best, the new show at the Shubert is wreathed in the smiles of a Broadway night.

POGO STICK JUMPER UNDAUNTED

Nancy Berry, 12, had jumped about 7,000 jumps (left) when her pogo stick broke. While trying to transfer to another stick, her foot touched the ground, disqualifying her from competition. She went back to finish 11,066 jumps anyway. Undaunted, the Arlington, Ohio, girl will try again with a new stick this weekend. According to the Guiness Book of World Records, Stephan Newman, 12, of Great Yaywood, England, completed 11,052 jumps on June 27, 1971.

Antipoverty Funds May Be Extended

The Community Action Marin board was told last night federal officials may extend funding to the agency past the March 31 cut-off date previously announced.

Executive director Alfred R. Conklin III said the extension was tentatively agreed to Monday by Office of Economic Opportunity officials to provide time and money for a proper phasing out of the Marin antipoverty agency.

He said a team of officials will review agency books and records to determine how much time and money it will take to close down the agency.

Conklin said federal officials also indicated a $14,000 grant for Marin County's Senior Coordinating Council would be approved prior to the shutdown.

Exchange Club Picks New Slate

George Piazza has been elected president of the new Exchange Club of San Rafael, a service club for business and professional men, which is meeting at noon Tuesdays at the Holiday Inn in San Rafael.

Other new officers are Jeffrey McAlpin, vice president; Robert Parks, secretary, and Marshall Armstrong, treasurer. Members of the board of directors are Ray Varano, Kenneth Hardison, Robert Wooll, Edward Kadel, Albert Gambetti and Robert Kwasneski.

Report On General Plan Due Wednesday

San Rafael's citizens advisory committee will hear a report by city consultants on the general plan at 8 p.m. Wednesday in city hall, according to Tina Ferris, committee publicist.

The advisory committee has also decided to meet on the first and third Tuesday of each month at 7:30 p.m. in San Rafael High School, she reported.

France Flight Boycott Continued By Airlines

PARIS (UPI) — More than 35 airlines continued their boycott of flights into France today in the 19th day of an air traffic controllers' strike that snarled hotel reservations and jammed express trains and buses from Brussels, 200 miles away.

Only eight airlines sent flights in or out of Orly airport, guided by military air controllers who have been directing traffic over French air space during the strike by the civilian air controllers.

The majority of airlines refused to fly over France, a boycott which began after a collision Monday of two Spanish passenger liners which brought death in flames to 68 persons aboard an Iberian airlines DC9.

Orly airport officials said only 12 arrivals and 12 departures were recorded up to midday. The only companies operating were Pan American, TWA, Swiss Air, Air Algeria, Tunis Air, Jordanian Airlines, Yugoslav and Middle East airlines, officials said.

Luxury hotels reported disruption of reservations. The Plaza Athenee and the George V said they had received "many" cancellations. Other clients were late for their reserved rooms because their airliners landed in Brussels and they were being brought to Paris by bus, hotel officials said.

A reservation clerk at the George V said the delayed air passengers "are taking all of this in good humor. They are fatalistic about strikes."

Paris' two airports were virtually deserted. Travelers lined up in railway stations seeking passage to other cities.

Courses Offered In San Anselmo

A variety of courses for the young and not-so-young, ranging from a children's band to make-up techniques and antique repair for adults is being offered this Spring by the San Anselmo Parks and Recreation Department.

Classes for children include organic gardening, arts and crafts, tiny tots' activities and the magical music band.

Classes for teen-agers and adults include quilting, antique repair, yoga, drawing, belly-dancing and tennis.

More information on the recreation program, which begins this month, is available from the city's recreation office in Memorial Park. All classes will be held in Robson-Harrington Park, according to Gary S. Howell, parks and recreation director.

Volunteer Firemen Plan Annual Dance

Noato volunteer firemen will have their 42nd annual St. Patrick's Ball at 9 p.m. March 17 at the Novato Community House.

The Owls, a six-piece band, will play, and proceeds will go toward a disability insurance and sick fund for volunteers.

Ike's Grandson Unsure About Future Career

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Lt. (jg) David Eisenhower may look for a job in government or in the writing field when he is released from the Navy at the end of the month, but he has no plans to take a White House post.

Helen Smith, First Lady Pat Nixon's press secretary, said that the President's son-in-law had toyed with the idea of takng a law course but had not sought admission to any university to date.

She noted that Eisenhower's father, former Ambassador John Eisenhower, is an author, and is currently writing a book about his father, Dwight D. Eisenhower. She said that David has a "natural bent for writing."

Arrest Made In Auto Theft

San Anselmo police arrested a San Anselmo man yesterday on suspicion of auto theft because, they said, they saw him driving a car on Monday that had been reported stolen the day before.

Mark Allen Warner, 22, of 1320 San Anselmo Avenue, was booked into Marin County Jail and held in lieu of $1,000 bail to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Warner, questioned by police yesterday, led officers to a car parked in Fairfax that had been reported stolen from Los Angeles Boulevard on Sunday, according to police. Warner said he fell asleep in the car after having a few drinks and drove away the next morning thinking the vehicle had been loaned to him, police said.

College Strings Plans Concert

The College of Marin string ensemble will present a concert of Shostakovich and Schubert works at 8 p.m. March 16 at the Tamalpais in Greenbrae.

Members of the ensemble are Mary Helen Weinstein and Carolyn Thode, violin; Stephen Levintow, viola; Mary True, cello; Ken Parker, bass, and David Di Grazia, piano.

Tickets to the program, part of the College of Marin concert and lecture series, will be available at the door.

Illegitimate Son Goes To Father

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (UPI) — A young soldier won custody of his 2-year-old illegitimate son Wednesday over the objections of a county adoption agency in which the baby's teenage mother had placed it.

Daniel Lucero, 20, Pacifica, Calif., currently on active duty with the Army at Ft. Carson, Colo., won sole custody of little Anthony Lucero in a hearing before Superior Court Judge Melvin E. Cohn.

The soldier's parents Mr. and Mrs. Leo Lucero, will care for the child until he is able to transfer back to California, or win an early release from the service, said attorney George Corey.

Both parents of the baby were in high school when the child was born. Authorities prevented Lucero from marrying the mother because she was 16 and a ward of the court. So Lucero joined the Army in order to provide a stable financial support for the little boy, testimony disclosed.

The mother corresponded on a regular basis while Lucero served in Vietnam, testimony said. The soldier's parents visited the mother and baby regularly and included them in family outings.

But when Lucero came home from Vietnam last summer, the girl refused to see him. She put the baby up for adoption without his knowledge and ran away from her foster home, testimony said.

The San Mateo County home she left the baby with contended the child had been properly offered for adoption and prospective parents had been selected.

But Lucero brought court action to win his child back.

Unavailability Of Ambulance Leads To Study

The unavailability of an ambulance which made it necessary last month for a police patrol car to deliver a critically burned San Rafael woman to Marin General Hospital has led to a review of county policy of contracting with a single ambulance firm.

The county administrator's office said yesterday it is studying how and at what cost service can be improved and whether to contract with the other Marin firm, Bay Cities Ambulance Service, as well as the presently exclusive contractor, United Ambulance.

When the San Rafael woman was burned in a fire at her apartment, two United ambulances were out on calls and the third was on the Tiburon Peninsula, too distant to wait on in view of the woman's painful condition, according to police officers on the scene.

Would-Be Skyjacker Is Shot; Wife Found Slain

SPOKANE, Wash. (UPI) — A would-be hijacker was shot and captured at Spokane International Airport Wednesday after he shot an Air Force sergeant, beat a weatherman with a rifle and demanded a plane.

The man's wife was found dead of a gunshot wound in their home.

Officials said the man, identified as Larry J. Bonner, 22, of Cheney, Wash., a student at Eastern Washington State College, was hospitalized in fair condition with a severe head wound.

Police said indications were that Bonner's wife, Sharon, 21, was killed before Bonner left for the airport. How she was shot was not known.

A shotgun was found in Bonner's car at the airport, but investigators would not say whether it was the same type of weapon that killed Mrs. Bonner.

Spokane County Sheriff's deputies said Bonner drove up to the airport armed with a rifle and screamed, "Get me an airplane," as he approached Bill Keating of the National Weather Service.

Keating was struck on the head and cheek with the butt of the rifle.

Deputies said the assailant then shot T.Sgt. Buddy Miller in the arm. He was hospitalized in satisfactory condition.

Bonner then tried to invade a Northwest Airlines ticket counter, deputies said. But security officer James Worshom fired from a balcony and the slug struck Bonner behind the left ear.

·Deputies said the incident ended 10 minutes after Bonner arrived at the airport.

Agent To Pro Player Is Seeking $39,000 Fee

The agent of a professional basketball player has filed suit in Marin Superior Court to collect $39,000 in fees he claims are owed him.

R. Steven Arnold of Corte Madera claims John Mengelt, now a guard with the Detroit Pistons, owes that sum on a 1971 contract. Arnold, who now works for the World Hockey Association, said he agreed to negotiate contracts and give financial advise in return for the money.

The suit filed by San Francisco attorney Albert L. Boasberg said Mengelt was supposed to pay $6,500 in 1972, $7,500 this year, and is further obligated to pay $7,500 in 1974 and 1975 and $10,000 in 1976.

The basketball player, who was a second round draft choice when he graduated from Auburn University in 1971, was guaranteed a salary of at least $62,500 for four years, according to the suit.

He was originally signed by Cincinnati, then traded to Detroit.

Frenchman Is Seized With Boat

A 24-year-old Frenchman was seized yesterday by the U.S. Coast Guard in San Francisco Bay aboard a stolen sailboat he said he was sailing home to France.

Booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of grand theft was Claude Lemoine, who told police he was a French citizen and gave no local address. He was held in lieu of $5,000 bail to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Officers said the boat, a 40-foot yawl owned by John White, 40 Toyon Lane, Sausalito, was reported missing at 7:30 a.m. yesterday from its slip at the Sausalito Yacht Harbor.

Witnesses at the yacht harbor told police that a man with a French accent had admired the two-sailed vessel on several occasions and was seen in the area of the boat at 3 a.m. yesterday.

Design Review Law Studied In Larkspur

Amid half-jesting warnings that Larkspur may be following Tiburon down the antipetunia path, Larkspur City Councilmen last night reviewed a proposed ordinance creating a new environmental and design review board.

The ordinance was then referred to the city planning commission for a public hearing, to be followed by later public hearings before the council.

The new board would replace the defunct Architectural Review Committee. It would have sweeping powers over architectural design, landscaping and other factors "to protect the city from the effects of inharmonious, bizarre and out-of-scale developments." It would review practically all developments except new single homes, and may extend even to control over the colors used in repainting existing buildings large enough to "have a significant visual impact."

Greenbrae developer Niels J. Schultz Jr. objected to proposals for requiring a bond to assure upkeep of landscaping of large projects.

He cited a recent "Reporter's Notebook" by Independent-Journal reporter Pat Perry, which satirized Tiburon's new control that extends even to the landscaping of single homes, by telling a fable of "getting busted for planting petunias" in violation of review committee edicts.

"I'll send you each a copy" of Mrs. Perry's column, Schultz promised the coulcilmen.

The councilmen countered by singling out the Disco and Safeway stores as lacking sufficiently maintained landscaping, and called for better controls.

The new review board would be financed by charging fees equal to .05 per cent of the value listed on the building permit, to review the developer's plans.

The council adjourned to a special meeting at 7:30 p.m. Monday, for closed-session interviews of nine candidates who have applied for the proposed new review board. It would have five members.

The Larkspur City Council Also:

OPEN SPACE — Voted 4-0, with Councilmen Neil R. Brixon and Alfred J. Malvino expressing reluctance, to impose a 120-day moratorium on development of the North Ridge open space area, including Little King Mountain and the south side of Baltimore Canyon. Attorney Wallace S. Myers, representing the owners of Little King, warned against indefinitely freezing out use of the land. The vote had previously twice been delayed. Mayor William G. Fleckles was absent last night.

POUND — Formally amended the city animal control ordinance to raise impound fees to $10 for the first stray dog offense, $15 for the second and $25 for each additional offense.

APPEAL — Overruled planning commission denial of a variance for ingress and egress and parking for the Dollars 'n Sense Store, provided owner Russell Merret obtains an agreement to use property leased by the adjoining Arco station.

TEXACO — Voted 3-0 to approve architectural plans for a station at Magnolia Avenue and Doherty Drive, but withheld approval of the proposed price signs, pending their possible relocation. Councilman Robert H. Lee abstained to avoid conflict of interest; his firm designs such station.

COUNTYWIDE — Acting on previous discussions, endorsed the proposed countywide general plan, wit comments calling for modification of the housing mix goal.

DEATH TRAP — Citing recent traffic fatalities on Doyle Drive south of the Golden Gate Bridge toll plaza, wrote the state Highway Commission urging a higher priority for its improvement.

SPAN — Ordered a letter sent to the Coast Guard, asking that the Northwestern Pacific Railroad bridge over Corte Madera Creek be kept open except when trains need to cross. Boat.

MEETING — Ordered drafting of an ordinance amendment to provide that the council will have regular meetings the first and third Wednesday of each month. Councilmen after experimenting with the semimonthly sessions, said they liked the more frequent, less lengthy meetings.

SAN QUENTIN — Extended for another 120 days the development freeze on the San Quentin Peninsula, due to expire April 13.

SIGN ORDINANCE — Heard from Lee that he is recruiting a citizen committee to review the city's sign regulations, with a first meeting tentatively set for March 19 or 22.

FIRES — Introduced an ordinance amending the city fire code to require detection equipment near the kitchens of homes, and special sprinklers and alarm systems in multiple unit dwellings and motels.

CITY-COUNTY — After expressing satisfaction with an experimental one-year membership in the city-county planning council, agreed to a three-year extension of membership.

WORKSHOP — Agreed to meet at 8 p.m. Wednesday with Golden Gate Bridge District directors to work on plans for the Larkspur ferry terminal.

NOISE — Also ordered city staff to report at the Wednesday session on steps taken to quiet noisy delivery trucks making predawn deliveries to the Alpha-Beta market.

PARK NAME — Asked the park and recreation commission for comments on a letter from resident Elizabeth Bray, who proposed renaming Piper Park to Larkspur City Park.

Bay Area's Air Should Meet 1977 Standards

REDDING (UPI) — A member of the state Air Resources Board says the San Francisco Bay Area should come "very close" to meeting federal air pollution standards by 1977 without using such methods as gas rationing.

R. Robert Brattain of Pebble Beach said after Wednesday's board meeting that anti-smog devices on motor vehicles will keep pollution emissions in the Bay Area at federal standards.

"There will be no necessity for gas rationing or other means to reduce vehicle miles traveled, as proposed for Southern California," Brattain said.

The board received staff reports outlining possible measures to meet federal pollution standards in all air basins in the state. The board took no action on the reports.

Brattain noted the state has applied for a two-year extension on the 1975 deadline for meeting the federal standards.

Fast Freighter On Maiden Trip

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A new freighter capable of trimming three days off the 11- day sailing time between California and Yokohama reached San Francisco Wednesday on her maiden voyage.

The $22 million President Jefferson, owned by the San Francisco-based American President Lines, was built in Mississippi and cruised at about 27 knots.

She is 699 feet long, weighs 30,000 tons and carries 1,186 35-ton sealed cargo containers.

She has no masts or booms and relies on huge cranes ashore for loading and unloading.

Capt. Charles P. Gedney of Orinda said that at most ports "we will be in an out in 12 to 15 hours."

Session Set Tonight On Larkspur's General Plan

Larkspur City Councilman Robert H. Lee and Planning Director John E. Roberto reported last night that representatives of every neighborhood group in the city — except possibly the Greenbrae Boardwalk area — would meet tonight to form a citizen's committee to work on revising the Larkspur General Plan.

The organizational meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the council chamber.

Roberto reported 76 city residents have said they'd be interested in participating in the project, on which the state has set a July 1 deadline. The city's new planning consultant, Herman D. Ruth will meet with the citizens. No resident of the boardwalk area responded to the invitation, Roberto said.

Roberto said the citizens will be organized into six to nine subcommittees specializing in such topics as city ordinance revisions, open space and conservation, housing, and business district and technical elements. Each subcommittee is expected to elect a chairman tonight.

The council had planned to appoint a steering committee last night to guide the overall project, but at Lee's suggestion, postponed naming the committee to the council's scheduled special meeting at 7:30 p.m. Monday.

New York Tops Per Capita Tax

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — New Yorkers pay a higher per capita tax than residents of any other state, according to an analysis by the Empire State Chamber of Commerce.

The chamber's figures show that residents of New Jersey pay the highest share in federal taxes—$1,598 for every resident —and New Yorkers are second, by $3, at $1,595.

However, New York's $689 per capita state and local tax burden is the highest in the nation and pushes the combined federal-local tax to a new high of $2,284, the chamber said yesterday.

The chamber's analysis showed New Jersey second in total tax load at $2,097; Illinois, $2,063; California, $2,055; Massachusetts, $2,021; Michigan, $1,852; Pennsylvania, $1,773; and Texas, $1,479.

Crackdown Set On Slot Cheats

CARSON CITY, Nev. (UPI) — The Nevada Assembly unanimously approved a bill Wednesday cracking down on slot machine cheaters.

The measure provides maximum penalties of $5,000 and 10 years in prison for persons who use drills, wires and other devices to make the machines pay off.

The state's gambling industry reports that cheaters have taken millions of dollars in slot machine winnings.

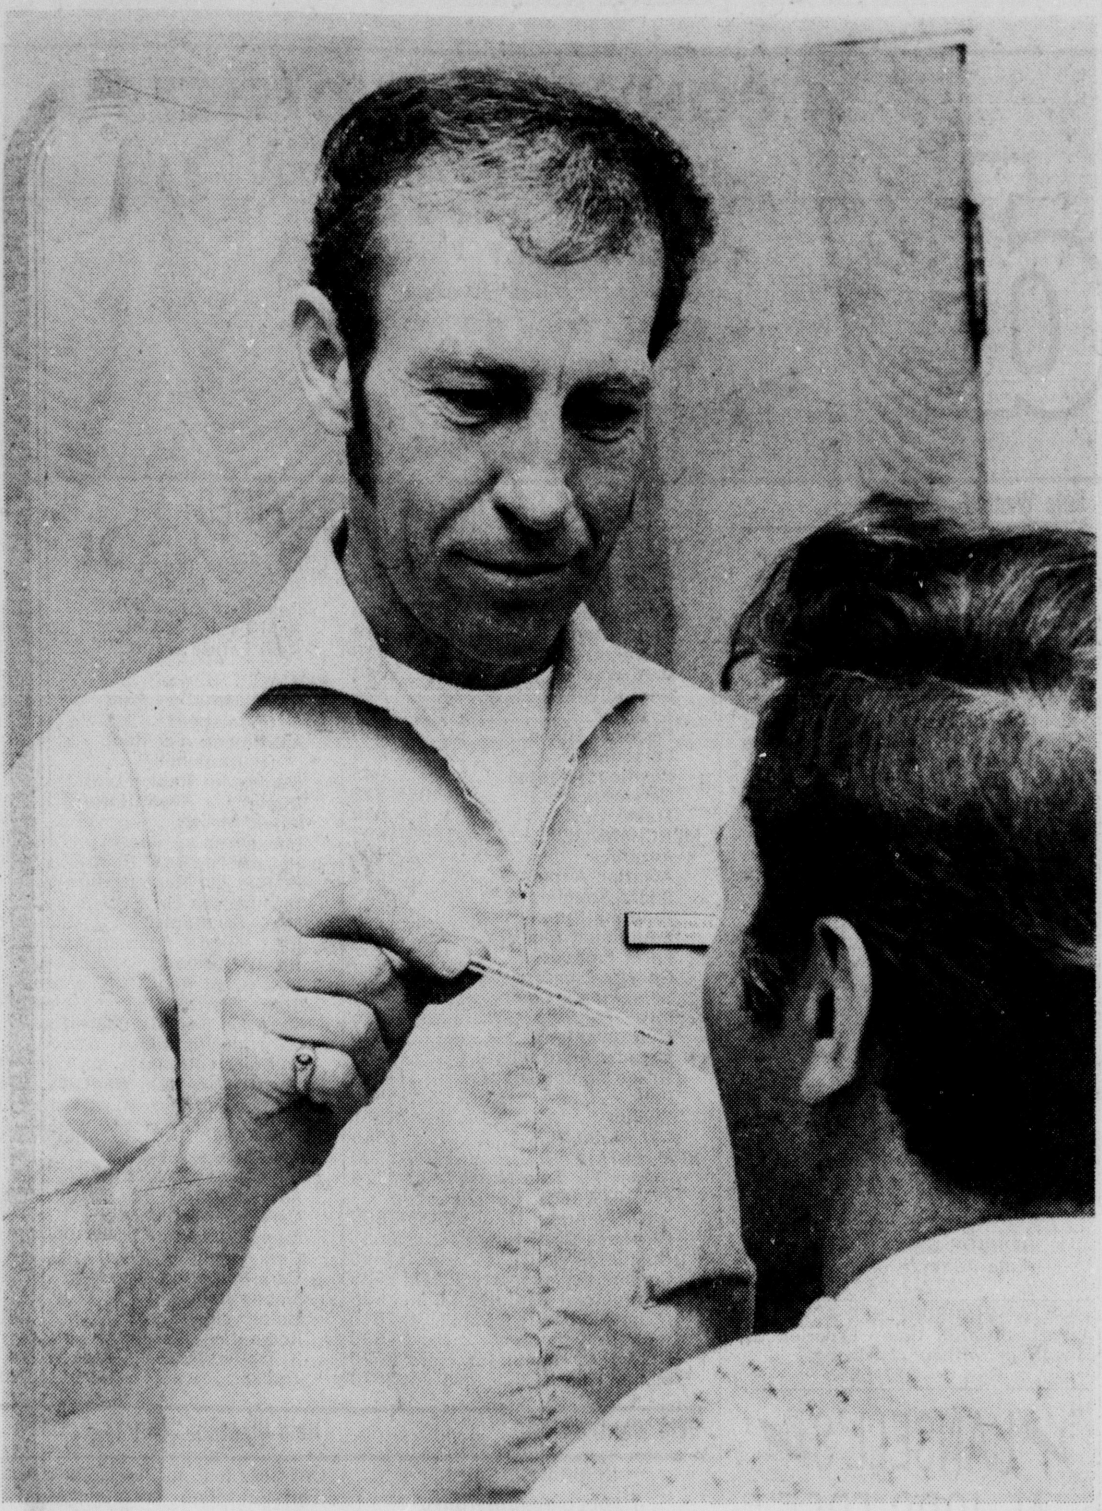
SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY



BROKE AND HAPPY — Dick McGovern enjoys everything about his nursing studies, even such a routine task as taking a temperature. Deciding to become a nurse was a major change for the former producer of television commercials, but he hasn't regretted the decision to switch careers. "I've never been broker or happier," said McGovern, a student in the College of Marin's nursing program.

NURSING PROGRAM

Bachelor Finding New Career Very Rewarding

By PATRICIA PERRY

Dick McGovern had a good job producing commercials for a Sacramento television station. His salary was high and the work glamorous.

On weekends he worked with handicapped children in a Big Brother program, an activity he'd started years before when he was in the Navy.

Then, two years ago, he realized he was looking forward to his weekend volunteer work more than his weekday career. He quit his TV job, and enrolled in the College of Marin nursing program.

"It was a difficult decision. . .all my friends thought it was just a lark. . .all I can say is, I've never been broker and happier," said McGovern.

He is 35 years old, a bachelor from a family of six boys. He's coming up to his final state licensing examinations in July after nearly two years at the Kentfield campus.

"I think we all get a new set of values as we get older," McGovern said. "I guess I wanted to work with people, instead of things. In fact, I think everybody is a little envious of a person who can do what they really want to fulfill their desires. I was lucky, I didn't have any family responsibilities to prevent my switching careers."

McGovern is able to go to college full time by using his GI Bill entitlement, by working part time at Ross Hospital and by an assortment of other jobs —yard work, washing windows and tending bar. He rents a room in a San Rafael home, paying part of his rent in yard work.

He chose the College of Marin's registered nurse program because of its reputation statewide. (Students must score 350 points to pass the state licensing program; most College of Marin graduates score in the 500s.)

Entrance to the program is difficult. More than 500 persons applied for admission this fall and 200 qualified. Out of these, 55 enrollees were selected at random by computer.

Only four men have graduated from the college's R.N. program since 1965, but 11 men currently are enrolled.

Program director Lyla Cromer said the increase in male students is part of the changing role of nursing. In fact, many hospitals are specifically requesting male nurses because they want to have a mix in staff.

McGovern, who hopes to start work in a hospital after graduation this summer, doesn't mind what sort of nursing he does, although he hopes eventually to return to college and get his bachelor's and master's degrees and teach nursing.

But he admits he especially enjoys working with children.

"I think it's realistic to have a male nurse in a pediatric unit. Most of our children are subjected to a totally female environment — from kindergarten they're usually with women teachers until eighth grade. Children should be able to relate to the father as much as to the mother, instead of the father just being a disciplinarian."

McGovern had no nursing experience, but feels his television experience helped him in dealing with people and relating to their different life styles. The college nursing students are thrown into a hospital environment right from the beginning of the program, working under supervision in Bay Area hospitals.

He said he doesn't find nursing physically taxing, and says he's continually fascinated and excited about developments in the profession.

"Nurses are getting more and more responsibilities, and the doctors are relying more on their skills so that the nurse is the extension of the doctor's care. And I can't speak highly enough about the program; Miss Cromer and the instructors and the students are the most supportive people I've ever met."

With an increasing number of men looking at nursing as a future profession, McGovern had this advice:

"I would recommend any male seeking a career in nursing to really investigate and find out what nursing is all about. I feel most men should know where their head is before they go into nursing — so much is teaching patients. Find out what they expect to get out of nursing, but most important, find out what nursing expects to get out of them."

BART Panel In Mood To Spend $75 Million

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Bay Area Rapid Transit District's engineering committee on Tuesday approved spending $75 million for new equipment, including $6 million for the improvement of automatic train controls.

The full board is expected to take a final vote on the expenditures Thursday.

BART's automatic controls have been criticized by the state government as unsafe and Erland A. Tillman, the district's director of engineering, said $441,000 would have to be spent on them before service could be extended to San Francisco.

Federal financing for two thirds of the cost is expected.

Of the expenditures approved, $42.3 million would be for 100 cars, $6,250,000 for electric substations, $5,469,000 for fare collection equipment and $3 million for bus shelters, canopies and wind screens.

Landmark Lawsuit Eyed On Petaluma Growth Rule

A precedent-setting lawsuit aimed at Petaluma's growth control plan will be filed soon in Sonoma County Superior Court, according to representatives of the Construction Industry Association of Sonoma County.

Jack O'Neal of Young America Homes Inc., Rohnert Park, said today the suit should be filed "very shortly." Attorney Malcolm A. Misuraca of Santa Rosa said he is still researching the case and is not certain when the suit will be filed.

The suit is expected to challenge Petaluma's unique environmental design plan which sets a limit of 500 new living units per year. The process used to select who may build under the limit is also expected to be challenged.

"Our association does not intend to defy or attempt to limit any reasonable and constitutional attempt by the City of Petaluma or any other agency to implement proper land planning," O'Neal said.

"Every reasonable land developer, home builder and anyone else in the construction industry can only favor good planning that protects all of us, but under no circumstances should there simply be a race to enact any piece of legislation that appears at first flush to do a job before it is very carefully considered to see whether it does more harm than good."

Any suit against the city will be considered a landmark case since Petaluma is the first city in the state — and perhaps the first in the nation — to let developers in on a selected basis.

Other cities throughout the country have expressed interest in adopting a similar policy, but are awaiting a lega test

City Atty. Edouard E. Robert warned the city council when it adopted the policy that no precedents have been set on its legality and that a lawsuit could result.

Newspaper Libel Suit Is Planned

The attorney for a 26-year-old woman charged with an armed robbery in the Co-Op Market in Corte Madera said yesterday he would file a $500,000 libel suit on her behalf against an Alameda County newspaper that printed a commentary on the case.

The libel, attorney Paul A. Harris said, was in the tenor of an article in the Inter-City Express, which seemed to imply the woman, Stephanie Kline, had encouraged and induced perjury by witnesses when she stood trial last year in Alameda for a car bombing that killed a Black Panther.

The implication both caused her "great mental anguish" and lessened her chance of receiving a fair trial on the Marin charge, Harris said. He charged the article in the newspaper which reports Alameda County's court cases was printed "with malice or at least with reckless disregard of the truth."

The suit, which was to be filed today in Alameda Superior Court, asks $250,000 general damages and $250,000 punitive and exemplary damages from the newspaper and five unnamed persons.

"The article itself insinuates that Stephanie's alibi witnesses lied for her in the first trial, and therefore implies that she was in fact guilty. This is an insult to the jury that acquitted her as well as an attempt to prejudice future jurors in her impending case," Harris said.

Miss Kline was acquitted last August in Alameda County Superior Court on a charge of possessing a bomb, which exploded in her car and killed a 22-year-old Black Panther. Defense witnesses testified she was at a party when Tommy Davenport was blown up on Jan. 30, 1972.

Four days after her arrest in Marin, the East Bay publication, according to Harris, ran the following front page column titled "Incompetent, Irrelevant and Immaterial:

"You remember Stephanie Kline?

"She's the one who was acquitted by a jury here last August of possessing the bomb which went off in a Volkswagon (sic) parked in a Broadway drive-in. The explosion killed a Black Panther follower.

"Well, a troop of Ms. Kline's followers traipsed to the witness stand and provided her an alibi at the time the bomb went off. Yes, they testified under oath. Ms. Kline was in her San Francisco apartment attending a party at the time.

"Well Ms. Kline got knocked over the other night in Marin County —caught in the act of robbing, along with three others (sic) persons, a market.

"Yep, and one of those arrested with Ms. Kline on the armed robbery charges, was one of her alibi witnesses in the Alameda County action."

Harris said the paper has refused to retract the statement although one phone call would show none of her codefendants in the Marin case testified in the bomb trial.

(Lloyd MacDonald, publisher of the Inter-City Express, told the Independent-Journal today, however, that his paper published a retraction when it learned it had erred in reporting one of Miss Kline's witnesses to have been arrested in Corte Madera.

(MacDonald said the retraction and expression of regret appeared in the same place in the paper on Jan. 24 as had the previous comment, part of a feature column, not part of its regular news stories.)

Miss Kline was arrested with John Turner, 27, of no fixed address, Candice Kay Yockey, 26, of San Francisco and Claudia Vonetta Grayson, 20, of Oakland, after a holdup of two grocery store employees.

The four, who have been linked to leftwing activities, have been in jail since their arrest awaiting trial in two weeks. Bail is $20,000 for Miss Kline and Miss Grayson and $30,000 for the other two.

Guard Unit Is Feature Subject

San Rafael National guardsmen were featured in the February issue of Sunset Magazine for their tree planting efforts in the Sunset District of San Francisco.

Members of Company D, 579th Engineer Battalion, worked with members of the Innter Sunset Action Committee to plant 200 trees in sidewalks. Guardsmen were pictured in the magazine operating air hammers to break up concrete and planting the trees.

San Rafael guardsmen also set up a field kitchen to feed community volunteers.

Novato Parks Panel Asks Part Of Revenue Funds

The Novato Parks and Recreation Commission is seeking about one-third of the city's revenue sharing funds for its capital improvements budget for 1973-74.

According to recreation director Edward W. Adams, commissioners agreed last night to seek $40,000 of the city's $115,000 revenue sharing funds. Since one third of the city's tax rate, 32 of 95 cents per $100 assessed valuation, goes to parks and recreation, commissioners believed revenue sharing should be one-third, Adams said.

With the revenue sharing money, $10,000 could be used to convert the house on the O'Hair property, Novato Boulevard and Sutro Avenue, into a teenage center, he said.

The funds also would provide $20,000 for development of the Lynwood School play area, an additional $7,000 for Olive School Park and $3,000 for Marin Highlands Park.

The proposed capital improvements budget is $167,000 with $72,085 to go toward purchase of the O'Hair property and Heifetz land in the Scottsdale area of South Novato for parks. This year's budget is $154,255.

Commissioners put $4,260 from the proposed recreation budget, eliminating $1,260 for an additional aide at the swimming pool and $3,000 for a Friday night junior teen program at junior high schools. The proposed recreation budget is $166,990, up $21,005 from this year.

One Issue Solved At Mill Valley Library

The Mill Valley City Council and city library board last night temporarily patched up their differences over library spending.

City Mgr. William H. Cunningham reported today that the council voted to give the library an additional $600 to continue operating the rest of this fiscal year without reducing hours.

In return the library board gave up proposals to cut back on part-time staff, but held to its plan to close the library the week of April 9-14, giving all the library employees an involuntary week's vacation without pay. The staff had agreed to the plan, and the council's motion included thanks to the librarians for their contribution, Cunningham said.

The library also will cut spending on periodicals and new books for the remainder of the fiscal year, Cunningham reported.

Councilmen and library board members have been bickering for weeks over proposed solutions to the library spending problem, which has been running about $2,000 a month over the budget.

Part of the spending cutback will be effected by delaying hiring a replacement for Librarian Alberta L. Hankenson, who resigned late last month in the middle of the dispute.

College Board Plans To Fire Ethnics Coordinator

The Marin Community College District board last night said it will fire ethnic studies coordinator Carlos C. Iraheta June 30.

Iraheta, 31, was hired last September to the new position over the objection of faculty, who opposed his teaching classes in regular departments.

Since then Iraheta, who was formerly chairman of the La Raza (Chicano studies) program at San Francisco State, has been pushing for the creation of an entire ethnic studies department at College of Marin.

Trustees are scheduled to discuss his proposal for the ethnic studies department at a special workshop session on April 11.

According to Earlene Jones, college district publicist, trustees met in closed session for an hour, and later in the open meeting concurred with the firing recommendation of the faculty's evaluation team.

Mrs. Jones said the board didn't discuss the dismissal, and gave no report on the evaluation.

Iraheta said today he wasn't surprised at his firing — "It's been a very controversial position right from the start," he said, "most minority instructors are put into highly controversial programs."

Iraheta has contended since his appointment that he is an ethnic studies coordinator with no ethnic studies department to coordinate. At present such courses are scattered throughout all the college's departments.

To meet trustees' requirements that the coordinator have nine teaching credits, Iraheta is teaching a history class and a literature class, both in Chicano studies, and a directed study class.

Minority groups at the college, particularly American Indians, began pressing for establishment of an ethnic studies department last fall, urging that courses then spread among the anthropology, art and other departments be gathered into a new ethnic studies department taught by minority instructors.

Iraheta was hired on a one year probationary contract. The board, which created the ethnic studies coordinator position, didn't say last night whether they intend to replace Iraheta, said Mrs. Jones.

Luke Warm Reaction To Seal Park

A proposal that Marin County create a harbor seal sanctuary and park on a Strawberry Peninsula sandpit has met with only a luke-warm reception from the director of county parks and recreation.

"It's something to look into," said Pierre W. Joske, adding he doubted Strawberry area residents "would put up with" a formal park in the area.

The proposal was offered by Strawberry Recreation District director Thomas Miller, who said the county could purchase the property on the east side of the peninsula and use it as a public park in the summer and as a harbor seal and waterfowl refuge in the winter.

The sandpit is surrounded by 60 vacant acres, which have been locked up in ownership litigation and so far have escaped residential development.

Joske said the site, or a portion of it, could be a candidate for open space acquisition by the new regional park district but noted district funds for this year have been tentatively committed to lands elsewhere.

Improved Mail Petitions Grow

The number of petitions being circulated asking the federal government to improve the quality of mail service in Marin County is increasing daily, according to Carroll A. Snyker, manager of Marin County Chamber of Commerce and Visitor's Bureau.

Individuals, business firms and organizations are circulating the petitions to be signed and sent to the postmaster general, he said.

"The petitions to the postmaster general will have some effect, but the final say on improving mail will have to come from the Congress," Snyker said.

Behr Elevated To Education Panel

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, yesterday was appointed to the Senate Education Committee, regarded as one of the key committees of the upper house.

The action by the rules committee to fill a vacancy on the education committee also removed Behr from the less important local government committee. He also serves as vice chairman of the public utilities and corporation committee, and is a member of the health and welfare committee and natural resources and wildlife committee.

Old Adobe Panel Has New Position

The Old Adobe School District board, Petaluma, last6night created the position of assistant superintendent to take charge of curriculum planning.

Schools Supt. Dean D. Magowan said the board approved the new position to free him from some tasks and to give more attention to innovations in curriculum.

Magowan said he would prepare job specifications including pay scale and recruitment procedures for the March 15 board meeting. Magowan said the board agreed an additional administrator would improve efficiency in the district office.

Magowan said the board also reviewed responsibilities of principals and agreed their main concern should be working with staff, students and programs within their own schools. The board said principals should be responsible only for coordinating special programs such as speech training, remedial reading and psychological services.

Information Center On Alcoholism Opens

The Marin Committee of the National Council on Alcoholism has opened an information center at 1299 Fourth Street in San Rafael.

The centers offer free pretreatment counseling for problem drinkers, alcoholics and their families. Referrals are made to appropriate agencies, according to council officias.

Marin Legal Aid Group Plans Suit

The financially troubled Legal Aid Society of Marin has filed suit in Marin Superior Court for $5,000 it claims the Economic Opportunity Council of Marin (now called Community Action Marin) owes the society.

The society threatened to sue last April after one of its board members claimed the antipoverty agency had "bamboozled" the legal aid society by withholding $5,000 in federal funds for administrative work that was never done.

The charge was one of many claims of misuse of funds by the agency which led to the resignation of W. Robert Lomax as head of the agency.

However, the anti-poverty program, as well as legal aid, depends primarily on federal funding that has been threatened by cutbacks proposed by president Richard M. Nixon.

Attorney Charles R. Baumbach, who filed the suit, could not be reached today for comment on why the legal aid society waited a year to sue or on how his agency can collect if antipoverty funds are cut off.

Dial-A-Story For Children

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Youngsters in San Francisco can now have a three-minute story read to them simply by dialing the Public Library at 626-6516.

When the connection is made this week they will hear Ruth Grace, who directs the library's early childhood education project, reading on tape a story entitled "Whistle for Willie" by Ezra Jack Keats.

It's about the problems of a boy named Peter who wants to whistle for his dog.

Effie Lee Morris, coordinator of children's services, said that stories would be changed weekly.

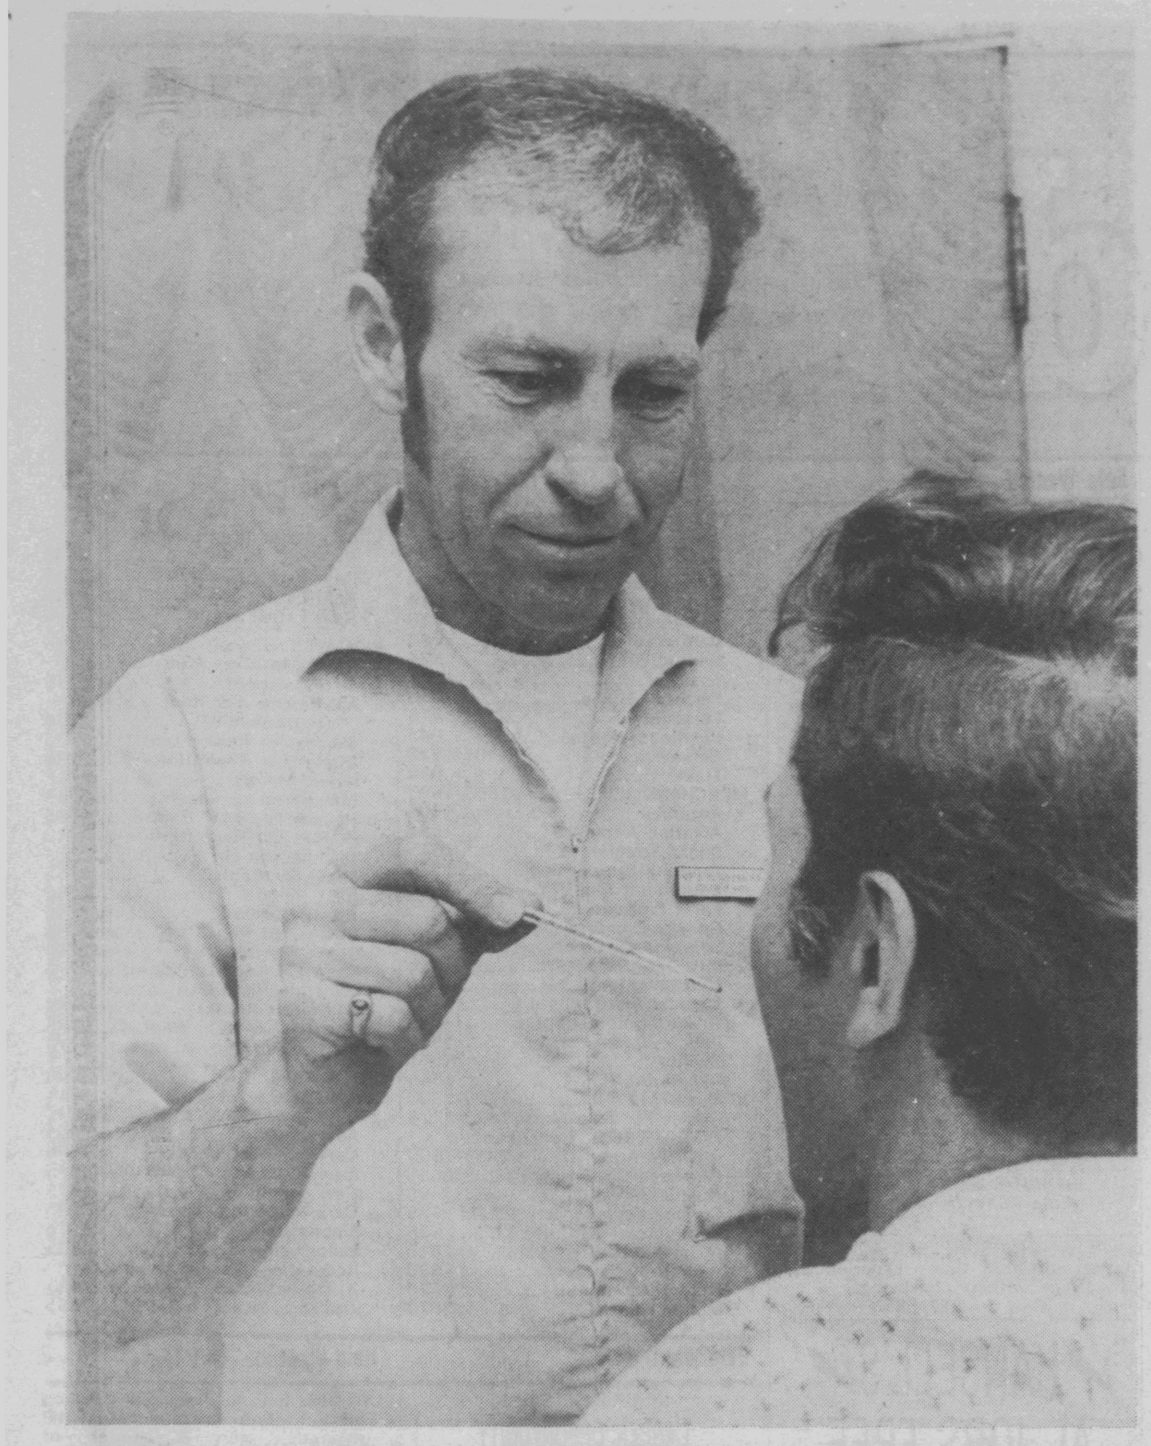
SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY



BROKE AND HAPPY — Dick McGovern enjoys everything about his nursing studies, even such a routine task as taking a temperature. Deciding to become a nurse was a major change for the former producer of television commercials, but he hasn't regretted the decision to switch careers. "I've never been broker or happier," said McGovern, a student in the College of Marin's nursing program.

NURSING PROGRAM

Bachelor Finding New Career Very Rewarding

By PATRICIA PERRY

Dick McGovern had a good job producing commercials for a Sacramento television station. His salary was high and the work glamorous.

On weekends he worked with handicapped children in a Big Brother program, an activity he'd started years before when he was in the Navy.

Then, two years ago, he realized he was looking forward to his weekend volunteer work more than his weekday career. He quit his TV job, and enrolled in the College of Marin nursing program.

"It was a difficult decision. . .all my friends thought it was just a lark. . .all I can say is, I've never been broker and happier," said McGovern.

He is 35 years old, a bachelor from a family of six boys. He's coming up to his final state licensing examinations in July after nearly two years at the Kentfield campus.

"I think we all get a new set of values as we get older," McGovern said. "I guess I wanted to work with people, instead of things. In fact, I think everybody is a little envious of a person who can do what they really want to fulfill their desires. I was lucky, I didn't have any family responsibilities to prevent my switching careers."

McGovern is able to go to college full time by using his GI Bill entitlement, by working part time at Ross Hospital and by an assortment of other jobs —yard work, washing windows and tending bar. He rents a room in a San Rafael home, paying part of his rent in yard work.

He chose the College of Marin's registered nurse program because of its reputation statewide. (Students must score 350 points to pass the state licensing program; most College of Marin graduates score in the 500s.)

Entrance to the program is difficult. More than 500 persons applied for admission this fall and 200 qualified. Out of these, 55 enrollees were selected at random by computer.

Only four men have graduated from the college's R.N. program since 1965, but 11 men currently are enrolled.

Program director Lyla Cromer said the increase in male students is part of the changing role of nursing. In fact, many hospitals are specifically requesting male nurses because they want to have a mix in staff.

McGovern, who hopes to start work in a hospital after graduation this summer, doesn't mind what sort of nursing he does, although he hopes eventually to return to college and get his bachelor's and master's degrees and teach nursing.

But he admits he especially enjoys working with children.

"I think it's realistic to have a male nurse in a pediatric unit. Most of our children are subjected to a totally female environment — from kindergarten they're usually with women teachers until eighth grade. Children should be able to relate to the father as much as to the mother, instead of the father just being a disciplinarian."

McGovern had no nursing experience, but feels his television experience helped him in dealing with people and relating to their different life styles. The college nursing students are thrown into a hospital environment right from the beginning of the program, working under supervision in Bay Area hospitals.

He said he doesn't find nursing physically taxing, and says he's continually fascinated and excited about developments in the profession.

"Nurses are getting more and more responsibilities, and the doctors are relying more on their skills so that the nurse is the extension of the doctor's care. And I can't speak highly enough about the program; Miss Cromer and the instructors and the students are the most supportive people I've ever met."

With an increasing number of men looking at nursing as a future profession, McGovern had this advice:

"I would recommend any male seeking a career in nursing to really investigate and find out what nursing is all about. I feel most men should know where their head is before they go into nursing — so much is teaching patients. Find out what they expect to get out of nursing, but most important, find out what nursing expects to get out of them."

BART Panel In Mood To Spend $75 Million

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Bay Area Rapid Transit District's engineering committee on Tuesday approved spending $75 million for new equipment, including $6 million for the improvement of automatic train controls.

The full board is expected to take a final vote on the expenditures Thursday.

BART's automatic controls have been criticized by the state government as unsafe and Erland A. Tillman, the district's director of engineering, said $441,000 would have to be spent on them before service could be extended to San Francisco.

Federal financing for two thirds of the cost is expected.

Of the expenditures approved, $42.3 million would be for 100 cars, $6,250,000 for electric substations, $5,469,000 for fare collection equipment and $3 million for bus shelters, canopies and wind screens.

Landmark Lawsuit Eyed On Petaluma Growth Rule

A precedent-setting lawsuit aimed at Petaluma's growth control plan will be filed soon in Sonoma County Superior Court, according to representatives of the Construction Industry Association of Sonoma County.

Jack O'Neal of Young America Homes Inc., Rohnert Park, said today the suit should be filed "very shortly." Attorney Malcolm A. Misuraca of Santa Rosa said he is still researching the case and is not certain when the suit will be filed.

The suit is expected to challenge Petaluma's unique environmental design plan which sets a limit of 500 new living units per year. The process used to select who may build under the limit is also expected to be challenged.

"Our association does not intend to defy or attempt to limit any reasonable and constitutional attempt by the City of Petaluma or any other agency to implement proper land planning," O'Neal said.

"Every reasonable land developer, home builder and anyone else in the construction industry can only favor good planning that protects all of us, but under no circumstances should there simply be a race to enact any piece of legislation that appears at first flush to do a job before it is very carefully considered to see whether it does more harm than good."

Any suit against the city will be considered a landmark case since Petaluma is the first city in the state — and perhaps the first in the nation — to let developers in on a selected basis.

Other cities throughout the country have expressed interest in adopting a similar policy, but are awaiting a lega test

City Atty. Edouard E. Robert warned the city council when it adopted the policy that no precedents have been set on its legality and that a lawsuit could result.

Newspaper Libel Suit Is Planned

The attorney for a 26-year-old woman charged with an armed robbery in the Co-Op Market in Corte Madera said yesterday he would file a $500,000 libel suit on her behalf against an Alameda County newspaper that printed a commentary on the case.

The libel, attorney Paul A. Harris said, was in the tenor of an article in the Inter-City Express, which seemed to imply the woman, Stephanie Kline, had encouraged and induced perjury by witnesses when she stood trial last year in Alameda for a car bombing that killed a Black Panther.

The implication both caused her "great mental anguish" and lessened her chance of receiving a fair trial on the Marin charge, Harris said. He charged the article in the newspaper which reports Alameda County's court cases was printed "with malice or at least with reckless disregard of the truth."

The suit, which was to be filed today in Alameda Superior Court, asks $250,000 general damages and $250,000 punitive and exemplary damages from the newspaper and five unnamed persons.

"The article itself insinuates that Stephanie's alibi witnesses lied for her in the first trial, and therefore implies that she was in fact guilty. This is an insult to the jury that acquitted her as well as an attempt to prejudice future jurors in her impending case," Harris said.

Miss Kline was acquitted last August in Alameda County Superior Court on a charge of possessing a bomb, which exploded in her car and killed a 22-year-old Black Panther. Defense witnesses testified she was at a party when Tommy Davenport was blown up on Jan. 30, 1972.

Four days after her arrest in Marin, the East Bay publication, according to Harris, ran the following front page column titled "Incompetent, Irrelevant and Immaterial:

"You remember Stephanie Kline?

"She's the one who was acquitted by a jury here last August of possessing the bomb which went off in a Volkswagon (sic) parked in a Broadway drive-in. The explosion killed a Black Panther follower.

"Well, a troop of Ms. Kline's followers traipsed to the witness stand and provided her an alibi at the time the bomb went off. Yes, they testified under oath. Ms. Kline was in her San Francisco apartment attending a party at the time.

"Well Ms. Kline got knocked over the other night in Marin County —caught in the act of robbing, along with three others (sic) persons, a market.

"Yep, and one of those arrested with Ms. Kline on the armed robbery charges, was one of her alibi witnesses in the Alameda County action."

Harris said the paper has refused to retract the statement although one phone call would show none of her codefendants in the Marin case testified in the bomb trial.

(Lloyd MacDonald, publisher of the Inter-City Express, told the Independent-Journal today, however, that his paper published a retraction when it learned it had erred in reporting one of Miss Kline's witnesses to have been arrested in Corte Madera.

(MacDonald said the retraction and expression of regret appeared in the same place in the paper on Jan. 24 as had the previous comment, part of a feature column, not part of its regular news stories.)

Miss Kline was arrested with John Turner, 27, of no fixed address, Candice Kay Yockey, 26, of San Francisco and Claudia Vonetta Grayson, 20, of Oakland, after a holdup of two grocery store employees.

The four, who have been linked to leftwing activities, have been in jail since their arrest awaiting trial in two weeks. Bail is $20,000 for Miss Kline and Miss Grayson and $30,000 for the other two.

Guard Unit Is Feature Subject

San Rafael National guardsmen were featured in the February issue of Sunset Magazine for their tree planting efforts in the Sunset District of San Francisco.

Members of Company D, 579th Engineer Battalion, worked with members of the Innter Sunset Action Committee to plant 200 trees in sidewalks. Guardsmen were pictured in the magazine operating air hammers to break up concrete and planting the trees.

San Rafael guardsmen also set up a field kitchen to feed community volunteers.

Novato Parks Panel Asks Part Of Revenue Funds

The Novato Parks and Recreation Commission is seeking about one-third of the city's revenue sharing funds for its capital improvements budget for 1973-74.

According to recreation director Edward W. Adams, commissioners agreed last night to seek $40,000 of the city's $115,000 revenue sharing funds. Since one third of the city's tax rate, 32 of 95 cents per $100 assessed valuation, goes to parks and recreation, commissioners believed revenue sharing should be one-third, Adams said.

With the revenue sharing money, $10,000 could be used to convert the house on the O'Hair property, Novato Boulevard and Sutro Avenue, into a teenage center, he said.

The funds also would provide $20,000 for development of the Lynwood School play area, an additional $7,000 for Olive School Park and $3,000 for Marin Highlands Park.

The proposed capital improvements budget is $167,000 with $72,085 to go toward purchase of the O'Hair property and Heifetz land in the Scottsdale area of South Novato for parks. This year's budget is $154,255.

Commissioners put $4,260 from the proposed recreation budget, eliminating $1,260 for an additional aide at the swimming pool and $3,000 for a Friday night junior teen program at junior high schools. The proposed recreation budget is $166,990, up $21,005 from this year.

One Issue Solved At Mill Valley Library

The Mill Valley City Council and city library board last night temporarily patched up their differences over library spending.

City Mgr. William H. Cunningham reported today that the council voted to give the library an additional $600 to continue operating the rest of this fiscal year without reducing hours.

In return the library board gave up proposals to cut back on part-time staff, but held to its plan to close the library the week of April 9-14, giving all the library employees an involuntary week's vacation without pay. The staff had agreed to the plan, and the council's motion included thanks to the librarians for their contribution, Cunningham said.

The library also will cut spending on periodicals and new books for the remainder of the fiscal year, Cunningham reported.

Councilmen and library board members have been bickering for weeks over proposed solutions to the library spending problem, which has been running about $2,000 a month over the budget.

Part of the spending cutback will be effected by delaying hiring a replacement for Librarian Alberta L. Hankenson, who resigned late last month in the middle of the dispute.

College Board Plans To Fire Ethnics Coordinator

The Marin Community College District board last night said it will fire ethnic studies coordinator Carlos C. Iraheta June 30.

Iraheta, 31, was hired last September to the new position over the objection of faculty, who opposed his teaching classes in regular departments.

Since then Iraheta, who was formerly chairman of the La Raza (Chicano studies) program at San Francisco State, has been pushing for the creation of an entire ethnic studies department at College of Marin.

Trustees are scheduled to discuss his proposal for the ethnic studies department at a special workshop session on April 11.

According to Earlene Jones, college district publicist, trustees met in closed session for an hour, and later in the open meeting concurred with the firing recommendation of the faculty's evaluation team.

Mrs. Jones said the board didn't discuss the dismissal, and gave no report on the evaluation.

Iraheta said today he wasn't surprised at his firing — "It's been a very controversial position right from the start," he said, "most minority instructors are put into highly controversial programs."

Iraheta has contended since his appointment that he is an ethnic studies coordinator with no ethnic studies department to coordinate. At present such courses are scattered throughout all the college's departments.

To meet trustees' requirements that the coordinator have nine teaching credits, Iraheta is teaching a history class and a literature class, both in Chicano studies, and a directed study class.

Minority groups at the college, particularly American Indians, began pressing for establishment of an ethnic studies department last fall, urging that courses then spread among the anthropology, art and other departments be gathered into a new ethnic studies department taught by minority instructors.

Iraheta was hired on a one year probationary contract. The board, which created the ethnic studies coordinator position, didn't say last night whether they intend to replace Iraheta, said Mrs. Jones.

Luke Warm Reaction To Seal Park

A proposal that Marin County create a harbor seal sanctuary and park on a Strawberry Peninsula sandpit has met with only a luke-warm reception from the director of county parks and recreation.

"It's something to look into," said Pierre W. Joske, adding he doubted Strawberry area residents "would put up with" a formal park in the area.

The proposal was offered by Strawberry Recreation District director Thomas Miller, who said the county could purchase the property on the east side of the peninsula and use it as a public park in the summer and as a harbor seal and waterfowl refuge in the winter.

The sandpit is surrounded by 60 vacant acres, which have been locked up in ownership litigation and so far have escaped residential development.

Joske said the site, or a portion of it, could be a candidate for open space acquisition by the new regional park district but noted district funds for this year have been tentatively committed to lands elsewhere.

Improved Mail Petitions Grow

The number of petitions being circulated asking the federal government to improve the quality of mail service in Marin County is increasing daily, according to Carroll A. Snyker, manager of Marin County Chamber of Commerce and Visitor's Bureau.

Individuals, business firms and organizations are circulating the petitions to be signed and sent to the postmaster general, he said.

"The petitions to the postmaster general will have some effect, but the final say on improving mail will have to come from the Congress," Snyker said.

Behr Elevated To Education Panel

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, yesterday was appointed to the Senate Education Committee, regarded as one of the key committees of the upper house.

The action by the rules committee to fill a vacancy on the education committee also removed Behr from the less important local government committee. He also serves as vice chairman of the public utilities and corporation committee, and is a member of the health and welfare committee and natural resources and wildlife committee.

Old Adobe Panel Has New Position

The Old Adobe School District board, Petaluma, last6night created the position of assistant superintendent to take charge of curriculum planning.

Schools Supt. Dean D. Magowan said the board approved the new position to free him from some tasks and to give more attention to innovations in curriculum.

Magowan said he would prepare job specifications including pay scale and recruitment procedures for the March 15 board meeting. Magowan said the board agreed an additional administrator would improve efficiency in the district office.

Magowan said the board also reviewed responsibilities of principals and agreed their main concern should be working with staff, students and programs within their own schools. The board said principals should be responsible only for coordinating special programs such as speech training, remedial reading and psychological services.

The Marin Committee of the National Council on Alcoholism has opened an information center at 1299 Fourth Street in San Rafael.

The centers offer free pretreatment counseling for problem drinkers, alcoholics and their families. Referrals are made to appropriate agencies, according to council officias.

Marin Legal Aid Group Plans Suit

The financially troubled Legal Aid Society of Marin has filed suit in Marin Superior Court for $5,000 it claims the Economic Opportunity Council of Marin (now called Community Action Marin) owes the society.

The society threatened to sue last April after one of its board members claimed the antipoverty agency had "bamboozled" the legal aid society by withholding $5,000 in federal funds for administrative work that was never done.

The charge was one of many claims of misuse of funds by the agency which led to the resignation of W. Robert Lomax as head of the agency.

However, the anti-poverty program, as well as legal aid, depends primarily on federal funding that has been threatened by cutbacks proposed by president Richard M. Nixon.

Attorney Charles R. Baumbach, who filed the suit, could not be reached today for comment on why the legal aid society waited a year to sue or on how his agency can collect if antipoverty funds are cut off.

PERFECTION

This spacious home located in the very desirable Tennis and Golf Club area offers 4 delightful bedrooms, the master bedroom having a connecting library/den which could, if needed, serve as a fifth bedroom, 3 beautiful bathrooms, a warm friendly living room with fireplace and a "see thru the trees" view of the first tee and far hills, the separate dining room will make entertaining easy, as will the modern kitchen. And the huge basement area is ready for play or hobbies. The carport will accommodate four cars, and the southeasterly exposure of the big hillside lot offers the finest weather with a minimum of gardening in a natural setting. A perfect home for the busy executive, in the right location, and priced to sell.

MEMORABLE

is the word for this classic old Bostonian house, rebuilt and redecorated in many painstaking hours. Bewitching is the charm of this multi-level home that lets one venture from the sunken living room through the old-world-like formal dining room to the lofty den. All rooms, including the four bedrooms, fascinate with a dominating view from Mt. Tam to the distant East Bay Hills. Come see for yourself. $53,950.

PERFECTION

This spacious home located in the very desirable Tennis and Golf Club area offers 4 delightful bedrooms, the master bedroom having a connecting library/den which could, if needed, serve as a fifth bedroom, 3 beautiful bathrooms, a warm friendly living room with fireplace and a "see thru the trees" view of the first tee and far hills, the separate dining room will make entertaining easy, as will the modern kitchen. And the huge basement area is ready for play or hobbies. The carport will accommodate four cars, and the southeasterly exposure of the big hillside lot offers the finest weather with a minimum of gardening in a natural setting. A perfect home for the busy executive, in the right location, and priced to sell.

CREAMPUFF '70 BUICK ESTATE WAGON

Here's the most luxurious station wagon on the American road today — Buick's 9-passenger Estate Wagon. This full sized wagon has just over 45,000 miles and its original owner traded on another new Buick Estate Wagon.

This Estate Wagon in willow green with rich wood paneling has the custom notch-back full-vinyl interior plus just about every conceivable luxury accessory like factory air conditioning, power steering, power brakes, power windows, power seats, luggage rack, chrome mag wheels, new w/w tires, plus loads of other Estate Wagon luxury extras.

It's almost impossible to tell this car from a new one on our showroom floor. Years of trouble-free driving ahead for some lucky owner.

ESTATE WAGON

Here's the most luxurious station wagon on the American road today — Buick's 9-passenger Estate Wagon. This full sized wagon has just over 45,000 miles and its original owner traded on another new Buick Estate Wagon.

This Estate Wagon in willow green with rich wood paneling has the custom notch-back full-vinyl interior plus just about every conceivable luxury accessory like factory air conditioning, power steering, power brakes, power windows, power seats, luggage rack, chrome mag wheels, new w/w tires, plus loads of other Estate Wagon luxury extras.

It's almost impossible to tell this car from a new one on our showroom floor. Years of trouble-free driving ahead for some lucky owner.

NOTICE OF SALE OF REAL PROPERTY AT PRIVATE SALE
No. 21 248

Superior Court of California, County of Marin

Estate of MARY E. EGELER, also known as MARY EGELER, Deceased.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that, subject to confirmation by the above-entitled court, on Tuesday, April 17, 1973, at 4:00 p.m., or thereafter within the time allowed by law, the undersigned as Executor of the Will of MARY E. EGELER, Alias, Deceased, will sell at private sale to the highest and best net bidder, on the terms and conditions hereinafter mentioned, all right, title and interest of MARY E. EGELER, Alias, Deceased, at the time of her death, and all right, title and interest that the estate has acquired in addition to that of the deceased, in and to the real property located in the County of Marin, State of California, described as follows:

A single family residential property known as 13 Roosevelt Avenue, (Santa Venetia), San Rafael, Marin County, California, (Assessor's Parcel No. 179-173-06), more particularly described as follows:

Lot 15, in Block 4, as shown upon that certain Map entitled "MAP OF SUBDIVISION A, GOLF LINKS TRACT NEAR SAN RAFAEL" recorded January 14, 1908 in Book 2 of Maps at Page 107, in the Office of the County Recorder of the County of Marin, State of California.

The sale is subject to current taxes, covenants, conditions, restrictions, zoning ordinances, reservations, rights, rights-of-way and easements of record, or shown by accurate survey and inspection.

Bids or offers are invited for said property and must be in writing and will be received by undersigned at the office of his attorney, C. S. Winters, Esq., 49 Golden Hinde Boulevard, San Rafael, California 94903, or may be filed with the clerk of said court at any time after publication of this notice and before the making of said sale.

The property will be sold on the following terms: The executor prefers cash in full within twenty (20) days after confirmation by the court, ten (10) per cent of the amount bid to accompany the offer by certified check or bank funds. However, terms for payment will be considered, and in the absence of a higher net cash bid, installment payments will be considered over a lower net cash bid. Taxes, rents, operating and maintenance expenses, and premiums on insurance acceptable to the purchaser shall be prorated as of the date of confirmation of sale. Examination of title, recording of conveyance, transfer taxes, and any title insurance and escrow charges shall be at the expense of the purchaser.

The undersigned reserves the right to reject any and all bids prior to entry of an order of confirmation of sale, and to accept a term sale in preference to a cash sale if in the best interest of the estate.

Panel To Give School Board Ideas On Plan

The Sausalito School District's master plan steering committee, which has been preparing a master plan of goals and objectives for the district, will present its preliminary recommendations to the school district board at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the district office, 630 Nevada Street.

The steering committee already has recommended that the district consolidate operations, locating all students in one school.

The committee suggests it be built on the Bayside School site.

Funds for constructing the new facility could come in part from the $276,000 the district will receive for Central School from the city of Sausalito which is purchasing the vacant building.

The master plan committee also has recommended that students from Bayside could be housed in the district's other school, Martin Luther King.

NCO, Airman Of Month Are Named

A Vietnam veteran and a former school teacher have been named noncommissioned officer and airman of the month for February at Hamilton Air Force Base.

T/Sgt. James Dozier of the publishing branch, a 35-year-old Vietnam veteran, was honored as the outstanding noncommissioned officer. Sergeant Dozier is a native of Laurel, Miss., and previously served with the Air Force Reserve Officer Training Corps. at Commerce, Tex.

Airman 1/C Bradley Scott, a 26-year-old instructor with the Equal Opportunity Office at the base, was honored as the outstanding airman.

Airman Scott, a former school teacher, holds a bachelor's degree from Grover City College, Pa. He is a native of Clarion, Pa.

Public Notice

Czar Smith Winters, Atty.

NOTICE OF SALE OF REAL PROPERTY AT PRIVATE SALE

No. 21 248

Superior Court of California, County of Marin

Estate of MARY E. EGELER, also known as MARY EGELER, Deceased.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that, subject to confirmation by the above-entitled court, on Tuesday, April 17, 1973, at 4:00 p.m., or thereafter within the time allowed by law, the undersigned as Executor of the Will of MARY E. EGELER, Alias, Deceased, will sell at private sale to the highest and best net bidder, on the terms and conditions hereinafter mentioned, all right, title and interest of MARY E. EGELER, Alias, Deceased, at the time of her death, and all right, title and interest that the estate has acquired in addition to that of the deceased, in and to the real property located in the County of Marin, State of California, described as follows:

A single family residential property known as 13 Roosevelt Avenue, (Santa Venetia), San Rafael, Marin County, California, (Assessor's Parcel No. 179-173-06), more particularly described as follows:

Lot 15, in Block 4, as shown upon that certain Map entitled "MAP OF SUBDIVISION A, GOLF LINKS TRACT NEAR SAN RAFAEL" recorded January 14, 1908 in Book 2 of Maps at Page 107, in the Office of the County Recorder of the County of Marin, State of California.

The sale is subject to current taxes, covenants, conditions, restrictions, zoning ordinances, reservations, rights, rights-of-way and easements of record, or shown by accurate survey and inspection.

Bids or offers are invited for said property and must be in writing and will be received by undersigned at the office of his attorney, C. S. Winters, Esq., 49 Golden Hinde Boulevard, San Rafael, California 94903, or may be filed with the clerk of said court at any time after publication of this notice and before the making of said sale.

The property will be sold on the following terms: The executor prefers cash in full within twenty (20) days after confirmation by the court, ten (10) per cent of the amount bid to accompany the offer by certified check or bank funds. However, terms for payment will be considered, and in the absence of a higher net cash bid, installment payments will be considered over a lower net cash bid. Taxes, rents, operating and maintenance expenses, and premiums on insurance acceptable to the purchaser shall be prorated as of the date of confirmation of sale. Examination of title, recording of conveyance, transfer taxes, and any title insurance and escrow charges shall be at the expense of the purchaser.

The undersigned reserves the right to reject any and all bids prior to entry of an order of confirmation of sale, and to accept a term sale in preference to a cash sale if in the best interest of the estate.

Panel To Give School Board Ideas On Plan

The Sausalito School District's master plan steering committee, which has been preparing a master plan of goals and objectives for the district, will present its preliminary recommendations to the school district board at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the district office, 630 Nevada Street.

The steering committee already has recommended that the district consolidate operations, locating all students in one school.

The committee suggests it be built on the Bayside School site.

Funds for constructing the new facility could come in part from the $276,000 the district will receive for Central School from the city of Sausalito which is purchasing the vacant building.

The master plan committee also has recommended that students from Bayside could be housed in the district's other school, Martin Luther King.

NCO, Airman Of Month Are Named

A Vietnam veteran and a former school teacher have been named noncommissioned officer and airman of the month for February at Hamilton Air Force Base.

T/Sgt. James Dozier of the publishing branch, a 35-year-old Vietnam veteran, was honored as the outstanding noncommissioned officer. Sergeant Dozier is a native of Laurel, Miss., and previously served with the Air Force Reserve Officer Training Corps. at Commerce, Tex.

Airman 1/C Bradley Scott, a 26-year-old instructor with the Equal Opportunity Office at the base, was honored as the outstanding airman.

Airman Scott, a former school teacher, holds a bachelor's degree from Grover City College, Pa. He is a native of Clarion, Pa.

Drake Trip Commission Is Advanced

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — An Assembly committee yesterday approved a bill establishing a special Sir Francis Drake Commission despite criticism the group would divert attention away from "critical social problems."

The 24-member commission would exist for eight years to organize a celebration commemorating the 400th anniversary of Drake's voyage around the world and stop over at San Francisco Bay. It would receive no public funds and operate on private donations.

The bill (AB252) by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, cleared the Ways and Means Committee on a 13-1 vote and went to the floor over the objection of Assemblyman John Vasconcellos, D-San Jose.

"I just don't think we need another commission, especially of this type, when there are major public problems to be resolved," Vasconcellos said.

"This is a way to divert people's attention from current critical social problems by dancing about something in the past," he said.

Assemblyman Alan Sieroty, D-Beverly Hills, who voted for the measure, objected to one provision which authorized the commission to appoint a "Company of 400," a group of individuals who would underwrite the celebration project. He said the title "Company of 400" was "offense" and should be called something else. Supporters said this merely reflected the 400th anniversary of Drake's voyage.

Job Decision Due

The Marin County Mosquito Abatement Board will decide whether to fill a part-time position left vacant by the retirement of Charles Petrolini with a permanent full-time employee at 7 p.m. Monday at the board office, 201 Third Street, San Rafael.

Minibikes, Go Karts Session Set

Ever-increasing use of off-highway vehicles — such as minibikes and go-karts is causing such safety hazards in Marin County that a special program has been arranged Saturday to educate community leaders on the problem.

Organized by Virgil S. Hollis, county superintendent of schools, and Jerry Diaz, chairman of the county's Off Highway Vehicle Committee, the program starts at 9 a.m. at the county schools office.

In the afternoon participants will tour the Gambonini ranch in West Marin, where there are 50 miles of trails on 4,000 acres. Many local motorcycle groups use the private ranch near Synanon on the Marshall-Petaluma road.

Hollis said the meeting was called "because of the increased use of off-highway vehicles in the county, and the various problems and frustrations created for both the user and the non-user."

The Marin Motorcycle Association, led by president Frank Joiner, will give a motorcycling demonstration at the ranch at 2 p.m.

Guilty Pleas To Lesser Charges In Stabbings

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A San Francisco man has withdrawn his innocent plea and entered guilty pleas to modified charges stemming from the fatal stabbings of a former San Rafael resident and another person.

Superior Court Judge John Ertola on Tuesday ordered James E. Walters, 31, to appear March 28 for probation report and sentencing on the charges of second degree murder and voluntary manslaughter of former Marinite Eugino T. (Gino) Fagnani and John More. Walters originally was charged with murder. Judge Ertola accepted the pleas to the lesser offenses on a motion by the district attorney.

The stabbings took place last December after Walters was evicted from a party in a San Francisco apartment building managed by Fagnani.

Guilty Pea To Heroin Charge

Marie Hendrix, 25, of Marin City, has pleaded guilty in Marin Superior Court to a felony charge of selling heroin to an undercover narcotics agent.

She admitted the count after Judge David Menary Jr. and Deputy Dist. Atty. Raymond E. Gilbert agreed she will receive a suspended prison sentence and no more than eight months in jail and three years' probation. Sentencing was set for April 9.

A second felony charge, possession of heroin, was dismissed.

Undercover agents arrested Miss Hendrix Oct. 31 at the Corte Madera Shopping Center after five balloons of heroin changed hands.

Auditions Set For 13 Roles

The Mill Valley Childrens Theater Company will hold auditions tonight for 10 adults' roles in its upcoming production of "The House That Jack Built."

Adult auditions wil be held at 7:30 p.m. in the Old Mill School Auditorium.

Children's auditions are scheduled for 3:15 p.m. tomorrow in the auditorium.

Experienced actors, singers and dancers are sought, according to director Marney McArthur Coscia. The play will open in Mill Valley in May and there are plans for a tour of the Bay Area with the production.

Novato Recreation Classes Announced

The Novato Parks and Recreation Department is offering pre-school creative dance classes, yoga courses and a women's volleyball league, according to recreation director Edward W. Adams.

A women's volleyball clinic will be conducted at San Marin High Gymnasium from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. today and league play will start at the school next Thursday, Adams reported.

The eight-week creative dance course for students from 4 to 6 years old will start at 1:15 p.m. tomorrow at the Novato Community House with Claire Porter as teacher.

An eight-week course in yoga will start at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday at the Novato Community House with an evening class opening at 7 p.m. next Thursday at Hill Junior High School.

Pre-registration will be taken and further information can be obtained at the department office, 917 Sherman Avenue, from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Mondays through Fridays.

Special Course For Parents

A six-week "communication course" for parents will start March 28 from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. at the Family Service Agency of Marin, 1005 A Street, San Rafael.

The course is aimed at helping parents both listening to their children and expressing themselves to the youngsters, according to an agency spokesman.

More information may be obtained by calling the agency.

Drake Trip Commission Is Advanced

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — An Assembly committee yesterday approved a bill establishing a special Sir Francis Drake Commission despite criticism the group would divert attention away from "critical social problems."

The 24-member commission would exist for eight years to organize a celebration commemorating the 400th anniversary of Drake's voyage around the world and stop over at San Francisco Bay. It would receive no public funds and operate on private donations.

The bill (AB252) by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, cleared the Ways and Means Committee on a 13-1 vote and went to the floor over the objection of Assemblyman John Vasconcellos, D-San Jose.

"I just don't think we need another commission, especially of this type, when there are major public problems to be resolved," Vasconcellos said.

"This is a way to divert people's attention from current critical social problems by dancing about something in the past," he said.

Assemblyman Alan Sieroty, D-Beverly Hills, who voted for the measure, objected to one provision which authorized the commission to appoint a "Company of 400," a group of individuals who would underwrite the celebration project. He said the title "Company of 400" was "offense" and should be called something else. Supporters said this merely reflected the 400th anniversary of Drake's voyage.

Job Decision Due

The Marin County Mosquito Abatement Board will decide whether to fill a part-time position left vacant by the retirement of Charles Petrolini with a permanent full-time employee at 7 p.m. Monday at the board office, 201 Third Street, San Rafael.

Minibikes, Go Karts Session Set

Ever-increasing use of off-highway vehicles — such as minibikes and go-karts is causing such safety hazards in Marin County that a special program has been arranged Saturday to educate community leaders on the problem.

Organized by Virgil S. Hollis, county superintendent of schools, and Jerry Diaz, chairman of the county's Off Highway Vehicle Committee, the program starts at 9 a.m. at the county schools office.

In the afternoon participants will tour the Gambonini ranch in West Marin, where there are 50 miles of trails on 4,000 acres. Many local motorcycle groups use the private ranch near Synanon on the Marshall-Petaluma road.

Hollis said the meeting was called "because of the increased use of off-highway vehicles in the county, and the various problems and frustrations created for both the user and the non-user."

The Marin Motorcycle Association, led by president Frank Joiner, will give a motorcycling demonstration at the ranch at 2 p.m.

Guilty Pleas To Lesser Charges In Stabbings

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A San Francisco man has withdrawn his innocent plea and entered guilty pleas to modified charges stemming from the fatal stabbings of a former San Rafael resident and another person.

Superior Court Judge John Ertola on Tuesday ordered James E. Walters, 31, to appear March 28 for probation report and sentencing on the charges of second degree murder and voluntary manslaughter of former Marinite Eugino T. (Gino) Fagnani and John More. Walters originally was charged with murder. Judge Ertola accepted the pleas to the lesser offenses on a motion by the district attorney.

The stabbings took place last December after Walters was evicted from a party in a San Francisco apartment building managed by Fagnani.

Guilty Pea To Heroin Charge

Marie Hendrix, 25, of Marin City, has pleaded guilty in Marin Superior Court to a felony charge of selling heroin to an undercover narcotics agent.

She admitted the count after Judge David Menary Jr. and Deputy Dist. Atty. Raymond E. Gilbert agreed she will receive a suspended prison sentence and no more than eight months in jail and three years' probation. Sentencing was set for April 9.

A second felony charge, possession of heroin, was dismissed.

Undercover agents arrested Miss Hendrix Oct. 31 at the Corte Madera Shopping Center after five balloons of heroin changed hands.

Auditions Set For 13 Roles

The Mill Valley Childrens Theater Company will hold auditions tonight for 10 adults' roles in its upcoming production of "The House That Jack Built."

Adult auditions wil be held at 7:30 p.m. in the Old Mill School Auditorium.

Children's auditions are scheduled for 3:15 p.m. tomorrow in the auditorium.

Experienced actors, singers and dancers are sought, according to director Marney McArthur Coscia. The play will open in Mill Valley in May and there are plans for a tour of the Bay Area with the production.

NOSTALGIA MAKES OLD TOWNE NEW SHOPPING ATTRACTION

One of the most popular attractions at Old Towne, Southern California's newest shopping center, is the Market Place. Similar to the Farmer's Market, the Market Place is an open plaza with tables and chairs spaced around a gazebo, where continuous musical entertainment is featured. More than 20 quality eating places run around the perimeter of the Market Place. The enclosed, air-conditioned shopping mall contains 215 small, quality stores and restaurants, all with a turn-of-the-century theme.

SINGING SECURITY GUARD — Bruce Bishop, 51, was one of more than 100 persons who auditioned for the job of singing security guard at Old Towne, which features continuous entertainment for shoppers.

UNUSUAL ARTISTRY — Crystal culptore Felix Moslein puts the finishings touches on the mast of a Spanish sailing ship sculptored on a glass ball. The art work took 220 hours. Moslein is one of 30 artists who are residents of Old Towne.

TOUCH OF THE PAST — Designed as a turn-of-the-century community, Old Towne's three-quarter-mile Old Towne Lane features nostalgic storefronts depicting more than 50 styles of architecture from the Old West to the early 1900s.

Tars In Ventura Today

By RALPH CHATOIAN
I-J Sports Editor

VENTURA — College of Marin's basketball team will be battling against Riverside City College today at 3 p.m. in the opening game of the 22nd annual California Community College state basketball tournament.

The Marin-Riverside game will be aired live by KTIM with radio station manager Bob Dinsmore handling the play-by-play action.

It will be the first of four opening round games involving eight conference champions. Marin is champion of the Camino Norte Conference and Riverside is titlist of theission Conference. The Tars of Marin sport the best record of 11 participating teams, 26-3, while Riverside is 28-5.

Compton College (25-6) carries the No. 1 rating among the teams and gained the favorite position by beating Santa Barbara City College 60-59 last week to win the Western State Conference crown.

Compton meets the East Los Angeles Huskies, also 25-6, of the Southern California Conference, in the last of the four games at Ventura College gym.

Other first round pairings: Santa Ana, (25-5) of the South Coast Conference vs. City College of San Francisco (23-7) of the Golden Gate Conference; and Long Beach City College (24-6) of the Metropolitan Conference vs. College of the Sequoias (18-13), Valley Conference.

Semi-finals are on Friday night, with the winners meeting Saturday night for the championship following an afternoon playoff between the losers for third. Losers of tonight's first round games will be eliminated.

Four conference winners among the small junior colleges will play at Ventura College Friday and Saturday for the small college division title.

Shasta (22-8) of the Golden Valley Conference plays Barstow (21-8) of the Desert Conference in the opener at 3 p.m. Friday, and Merced (16-14) of the Central Conference meets Menlo (23-6), Coast Conference, in the second game.

The small junior college division playoff for third place Saturday afternoon and for the championship Saturday night will be preliminary to the large schools' championship game.

Hair Furor On Track Team

By LEW CODDINGTON

Three students at Terra Linda High School have been prevented from running on the school's track and field team because their hair length does not conform to the team's grooming standards.

The three, all seniors, are Peter Ray, Mark Timmerman and Dan Bowman. They did not draw equipment Friday, would not have participated in meets which were rained out Saturday and Tuesday, and are not expected to be present today when the Trojans meet Piner and Montgomery high schools in a triangular meet in Santa Rosa.

Two others, senior Kevin Silva and junior Randy Hall, reportedly were dissatisfied with grooming requirements but their decisions not to participate were based on other factors as well. A sixth, student body president John Peterson, decided Monday to run after earlier indicating an unwillingness to do so.

"No, I will not take the others back on the team, even if they cut their hair," said coach Barry Amsden. "They've already had more than their fair opportunity to return."

The absence of Ray, Timmerman and Bowman stems from their unwillingness to meet a compromise grooming standard adopted in a meeting Friday by Amsden and the team members.

According to Amsden, the compromise standard forbids facial hair and hair so long it would fall into the eyes, requires sideburns to be trimmed but does not limit their length, allows hair to touch the shoulders, and permits hair to grow over the ears but requires it be tapered.

The compromise replaced an athletic department-wide "guideline" which banned facial hair and hair falling into the eyes, forbade sideburns below the bottom of the ear, said hair on the side must not cover the ear, and stipulated hair in back may not fall on the shirt collar, Amsden said.

The students considered the adoption of the more relaxed compromise standard "a victory," but argued in favor of

Attitude Of Giants Pleases Fox

Combined AP & UPI

PHOENIX — Manager Charlie Fox says he's pleased with the attitude of his San Francisco Giants on the eve of the opener of their 24-game exhibition season.

The Giants, who moved here Wednesday night after 10 days training at Casa Grande, "worked hard and well," Fox said, and he couldn't see how they could have advanced in their training more than they did.

Fox liked another thing about the early training: "They are always talking baseball among themselves, both on and off the practice field."

Second baseman Tito Fuentes and catcher Fran Healy were holdouts and missed the Casa Grande portion of the training. Both were reported en route by automobile Wednesday.

First baseman Willie McCovey is expected to miss Friday's opener at Scottsdale against the Chicago Cubs. McCovey has been taking cortisone treatments for pain in his insteps and swollen knees, and Fox has named Ed Goadson to play first against the Cubs.

Another guy glad to leave Casa Grande is pitcher Jim Barr whose trunk was stolen Wednesday.

Sharon Vs. Jeanne In Dallas Tennis

DALLAS (UPI) — Sharon Walsh of San Rafael today must confront the same problem she couln't solve last week: Jeanne Evert.

Miss Walsh, seeded eighth in the $37,000 Maureen Connolly Brinker women's tennis tournament, will meet Miss Evert of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., in today's second round, after having lost to her last week in the circuit's first tournament, the S&H Green Stamp Classic in Fort Lauderdale.

Miss Evert, 16, earned the spot opposite Miss Walsh by defeating Becky Vest of Jackson, Miss., yesterday 5-7, 6-1, 6-4. Meanwhile, her sister Chris was breezing to a 6-0, 6-0 victory over the chief attraction of the tournament — Cindy Brinker, 15, daughter of the former tennis great for whom the tournament was named.

"I was happy to play Chris," said Cindy. "I thought it was a great experience to get to play her. After all, not many people get the opportunity. Experience is what counts."

In another important match yesterday, sixth-seeded Linda Tuero of Metairie, La., struggled past Isabel Fernandez of Colombia, 6-7, 7-5, 8-6 in two and a half hours.

BASKETBALL: ERROR IN GAME DAY

Drake High School (24-5) will play Castlemont (22-1) of Oakland at 7:30 p.m. today in the first round of the basketball Tournament of Champions at the Oakland Coliseum Arena, not Wednesday as was erroneously reported yesterday.

Other games scheduled today pit Salesian (22-7) of Richmond against Arroyo (20-6) of San Lorenzo at 4:30 p.m.; Berkeley (26-6) against Dublin (19-3) at 6 p.m. and defending champion San Joaquin Memorial (22-5) of Fresno against Wilson (25-9) of San Francisco at 9 p.m.

If Drake wins, the Pirates will meet the Memorial-Wilson winner at 9 p.m. tomorrow in the semi-finals; if they lose, they'll face the loser of that game at 6 p.m. tomorrow in the consolation bracket.

One Tie, Two Defeats For Marin Nines

The three Marin high school baseball teams which played yesterday won, but at least San Marin didn't lose.

The Mustangs played to a 4-4 tie with St. Ignatius in a game called due to darkness after seven innings in San Francisco. Redwood lost to El Cerrito, 5-4. Drake fell to Riordan of San Francisco, 10-1.

San Marin (0-0-1) rallied for two runs in the top of the seventh on an RBI double by Ken Niebur followed by a single by Marty Nagel, but S.I. squeeze-bunted home the tying run in the bottom half of the inning.

Redwood (1-1) took a 4-0 lead with a four-run uprising in the fourth inning, as Doug Hartman smashed a three-run homer, but El Cerrito scored one in the fourth and four in the fifth to win. Giant pitchers issued six walks in the crucial fifth inning.

San Rafael's game with Mission of San Francisco was called off due to wet grounds at Albert Field, with no plans made to reschedule it, coach Jack Sims said.

49ers In 'Super Bowl' Win Over Raiders At Redwood

By TOM THOMPSON

The San Francisco 49ers are "Super Bowl VIII" champions today — at least in basketball. The 49ers outlasted the Oakland Raiders, 73-69, last night in a benefit basketball game at Redwood High School.

Dubbed "Super Bowl VIII" by Redwood athletic director Al Endriss, the game was played before a sellout house estimated by Endriss at 2,600, "the largest ever in our gym and probably the largest in Marin." Endriss said an estimate of how much money was raised for the Central Marin Babe Ruth League and the Redwood Benchwarmers athletic booster club wouldn't be available "for a couple of days."

John Isenbarger of the 49ers displayed the class of the evening, leading all scorers with 19 points. Isenbarger played basketball his first two years at the University of Indiana before the grid Hoosiers went to the Rose Bowl in his junior year, that is when he decided to stick with football.

Few of the players looked like they really belonged on the basketball court. Not very many cagers are seen that stand of 6-foot-5 and weigh around 250 pounds like the Raider linemen Art Shell or Art Thoms. Thoms held his own, however, with 16 points.

It was the lighter players who seemed to provide the scoring threats, with Niner Bruce Taylor, pouring in 17, including the winning free throw in the last minute of play, and Fred Beletnikoff, with his pro receiver's hands and speed accounting for 18 points for the losers. Raider runningback Charlie Smith contributed 16.

It was the fifth game during the grid off-season the two teams have played against each

Marin Tar Swim Team Has A New Look — Women Divers

By RON LENT

The 1972 College of Marin swim team divers may not grab many blue ribbons, but they will certainly catch a lot of judges' eyes. Pretty Kathy Quinlan and Ronnie St. Germaine are the first females to compete on a Marin County male team at the high school or junior college levels.

California Junior College Association rule changes this year permit females on J. C. teams; but California Interscholastic Federation rules bar gals from competing on state high school male teams, according to Marin County Athletic League commissioner George Corson.

Although their diving experiences are limited, Tar swim coach Bob Justice is confident they will be an asset in a heretofore all-male domain.

"Ronnie is working out pretty well," Justice says of the 5-foot-5, 125-pound sophomore from Terra Linda High School.

MESA, Ariz. (UPI) — The Oakland A's signed one top hurler while trade rumors swirled about another one.

The World Champs cut their holdout list to two when Ken Holtzman, 19-11 last time around, came to terms Wednesday for an estimated $60,000.

Meanwhile, owner Charlie Finley refused to confirm or deny reports from the Texas Rangers camp that the team was "very close" to a deal for the unsigned Vida Blue.

There was no word on the status of catcher Dave Duncan, the other unsigned player.

Seals Lead League In Ties

OAKLAND — The lowly California Golden Seals have wrested from Montreal the distinction of being the National Hockey League team with the most ties.

A 2-2 deadlock with the Buffalo Sabres here Wednesday night gave the Seals 15 ties to 14 for the Canadiens who have 45 victories to the Seals' 11.

The tie was the second for the Seals against Buffalo, which has only a one-point lead over Detroit in the scrap for the fourth-place playoff spot in the NHL East.

Buffalo's Norm Gratton scored at 12:36 of the first period on a power play tipin, and exactly one minute later Gerry Meehan caught California goalie Marv Edwards out of position and whipped the puck into an empty net to send Buffalo ahead 2-0.

Joey Johnston scored on a power play for the Seals at 2:04 of the second period, and Rick Smith whipped in a 30-foot shot at 15:51 of the third period to earn California the tie. Johnston's goal was his 23rd

Tars In Ventura Today

By RALPH CHATOIAN
I-J Sports Editor

VENTURA — College of Marin's basketball team will be battling against Riverside City College today at 3 p.m. in the opening game of the 22nd annual California Community College state basketball tournament.

The Marin-Riverside game will be aired live by KTIM with radio station manager Bob Dinsmore handling the play-by-play action.

It will be the first of four opening round games involving eight conference champions. Marin is champion of the Camino Norte Conference and Riverside is titlist of theission Conference. The Tars of Marin sport the best record of 11 participating teams, 26-3, while Riverside is 28-5.

Compton College (25-6) carries the No. 1 rating among the teams and gained the favorite position by beating Santa Barbara City College 60-59 last week to win the Western State Conference crown.

Compton meets the East Los Angeles Huskies, also 25-6, of the Southern California Conference, in the last of the four games at Ventura College gym.

Other first round pairings: Santa Ana, (25-5) of the South Coast Conference vs. City College of San Francisco (23-7) of the Golden Gate Conference; and Long Beach City College (24-6) of the Metropolitan Conference vs. College of the Sequoias (18-13), Valley Conference.

Semi-finals are on Friday night, with the winners meeting Saturday night for the championship following an afternoon playoff between the losers for third. Losers of tonight's first round games will be eliminated.

Four conference winners among the small junior colleges will play at Ventura College Friday and Saturday for the small college division title.

Shasta (22-8) of the Golden Valley Conference plays Barstow (21-8) of the Desert Conference in the opener at 3 p.m. Friday, and Merced (16-14) of the Central Conference meets Menlo (23-6), Coast Conference, in the second game.

The small junior college division playoff for third place Saturday afternoon and for the championship Saturday night will be preliminary to the large schools' championship game.

Hair Furor On Track Team

Sports

By LEW CODDINGTON

Three students at Terra Linda High School have been prevented from running on the school's track and field team because their hair length does not conform to the team's grooming standards.

The three, all seniors, are Peter Ray, Mark Timmerman and Dan Bowman. They did not draw equipment Friday, would not have participated in meets which were rained out Saturday and Tuesday, and are not expected to be present today when the Trojans meet Piner and Montgomery high schools in a triangular meet in Santa Rosa.

Two others, senior Kevin Silva and junior Randy Hall, reportedly were dissatisfied with grooming requirements but their decisions not to participate were based on other factors as well. A sixth, student body president John Peterson, decided Monday to run after earlier indicating an unwillingness to do so.

"No, I will not take the others back on the team, even if they cut their hair," said coach Barry Amsden. "They've already had more than their fair opportunity to return."

The absence of Ray, Timmerman and Bowman stems from their unwillingness to meet a compromise grooming standard adopted in a meeting Friday by Amsden and the team members.

According to Amsden, the compromise standard forbids facial hair and hair so long it would fall into the eyes, requires sideburns to be trimmed but does not limit their length, allows hair to touch the shoulders, and permits hair to grow over the ears but requires it be tapered.

The compromise replaced an athletic department-wide "guideline" which banned facial hair and hair falling into the eyes, forbade sideburns below the bottom of the ear, said hair on the side must not cover the ear, and stipulated hair in back may not fall on the shirt collar, Amsden said.

The students considered the adoption of the more relaxed compromise standard "a victory," but argued in favor of

Attitude Of Giants Pleases Fox

Combined AP & UPI

PHOENIX — Manager Charlie Fox says he's pleased with the attitude of his San Francisco Giants on the eve of the opener of their 24-game exhibition season.

The Giants, who moved here Wednesday night after 10 days training at Casa Grande, "worked hard and well," Fox said, and he couldn't see how they could have advanced in their training more than they did.

Fox liked another thing about the early training: "They are always talking baseball among themselves, both on and off the practice field."

Second baseman Tito Fuentes and catcher Fran Healy were holdouts and missed the Casa Grande portion of the training. Both were reported en route by automobile Wednesday.

First baseman Willie McCovey is expected to miss Friday's opener at Scottsdale against the Chicago Cubs. McCovey has been taking cortisone treatments for pain in his insteps and swollen knees, and Fox has named Ed Goadson to play first against the Cubs.

49ers In 'Super Bowl' Win Over Raiders At Redwood

The San Francisco 49ers are "Super Bowl VIII" champions today — at least in basketball. The 49ers outlasted the Oakland Raiders, 73-69, last night in a benefit basketball game at Redwood High School.

Mrs. Court Vs. Riggs April 28

Combined AP & UPI

SAN DIEGO — Margaret Smith Court of Australia is coming to the defense of women's tennis.

Winner of 13 of the past 14 tournaments on the women's tour, Mrs. Court agreed yesterday to accept a challenge by 55-year-old Bobby Riggs made to Billie Jean King last month.

Riggs and Mrs. Court will meet in a winner-take-all, two-out-of-three set match for $10,000 April 28.

Riggs, 1939 Wimbledon champion, is putting up $5,000 of his own money and San Diego Country Estates the other $5,000.

"I'm delighted Mrs. Court accepted the match," Riggs said. "I've played many of the great stars of the game. At this stage of my career it will be most satisfying to face the top woman player in a match that may open a new era of tennis competition."

Basketball

LOS ANGELES — All-American Ed Ratleff, Cal State Long Beach's sensational senior, has been named as the Pacific Coast Athletic Association's most valuable player for the second straight year.

The announcement of the selection by the conference's eight basketball coaches was made yesterday.

DETROIT — Jim Harding resigned his four-year post as head basketball coach at the University of Detroit, effective July 1, when his contract runs out.

Football

PITTSBURGH — Bob (Woody) Widenhofer, linebacker coach at the University of Minnesota last season, has signed as assistant defensive coach of the Pittsburgh Steelers, it was announced today.

Steelers head coach Chuck Noll said Widenhofer, 30, will not specialize in any single phase of defense.

Horse Racing

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — For what is believed to be the first time in history, Churchill Downs yesterday accepted a late nomination for the Kentucky Derby — nearly three weeks late.

The nomination of I Will Rule, a colt owned by Hokin House Farm of Highland Park, Ill., was postmarked Feb. 6, in plenty of time for the Feb. 15 midnight deadline.

But it did not arrive at the track until yesterday, a month after it was mailed.

The late nomination raised to 218 the total of Derby hopefuls nominated for the 99th running of the run for the roses May 5.

Skiing

MT. ALYESKA, Alaska — Bernadette Zubriggen, Switzerland, yesterday won the women's giant slalom World Cup ski race with a time of 1:23.21.

TIEDEMAN, TRUMBO ARE SELECTED

DAVIS (UPI) — Guard Steve Tiedeman and coach Bill Trumbo of basketball champion Sonoma State have been singled out for honors in the Far Western Conference.

Tiedeman won Basketball Player of the Year honors while Trumbo was named the circuit's Coach of the Year.

Tiedeman, a guard who had a 22.6 scoring average while leading the Cossacks to their first league championship, was named on every ballot cast by the conference's sports information directors and newsmen covering FWC games. Tiedeman also received honorable mention recognition yesterday on the UPI Pacific Coast College team announced yesterday.

A distant second was Gary Fox of U.C. Davis while Dave Moore of Chico State was third.

2 Veteran Umpires Are Out Of Jobs

NEW YORK (UPI) — Two veteran umpires—Mel Steiner and Stan Landes—will definitely not be back at work in the National League this season and the status of two others—Augie Donatelli and Ken Burkhardt—remains in doubt.

Fred Fleig, National League supervisor of umpires, said Wednesday night that Steiner, 56, is being retired and that the contract of Landes, 49, is not being renewed. Landes has not reached the league's retirement age of 55 but no reason was given for his dismissal.

"You'll have to ask National League President Chub Feeney about that," said Fleig from his residence in St. Petersburg, Fla. "I can't comment on it. He's handling it."

Contacted at his home in Sherwood, Wis., Landes said he was being let go because of his work with the Umpires Association.

Landes, who has worked three World Series and three All-Star games, including the 1972 contest, said the league told him his contract wasn't being renewed because of personal problems.

But Landes discounted that and said the cause was his being outspoken as a member of the Umpires Association, including his actions at a meeting in Chicago last November. The following week, he said, he got his dismissal notice.

"They couldn't shut me up," he said. "Maybe I'm too honest but I speak what I believe is the truh. I don't want to deceive the public."

Landes, who in 1964 was the association's first president, said he is opposing the decision and added that the case is now before the regional National Labor relations Board.

Fleig said the names of Donatelli, 58, and Burkhardt, 56, had been scratched from the league's roster of umpires for the coming season, but that it was possible both would return this year.

Redwood Leads Way In Swim

Led by John Redig and Spencer Eldred, Redwood High School has compiled eight of the 11 best marks in Marin County Athletic League dual-meet swimming competition this season.

Redig has recorded the top times in the 200-yard individual medley and the 50 and 100 freestyles. Eldred has the top marks in the 200 and 400 freestyles. Each was a member of the pace-setting 100 medley relay team.

The best times:

200 medley relay — Redwood (Redig, Eldred, W. Lager, Dunham); 1:48.6; 200 free — Eldred (R), 1:52.6; 200 I.M. — Redig (R), 2:06.9; 50 free — Redig (R), 23.8 (twice); Diving — Schindler (R), 223.0; 100 fly — Patocchi (N), 59.2; 100 free — Redig (R), 52.0; 400 free — Eldred (R), 3:59.0; 100 back — Atwood (T), 1:01.9; 100 breast — Miller (TL), 1:07.0; 400 free relay — Redwood (Russell, Silcox, Dunham, M. Lager); 3:39.5.

She is taking part in the school production of Fiddler On the Roof, and, so, she has issed practices to go to rehearsals and to keep up with her class work."

Both girls have gymnastics backgrounds which enable them to display good body control in dives. "They have a feel where their bodies are when they are in the air; this enables them to control themselves better in their dives," Justice explains.

The coach adds that Kathy, an 18-year-old freshman from Tamalpais who is 5-4 and 115 pounds, and Ronnie, 19, have been accepted by their teammates. "The guys say our girls are pretty good-looking."

The girls hope to help the team improve on last year's 3-2 record in the Camino Norte Conference. The Tars were third in the CNC and were 8-8 overall. They are 1-1 this season.

"We should be about third again this year. West Valley and De Anza are powerhouses. We can't touch them, but Santa Rosa, Solano and us are about equal," Justice said.

"Lack of people," according to Justice, is the biggest problem facing the Tar team. "We give away quite a bit." With only 13 members, including the two divers, the Tars are limited; but the talent is there.

"We should have a good freestyle relay team with Bob Dunker, Bruce Fromberg, Jeff Grant, and Gary Hartsough," Justice says. The coach also expects Grant to be good in the butterfly along with Dennis Knowles "if he gets in good shape. Kit Thomas should do fairly well in the breaststroke."

Justice also had good words for Dunker whom he deems a "good all-around swimmer." Dunker is a sophomore from Ohio, Fromberg a sophomore from Terra Linda, Grant a sophomore from Terra Linda, and Hartsough a freshman from Tamalpais. Thomas and Knowles are sophomores from Terra Linda.

Dave Schindler, a sophomore from Redwood competes in the breaststroke and freestyle events but is sidelined now with torn shoulder ligaments sustained while competing on the wrestling team. Grant is also a wrestling team member.

Pirates' Shift In Poor Start

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The Pittsburgh Pirates' great experiment of 1973 is having trouble getting off the launching pad.

Manny Sanguillen, the Pirates' catcher in recent seasons, has been shifted to right field to replace the late Roberto Clemente and has run into some problems already.

On Wednesday, Sanguillen misjudged one fly ball, letting it drop for a double, and fell down fielding a base hit in his four innings of play as the Detroit Tigers romped to an 8-3 victory over the Pirates in exhibition play.

"I'm satisfied," said Pirate Manager Bill Virdon when asked about Sanguillen's play, but he did admit that, "Clemente would have caught that ball but I can't compare Sanguillen with Clemente."

Sanguillen's future in right field depends on the success of young catcher Milt May. If May can prove he's capable of hitting major league pitching, then Sanguillen probably would remain as the Pirates' right fielder. Otherwise, he would return behind the plate and open up the right field slot for some talented youngsters.

Jim Northrup and Dick Sharon had homers to highlight the Tigers' 16-hit assault on five Pirate pitchers.

In the only other exhibition game, designated pinch-hitter Frank Tepedino stroked four hits, including three doubles, and Ken Bennett drove in four runs with a three-run homer and a single as the New York Yankees crushed the Minnesota Twins 11-4.

Ron Swoboda also drove in three runs and Celerino Sanchez and Fred Frazier had homers for the Yankees, who played second line players almost exclusively. Rookie Mike Adams homered for Minnesota.

Left-hander Ken Holtzman signed with the Oakland A's for an estimated $60,000, leaving only Vida Blue and Dave Duncan unsigned among the world champions, and Rod Carew signed for $55,000 with the Twins. Harmon Killebrew and Jim Kaat have yet to sign with the Twins.

Relief specialist Mike Marshall agreed to terms with the Montreal Expos and Jerry Johnson, another reliever, signed with Cleveland, which obtained him from San Francisco Wednesday.

In other news around the camps, Mike Ivie and Fred Kendall, competing for the starting catcher's job, collected five hits between them in the San Diego Padres' intrasquad game and Bob Boone and Greg Luzinski drove in three runs each in the Philadelphia Phillies' first intrasquad game of the spring.

Gary Peters, a 35-year-old veteran trying to catch on as a free agent with the Kansas City Royals, made a good showing in an intrasquad game, retiring all nine batters he faced and allowing only one ball to be hit out of the infield.

NBA Involved In Television Suit

NEW YORK (AP) — The Columbia Broadcasting System must show cause March 13 why the National Basketball Association should not be compelled to enter into good faith negotiations with American Broadcasting Company Sports, Inc.

State Supreme Court Judge Wilfred A. Waltemade signed a show-cause order Wednesday.

ABC filed a suit earlier in the day asking that the NBA's 1973-74 contract with CBS be declared null and void. No formal contract has been signed but ABC charged that an agreement has been made with CBS pending a turndown by ABC of a contract that is unacceptable and offered "not in good faith."

The defendants were also directed to explain why they, pending trial and determination, should not be barred from entering into or performing any agreement between the NBA and CBS for the telecasting of NBA games during the 1973-74, 1974-75 and 1975-76 basketball seasons.

further loosening or abandoning of the restrictions.

"Track or any other sport at Terra Linda or any school is for the individuals, not the coaches," said Bowman, who said his hair is shoulder-length and cut in a shag. "It's not really fair — you're busting your rear end anyway, and then not to be able to compete because of this.

"I'm really into backing these people (the dissidents) and I'll back them fully."

"I think if hair isn't in the way (the length) should be up to the individual person," said Ray, whose hair extends to the middle of his back.

Federal district judge George B. Harris of San Francisco, ruling in the famous Redwood hair caseqon March 10, 1970, upheld the right of individual coaches to set grooming requirements, however.

"I can see where it would have to go both ways, but I can't see rules like this in this particular sport," said Timmerman, who describes his hair as a bit more than shoulder length. "Track differs from some sports, like swimming, where hair obviously gets in the way."

Amsden said Silva and Hall were dissatisfied with the regulations, but that Silva also citd "a good paying job" and Hall "a matter of studies" for not running.

Peterson was dissatisfied Friday with the compromise, but met with Amsden Monday and decided to run. His hair already met the requirements. "The team met a compromise and as far as I can see if I held out it would be to no advantage — our effectiveness had ended," he said.

Peterson said a resolution adopted last Tuesday by the Terra Linda Student Council, over which he presides, was "one of the major reasons the athletic department may have changed." The resolution called the original strict departmental guideline "a detriment" and said it should be "immediately terminated," Peterson said.

Asked why he instituted the compromise standard, instead of eliminating all restrictions, Amsden said, "I felt it was more important at this point to support those athletes who had abided by the standard and who had given something of themselves in order to compete, rather than take the position of being more liberal."

Bicycle Race Series Sunday

By LEW CODDINGTON

For the third consecutive year, high school students with bicycles, helmets and a lot of nerve will be streaking through the valleys and laboring up the seemingly endless hills of Marin as part of a series of races sponsored by the Marin Cyclists.

The second of these, the San Geronimo Criterium, is scheduled Sunday. Cyclists are planning to assemble at the intersection of San Geronimo Valley Drive and Railroad Avenue at 9 a.m., with the race to begin at 9:30.

There will be racing in three classes — A, B and C. The A's will do 13.2 miles and the B's and C's 8.8 miles. Classes were determined by the results of a 10-mile time trial held last Thursday, but generally speaking Amateur Bicycle League of America members end up in Class A, high school juniors and seniors in B and freshmen, sophomores and girls in Class C.

There will be eight other races from now through May 28, including a three-day stage race during Easter Vacation, April 17-18-19.

Points are awarded for each race, and at the end of the series trophies will be given for the best overall rider and the best team (school), and prizes will be awarded the top three racers in each class.

Entry fee for all 10 races is $4, part of which goes toward a trial membership in the Marin Cyclists, enabling the rider to participate in the regular club races as well. Any high school student is eligible.

In the time trials last week, Tim Anderson of Tamalpais High covered the 10-mile course near Corte Madera in 24:21. Other top times included Tom Pickett of Redwood, 25:19, and Tim Lessley of San Marin, 25:50.

For further information on the series, contact Russ Fujiwara at 41 Staghound Passage, Corte Madera, after school hours.

KEEPING YOUR COOL — Among the problems besetting the swimming program at Drake was a heating difficulty at the pool. A gas line broke recently, coach Dave Ramos reported, so the water temperature has hovered at 56 degrees instead of the normal 78.

TOC TRIVIA — The chief attraction of the basketball Tournament of Champions is Cliff Pondexter of San Joaquin Memorial of Fresno, a 6-6 All-America center. If the name seems familiar, it's because his older brother, Roscoe, is the sixth man on Long Beach State's nationally ranked team. A third brother, Sam, starts at forward for Memorial.

BUSY MAN — Redwood coach Doug Basham will be a bit schizophrenic on Saturday. His skiing team is scheduled to compete in its league championship meet on the slopes of the Sierra, while the track team is supposed to take part in the Marin County Athletic League Relays at College of Marin. It's a tough commute.

IMPORTANT MAT-TERS — Last weekend's state wrestling tournament in Hayward gave Northern Californians their first look at the grapplers from the Southland. There's little if any difference in technique, reports Terra Linda coach Bob Hetherington, but quite a difference in strength and skill.

The sentiment was echoed by the parents of the two Trojans who qualified for the meet, Jon Loberg and Ron Losk. "The caliber of the wrestlers is amazing," complained Robert Loberg.

Mrs. Court Vs. Riggs April 28

Combined AP & UPI

SAN DIEGO — Margaret Smith Court of Australia is coming to the defense of women's tennis.

Winner of 13 of the past 14 tournaments on the women's tour, Mrs. Court agreed yesterday to accept a challenge by 55-year-old Bobby Riggs made to Billie Jean King last month.

Riggs and Mrs. Court will meet in a winner-take-all, two-out-of-three set match for $10,000 April 28.

Riggs, 1939 Wimbledon champion, is putting up $5,000 of his own money and San Diego Country Estates the other $5,000.

"I'm delighted Mrs. Court accepted the match," Riggs said. "I've played many of the great stars of the game. At this stage of my career it will be most satisfying to face the top woman player in a match that may open a new era of tennis competition."

Basketball

LOS ANGELES — All-American Ed Ratleff, Cal State Long Beach's sensational senior, has been named as the Pacific Coast Athletic Association's most valuable player for the second straight year.

The announcement of the selection by the conference's eight basketball coaches was made yesterday.

DETROIT — Jim Harding resigned his four-year post as head basketball coach at the University of Detroit, effective July 1, when his contract runs out.

Football

PITTSBURGH — Bob (Woody) Widenhofer, linebacker coach at the University of Minnesota last season, has signed as assistant defensive coach of the Pittsburgh Steelers, it was announced today.

Steelers head coach Chuck Noll said Widenhofer, 30, will not specialize in any single phase of defense.

Horse Racing

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — For what is believed to be the first time in history, Churchill Downs yesterday accepted a late nomination for the Kentucky Derby — nearly three weeks late.

The nomination of I Will Rule, a colt owned by Hokin House Farm of Highland Park, Ill., was postmarked Feb. 6, in plenty of time for the Feb. 15 midnight deadline.

But it did not arrive at the track until yesterday, a month after it was mailed.

The late nomination raised to 218 the total of Derby hopefuls nominated for the 99th running of the run for the roses May 5.

Skiing

MT. ALYESKA, Alaska — Bernadette Zubriggen, Switzerland, yesterday won the women's giant slalom World Cup ski race with a time of 1:23.21.

TIEDEMAN, TRUMBO ARE SELECTED

DAVIS (UPI) — Guard Steve Tiedeman and coach Bill Trumbo of basketball champion Sonoma State have been singled out for honors in the Far Western Conference.

Tiedeman won Basketball Player of the Year honors while Trumbo was named the circuit's Coach of the Year.

Tiedeman, a guard who had a 22.6 scoring average while leading the Cossacks to their first league championship, was named on every ballot cast by the conference's sports information directors and newsmen covering FWC games. Tiedeman also received honorable mention recognition yesterday on the UPI Pacific Coast College team announced yesterday.

A distant second was Gary Fox of U.C. Davis while Dave Moore of Chico State was third.

2 Veteran Umpires Are Out Of Jobs

NEW YORK (UPI) — Two veteran umpires—Mel Steiner and Stan Landes—will definitely not be back at work in the National League this season and the status of two others—Augie Donatelli and Ken Burkhardt—remains in doubt.

Fred Fleig, National League supervisor of umpires, said Wednesday night that Steiner, 56, is being retired and that the contract of Landes, 49, is not being renewed. Landes has not reached the league's retirement age of 55 but no reason was given for his dismissal.

"You'll have to ask National League President Chub Feeney about that," said Fleig from his residence in St. Petersburg, Fla. "I can't comment on it. He's handling it."

Contacted at his home in Sherwood, Wis., Landes said he was being let go because of his work with the Umpires Association.

Landes, who has worked three World Series and three All-Star games, including the 1972 contest, said the league told him his contract wasn't being renewed because of personal problems.

But Landes discounted that and said the cause was his being outspoken as a member of the Umpires Association, including his actions at a meeting in Chicago last November. The following week, he said, he got his dismissal notice.

"They couldn't shut me up," he said. "Maybe I'm too honest but I speak what I believe is the truh. I don't want to deceive the public."

Landes, who in 1964 was the association's first president, said he is opposing the decision and added that the case is now before the regional National Labor relations Board.

Fleig said the names of Donatelli, 58, and Burkhardt, 56, had been scratched from the league's roster of umpires for the coming season, but that it was possible both would return this year.

day, Oakland held an intrasquad game with The Bill Posedels getting home runs from Billy Conigliaro, Frank Fernandez and Ted Kubiak to defeat the Grover Resigners 8-2.

The A's planned to concentrate on fundamentals before opening up their 28-game Cactus League schedule Friday here against Milwaukee.

Jim Hunter, Dennis Myers and Darold Knowles will go for the A's in that one.

"I think if hair isn't in the way (the length) should be up to the individual person," said Ray, whose hair extends to the middle of his back.

Federal district judge George B. Harris of San Francisco, ruling in the famous Redwood hair caseqon March 10, 1970, upheld the right of individual coaches to set grooming requirements, however.

"I can see where it would have to go both ways, but I can't see rules like this in this particular sport," said Timmerman, who describes his hair as a bit more than shoulder length. "Track differs from some sports, like swimming, where hair obviously gets in the way."

Amsden said Silva and Hall were dissatisfied with the regulations, but that Silva also citd "a good paying job" and Hall "a matter of studies" for not running.

Peterson was dissatisfied Friday with the compromise, but met with Amsden Monday and decided to run. His hair already met the requirements. "The team met a compromise and as far as I can see if I held out it would be to no advantage — our effectiveness had ended," he said.

Peterson said a resolution adopted last Tuesday by the Terra Linda Student Council, over which he presides, was "one of the major reasons the athletic department may have changed." The resolution called the original strict departmental guideline "a detriment" and said it should be "immediately terminated," Peterson said.

Asked why he instituted the compromise standard, instead of eliminating all restrictions, Amsden said, "I felt it was more important at this point to support those athletes who had abided by the standard and who had given something of themselves in order to compete, rather than take the position of being more liberal."

Bicycle Race Series Sunday

By LEW CODDINGTON

For the third consecutive year, high school students with bicycles, helmets and a lot of nerve will be streaking through the valleys and laboring up the seemingly endless hills of Marin as part of a series of races sponsored by the Marin Cyclists.

The second of these, the San Geronimo Criterium, is scheduled Sunday. Cyclists are planning to assemble at the intersection of San Geronimo Valley Drive and Railroad Avenue at 9 a.m., with the race to begin at 9:30.

There will be racing in three classes — A, B and C. The A's will do 13.2 miles and the B's and C's 8.8 miles. Classes were determined by the results of a 10-mile time trial held last Thursday, but generally speaking Amateur Bicycle League of America members end up in Class A, high school juniors and seniors in B and freshmen, sophomores and girls in Class C.

There will be eight other races from now through May 28, including a three-day stage race during Easter Vacation, April 17-18-19.

Points are awarded for each race, and at the end of the series trophies will be given for the best overall rider and the best team (school), and prizes will be awarded the top three racers in each class.

Entry fee for all 10 races is $4, part of which goes toward a trial membership in the Marin Cyclists, enabling the rider to participate in the regular club races as well. Any high school student is eligible.

In the time trials last week, Tim Anderson of Tamalpais High covered the 10-mile course near Corte Madera in 24:21. Other top times included Tom Pickett of Redwood, 25:19, and Tim Lessley of San Marin, 25:50.

For further information on the series, contact Russ Fujiwara at 41 Staghound Passage, Corte Madera, after school hours.

KEEPING YOUR COOL — Among the problems besetting the swimming program at Drake was a heating difficulty at the pool. A gas line broke recently, coach Dave Ramos reported, so the water temperature has hovered at 56 degrees instead of the normal 78.

TOC TRIVIA — The chief attraction of the basketball Tournament of Champions is Cliff Pondexter of San Joaquin Memorial of Fresno, a 6-6 All-America center. If the name seems familiar, it's because his older brother, Roscoe, is the sixth man on Long Beach State's nationally ranked team. A third brother, Sam, starts at forward for Memorial.

BUSY MAN — Redwood coach Doug Basham will be a bit schizophrenic on Saturday. His skiing team is scheduled to compete in its league championship meet on the slopes of the Sierra, while the track team is supposed to take part in the Marin County Athletic League Relays at College of Marin. It's a tough commute.

IMPORTANT MAT-TERS — Last weekend's state wrestling tournament in Hayward gave Northern Californians their first look at the grapplers from the Southland. There's little if any difference in technique, reports Terra Linda coach Bob Hetherington, but quite a difference in strength and skill.

The sentiment was echoed by the parents of the two Trojans who qualified for the meet, Jon Loberg and Ron Losk. "The caliber of the wrestlers is amazing," complained Robert Loberg.

Sun Valley Area Is Mecca For Skiers

By CHARLIE COANE

The mystique of Sun Valley may have begun in 1941 when Sonja Henie starred in the movie, "Sun Valley Serenade," but today this Idaho resort is better than ever.

Many skiers who have traversed mountains throughout the world — France, Austria, Germany, Italy, Canada, wherever — claim that for all-around fine skiing, Sun Valley has no equal.

Persons come from all over to ski at Sun Valley, but it was astonishing for me to learn that 35-40 per cent of the skiers are from the greater Bay Area.

"Of course there are many tours from the San Francisco area to here," reports marketing vice president Chip Fisher, "but most people just arrange things themselves and spend a week. And we have many people who return year after year."

From the Bay Area, Sun Valley is reached by a relatively easy 11-14 hour drive (depending upon how many stops, how fast you drive, and the weather). You can drive it straight through or stop in such glorious spots as Elko or Wells, Nev. The resort is reached via Interstate 80 to Wells, left on Highway 93 and keep going til you're there. You can also fly to Boise or Twin Falls an go by bus or car from there — or fly to Hailey, 13 miles away from Sun Valley.

What's so special about Sun Valley? First and foremost, the skiing. For beginners and beginner intermediates, there's Dollar Mountain and connecting Elkhorn — two perfectly groomed testing grounds, located near the village of Sun Valley, for budding skiers. But Bald Mountain (better known as Baldy) is where the action is. There is such a variety of runs on nearby Baldy, that it boggles the mind. I skied there for six straight days in perfect sunshine and still missed several.

The caliber of skiing on Baldy is very high and many of the top hotdoggers will leave you muttering to yourself. There are several easy runs, but in general, Baldy is for people who have skied before. Some of the runs such as Limelight, Lower Holiday and Exhibition are also for people who have skied before. A lot. The world-renowned ski school, now under the direction of Paul Ramlow, has 200 instructors and is extremely well organized.

When people come to Sun Valley, most are there for a week or more. Weekends are less crowded because people are arriving and leaving on Saturdays and Sundays. Lift lines? The advertising says virtually no waiting lines, and for the most part, it's true. I caught a couple of long lines (maybe 10-15 minutes), but I would guess my average wait was one minute. They added a few lifts this year, including a triple chair, which really helped.

The village of Sun Valley abounds with fascinating little shops throughout the mall. One mile away is Ketchum, and two miles from there are the access lifts to the top of Baldy. The village runs shuttle busses to and from Ketchum and Baldy, and visitors can also stay in Ketchum or right near the access lifts to Baldy — so near that it's a 30 second walk to jump on a chairlift.

The non-skiing activity seems almost endless: a scenic apres ski cocktail, a sleighride to dinner, dancing to a wild band, a gathering in a hot outdoor whirlpool. Whatever you want to do, it's probably there. There are also plenty of family-type accomodations and activities.

The people that work around Sun Valley are all so friendly and helpful that it creates a very nice mood. And the place has far more than its share of good looking girls and handsome men. It's also not unusual to, as I did, ski past Barbara Streisand, bump into Cliff Robertson at the Lockout Restaurant on top of Baldy or ride the chair behind Janet Leigh, or encounter other well-known people.

Mogul Ski Club has a special trip April 15-21 to Jackson Hole for members and guests; all inclusive, $150-$165 per person. For more information, get in touch with the Club at 163 Tunstead Avenue, San Anselmo.

Nicklaus Is Favored In Doral Golf

MIAMI (UPI) — The Doral Eastern Air Lines $150,000 golf tournament opens Thursday and since Jack Nicklaus will play, he's the favorite.

Nicklaus these days is the favorite whenever he plays. He didn't play in the Citrus Open last week in Orlando.

There are other reasons for the blond long ball hitter's role as favorite at Doral: he is the defending champion, has always played well on the long Doral Country Club "blue monster" course, and has been honing his game for Doral.

Nicklaus was unhappy with the way he played in the super-rich Jackie Gleason classic a few miles north of here two weeks ago and took last week off to sharpen his game.

"I'm mad at the way I played at Inverrary, that's why I'm playing more to get ready for Doral," Nicklaus said. "I'm playing more than normally."

Nicklaus has played the Doral 10 times for an average of 70.47 strokes a round, way below any other contestant.

The Golden Bear was only four shots behind Gleason winner Lee Trevino and there is little doubt he will be in contention again this week in a field that includes Trevino and Citrus Open winner Buddy Allin, but which will be missing Arnold Palmer and Billy Casper.

Palmer said after the Gleason tournament he would skip Doral.

"I'm not going to play at Doral because I don't think I'm playing well enough to be competitive," he said at the time. He did play in the Citrus Open, but missed the cut.

Another who missed the cut last week was Forrest Fezler, the young pro who missed a four-foot putt at Invarrary that would have forced a playoff with Trevino.

Normally, because he missed the cut in the previous tournament, Fezler would have to qualify with the rabbits on Mon-Inverrary, granted him a sponsor's exemption.

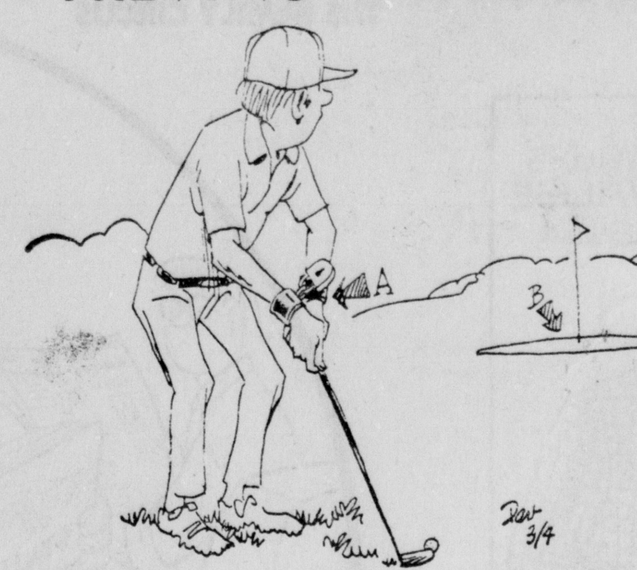
Fezler also has noticed his newfound popularity. "It's kind of nice, really," he blushed after he was asked for his autograph.

Casper is skipping the Florida tour again this year because of his allergy to Florida grass and because he thinks he needs a rest.

Boyer To Manage

Ken Boyer will manage the St. Louis Cardinals' farm team at Little Rock, Ark., in 1973.

TREVINO TALKS GOLF



Delicate Pitch-And-Run

By LEE TREVINO

The key to making this shot a winner is to keep the wrists locked. A flippy-wristed player, as Tommy Bolt calls 'em, doesn't have any business fooling with the pitch-and-run.

For one thing, a delicate touch is important. We're talking about a little tester that takes a lot of practice. Most businessmen don't have time to work on the refinements of the short game. The winning golfer takes the time.

Since it's a three-quarter shot, it's better to hold the backswing down — something like a long putting stroke. The distance requires a small arc, making the approach to the impact area even more sensitive.

Concentrate on not breaking the wrists. This makes the shot easier to judge, simpler to control. The dude who cocks his wrists and unwinds on a pitch-and-put is going off half-cocked. He'll either blade the shot or hit it "fat," meaning a dumper.

Pick a target area for the ball to land in. Playing the ball off the right heel, try to hit the area with enough speed to run the ball to the flag.

It's only a long putt, amigo — except some of it's in the air.

Westmont, Montana Fives Win Places

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Westmont and Eastern Montana have won spots in the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics small college tourney, which starts March 12 in Kansas City.

Westmont nudged Azusa 60-57 Wednesday with Fred Devaughn hitting 15 for the winners and Dennis Vanzant 25 for the losers.

Eastern Montana downed Alaska 98-91 in a playoff between two district winners.

Meanwhile, UPI named its all-Coast team and it could well rate as the All America team. UCLA's Bill Walton and Long Beach State's Ed Ratleff were first-team All Americas last year and should repeat.

Smooth Keith Wilkes of the nationally top-rated Bruins is also on the team as are the nation's two top scorers, William Averitt of Pepperdine and Ray Lewis of Los Angeles State.

Making up the second team were skyscrapers Mike Stewart of Santa Clara, Kevin Restani of University of San Francisco and Rich Kelley of Stanford along with Olympian Tom Henderson of Hawaii and Pacific-8 scoring leader Louie Nelson of Washington.

Basketball Results

John Huff won the battle by scoring 27 points to 25 for Larry Schmidt, but Schmidt won the war by leading his MacArthur's team to a 54-47 victory over Manzanita last night in a San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department adult basketball game. In the only other scheduled encounter, the Sharks won by forfeit.

Marilyn Won't Talk About Fritz

ROCKFORD, Ill. (UPI) — Mrs. Marilyn Peterson doesn't want to talk about the marital problems which her husband, Yankee Pitcher Fritz Peterson described earlier this week.

The 29-year-old mother of two remained in seclusion today in Northern Illinois near the home of her parents, who protected her privacy.

A source close to the family said Mrs. Peterson fears the more that is said, the worse it will be for her two young sons, especially her impressionable 5-year-old.

As for the marital "swap," which Peterson described as having taken place with another Yankee Pitcher, Mike Kekich and his wife, Susanne, the source said it never existed.

"We don't understand, but we figure if he (Peterson) keeps talking long enough, he'll hang himself," the source said. "We thought we knew him, but obviously we did not. He's changed."

"We loved him like one of the family."

Mrs. Peterson is seeking a divorce at her husband's request. The source said she will maintain custody of her sons.

Nicklaus Is Favored In Doral Golf

MIAMI (UPI) — The Doral Eastern Air Lines $150,000 golf tournament opens Thursday and since Jack Nicklaus will play, he's the favorite.

Nicklaus these days is the favorite whenever he plays. He didn't play in the Citrus Open last week in Orlando.

There are other reasons for the blond long ball hitter's role as favorite at Doral: he is the defending champion, has always played well on the long Doral Country Club "blue monster" course, and has been honing his game for Doral.

Nicklaus was unhappy with the way he played in the super-rich Jackie Gleason classic a few miles north of here two weeks ago and took last week off to sharpen his game.

"I'm mad at the way I played at Inverrary, that's why I'm playing more to get ready for Doral," Nicklaus said. "I'm playing more than normally."

Nicklaus has played the Doral 10 times for an average of 70.47 strokes a round, way below any other contestant.

The Golden Bear was only four shots behind Gleason winner Lee Trevino and there is little doubt he will be in contention again this week in a field that includes Trevino and Citrus Open winner Buddy Allin, but which will be missing Arnold Palmer and Billy Casper.

Palmer said after the Gleason tournament he would skip Doral.

"I'm not going to play at Doral because I don't think I'm playing well enough to be competitive," he said at the time. He did play in the Citrus Open, but missed the cut.

Another who missed the cut last week was Forrest Fezler, the young pro who missed a four-foot putt at Invarrary that would have forced a playoff with Trevino.

Normally, because he missed the cut in the previous tournament, Fezler would have to qualify with the rabbits on Mon- Inverrary, granted him a sponsor's exemption.

Fezler also has noticed his newfound popularity. "It's kind of nice, really," he blushed after he was asked for his autograph.

Casper is skipping the Florida tour again this year because of his allergy to Florida grass and because he thinks he needs a rest.

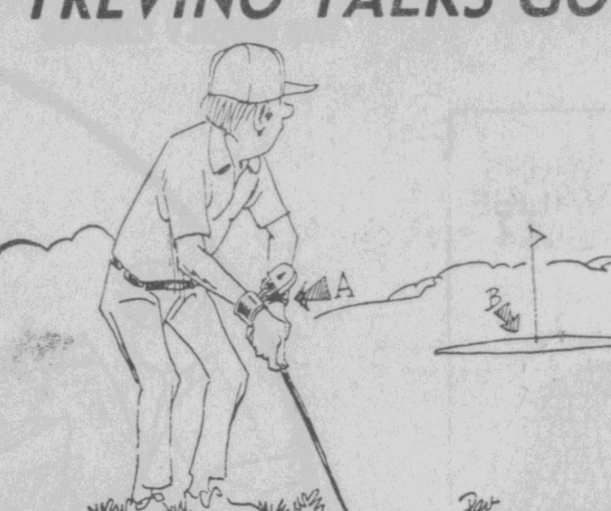
TREVINO TALKS GOLF



Delicate Pitch-And-Run

By LEE TREVINO

The key to making this shot a winner is to keep the wrists locked. A flippy-wristed player, as Tommy Bolt calls 'em, doesn't have any business fooling with the pitch-and-run.

For one thing, a delicate touch is important. We're talking about a little tester that takes a lot of practice. Most businessmen don't have time to work on the refinements of the short game. The winning golfer takes the time.

Since it's a three-quarter shot, it's better to hold the backswing down — something like a long putting stroke. The distance requires a small arc, making the approach to the impact area even more sensitive.

Concentrate on not breaking the wrists. This makes the shot easier to judge, simpler to control. The dude who cocks his wrists and unwinds on a pitch-and-put is going off half-cocked. He'll either blade the shot or hit it "fat," meaning a dumper.

Pick a target area for the ball to land in. Playing the ball off the right heel, try to hit the area with enough speed to run the ball to the flag.

It's only a long putt, amigo — except some of it's in the air.

Westmont, Montana Fives Win Places

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Westmont and Eastern Montana have won spots in the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics small college tourney, which starts March 12 in Kansas City.

Westmont nudged Azusa 60-57 Wednesday with Fred Devaughn hitting 15 for the winners and Dennis Vanzant 25 for the losers.

Eastern Montana downed Alaska 98-91 in a playoff between two district winners.

Meanwhile, UPI named its all-Coast team and it could well rate as the All America team. UCLA's Bill Walton and Long Beach State's Ed Ratleff were first-team All Americas last year and should repeat.

Smooth Keith Wilkes of the nationally top-rated Bruins is also on the team as are the nation's two top scorers, William Averitt of Pepperdine and Ray Lewis of Los Angeles State.

Making up the second team were skyscrapers Mike Stewart of Santa Clara, Kevin Restani of University of San Francisco and Rich Kelley of Stanford along with Olympian Tom Henderson of Hawaii and Pacific-8 scoring leader Louie Nelson of Washington.

Basketball Results

John Huff won the battle by scoring 27 points to 25 for Larry Schmidt, but Schmidt won the war by leading his MacArthur's team to a 54-47 victory over Manzanita last night in a San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department adult basketball game. In the only other scheduled encounter, the Sharks won by forfeit.

Marilyn Won't Talk About Fritz

ROCKFORD, Ill. (UPI) — Mrs. Marilyn Peterson doesn't want to talk about the marital problems which her husband, Yankee Pitcher Fritz Peterson described earlier this week.

The 29-year-old mother of two remained in seclusion today in Northern Illinois near the home of her parents, who protected her privacy.

A source close to the family said Mrs. Peterson fears the more that is said, the worse it will be for her two young sons, especially her impressionable 5-year-old.

As for the marital "swap," which Peterson described as having taken place with another Yankee Pitcher, Mike Kekich and his wife, Susanne, the source said it never existed.

"We don't understand, but we figure if he (Peterson) keeps talking long enough, he'll hang himself," the source said. "We thought we knew him, but obviously we did not. He's changed."

"We loved him like one of the family."

Mrs. Peterson is seeking a divorce at her husband's request. The source said she will maintain custody of her sons.

Take the Big Brother Test.
We're looking for "Saturday heroes"—men willing to spend a few hours each week being a friend to a fatherless boy. Could you make it?
Yes No
1. Are you between 18 and 99? ☐ ☐
2. Are you a truck driver, doctor, postman, clerk, lawyer, salesman, businessman, farmer, student, or retiree? ☐ ☐
3. Are you black or white or red or yellow or green? ☐ ☐
4. Do you think America's two million fatherless boys need help to grow into men? ☐ ☐
5. Do you think they need companionship more than they need material things? ☐ ☐
6. Do you have a few hours a week to share with a fatherless boy? ☐ ☐
7. Are you looking for something that's missing in your life? ☐ ☐
Seven "yesses" and you're the one man in fifty we're looking for. Call your Big Brothers—before another boy goes by.

South's Cautious Play Saves A Difficult No-Trump Contract

Sometimes only one of your opponents is dangerous, and you must therefore avoid losing tricks to this player. It may be quite safe to lose a trick to the other opponent. The difference does not depend on which opponent is more skillful or makes more noise; it is purely a matter of position.

North	East	South	West
1 ♣	Pass	2 NT	Pass
3 NT	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead — ♠ 7

SOUTH TAKES

West opened the seven of spades, and East put up the ten. South properly won with the queen of spades.

At this stage, East was the dangerous opponent. If East won a trick, he would lead another spade, and West would take the rest of the spades.

NOT DANGEROUS

West was not dangerous. If West won a trick in some other suit, he could not safely attack spades. To do so would give South a second spade trick.

South recognized this and looked for a way to develop the clubs without giving a trick to East. There wasn't very much that South could do, but he saw one cautious play and promptly made it.

WEST GETS TRICK

At the second trick, South led the low club from his hand, instead of the queen. West naturally followed with the jack of clubs, and South triumphantly played a low club from the dummy. This gave a club trick to West, who could do no damage, and set up the rest of the clubs.

EASY VICTORY

West led a heart to dummy's king, and South continued with a club to his own queen. Now he could get back to dummy with the ace of hearts to cash the rest of the clubs. He made game easily with five club tricks, one spade, two hearts, and one diamond.

The result would be quite different if South took the first club trick with his queen. There would be no way to run the clubs without giving East a club trick. Then East would lead a spade, and the hand would blow right up.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner deals and bids one spade.

The next player passes, and you hold:

♠- K Q 5
♥- J 10 3 2
♦- A Q 5 4
♣- Q 5

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two diamonds. You cannot jump to three spades with only 3-card spade support, nor to two no-trump with only Q-5 in one of the unbid suits. Show a suit of your own and await developments.

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By GORDON B. GREB

True of false? Knowing what today's birthday brunch accomplished is easy for anyone who reads books, attends movies, or watches television.

1. Lynn Redgrave, London-born daughter of Sir Michael Redgrave, is 30 today. She turned naturally to the stage on finishing school, since acting seemed to be all in the family. Her father was knighted for it. Her sister Vanessa was in it. You saw her in such films as "Tom Jones" and "Girl with Green Eyes." Is it true she won an Oscar for her role in "Georgy Girl"?

2. Cyd Charisse, 50 today, has danced and sung with Hollywood's best. Besides having toured with the Ballet Russe, she was Fred Astaire's dancing partner in two musicals, "The Band Wagon" and "Silk Stockings," nd was directed by Gene Kelly in his film, "Singing in the Rain." Her husband is singer Tony Martin. True? False?

3. Sam Jaffe, veteran stage, screen and TV actor, was born in New York City 75 years ago and he's made more movies than candles on his cake. Still seen in character roles on TV these days, he's probably best remembered as Vince Edwards' wise counselor on "Medic." Thirty-six years ago he played the role of the ancient ruler of Shangri-La in the film, "Lost Horizon." True? False?

4. Stuart Chase, now 85, published a book as recently as three years ago called "Man Thinking." This prolific American writer has been surveying the state of the union, particularly its economy and democratic ideals, since he was graduated from Harvard in 1910. Is it true he won the Pulitzer prize for his book, "The Proper Study of Manding"?

ANSWERS

1. False (nominee); 2. True; 3. True; 4. False (best-seller).

HOW TO PLAY
WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

South's Cautious Play Saves A Difficult No-Trump Contract

Sometimes only one of your opponents is dangerous, and you must therefore avoid losing tricks to this player. It may be quite safe to lose a trick to the other opponent. The difference does not depend on which opponent is more skillful or makes more noise; it is purely a matter of position.

SOUTH TAKES

West opened the seven of spades, and East put up the ten. South properly won with the queen of spades.

At this stage, East was the dangerous opponent. If East won a trick, he would lead another spade, and West would take the rest of the spades.

NOT DANGEROUS

West was not dangerous. If West won a trick in some other suit, he could not safely attack spades. To do so would give South a second spade trick.

South recognized this and looked for a way to develop the clubs without giving a trick to East. There wasn't very much that South could do, but he saw one cautious play and promptly made it.

WEST GETS TRICK

At the second trick, South led the low club from his hand, instead of the queen. West naturally followed with the jack of clubs, and South triumphantly played a low club from the dummy. This gave a club trick to West, who could do no damage, and set up the rest of the clubs.

EASY VICTORY

West led a heart to dummy's king, and South continued with a club to his own queen. Now he could get back to dummy with the ace of hearts to cash the rest of the clubs. He made game easily with five club tricks, one spade, two hearts, and one diamond.

The result would be quite different if South took the first club trick with his queen. There would be no way to run the clubs without giving East a club trick. Then East would lead a spade, and the hand would blow right up.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner deals and bids one spade.

The next player passes, and you hold:

♠- K Q 5
♥- J 10 3 2
♦- A Q 5 4
♣- Q 5

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two diamonds. You cannot jump to three spades with only 3-card spade support, nor to two no-trump with only Q-5 in one of the unbid suits. Show a suit of your own and await developments.

Watch Harpoons

DURBAN, South Africa (AP) — The 608-ton Durban-based whaler Edwin Cook was almost sunk by one of its own harpoons. The vessel was holed when a harpoon protruding from a sperm whale it had shot ripped through the hull when a wave pushed the dead mammal against the ship.

WELCOME TO SAN RAFAEL

The northbound Irwin Street off-ramp in San Rafael will take on a new look this spring — complete with Mission bell, palm tree and freeway landscaping — with construction of this city sign and plaza, according to Norris M. Rawles, public works director. The city council recently earmarked $14,978 from the city general fund, as well as a $7,322 gift to the city, for the improvement under a joint powers arrangement with the state division of highways. Included in the beautification plans is landscaping, sidewalk and bench installation on Hetherton Street from Second Street to Mission Avenue, not shown on this state division of highways sketch.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER J. WIKEL, C.P.A.

New Rules Change Maximum Tax Rate For Capital Gains

The new rules for capital gains provide for a maximum rate of 25 per cent, on the first $50,000 of long-term capital gains before the 50 per cent deduction. Any gain over $50,000 will be taxed at not more than 35 per cent because only 50 per cent of long-term capital gains is taxed and the top rate is 70 per cent, so there will be an effective maximum tax of 35 per cent on long-term gains.

This whole thing only applies to you if your taxable income is over $32,000 for a single taxpayer and if you are married and filing a separate return, over $22,000, and if filing a joint return $44,000. If you qualify as Head of Household then your taxable income must exceed $38,000 before the above applies.

The untaxed portion of a long-term capital gain is a tax preference item and is added to other tax preferences and taxed at 10 per cent to the extent that they exceed $30,000 and the regular income tax.

Only 50 per cent of long-term capital losses can be used to offset ordinary income.

The $1,000 maximum capital loss deduction has been reduced to $55 for married persons filing separate returns.

After 1969, all casualty (or theft) gains and losses on business property or capital assets eld for more than six months must be combined. If the casualty losses exceed the casualty gains, the net loss is treated as an ordinary loss without regard to whether there may be noncasualty gains of business property. If, however, the casualty gains exceed the casualty losses, the net gain is treated as a business property gain and must be consolidated with other gains and losses under Section 1231 (Business Property).

Horses and cattle purchased after 1969 and held for draft, breeding, dairy or sporting purposes are considered business only if you hold them for at least two years.

A lump sum distribution for 1970 or later, out of employee benefit plans, which was accrued in plan years beginning after Jan. 1, 1970, is capital gain only to the extent that the taxable portion exceed the employer contributions. If the distribution was employer stock, a special rule applies.

After July 25, 1969, the sale of letters, memorandums or similar property by the creator or for one for whom they were prepared or created is considered ordinary income.

After Jan. 1, 1970, the transfer of a franchise trade mark or trade name is treated as oridnary income if the seller retains any significant power, right or continuing interest.

Basis for original issue discount bonds after May 27, 1969, is increased by the bondholders amortized discount income.

If you had an involuntary conversion you now have two years after the year in which part of the gain on conversion was realized in order to replace your property.

If you make an approved disposition of certain low income housing after Oct. 9, 1969, and replace that with qualified low income housing either by purchase or building within one year after the first year in which part of the gain was realized, you can defer tax on the gain.

Conservation or land clearance farm expenses deducted after 1969 are recaptured in full or part as ordinary income when the land is sold if held less than ten years. Farm losses after 1969, which were used to reduce non-farm income, will be recaptured as ordinary income on sale of the farm in some cases.

Depreciation claimed after 1969 on livestock sold after 1969 is treated as ordinary income on the sale under Section 1245. Some depreciation on Section 1250 property sold after 1969 and claimed for years after 1969 may be recaptured as ordinary income.

California has some very important capital gain changes for 1972.

If any of these items apply to you, be sure to check the rules carefully before filing your return.

How To Trace Old Certificate

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. Where can I ascertain if a stock certificate dated 1891 has any value at the present time? The company is Pueblo Consolidated Land Co. and the certificate had a value of $500 when bought.—H.O.

A. You have several possible sources to check for information. One is a New York brokerage company which specializes in appraising obsolete securities. For a moderate fee R.M. Smythe & Co. will trace this certificate. Write to them at 170 Broadway, New York, N.Y. 10038 for assistance.

My library reveals that in 1917 a company with a similar name, Peublo Realty Trust had offices in Denver, Co. According to the Poor's Industrial Manual of 1918 this company was affiliated with Colorado Fuel & Iron now 86 per cent-owned by Crane Co., 300 Park Ave., N.Y.C. 10022. A letter to the latter corporation's secretary, N. Pacun, may turn up some relevant information. However, individuals often retain stock certificates as curios, even though minority interests have been discharged by the issuing or acquiring corporation.

A third potential source of pertinent facts is the secretary of the state of Colorado. This is, of course, assuming that the company which issued the certificate was the above-named Colorado firm.

Q. About three months ago I bought 200 shares of Stanray (NYSE). These shares have gone down in value and I am concerned. What do you advise?—N.S.

A. In view of the strong economic recovery now under way, I see no reason to dispose of this cyclical railroad and aircraft equipment supplier. Not only should Stanray benefit from increased capital equipment spending which normally accompanies business upswings but newly developed products should also contribute to higher profits. As of Sept. 30, 1972 backlog was up 85 per cent to $33 million. For 1973, earnings of $1.75 a share appear possible, placing the price earnings multiple at the historic low level of 7 times. Shares should be held for their above-average recovery potential.

Food Price News Halts Stock Rally

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices moved lower toward the close today after retreating from an early advance that had produced gains in the past four sessions.

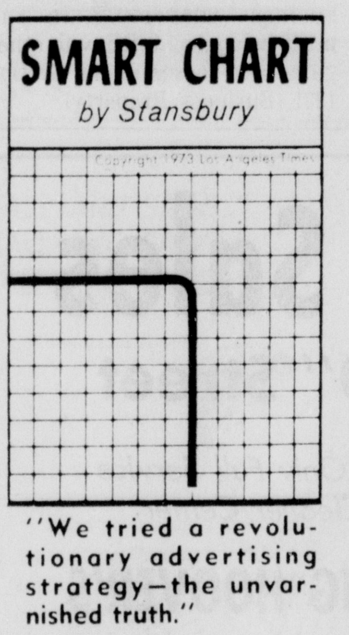
The rally turned around following a government announcement of a sharp gain in the wholesale price index for February. The surge was sparked by continuing high food prices.

Belief that the world monetary situation is about to come under control has largely been responsible for the recent market advances. Analysts said improved investor spirits over monetary matters probably kept today's loss moderate.

Declines led advances by less than a 7-to-6 ratio.

Prices were mixed in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Houston Oil & Minerals moved higher on the Big Board after reporting sharply higher fourth quarter earnings.



"We tried a revolutionary advertising strategy—the unvarnished truth."

More Hospitals Will Be Acquired

I-J Special Report

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — Hospital Corp. of America, which owns Ross General Hospital and about 40 other hospitals nationwide, plans to acquire American Medicorp. Inc., which operates 38 hospitals in 10 states.

John C. Neff, president of HCA, and Bernard J. Korman, president of American Medicorp., jointly announced an agreement in principle on the proposed acquisition. The agreement is subject to approval of the board of directors and stockholders of both corporations and further investigation by both companies.

Three Millionth Vehicle Is Produced

I-J Special Report

SAN JOSE — The Ford Motor Co's assembly plant in Milpitas produced its three millionth vehicle — a golden glow Pinto Runabout — Tuesday, Feb. 27.

The first vehicles — standard-size Fords and light and medium trucks — came off the lines at the Milpitas facility almost 18 years ago, March 1, 1955. Since then the plant's employes have built 1,828,635 cars and 1,170,365 trucks

'Fly By Night Travel' Opens For Business In San Rafael

A new travel agency with the intriguing name of "Fly By Night Travel" has just opened in San Rafael at 1330 Lincoln Avenue, suite 110.

It is owned by Mrs. Frankie Weir of Mill Valley and managed by Mrs. Wilma Webb of Novato. Mrs. Webb, who has been in the travel business for 17 years, was a partner in Travel Spectrum Inc. at 951 Front Street in Novato until that office closed on March 1 after three years of operation. The main office of Travel Spectrum is located in San Francisco.

Fly By Night Travel purchased the assets of the Travel Spectrum office in Novato.

"We handle a lot of entertainers, and since many of them travel at night, we hit on the name Fly by Night," said Mrs. Webb. "It's sort of a catchy name."

Fly By Night will specialize in group travel in connection with rock concerts by the younger set. It also handles all airline reservations and provides travel service to individuals, groups, and commercial enterprises.

MARITIME ELECTRONICS at Clipper Yacht Harbor in Sausalito has been purchased by Edmund V. Boland of San Anselmo and Gordon L. Patton of San Rafael, who have long experience in marketing and management for vending machine and soft drink companies.

They bought the Sausalito shop from Jack Hecht, who plans to leave soon on a cruise.

The new owners said Maritime Electronics in Sausalito will be open hereafter on Saturdays and Sundays and will concentrate on wholesale distribution to boat dealers of various marine equipment, particularly high frequency radio-telephones and radar.

Boland and Patton also purchased Maritime Electronics in San Jose and will operate both stores under the same name and with existing staff.

Boland came to San Anselmo last September from New Jersey where he was vice president of Rowe International, vending machine manufacturer. He also worked for Coca Cola in Chicago. Boland has 30 years of experience in marketing and management.

Patton, a resident of San Rafael for two and one-half years, was vice president and general manager of a San Francisco firm that produces background music for restaurants and medical offices. Before that, he was sales manager for vending machine manufacturers.

YVONNE HARRIS has been promoted to installment loan officer at Redwood Bank's San Rafael office.

Mrs. Harris graduated from Tamalpais High School in 1963 and joined Redwood Bank in 1964 as a clerk-typist. She was secretary until her transfer into lending a year ago. In her new position, she will be responsible for the installment loan department. Mrs. Harris is treasurer of the Sickle Cell Anemia Foundation of Marin and a member of the American Institute of Banking.

Morphy

EDWARD P. MORPHY, San Rafael real estate appraiser, has been named to the Narrative Report Seminar Faculty and Reviewing Sub-Committee of the Society of Real Estate Appraisers.

His committee duties will involve teaching special real estate appraisal courses and reviewing demonstration reports. Demonstration reports are written by candidates for professional designation by the Society of Real Estate Appraisers to demonstrate their qualifications as appraisers.

A STEREO ANALYSIS clinic will be held tomorrow (Friday) and Saturday at the Town and Country Village TV in the Strawberry Town and Country Village.

Peter Straube, the owner, has invited factory representatives from the McIntosh Company to conduct the clinic. He said the public is invited to bring in amplifiers and pre-amp receivers, regardless of age, make or place of purchase, for free analysis.

The clinic will be held from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. tomorrow and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday.

I. J. (IKE) ELY of San Anselmo, who handles bookkeeping and income tax preparation for small businesses and individuals, has moved downstairs to the ground floor of the Cheda Building at 508 San Anselmo Avenue.

Ely had his office upstairs in the same building for the past three years but moved to the ground floor for the convenience of his customers.

QUIK STOP MARKET at 4 Bolinas Avenue in San Anselmo is under the new ownership of Leonard Bessenhoffer of Fairfax, who has two and one-half years experience in the food industry.

Bessenhoffer took over last month from former owner Issa I. Masarweh of San Francisco, who sold the franchise because of illness.

The new owner of Quik Stop said he will stress personalized service to his customers. "I want to create the atmosphere of a friendly, neighborhood store," said Bessenhoffer.

CHRISTOPHER J. HEGARTY, president of C.J. Hegarty & Co. of Tiburon, has been elected to the 1973 National Board of Regents of the College for Financial Planning, Denver.

The Financial College was set up in 1969 to provide greater professional expertise for the dually licensed stock broker, insurance agent, mutual fund representative and others who provide long-range financial counseling.

How To Trace Old Certificate

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. Where can I ascertain if a stock certificate dated 1891 has any value at the present time? The company is Pueblo Consolidated Land Co. and the certificate had a value of $500 when bought.—H.O.

A. You have several possible sources to check for information. One is a New York brokerage company which specializes in appraising obsolete securities. For a moderate fee R.M. Smythe & Co. will trace this certificate. Write to them at 170 Broadway, New York, N.Y. 10038 for assistance.

My library reveals that in 1917 a company with a similar name, Peublo Realty Trust had offices in Denver, Co. According to the Poor's Industrial Manual of 1918 this company was affiliated with Colorado Fuel & Iron now 86 per cent-owned by Crane Co., 300 Park Ave., N.Y.C. 10022. A letter to the latter corporation's secretary, N. Pacun, may turn up some relevant information. However, individuals often retain stock certificates as curios, even though minority interests have been discharged by the issuing or acquiring corporation.

A third potential source of pertinent facts is the secretary of the state of Colorado. This is, of course, assuming that the company which issued the certificate was the above-named Colorado firm.

Q. About three months ago I bought 200 shares of Stanray (NYSE). These shares have gone down in value and I am concerned. What do you advise?—N.S.

A. In view of the strong economic recovery now under way, I see no reason to dispose of this cyclical railroad and aircraft equipment supplier. Not only should Stanray benefit from increased capital equipment spending which normally accompanies business upswings but newly developed products should also contribute to higher profits. As of Sept. 30, 1972 backlog was up 85 per cent to $33 million. For 1973, earnings of $1.75 a share appear possible, placing the price earnings multiple at the historic low level of 7 times. Shares should be held for their above-average recovery potential.

More Hospitals Will Be Acquired

I-J Special Report

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — Hospital Corp. of America, which owns Ross General Hospital and about 40 other hospitals nationwide, plans to acquire American Medicorp, Inc., which operates 38 hospitals in 10 states.

John C. Neff, president of HCA, and Bernard J. Korman, president of American Medicorp., jointly announced an agreement in principle on the proposed acquisition. The agreement is subject to approval of the board of directors and stockholders of both corporations and further investigation by both companies.

Food Price News Halts Stock Rally

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices moved lower toward the close today after retreating from an early advance that had produced gains in the past four sessions.

The rally turned around following a government announcement of a sharp gain in the wholesale price index for February. The surge was sparked by continuing high food prices.

Belief that the world monetary situation is about to come under control has largely been responsible for the recent market advances. Analysts said improved investor spirits over monetary matters probably kept today's loss moderate.

Declines led advances by less than a 7-to-6 ratio.

Prices were mixed in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Houston Oil & Minerals moved higher on the Big Board after reporting sharply higher fourth quarter earnings.

'Fly By Night Travel' Opens For Business In San Rafael

A new travel agency with the intriguing name of "Fly By Night Travel" has just opened in San Rafael at 1330 Lincoln Avenue, suite 110.

It is owned by Mrs. Frankie Weir of Mill Valley and managed by Mrs. Wilma Webb of Novato. Mrs. Webb, who has been in the travel business for 17 years, was a partner in Travel Spectrum Inc. at 951 Front Street in Novato until that office closed on March 1 after three years of operation. The main office of Travel Spectrum is located in San Francisco.

Fly By Night Travel purchased the assets of the Travel Spectrum office in Novato.

"We handle a lot of entertainers, and since many of them travel at night, we hit on the name Fly by Night," said Mrs. Webb. "It's sort of a catchy name."

Fly By Night will specialize in group travel in connection with rock concerts by the younger set. It also handles all airline reservations and provides travel service to individuals, groups, and commercial enterprises.

MARITIME ELECTRONICS at Clipper Yacht Harbor in Sausalito has been purchased by Edmund V. Boland of San Anselmo and Gordon L. Patton of San Rafael, who have long experience in marketing and management for vending machine and soft drink companies.

They bought the Sausalito shop from Jack Hecht, who plans to leave soon on a cruise.

The new owners said Maritime Electronics in Sausalito will be open hereafter on Saturdays and Sundays and will concentrate on wholesale distribution to boat dealers of various marine equipment, particularly high frequency radio-telephones and radar.

Boland and Patton also purchased Maritime Electronics in San Jose and will operate both stores under the same name and with existing staff.

Boland came to San Anselmo last September from New Jersey where he was vice president of Rowe International, vending machine manufacturer. He also worked for Coca Cola in Chicago. Boland has 30 years of experience in marketing and management.

Patton, a resident of San Rafael for two and one-half years, was vice president and general manager of a San Francisco firm that produces background music for restaurants and medical offices. Before that, he was sales manager for vending machine manufacturers.

YVONNE HARRIS has been promoted to installment loan officer at Redwood Bank's San Rafael office.

Mrs. Harris graduated from Tamalpais High School in 1963 and joined Redwood Bank in 1964 as a clerk-typist. She was secretary until her transfer into lending a year ago. In her new position, she will be responsible for the installment loan department. Mrs. Harris is treasurer of the Sickle Cell Anemia Foundation of Marin and a member of the American Institute of Banking.

Morphy

EDWARD P. MORPHY, San Rafael real estate appraiser, has been named to the Narrative Report Seminar Faculty and Reviewing Sub-Committee of the Society of Real Estate Appraisers.

His committee duties will involve teaching special real estate appraisal courses and reviewing demonstration reports. Demonstration reports are written by candidates for professional designation by the Society of Real Estate Appraisers to demonstrate their qualifications as appraisers.

A STEREO ANALYSIS clinic will be held tomorrow (Friday) and Saturday at the Town and Country Village TV in the Strawberry Town and Country Village.

Peter Straube, the owner, has invited factory representatives from the McIntosh Company to conduct the clinic. He said the public is invited to bring in amplifiers and pre-amp receivers, regardless of age, make or place of purchase, for free analysis.

The clinic will be held from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. tomorrow and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday.

I. J. (IKE) ELY of San Anselmo, who handles bookkeeping and income tax preparation for small businesses and individuals, has moved downstairs to the ground floor of the Cheda Building at 508 San Anselmo Avenue.

Ely had his office upstairs in the same building for the past three years but moved to the ground floor for the convenience of his customers.

QUIK STOP MARKET at 4 Bolinas Avenue in San Anselmo is under the new ownership of Leonard Bessenhoffer of Fairfax, who has two and one-half years experience in the food industry.

Bessenhoffer took over last month from former owner Issa I. Masarweh of San Francisco, who sold the franchise because of illness.

The new owner of Quik Stop said he will stress personalized service to his customers. "I want to create the atmosphere of a friendly, neighborhood store," said Bessenhoffer.

CHRISTOPHER J. HEGARTY, president of C.J. Hegarty & Co. of Tiburon, has been elected to the 1973 National Board of Regents of the College for Financial Planning, Denver.

The Financial College was set up in 1969 to provide greater professional expertise for the dually licensed stock broker, insurance agent, mutual fund representative and others who provide long-range financial counseling.

SAUSALITAN'S LONG WAIT

Wife Greets Returning Prisoner Of War Pilot

By PAT ANGLE

For nearly six years Karen Southwick of Sausalito had looked forward to the day she would be reunited with her prisoner of war husband with a mixture of excitement and anxiety.

"I was worried about what I'd say or do first, about getting reacquainted with him after all those years," the attractive auburn-haired woman recalled today. "I wondered if we'd have anything to say to one another.

She needn't have worried about that first meeting.

"I grabbed him and gave him a big hug and put on his wedding ring. The words seemed to come much more easily than I had expected.

"He really looked great. He was thinner and grayer, but he wasn't a stranger. He still had the same little idiosyncrasies I remembered and he had maintained his sense of humor.

"I was very relieved."

Southwick, a 41-year-old Navy pilot, was shot down over North Vietnam May 14, 1967. He and his wife had been newlyweds when he was captured, married only 10 months.

In the long five years that followed the communique that

One Dead And Hundreds Hurt As Bomb Blasts Rock London

LONDON (UPI) — Two powerful car bombs like those used by the Irish Republican Army (IRA) in Northern Ireland exploded in the heart of London today, killing one man, injuring at least 114 persons and doing widespread damage to such landmarks as the Old Bailey Criminal Court and the Agriculture Ministry.

The bombs—cars packed with explosives—hit the Old Bailey Central Court, blew out all the windows at the Ministry of Agriculture, damaged an army recruiting station, the headquarters of the British forces broadcasting network and other targets. There were other bomb scares and evacuation of buildings.

The bombings, which some Londoners likened to the wartime blitz, coincided with a referendum in Northern Ireland to determine whether the province would remain under London's rule or join the Irish Republic to the south. The IRA has sought to unite Ulster and Ireland by force. Spokesmen said only they suspected "Irish extremists."

In Dublin a spokesman for the Official Wing of the IRA said it had "nothing to do with the explosions in Britain."

Scotland Yard said "at least 100" persons were injured in the Old Bailey explosion alone and another 14 were hurt outside the modern Ministry of Agriculture building. Dozens were wounded in other blasts.

There were no reported fatalities.

The Old Bailey bomb destroyed the George pub across the street and blew out the front of the original Old Bailey building. A fortress-like extension opened only late last year next door lost most of its windows.

Oil Firm Successful In Challenging Pollution Law

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

SAN FRANCISCO — Prosecution of Bay Area air polluters has been crippled by an oil company's successful legal challenge to a key law.

Air Pollution Control District directors, huddling yesterday behind closed doors for an hour, unanimously voted to seek emergency legislation to reverse the ruling by the Benicia Justice Court.

Some 175 cases against polluters will have to be settled or delayed pending legislative action. The district's counsel, David A. Self, cited the disputed law as "the district's principal legal enforcement tool."

The disputed law is Section 38261 of the state Health and Safety Code, which in 1970 empowered air pollution control districts to sue polluters for $500 a day for each violation.

The challenge by Humble Oil and Refining Co., however, successfully argued the Legislature did not intend to extend the section's powers to the Bay Area district, which was formed under a separate law than other districts throughout the state.

Frank C. Chadwick, manager of Humble's refinery in Benicia, told newsmen he does not know if the company will oppose such legislation.

Chadwick, whose plant has received 122 violation notices since it came under district jurisdiction in October 1971,

Indians Prepare To Fight

WOUNDED KNEE, S.D. (UPI) —Militant Indian leaders who seized Wounded Knee nine days ago and refused as "totally unacceptable" a federal government offer for terms of peaceful dispersal, said today their ranks have been strengthened by 32 more supporters who filtered into this hamlet.

A government deadline for evacuation expires tonight.

Tension was high among the Indians clustered about the little church where they have been storing food, and around which they have dug trenches.

There was shooting during the night, but it was sporadic and less than that which broke out Tuesday night and early Wednesday between Indians and federal officers holding a roadblock cordon around the settlement.

Members of the American Indian Movement (AIM) holding the town said they now had 250 to 300 supporters in Wounded Knee. Groups of women and children have left over the past two days.

The AIM forces, who seek changes in government policy toward all Indians and particularly changes in Oglala Sioux tribal government, seized hostages and took over Wounded Knee on Feb. 28 and looted its museum and trading post. The remainder of those seized, including Mr. and Mrs. C.A. Gildersleve, Mrs. A.M. Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Fritz, Mary Pike, and William Cole, packed belongings to leave today. Others already have left.

There were no indications as to what the government would do if the Indians again refused to put down their arms and depart this Oglala Sioux settlement.

The government extended the deadline on its offer Wednesday until 6 p.m. MST today to give

Ranchers Facing Rustling Problem

Cattle Thefts Show Increase In County

By ERIK M. INGRAM

Cattle ranchers in Marin and Southern Sonoma counties are experiencing an upsurge in a problem almost as old as ranching itself: cattle rustling.

Not the romantic kind of years past, but an ugly new variation in which even friendly old milk cows are prey to be bludgeoned, butchered and hauled away.

Ranchers and lawmen figure 30, possibly more, beef and dairy animals were stolen from or slaughtered on Marin ranches during the last six months. That totals about $9,000 worth of animals.

Dollarwise, it's not a staggering amount. But it does represent a sharp increase over past years and that's what worries ranchers.

The same is true for Sonoma County, where ranchers thought they had pretty well licked the problem after forming the North Coast Livestock Protective Association in 1967.

Last year, however, Sonoma livestock ranchers suffered $20,000 in losses, according to Hobart Carter, a Santa Rosa rancher and head of the association.

Carter, along with others, sees the problem as much greater than that represented by the dollar figures and says the solution is in greater cooperation between ranchers and law enforcement agencies from adjoining counties.

While state agricultural officials figure 50 per cent of the animal thefts are reported, Carter said his studies indicate only about 10 per cent are.

LT. WILLIAM JOHANSEN
Fights cattle rustlers

Thus in Marin County, he said, the actual number of cattle stolen could be 10 times the 30 reported because some ranchers refuse to report losses for fear of reprisal from rustlers, some of whom are professional black marketers.

"It's like a car accident, some people won't talk because they don't want o get involved," agreed Boyd Stewart, a long-time West Marin rancher. "They're afraid the people who did it will return and burn them out."

Stewart, 50 years in the business, doesn't share that concern and after losing two prize black angus last August posted a $1,000 reward (still offered) for the culprits who slaughtered the animals in view of Highway 1 near Olema.

Nor did he let his outrage end there. Stewart and other West Marin ranchers began working with the Sheriff's department to organize a fight against rustling.

Lt. William Johansen, in charge of the sheriff's substation at Point Reyes Station, is coordinating the effort with various agricultural groups and agencies.

Johansen sees greater cooperation between ranchers and his office as the frontline defense against rustlers, who are

Wholesale Prices Zoom Up Again

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Wholesae prices in February rose at the fastest rate in 22 years, the Labor Department said today, offering consumers little hope that retail prices will level off any time soon.

The wholesale index — covering prices of farm products and industrial goods — soared 1.9 per cent in February, biggest one-month rise since January, 1951, when the economy was suffering from inflation due to the Korean war.

With seasonal factors taken into account, the February increase was 1.6 per cent, up from January's 1.1 per cent rise but the same as December's adjusted increase.

The rapid rise in wholesale prices for the past three months will filter down to the retail level in the months ahead and give a push to the cost of living at a time when the administration is worried about a new round of inflation.

Prices of farm products and processed foods and feeds continued to rise at an unusually fast pace, 3.9 per cent, but this was somewhat less than the recent high of 5.8 per cent in December.

If wholesale prices were to increase for a full year at the February rate, it would mean an annual increase of nearly 23 per cent. The administration has set a yearly increase of 2.5 per cent by the end of 1973 as its inflation-limiting goal.

Consumer foods and consumer finished goods also jumped slower than a month earlier.

But the closely watched industrial commodities index jumped 1.1 per cent on an unadjusted basis and 1 per cent seasonally adjusted, the biggest increase since Jan., 1951.

Industrial prices make up about three-fourths of the government's wholesale price index. Since they are more stable than farm prices, they are considered a good indication of

DOG'S BEST FRIEND

They say dog is man's best friend but the opposite was true this morning when a New York City fireman carried this pooch down a ladder to safety from a burning six-story building. In all, firemen carried out 27 dogs belonging to Mrs. Agnes Fischer, owner of the building. Six of the animals died and 13 firemen were treated at the scene of the fire for injuries and smoke inhalation. (UPI Telephoto)

New Centers Face Cleaner Air Checks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In a move that could have a dramatic impact on the location of shopping centers and other facilities that draw large numbers of cars, the government has told the states they should be prepared to halt such developments if they violate clean air rules.

The Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) said Wednesday it intends to publish rules next month, to become effective in June, under which states would be required to have legally enforceable ways of reviewing the location of such developments before they are built or expanded.

The laws should be capable of stopping construction if it is determined the concentration of automotive exhaust will be in violation of clean air standards, the EPA said.

The EPA gave this preliminary list of "complexes" which would be affected by the proposal: shopping centers, sports facilities, drive-in theaters, parking lots and garages, residential, commercial, industrial or institutional developments, amusement parks and recreational areas, highways, and water, sewer, power and gas lines.

The EPA's action is an outgrowth of a court victory won by environmentalists.

In January a federal appeals court said the EPA should review the plans the states had been drawing up to determine if they are adequate to meet pollution that might come from other than fixed sources — automobiles, for instance, rather than just power plants.

Plans without such measures to deal with that kind of pollution must be refused by the EPA, the court ruled in a case brought by the Natural Resources Defense Council.

Bombers Penetrate Irish Net

BELFAST (UPI) — Gunmen slipped through the biggest security net in Northern Ireland's recent history and exploded bombs in the heart of Belfast today during a crucial referendum on Ulster's future. Others dumped a dead man's body in a booby-trapped car on "Murder Mile."

With explosions and sirens echoing across the city, voters throughout the province filed past barbed wire entanglements and machinegun nests to declare whether they wanted to remain a part of Britain or be united with the Irish Republic to the south.

Police called the explosions a major Irish Republican Army (IRA) effort to disrupt voting in the referendum. They heavily damaged the city's second largest hotel, a supermarket, two shops and caused major portions of the downtown area to be evacuated.

Nearly 34,000 police and British troops were on guard against an expected burst of violence during the voting but the death and destruction came anyway. Outcome of the referendum itself was not in doubt — Protestants favoring ties with Britain outnumber Roman Catholics two to one. Many Catholics were urged to boycott the referendum.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Swiss Jail Term

ZURICH, Switzerland (UPI) — The Zurich High Court today sentenced Edith Irving to two years in jail for her role in the $650,000 Howard Hughes autobiography hoax. She had hoped to go free; the court could have sentenced her to five years.

The 38-year-old wife of author Clifford Irving, currently serving two-and-one-half years in a U.S. federal jail for selling the concocted work to McGraw Hill, pleaded guilty to charges of fraud and using false documents to cash checks at Swiss banks in the name of Helga R. Hughes.

New Rail Strike

LONDON (UPI) — The second railroad strike in seven days paralyzed much of Britain's transportation today and created chaos for hundreds of thousands of commuters.

Meanwhile, a continuing strike by 220,000 hospital employes disrupted health services for another day, bringing a warning from one union leader that deaths may occur if the walkout does not end.

Every train was halted as railwaymen stayed home again to protest a pay freeze imposed by Prime Minister Edward Heath, the Same reason for other walkouts in a so-called "strike-a-day" series across the country.

Viet Talks Site

PARIS (UPI) — South Vietnam and the Viet Cong said today they will open full-scale political talks on their country's future March 19 in a Paris suburban chateau.

The announcement came after eight meetings to settle procedural problems for the talks.

The Vietnam peace agreement signed in Paris on Jan. 27 calls or the South Vietnamese and Viet Cong to form a three-part national reconciliation council.

Open Hearings

WASHINGTON (UPI) — One day after it was rejected by the Senate, the House voted overwhelming yesterday to open its committee meetings to the public unless the members specifically in advance for a closed session.

The vote was 370 to 27. On Tuesday, the Senate voted 47 to 38 against a similar proposal.

Hit Disarm Plan

GENEVA (UPI) — Sweden and Hungary today urged the United States to drop its demand for on-site inspections to monitor a ban on underground nuclear tests.

Both countries said seismic science and technology has advanced to the point where such tests can be detected by long-range instruments.

Fire Claims 15

BRISBANE, Australia (UPI) — Two firebombs exploded and touched off a flash fire that swept through a night club early today and killed 15 persons.

Police said they were seeking one of the country's most-wanted criminals as a key suspect in the case. They said they suspected the bombing was part of an extortion plot.

Market Nations Set Dollar Terms

BRUSSELS (UPI) — The nine nations of the European Common Market decided today to ask the United States to start supporting the dollar again and to take measures at home to help solve the world money crisis, market spokesmen said.

The spokesmen said these and other proposals will be laid before U.S. officials at the emergency world money meeting in Paris Friday. They were drawn up in a two-hour meeting this morning by finance ministers of the nine or their deputies and were to be approved at a second meeting later today, before the ministers rush off to Paris.

The spokesmen said the ministers agreed the money crisis is a "global problem," to be solved by all major industrial nations, not just the United States.

But they said the United States specifically will be asked to:

—State that it thinks the current parities of international currencies, after the Feb 12 devaluation of the dollar, are correct.

—To intervene on world money markets to support these parities. The United States gave up such intervention Feb 12.

—Take such domestic measures as tighter credit, increased interest rates, and controls of amounts of money in circulation.

—Control the outflow of dollars, especially to Europe where there is 80 billion in dollars unwanted for fear their value will fall.

The spokesmen said the ministers also would recommend that all central banks — not just the U.S. Federal Reserve Board —help keep dollars off world markets.

U.S. Chamber Hits Millionaires' Tax

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U. S. Chamber of Commerce asked Congress today to repeal the "minimum tax," which was enacted in 1969 to make certain that millionaires pay some taxes, even if they derive all their income from tax-sheltered sources.

Walker Winter, chairman of the Taxation Committee of the Chamber, which speaks for 44,000 business firms, called the minimum tax a "penalty tax" which he said is "imposed on those who are properly conforming with the provisions" of the tax laws which make their income exempt from the tax collector's reach.

Two other witnesses—representing the politically liberal Americans for Democratic Action (ADA) and the Communications Workers of America—urged the House Ways and Means Committee to increase the minimum tax. The CWA called it "microscopic."

Using the "minimum tax," a wealthy individual adds up his deductions and his income from "tax preference" sources, such as the returns from oil investments or the untaxed half of profits from the sale of stocks. If they total $30,000, he owes no tax.

If they total over $30,000, he pays a 10 per cent tax on the amount which exceeds $30,000.

According to Rep. Henry Reuss, D-Wis., Treasury figures show that persons subject to the "minimum tax" have paid taxes at an actual rate of only 4 per cent of their gross income—less than half the rate paid by a $10,000-a-year worker with a wife and two children.

Winter testified that if Congress does not like the tax provisions which protect some sources of income from taxation it should attack those provisions directly.

While critics focus on the 106 individuals with incomes over $200,000 in 1970 who paid no tax, they ignore the 15,200 individuals in the same category who paid $2.7 billion in taxes, he said.

A Treasury analysis showed that most of the 106 non-payers were within the law and 75 per cent of them avoided taxes by taking the same ordinary deductions available to all taxpayers, he said.

Five Members Of Cult Nabbed

NEW YORK (UPI) — Five members of a Cuban religious cult who engaged in voodoo ceremonies that included taking cocaine and drinking the blood of chickens were arrested Tuesday night, police said.

Those arrested included Rosa Cortina, 62, who police said was high priestess of the cult, called La Santos.

Police said cocaine was an integral part of the rites practiced by the group and it had used up to one kilogram of the narcotic in its ceremonies. The group also slaughtered chickens and other animals during the rites and drank their blood, police said.

All those arrested were charged with possession and sale of narcotics.

Microwave Oven Heat Questioned

MOUNT VERNON, N.Y. (UPI) — Microwave ovens, considered a boon by many persons looking for speedier methods of preparing meals, have been criticized by the magazine Consumer Reports which claims all of the ovens on the U.S. market leak radiation.

The magazine urged the public Wednesday to refrain from purchasing those availablle because there is no present method "to discover what level of microwave radiation can unequivocally be called unsafe."

Microwave ovens cook foods and boil liquids by the passage of very short electromagnetic radar waves through glass, paper and other materials except metals.

The waves themselves are not hot but are capable of heating food in a fraction of the time needed by conventional methods.

But Consumer Reports said, under adverse conditions, some of the models tested could release relatively high radiation and could leak more radiation as they grew older.

Despite the fact that microwave ovens have passed radiation standards set by the Federal Bureau of Radiation Health, the magazine said it felt justified in recommending buying the ovens only if the manufacturers could eliminate all traces of radiation leakage.

An early reaction came from Tappan Industries of Mansfield, Ohio, whose president, Walter Gunmere, said "we know of no reports of any kind of illness, injury, damage or death as a result of microwave cooking."

Tappan makes the private label ovens marketed by Litton Industries and recently announced it intends to market the ovens under its own name.

According to Consumer Reports the main key to the leakage was the door to the oven with the automatic shutoff system running a close second.

The glass viewing door was a key source of danger since house-wives were likely to peek into the oven to see how the meal was coming along.

Vietnam Fighting Suddenly Flares

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Fighting flared to a 13-day high in South Vietnam today and U.S. officials disclosed for the first time in more than a week that U.S. B52 bombers flew raids over Cambodia, the only Southeast Asian country with no formal truce.

The Saigon command said Communist troops committed 141 cease-fire violations in the 24 hours ending at dawn today. It was the most reported in 13 days, although the command said most of the incidents were minor.

Military sources in Phnom Penh said fierce fighting between government and Communist troops raged today on embattled Highway 2, only 12 miles south of the Cambodian capital.

The sources said casualties on both sides have reached the 1,000 mark in the past two days and said the Communists have taken a bad beating from U.S. jet fighter-bombers.

"They (the Communists) keep attacking fixed government positions where U.S. jets can just mow them down," one source said. "The air support there has been effective but they just keep coming bak for more."

In Honolulu, the U.S. Pacific Forces command headquarters confirmed that U.S. aircraft, including the big B52s, struck Communist targets and supply routes Wednesday at the request of the Phnom Penh government.

The usual one-sentence announcement did not say where the warplanes struck, but for the first time in more than a week it mentioned that B52s took part in the raids. It did not mention how many planes were involved in the missions.

The Saigon command said Communist troops committed 26 more cease-fire violations between 6 a.m. and noon today and put overall Communist violations since the truce took effect Jan. 28 at 6,197.

Government statistics showed 12,736 Communists killed since the cease-fire while South Vietnamese losses were placed at 2,350 dead, 11,010 wounded and 608 missing.

Saigon And Viet Cong Begin Prisoner Swap

SAIGON (UPI) — Saigon and the Viet Cong began exchanging 7,550 war prisoners today after a dispute that delayed the operation for nearly two weeks but there was still no word on a release date for the next batch of U.S. POWs.

Five huge U.S. C130 Hercules transport jets, each carrying about 100 captured Communists, flew north from Saigon to land on a makeshift runway at Camp Evans, about 18 miles below the release point on the muddy Thach Han River in Quang Tri City, 435 miles north of the capital.

Military officials said the approximately 500 prisoners were from detention facilities on Phu Quoc Island off the southwestern tip of South Vietnam.

Before the weekend is over, 6,300 Communists will go free in phase two of the Vietnamese POW exchange. In turn, the Communists promised to release 1,250 South Vietnamese POWs Saturday.

The exchanges will occur at five other sites north of Saigon, three of them along the Central Coast and two closer to the capital.

There was no indication from the Joint Military Commission, the four-power body charged with arranging the release of Vietnamese and American POWs, on a release date for the next group of Americans. It ws believed scheduled for some time next week.

The Vietnamese prisoner exchange that began today was initially scheduled for Feb. 27, but a deadlock developed over a dispute on the release of nonmilitary prisoners. The third phase of the exchange program —the first was completed last month—was to begin next Tuesday.

Closing Costs Explained.

When you buy a home, the business of closing costs always comes up. What are these closing costs anyway?

Title Insurance for instance, to make certain your property is free of any encumbrances. Loan Fee, Termite Report, as well as pro-rated taxes, for the buyer's share of the 6-month tax period. Tax and insurance Impounds, Notary and Recording Fees.

Bothersome details maybe, but all very important to the protection of your property. And preferably arranged through the expertise of your Realtor. Housing Policy For Future Adopted

The Marin County Planning Commission voted unanimously yesterday to adopt housing policies contained in the proposed countywide general plan.

The policies seek to keep Marin's "housing mix" the same in 1990 as it is today with 20 per cent low income, 45 per cent middle income and 35 per cent higher income.

To do so, the plan recommends a number of programs not only for new subsidized housing but for retention of existing low and moderate income housing, which could increase in value under market pressure.

The plan, which calls for a 1990 population of 300,000, proposed to restrict construction of new homes to an average of 2,100 per year between 1970 and 1980 and 1,600 per ycar between 1980 and 1990.

Planning Director Werner von Gundell estimated 14,600 will remain vacant and available for future development in 1990, allowing space for another 100,000 persons.

Former planning director Mary Summers criticized the plan's housing policies yesterday saying they establish a "quota system" for who will live in Marin.

She urged that the county propose methods of providing housing for the poor already in Marin but allow the market to determine future housing types.

To limit higher income housing when the need exists amounts to reverse discrimination, she said.

Von Gundell countered that present housing trends in Marin, if unchecked, could lead to a one-class society since housing costs have already jumped out of the reach of many.

The commission agreed, and on a motion by John F. West, seconded by William Long, approved the housing policies. Commissioner Rebecca Watkin was absent.

In a related action, the board modified the environmental quality section of the plan and created a "conservation zone" along the Inverness frontage on Tomales Bay.

The conservation zone does not prohibit development, but says special consideration will be given to unique characteristics such as marshlands.

Sex Is Subject Of Doctor's Talk

Dr. Philip Grossi will discuss "The Meaning of the New Sexual Morality" at 8 p.m. Wednesday at The Port, 393 Miller Avenue in Mill Valley.

The event is the first of an eight-session series sponsored by the Marin Jewish Community Center dealing with modern problems.

Grossi will discuss the role of new sexual therapies in psychology and the implications of today's pornography, according to Yvonne Rich, adult program coordinator. Further information may be obtained by contacting the center.

Cotati Study Group Endorses Rezone Plan For East Section

In an attempt to provide the City of Cotati with proper rezoning necessary for growth on East Cotati Boulevard, members of a special study group last night endorsed a plan for high density residential zoning with commercial use grouped in one main area.

The long-awaited decision on the zoning of East Cotati was studied by members of the city council and the planning commission who met very little of the expected opposition from property owners in the area.

Fearing inconsistent, spotted usage, the planning commission amended the November zoning ordinance to allow high density residential along East Cotati with commercial zoning centered around LaSalle Avenue, where a commercial development is being planned by Codding Enterprises.

Sewer and water service to the area was the basis of a complaint by property owner Ed Lewitter. "All the planning in the world isn't going to create buildings," he said. "You're working in circles. You can't do anything until you provide service."

City Mgr. Paul W. Salfen told Lewitter that he could at any time hook up to the main sewer connection serving Holiday Park. Salfen added that the bulk of the residents in the area are willing to go along with the eventually planned assessment district.

Lou Codding told the committee that Codding Enterprises would be willing to pay the first $2,000 of the engineering costs for an estimate on sewer, water, gutter and drainage service.

The only opposition to the plan came from Councilman Stephen Laughlin, who said big commercial development would draw people away from the plaza. "What we've created," he said, "is high density with 20 per cent commercial. It's in conflict with the overall intention of the general plan."

Salfen said the commercial zoning would not draw from the Hub because it could not hold the large number of Rohnert Park residents also benefitting from commercial development.

Councilman Annette Lombardi said the Hub can remain a small town type of downtown but a rural atmosphere won't work on East Cotati. "Those days are gone," she said.

The committee also recommended that the planning commission come up with some strict architectural design controls similar to those used in Mill Valley.

Prairie Dog Town Purchase Asked

HELENA, Mont. (UPI) — The Montana recreation and parks division has asked the State Legislature to appropriate $5,500 to buy a prairie dog town.

The 98-acre dog town near Greycliff is owned by the Nature Conservancy, a conservation group which purchases lands and preserves them until government agencies can acquire the necessary funds to take title.

Soybeans Seen Replacing Gold

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz says soybeans might replace gold as a standard of international wealth if farm prices continue to climb.

The treasury secretary's observation drew a laugh from a group of U.S. industrialists attending a conference here Wednesday.

"When the price of soybeans reaches the price of gold, we'll be all set," Shultz said. "We could go over to the soybean standard."

Soybean futures hit a record $7 a bushel for a brief period Wednesday, more than double last summer's price. Large exports to the Soviet Union have helped push prices up.

Meatless Day Measure Asked

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI) — To protest the soaring price of food, particularly beef, the Rhode Island Senate Wednesday night passed a resolution asking the governor to proclaim one day a week during April a "meatless day."

"By refusing to purchase highly inflated items such as beef, by seeking their protein from less costly foods and by joining disgruntled citizens throughout the country, Rhode Island consumers can make their protest more effectively heard and felt by proclaiming meatless day," the resolution said.

Today is Thursday, March 8, the 67th day of 1973 with 298 to follow.

The moon is between its new phase and first quarter. The morning stars are Venus, Mars and Jupiter. The evening stars are Mercury and Saturn.

U.S. Supreme Court Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes Jr., was born March 8, 1841

On this day in history:

In 1894, New York became the first state to pass a law requiring dogs to be licensed.

In 1917, strikes and riots in St. Petersburg marked the start of the Russian Bolshevik Revolution.

In 1944, French authorities adopted an ordinance giving French Moslems in Algeria the same rights as French non-Moslems.

In 1962, the U.S. House of Representatives defeated a bill which would have increased its membership from 435 to 438.

A thought for the day: Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes said, "Taxes are what we pay for civilized society."

San Rafael air quality yesterday:

Oxidants, clean air.

Nitrogen dioxide, clean air.

Carbon monoxide, clean air.

Smoke particles, light air pollution.

Other areas:

San Francisco, light air pollution.

San Jose, light air pollution.

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources, while the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

FORECASTS

Sierra Nevada: Showers likely decreasing tonight: mostly fair north and partly cloudy sout with chance of showers Friday: cooler with snow level lowering to near 3,000 feet north and 4,599 feet south: local gusty wind south portion late today.

PRICES

inflationary pressures.

Higher prices for fuels, lumber and wood products accounted for more than half the February increase in industrial prices.

Industrial prices had increased at a rate of 0.2 to 0.3 per cent a month throughout 1972. The February surge could indicate that producers had quickly raised prices after the administration relaxed its wage-price controls in early January in favor of a voluntary set of economic guidelines.

February was the first full month that the Phase III program was in effect.

Prices for farm products, which continue uncontrolled under the stabilization program, rose faster than usual in February, the Labor Department said.

Livestock, oilseeds, milk, plant and animal fibers and live poultry, meat and animal feeds were all up for the month. Eggs, grains, fresh and dried vegetables dropped in price.

Despite continued increases in food prices, the administration still has no plans to control prices on raw agricultural products, White House aides reiterated Wednesday.

All Aboard Safe

MOSCOW (UPI) — A crippled Soviet TU-134 airliner carrying 74 persons made an emergency landing in a plowed field, but escaped with no reported injuries and only slight damage, the newspaper Komosolskaya Pravda said Wednesday.

Motorcyclist Killed In Crash On Bridge

A 19-year-old Mill Valley youth was killed yesterday when his motorcycle and a car collided on the Golden Gate Bridge.

The California Highway Patrol said James H. Cuniberti, of 2 Escalon Drive, died in a collision with an auto operated by Jerome M. Powers, 34, of 1155 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Kentfield.

Officers, who had few details of the crash, said the accident occurred about 8 a.m. while both vehicles were southbound on the span, south of the south tower.

Cuniberti suffered fatal head injuries. He was not wearing a helmet, according to the highway patrol, although one was found strapped to his cycle.

His death is the fourth traffic fatality in Marin this year, as compared to six deaths during the same period of 1972.

RELEASE

he had been taken prisoner, the 31-year-old Mrs. Southwick received "only a handful" of letters from her husband. "They were very formal, only five lines of 'how are you . . . I am fine."

Southwick in turn, was given none of his wife's letters and only small portions of the contents of her many packages.

Yesterday, they spent their first six hours together, most of it at Oak Knoll Hospital where the commander is going through medical evaluations and other routine processing for returning prisoners.

They talked nonstop, she said, and were joined briefly by Karen's parents, retired Air Force Col. and Mrs. Earl E. Sweetland of Lompoc, who have been staying with their daughter during the last anxious week.

"We were trying to cram six years of information into a few hours; We talked about everything you can imagine and it was wonderful," she said.

"She did beautifully. I was really proud of her," Mrs. Sweetland said with a fond smile at her daughter.

Mrs. Southwick said the two phone calls she received from her husband since his release Sunday helped to make the actual reunion more comfortable. "The calls were a very good idea because they broke the ice. Until I talked to him on the phone, I was very worried about how it would be."

She is, of course, hoping that her husband, who appeared to be in good physical shape, will be able to leave the hospital — at least for brief periods — within the next week.

The first thing he wants to do is to have cocktails with his wife, at sunset at the Top of the Mark, just as the couple did the night she saw him off to Vietnam.

"He said he knew that sounded mundane, but he's been thinking about it for a long time," she said with a laugh.

She has some plans of her own. "The first thing I want to do is cook him a good meal," although she isn't yet sure what will be on the menu. "I love to cook and I think it'll be something exotic."

Mrs. Southwick resigned her job as membership manager for the San Francisco Convention and Visitors Bureau as soon as she knew her husband was returning.

She is aware there may be problems of readjustment since both of them have changed a great deal in six years. "Hopefully, I'm more mature and wiser. I've always been independent and I'm even more so now.

"It will take time to determine if the many changes in each other will affect the way we will work together."

Southwick has already reacted to some of the changes he has noticed in his country. "He doesn't think much of the long, bushy hair the kids are wearing, but he likes the new men's styles."

She said he told her that — besides his family and friends — he had most missed "hot showers, good smells and good clothes" during his years of captivity.

Mrs. Southwick is intensely proud of her husband and the other POWs and is convinced the way in which they survived their ordeal says something important about America and Americans.

She is "an avid supporter" of President Nixon and worked hard for him during the 1973 campaign.

"I feel the people in this country who supported Nixon's Vietnam policy and wrote letters in behalf of the prisoners can take some of the credit for finally getting them out," she said.

On the other hand, she is "very antagonistic" toward the peace marchers and blames them for lengthening her husband's imprisonment in North Vietnam.

"I think they did a disservice to these men and to their country," she said. "Had they been a bit more patriotic and aware of the political situation, the prisoners might have been home several weeks ago.

Although it is hard to make firm plans during such an emotionally charged period, Mrs. Southwick and her husband plan to do a lot of traveling as soon as the hospital officially releases him.

POLLUTE

stressed that his company's suit did not mean it was "fighting the district's efforts to curb pollution." Its motive, he said in a letter to district directors, was to return the district to the "philosophies" in the statutes that set it up in 1955.

These statutes, Chadwick argued, relied on "voluntary corrective actions" by polluters, backed by "administrative procedures of an increasingly more formal nature." The disputed 1970 law, on the other hand, he said, "is purely punitive in nature, is counter to the spirit of cooperative action, and eliminated our right to a hearing before the district's hearing board."

Using the old procedures, he declared, "will result in better enforcement and will place emphasis on solution of problems instead of on the levying of nuisance fines."

Attorney Self, however, described those old procedures as "cumbersome."

The Feb. 27 ruling by Judge Richard J. Swan stemmed from a violation notice issued against Humble's refinery in January 1972. It was for an excessive emission from a vent on an oily water sewer.

Chadwick said the problem was corrected7by addition of ar incinerator to the sewer, but that the district nevertheless filed suit months later against the refinery for the violation.

He noted that four earlier court suits against the refinery for violating district regulations had been settled out of court. The refinery opened in 1969, billing itself as designed to meet smog control regulations. The regulations, however, have been toughened since the refinery opened.

The district has collected some $63,000 in fines under the disputed 1970 law.

The chairman of the district board, San Mateo County Supervisor Robert B. St. Clair, appealed to the people of the Bay Area to support the attempt to amend the disputed law so it can be used by the district.

ing a 10-story glass and steel building had every piece of window glass blown out. Bits of the car which held the bomb were scattered at the T-shaped intersection where it had been parked.

A spokesman at St. Bartholomew's Hospital, less than two blocks from the Old Bailey blast, said "about 30 casualties" had been brought in. The extent of their injuries was not known.

St. Bartholomew's is one of the hospitals hit by a strike of nonmedical staffs and is accepting only emergency cases.

Six other hospitals also said they were treating persons injured in the Old Bailey blast.

sympathizers of the American Indian Movement (AIM) a chance to leave without being arrested.

Two convoys of women and children, totaling about 42 persons, left the reservation Wednesday.

But AIM leaders said they would remain here and "fight it out" with federal marshals who have surrounded the area.

Few doubted the Indians would do just that.

AIM leader Russell Means predicted "this will end up in another massacre."

OBITUARIES

Kate Zaun Robinson Dies At 95

Kate Zaun Robinson, a resident of Mill Valley for 80 years and the wife of a famed sea captain, died yesterday in a local hospital after a brief illness. She was 95.

A native of San Francisco, she and her late husband, Capt. Leighton Robinson, were married in 1900 and spent their honeymoon aboard the sailing ship Melanope, which sailed from San Francisco to Sydney, Australia, in what was then a record 44 days.

He rose from 14-year-old British sea cadet to captain, gaining a world-wide reputation as a seaman. He came to San Francisco from England in the 1800s and later was deputy ship commissioner for the Port of San Francisco for 36 years. He died in 1956.

Mrs. Robinson was a member of the Outdoor Art Club of Mill Valley for 55 years and paid off the mortgage on its clubhouse during the depression at the end of her four years as treasurer.

She also was a member of the Women's Auxiliary, San Francisco Yacht Club in Belvedere.

She is survived by a son, Shayer O. Robinson of Mill Valley, and a daughter, Mrs. Joseph B. Miller of San Francisco.

Private funeral services were held yesterday at a Mill Valley mortuary. Interment was private.

MRS. FINLAY

Funeral for Joan Ella Finlay, 40, of Petaluma, will be held at 2:30 p.m. tomorrow at the Sorensen Funeral Home.

Mrs. Finley was found dead yesterday at her home at 835 South McDowell Boulevard. She was a native of Philadelphia and was reared there.

After graduation from high school, Mrs. Finlay joined the Waves and served during the Korean War. She and her husband, Patrick Finlay, a salesman, lived in Marin County briefly and moved to Petaluma eight years ago.

She is also survived by two sons, Robert Finlay of Petaluma and Gilbert Finlay of Los Angeles; two daughters, Robbin and Patricia Finlay of Petaluma; her father, Robert Walton of Delaware; and two sisters, Sandy Farrel of Florida and Nancy Hughes of Pennsylvania.

Burial will be Monday in Salida, Colo.

JOSEPH SUAREZ

Funeral for Joseph Suarez of Larkspur, will be at 1 p.m. tomorrow at Anderson's Funeral Parlor in San Francisco.

Suarez, 72, of 639 Magnolia Avenue, died Monday in a local hospital after a short illness.

He was born in Spain and was a sailor until he retired.

He was a member of the Sailors' Union of the Pacific since 1934.

He leaves no immediate family.

Burial will be in the Seaman's Plot at Olivet Memorial Park, Colma.

EVELYN MEINCKE

Funeral for Evelyn Meincke of Burlingame, sister of Robert Johnson of Novato, has been held in Millbrae.

Mrs. Meincke died Saturday. She was 70.

She also is survived by three sisters, Helen Gilbert of Burlingame, Gladys Chioino of San Mateo and Elsie Ryder of Long Beach; and a brother, Charles Johnson of San Mateo.

MAE EUSTICE

San Anselmo resident Mae Rae Eustice, a former art professor at Wheaton College in Illinois, died in a local hospital yesterday from injuries suffered in a fall at her home.

Mrs. Eustice, 90, of 86 Melville Avenue, had been a resident of Marin County for the past 11 years. Before moving to San Anselmo, she lived in the Los Angeles area for 17 years.

A native of Illinois, she received her art training at Yale University and taught art at Wheaton College from 1908 to 1910. She was married in 1910 and widowed in 1940.

She was active in the Valley Baptist Church of San Rafael and a Methodist church in Highland Park, Los Angeles County.

She is survived by four children, Jean Herzberg of San Anselmo, with whom she lived, John Eustice of Chicago, Ted Eustice of San Luis Obispo and James Eustice of Los Angeles; a sister, Grace Blake of Santa Monica, Los Angeles County.

She also is survived by eight grandchildren and 10 great grandchildren.

Funeral will be at 2 p.m. Friday at the Chapel of the Hills, San Anselmo. Inurnment private.

WAYNE NORTHERN

Wayne W. Northern, 77, retired operating engineer, died yesterday at a local convalescent hospital after a short illness.

Northern was a native of Tennessee, Idaho, but spent most of his life in Petaluma. He had retired to San Francisco three years ago, but returned to Petaluma recently.

Northern had worked many years as an operating engineer and was a member of operating Engineers Union, San Francisco Local No. 3. He was an army veteran of World War I.

He is survived by his wife, Elsie; a daughter, Elizabeth Karels of Petaluma; two brothers, Sam Northern of Monte Rio and Howard Northern of Benecia; three sisters, May Massie of Petaluma, Norma Dressen and Peggy Corkrill of Santa Rosa; and two grandchildren.

Private funeral was held today in Petaluma, followed by inurnment at Cypress Hill Memorial Park.

WILLIAM D. KELLY JR.

William D. Kelly Jr., a vice president for United Artists Theater Circuit, died yesterday at his home.

Kelly collapsed after getting out of bed at his home at 54 San Marino Drive, San Rafael, and was pronounced dead on arrival at Marin General Hospital, according to deputy coroner Donald O. Cornish. He was 56.

He was born in Long Island, New York, and grew up there. After graduating from Fordham University he took a job as branch manager for Universal Pictures in Atanta, Ga. Kelly moved to the Bay Area615 years ago when he still worked for Universal. Then, eight years ago, he took the position of vice president in charge of film buying for United Artists. He has lived in San Rafael for the past 11 years.

A member of the Variety Club, which supports the Blind Babies Foundation and Heart Fund, he is survived by his wife, Ann; three daughters, Barbara Lencioni of Santa Monica, Virginia Crotty and Suzzane Poyas both of Novato; a son, William D. Kelly III of San Rafael and five grandchildren.

Mass of the Resurrection will be offered at 10 a.m. tomorrow at St. Sylvester's Church. Recitation of the Rosary will be at 8 p.m. today at the Chapel of the Hills in San Anselmo. Burial will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery, San Rafael.

Memorial contributions to the Variety Club Heart Fund would be preferred by the family.

PIETRO MAZZETTA

Mass for Pietro Mazzetta, father of Clarence Mazzetta of Nicasio and Linda Genazzi of Petaluma, will be celebrated at 10 a.m. Saturday at St. Rose Catholic Church, Santa Rosa.

Entombment will be in Calvary Catholic Cemetery, Santa Rosa. Rosary will be recited tomorrow at 8 p.m. at the Daniels' Chapel of the Roses, Santa Rosa.

Mazzetta died unexpectedly at his Santa Rosa home on Tuesday. He was 76.

Born in Italy, he came to America when he was 19. He had lived in Sonoma County for 54 years. Formerly a dairy owner, he was a retired custodian for the Santa Rosa Shoe Company. He had many friends in the Nicasio and West Marin areas.

He was a membr of St. Rose Catholic Church, Santa Rosa, a 45-year member of the American Legion, Theodore Roosevelt Post No. 21, Santa Rosa, and a veteran of World War I.

A widower, he is survived by other sons, John Mazzetta and Rocco Guenza both of Santa Rosa, and daughters, Prina Pisenti of Santa Rosa, and Anne Pollard of Berkeley, and four sisters, Nina Gaspari of Santa Rosa, and Natalia Pedrucci, Ersilla Rondoni and Clelia Rusconi, all of Italy.

CHARLES GAILEY

Charles Latham Gailey, a 21-year resident of Marin County, collapsed yesterday at his Santa Venetia home and was dead on arrival at a local hospital.

Gailey, 64, of 25 San Pablo Avenue, was a partner in Acme Alarm Co. in San Rafael.

Before establishing the company 21 years ago, he was an employee of a San Francisco burglar alarm firm.

He was born in Washington, D.C., but came to San Francisco with his family when he was 3 years old.

He is survived by is wife, June F. Gailey of Santa Venetia, and two sisters, Mrs. Otto Borgeson and Ada Ferguson, both of Wahington, D.C.

classified in two groups: professionals and transient opportunists.

The first group, the professionals, represent the greatest threat, he said, because they are getting more proficient and "if we don't do the same we're in big trouble."

Johansen's first move was to set up a meeting between Marin ranchers and officials of the livestock protective association. Since that meeting last month, about 20 Marin ranchers have joined the association and another 50 have expressed interest.

The association helps coordinate information and activities between ranchers and law enforcement agencies in Marin, Sonoma and Mendocino counties.

It also supplies members with signs offering a $50 reward for information leading to the arrest of a thief or trespasser on a member's property.

"Ours is simply a program offering a reward on the arrest of trespassers," Carter said. "We feel if we can stop people from trespassing on our property we can stop most of the thefts."

Johansen said he is also encouraging ranchers to brand their cattle since most of Marin's 45,000 cattle are not.

A uniform system of marking cattle would aid his deputies in quickly identifying animals believed to be stolen, he said, adding many of his men "don't know one cow from another."

In the meantime, Johansen said, a special training program on identification is being mapped out for his small force of deputies who are responsible for covering all rural Marin.

Since ranchers don't count their animals every day, thefts, which usually occur between 10 p.m. and 4 a.m., can go undetected for weeks and months making evidence and clues more difficult to find.

And since most of the thefts have occurred close to traveled roads, he said, he has asked feed, gas and produce companies to advise their early morning drivers to report any suspicious circumstance they notice on their rounds. "We need to get all the extra eyes we can," he added.

"Rustling hasn't grown to the point where it's a drastic problem, but we have to look to the future . . . make more people aware," he continued. "We don't want to have to look back and say we should have done something years ago."

Motorcycle Flips, Breaks Driver's Leg

Gary Lawrence Eikeland, 17, of 1703 Center Road, Novato, suffered a broken left leg at 5:20 p.m. yesterday when his motorcycle flipped over on Ridgeview Heights, north of Ridgeview Court, according to Novato police.

He was reported in good condition today at Novato General Hospital.

Dixie School To Eye Layoff Alternatives

A meeting of Dixie School District teachers and administrators yesterday produced so many alternatives to a board-ordered staff reduction that another meeting was called to explore those with merit.

Forty three teachers and parents — including many of the 15 teachers issued "tentative layoff notices" in the wake of sagging enrollment — came up with 37 other suggestions, according to Clark P. Matthiessen, president of the Dixie Teachers Association.

Proposals, which include early retirements, assigning two teachers to one class, lowering class size, applying for state funds and asking voters for a tax rate increase, will be probed at a meeting next Wednesday at 3:30 p.m. in the district office, he said.

Supt. Clifford W. Campbell said the group will have to consider the long range consequences of the alternatives. "You don't overstaff your schools unless you have the money," he said.

Drunken Driving Arrest Follows Chase, Accident

A 29-year-old San Anselmo man was arrested on suspicion of drunken driving today after a high-speed chase down San Anselmo Avenue that ended in a spectacular accident on Center Boulevard.

Stephen Frankl of 9 Lansdale Avenue was treated at Marin General Hospital for cuts and then booked into Marin County Jail and released on his own recognizance to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Police said a car driven by Frankl sped down the wrong side of San Anselmo Avenue westbound about 2:26 a.m. today and careened through two stop signs with a patrol car in pursuit. The car, weaving from lane to lane on Center Bulevard, hit a street sign and plummeted into a culvert near Saunders Avenue, according to police, who said the vehicle bounced straight up twice, collided with a utility pole, bounced again and came to rest on its top.

Frankl emerged with minor injuries, police said.

Ex-Beatle Is Fined On Pot

CAMBLETOWN, England (UPI) — A court fined ex-Beatle Paul McCartney $245 today on charges he used a greenhouse on his farm to cultivate marijuana.

McCartney pleaded guilty to growing the narcotic plants, but was found innocent on two counts of possessing marijuana.

His attorney, John McCluskey, told the court a conviction would seriously harm McCartney's business interests because it would lead to his being refused admittance into the United States.

Sudanese Overthrow Try Claimed

BEIRUT (UPI) — Sudanese President Jaafar Numeiry has informed Arab leaders that Palestinian guerrillas in Sudan were trying to incite dissidents to overthrow his regime, Beirut newspaper reports said today. He then said he would try in absentia a guerrilla leader who fled to Libya following last week's attack on the Saudi Arabian embassy in Khartoum.

The newspapers quoted sources close to Lebanese Premier Saeb Salam, who received an urgent message from the Sudanese leader early Wednesday morning that said the guerrillas were plotting "operations much more serious than the occupation of the Saudi Arabian embassy."

"President Numeiry accused the Palestinians of inciting certain political factions to sedition against his regime," the newspaper said. "He said the guerrillas even went as far as placing Sudanese ministers under surveillance."

Similar messages from Numeiry were sent to heads of all Arab governments through Arab League Secretary General Mahmoud Riad in Cairo, diplomatic reports said.

In the meantime, the newspaper Al-Sahafa said in Khartoum today Sudan will try the leader of the Al Fatah guerrilla faction in Khartoum in absentia. Numeiry has accused the guerrilla leader, Fowaz Yassin, of masterminding last week's attack on the Saudi embassy in Khartoum where three career diplomats — two of them Americans — were slain by eight guerrillas. The guerrillas turned themselves over to Sudanese authorities who have said they will put the guerrillas on trial for murder.

In addition to putting the eight guerrillas on trial, Numeiry has arrested at least five Sudanese, apparently in connection with the plots against him.

The Al Fatah leader Yassin, known by the guerrilla soubriquet Abu Marwan, was said to have fled to Libya only hours before the attack on the embassy was staged.

In his speech to the nation Tuesday, Numeiry announced he was banning Palestinian guerrilla activity in Sudan. In messages to the leaders of all Arab states, he called for a conference to discuss curbs on guerrilla activities.

12 Patients Killed In Hospital Blaze

TOKYO (UPI) — A fire destroyed a five-story hospital on the southern island of Kyushu early today and killed 12 patients, one of them a 7-year-old girl. Fire department officials said 242 patients were in the hospital when the fire broke out and said 12 of them died of smoke inhalation and burns before firemen could reach them.

Showdown Likely Next Week On GOP Try On Booting Out Mills

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Republican efforts to oust Democratic Senate President Pro Tem James R. Mills of San Diego—judged as almost hopeless by some GOP senators—could come to a head late next week.

Sen. John L. Harmer of Glendale, the Republican frontrunner to replace Mills, said Wednesday he will push for a vote on the leadership question as soon as reapportionment is "laid to rest."

Harmer publicly expressed optimism about his chances in the wake of the victory of Republican Assemblyman John Stull of Leucadia in a special Senate election Tuesday in San Diego County.

The seating of Stull, expected next Monday, will even the balance in the Senate between Republicans and Democrats at 20-20.

The split raised the possibility, conceded to be unlikely by both parties, that Republican Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke, presiding officer of the Senate, could cast a tie-breaking vote in a 20-20 deadlock.

Democratic and GOP leaders said the 20-20 party balance would not mean a stalemate on legislation in the Senate. Voting on bills does not generally follow party lines in the house, which is traditionally less partisan than the Assembly.

While Harmer predicted he had a "very good" chance of ousting Mills, the Republican senator admitted he could no longer count on the 21 votes he once said he had in his bid for the pro tem position.

Harmer added there has been a "change in the psychology" of the Senate since earlier in the year that has "eroded the motivation for change."

en. Mervyn M. Dymally of Los Angeles, Democratic caucus chairman, concurred with Harmer's assessment of the Senate's mood.

"The state of affairs has been too restless for the past two months. I don't think the guys want to continue it anymore," he said.

As for the GOP's attempt to replace Mills, Dymally said, "It's over with."

Privately some Republicans nearly agree, describing Harmer's chances as "terribly slim."

The problem of replacing Mills is more difficult than just mustering one additional vote, according to Republicans. Potential Democratic defectors do not want to be singled out as the solitary deserter and have insisted on assurances that several other Democrats will go along with a GOP bid to oust Mills, Republicans said.

Harmer said he hoped reapportionment of Senate districts would be cleared up early next week, setting the stage for a pro tem vote late in the week.

Magee Sees Himself As A 'Slave'

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A psychiatrist told Ruchell Magee's murder trial yesterday the San Quentin convict thought of himself as a slave seeking freedom when he joined an escape attempt that erupted into the 1970 Marin County Hall of Justice shootout.

Magee, 33, is on trial for the slaying of Judge Harold J. Haley during the gun battle that left four men dead on Aug. 7, 1970.

Former U.S. Attorney General Ramsey Clark, who joined the defense this week, questioned psychiatrist Richard Kamisaruk, of Oakland, Calif. about Magee's background and his imprisonment in 1963 for robbery and kidnaping.

The convict spent the ensuing six years filing hundreds of legal motions with various courts, trying to have the conviction overturned, Kamisaruk said. His arrest followed a bar dispute and Magee believed no crime occurred.

"Nothing is more important to my understanding of Mr Magee than seeing these terrible things that happened to him in 1963," said Kamisaruk, chairman of the Committee on Prison Reform for the Northern California Psychiatric Association.

"The trial and its aftermath were compounded errors interwoven into a network of most gruesome significance to Ruchell Magee. The forces which were supposedly fair were muzzling him beyond his coprehension.

"Magee came to see himself as a slave and felt he had the same right as any other slave to free himself," the psychiatrist testified.

Leary Loses Plea For Delaying Trial

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Calif. (UPI) — Superior Court Judge Timothy O'Reilly refused Wednesday to postpone the trial of LSD advocate Timothy Leary for escaping from prison.

"We're going to trial March 13," ruled the judge, turning down a plea from Leary's attorney for more time. Leary is to be tried here for escaping in 1970 from the California Men's Colony, where he was serving a marijuana posession sentence, and in Santa Ana, Calif., on narcotics smuggling charges.

Flournoy Attacks Property Tax Relief-School Aid Legislation

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — "Scores of crucial ambiguities, errors and loopholes" riddle the Reagan-Moretti property tax relief-school aid act and create "staggering" problems for government, says Controller Houston I. Flournoy.

"It's one thing to have a grand concept. It is another thing altogether to draft practical provisions which will implement it," protested the controller.

Flournoy, a probable candidate for the 1974 Republican gubernatorial nomination, spoke out sharply for the first time Wednesday against the $1.1 billion bill sponsored by Gov. Ronald Reagan and Democratic Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti.

The bill, passed by the 1972 Legislature after 11th hour, high pressure negotiating, takes effect at varying intervals this year.

Flournoy told the California Taxpayers' Association he approves of the act's "basic thrust" but has "many serious reservations about it."

Not only will a "clean-up bill" be required to straighten out the confusion, Flournoy said, but "this clean-up bill itself will require a clean-up bill."

Contrasting with the administration's rosy fiscal outlook, Flournoy also said the "euphoria" generated by prospects of a $852 million budget surplus "has recently been shattered."

He blamed a federal welfare act which could cost the state up to $289 million, President Nixon's spending cutbacks and the Reagan-Moretti program which could "have a tremendously potent effect on the future financial condition of California."

Also disagreeing with Reagan and many other Republican colleagues, Flournoy said he feels "very certain" the state Supreme Court will not accept the new act as an answer to questions it raised in the landmark Serrano school case.

"It did not eliminate the vast (revenue) inequities among our school districts, which was the major concern of the court," said Flournoy, adding that "could easily" cost up to $400 million annually.

Beyond that, Flournoy said, the act "contains literally scores of crucial ambiguities, errors and loopholes in its 113 pages which may well nullify its intent."

For example, Flournoy said, the "critical" language limiting future local property tax increases "was never subjected to the crucible of legislative hearings and it shows it."

"Even more confusion," he said, surrounds provisions requiring the state to reimburse local governments for sales and property tax exemptions and state mandated programs.

"With 58 counties, over 400 cities and several thousand special districts, the problems of estimating losses from tax exemptions and estimating the reimbursement for a vast number of new mandated programs for each jurisdiction is staggering," he said.

Democrats Seek Passage Of Reapportionment Bill

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Assembly Democrats pushed today for quick passage of a major reapportionment bill despite reluctance by Republicans who want to follow Gov. Ronald Reagan and hold out for a etter deal.

Hoping to lure GOP lawmakers, Democratic leaders modified their new plan Wednesday in an unannounced floor session to sweeten the districts of four Republicans. But it didn't work, at least not completely.

After meeting with Reagan and conducting a two-hour closed caucus, GOP assemblymen unanimously decided to oppose the bill (AB8) by Assemblyman Ken Meade, D-Oakland, in a showdown vote planned today by Democrats.

"We feel we are entitled to more districts where we have a shot at winning," said Assemblyman Robert G. Beverly, GOP caucus chairman.

Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti counted on a "surprising" number of GOP votes for the Democratic bill.

In a private meeting with Republicans, Reagan said the current Democratic plan "would be extremely difficult to accept" because of several districts drawn by "very obvious gerrymandering" which erodes "good government."

Reagan said he was troubled by districts that would "divide communities of interest unnecessarily" and indicated he would prefer the state Supreme Court to do the job.

The court has threatened to redistrict the state's 80 Assembly and 40 Senate seats if the legislature and Reagan cannot agree quickly on their own reapportionment plan.

Reagan also told GOP lawmakers a recent U.S. Supreme Court decision permitting more flexibility in reapportionment should allow the legislature to avoid district lines that divide cities or other natural political boundaries.

Beverly and other Republicans generally agree the bill would protect most GOP incumbents who wish to run for reelection in 1974.

But they contend several "open" districts—where there would be no incumbent—are too heavily Democratic and would result in dwarfing the Republican party's power for years to come.

Democrwts say the plan would give Republicans 32 seats. GOP experts say it would be more like 28 to 31 seats. Currently,the Assembly has 49 Democrats and 29 Republicans with two vacancies.

One of the open seats resembles a misshapen T-bone steak, stretching from Chino in San Bernardino County north to Bakersfield and the Owls Head Mountains on the edge of Death Valley.

Another resembles an elephant seal with its nose hooking across the city of Orange and its truncated body running south to the San Diego County mountain community of Boulevard.

The third is a stumpy, relatively small district that includes sections of Contra Costa, Alameda and Santa Clara counties.

Squeezed out of their old districts would be three Democrats who are considering retiring from the Assembly— Carlos Bee of Hayward, Harvey Johnson of El Monte and John Foran of San Francisco.

Assemblyman Floyd L. Wakefield's district in the South Gate area also would be reshaped, possibly forcing him to change his residence to run in the same region in 1974.

A so-called "Cory-dor" would be created in Orange County, squirreling through the area in an effort to give Assemblyman Kenneth Cory, D-Garden Gorve, a reasonable chance of winning reelection in the generally conservative, Republican county.

Case Sent To Superior Court

A Marin Municipal Court judge yesterday ruled there is enough evidence to try Jaime Leonel Doran, 24, of San Francisco, on a felony auto theft charge.

Judge Robert A. Smallman then ordered Doran to make his first pretrial appearance in superior court Wednesday.

The Sausalito police report indicates an officer stopped a 1971 plymouth driven by Doran Feb. 26 because it was traveling the wrong way on Locust Street. A check revealed the car was reported stolen in San Jose, police said.

A passenger was arrested too, but was not charged because evidence was lacking.

Too Many 'Speak For Marin City'

Who speaks for Marin City? That question has been a bothersome one down through the years.

To begin with, Marin City is not a city at all, and never has been. The name "Marin City" was the tag given a World War II public housing development to house workers at the Marinship shipbuilding yards.

ORIGINALLY, Marin City was entirely government housing. To provide a voice for its residents, the Marin City Tenants Council was organized. Although it had no official status, it was widely representative, and was usually considered to be "speaking for Marin City."

When Marin City redevelopment began, private ownership entered the picture. The wartime housing was replaced by apartment buildings and single-family homes. Some of the people bought their own homes; others bought into cooperative apartments. So the tenants' council no longer represented all of Marin City. And since some of the council's leaders were among those who became property owners, it declined and finally passed out of existence.

The property owner group meanwhile formed its own organization, the Marin City Homeowners Improvement Association. This remains active and speaks on behalf of the minority of residents who own their own homes. It does not, however, speak for those in the high-rise publicly owned apartment buildings.

ALONG WITH redevelopment, also, came formation of the Marin City Community Services District. This was set up under a California law that provides for public districts, with taxing power, to perform some of the functions of a city where no incorporated city exists.

Community services districts have legal power to provide police and fire protection, street maintenance, parks, recreation — most of the things a city government provides. But there is a catch. A community services district's only source of revenue is the property tax, and it is limited to $1 per $10 assessed valuation.

In the case of Marin City, this produces less than $9,000 per year — far too little to do any of the things a community services district has legal power to do. So the Marin City CSD has limited itself to operating the Manzanita Center, a recreation center built with a federal grant.

Sometimes the board of the community services district attempts to speak for Marin City. But many of the residents largely ignore the CDS, since it provides no real local government.

IN RECENT years, another organization was formed with a name implying that it speaks for Marin City — the Marin City Council. However, "city council" is a misnomer. There is no city and no city council. The Marin City Council is simply another unofficial organization, with membership made up mostly from residents in the public housing apartments.

The confusion as to who speaks for Marin City was shown plainly in the past few days. First the Marin City Council asked for removal of a veteran public health nurse who has served Marin City since before its redevelopment. Then the Marin City Homeowners Improvement Association came out strongly for retaining the nurse.

The fact is that nobody can speak for Marin City. And that is one of the community's handicaps.

Many voices "speak for Marin City." But none speaks for the community as a whole. And that is one of Marin City's handicaps.

Regents, Heavily Attacked, Thumb Noses At Public

By EARL G. WATERS

At a time when their autonomy, and perhaps their very existence, is being challenged from several directions, it is incredible that the regents of the University of California would take a "public be damned" stance.

Yet that is exactly what this aristocratic body has done in its refusal to make public the employment contract of university president Charles J. Hitch.

The initial interest in the contract now becomes dwarfed by the issue of the public's right to know how its money is spent. But even that issue is surpassed as confidence is shaken by the regents' action. The large question becomes whether the university has been entrusted to proper hands.

THERE IS A GROWING belief that it has not. Recently the joint legislative committee on higher education presented a report which recommends sweeping changes in university administration. Included are proposals to strip the university of much of its autonomy, reduce the terms of the regents, and change the mode of their selection.

Similar recommendations regarding the regents were made earlier by the State Coordinating Council for Higher Education. And prior to that have been various legislative proposals, notably one last year by Assemblyman Dixon Arnett, R-Redwood City, along the same lines.

The joint legislative committee, however, has gone much farther than anyone heretofore and challenged much of the "sacred" autonomy of the university. This autonomy was written into the constitution in 1849. The constitutional status of the regents, however, dates back only to 1918.

IT WAS THE OBVIOUS intent of the early constitutional framers to establish and maintain the state's center of learning aloof from political interference. But it was also obviously intended that the university would be self-sufficient by reason of endowments and public land grants.

As the university grew, it came to ook to the Legislature for augmentation of its budgetary needs. This dependency has expanded rapidly in recent years until it now is requesting annual support greater than the state's total budget of 30 years ago.

Legislators are reluctant, and properly so, to appropriate funds without attaching some measure of control. But there is more to the desires of the solons for greater voice in higher education management than mere fiscal controls.

It is a belief that the efforts in higher education have not been coordinated, that those entrusted to overseeing the programs have failed to respond to the need for new goals and new policies.

It is this basic belief which has led the joint committee to call for a change in the name and authority of the coordinating council, which the committee says neither coordinates nor has the power to do so.

The recommendation to reduce the terms of the regents from the present lengthy 16 years is only symptomatic of growing discontent with the entire operation. Based upon their apparent misunderstanding of the irresponsibility to the public, as demonstrated by their refusal to let the public know how they are spending its money, any reduction of their terms short of complete elimination seems inadequate.

Lighted Magnolia Deserves Bouquet

Bouquets to the family on Magnolia in Larkspur for continuing the tradition of lighting their glorious (soulangeana) magnolia tree at night. It is a thrill to come upon it at any time — even brightens these dark, gloomy days — but seeing it at night in its full spring glory uplifts the spirit of those who pass by.

Thank you from those of us who are fortunate to be able to enjoy it.

Ferry Terminal Seen As 'Tourist Mecca'

What is the purpose of a ferry terminal? I believed the idea was to get commuters off Highway 101 so there would not be the need to widen this highway and the Golden Gate Bridge and to offer a less polluting, faster, more economical means of transportation to our community, to our commuters. And what do we have proposed by the Golden Gate Bridge District in the artist's sketch (approved as final) in the I-J of Feb. 24? A tourists' mecca; and, also ferry docking slips and a parking lot.

Who needs the extras, "restaurants, shops, offices" and most repugnant, "sight seeing attractions"? Who needs the congestion of cars these extras would create even before widening funds are reviewed for East Sir Francis Drake Boulevard by the Division of Highways in 1978 or 1979? Who needs more smog in our community? "Plan ahead" has been said by the Powers That Be. For whom are they planning? I see this terminal as a great money-making package for the GGBD. I don't need this development and I wonder how many others od who live here. Is it too late to protest?

Heartfelt Tribute To Mrs. Terwilliger

We enjoyed your excellent coverage concerning the activities and dedication to conservation education by Mrs. Terwilliger. We were delighted with the films of her trips shown Feb. 2 from both aesthetic and ecological aspects. Teachers could gain nature teaching techniques and an increased awareness of beautiful Marin County. The photography, music and poetry of scenes such as rustling leaves and slow motion in the "rope seaweed" scene — an effect that conveyed a real message that real lasting memories are often found in lovely nature experiences such as these trips sponsored by the Boyd Museum and so excellently led by Mrs. Terwilliger, and how often we may wish to remain in the present moment of joy!

We indeed pay tribute to Mrs. Terwilliger's many contributions to increasing our awareness and appreciation of this very special county in which we live. We are sure that our 4½-year-old daughter Lorraine's memories and conservation consciousness in the future have been enriched greatly by the dedication and generosity of time by leaders such as "Mrs. T." These nature awareness experiences are the riches that are lasting and available for everyone.

We appreciate a newspaper that can devote several articles to that which is truly the "good, the true, and the beautiful" in our life.

Stevenson Memorabilia Pleasing To Visitor

As a visitor from Scotland and an ardent admirer of Robert Louis Stevenson, I am writing to express my appreciation of the fine way you here in California dedicate yourselves to his memory.

At Monterey, going through the Stevenson House, as I had done in Samoa, where he spent the last four years of his life, I felt that the great writer's spirit was there. I could see him, propped against the pillows, writing in the bed shipped from Scotland to Samoa, and back again to California by his widow. I was thrilled to learn that in Monterey lived a lady who, 95 years ago, had sat on Robert Louis Stevenson's knee when he dined at her father's restaurant.

In St. Helena, at the Silverado Museum, I marvelled at the patience and devotion of Mr. Norman Strouse. Since the '30s, he has built up his collection of anything connected with Robert Louis Stevenson. In 1969, his persistence brought about the opening of the museum. Here, in sight of the mountain where Robert and Fanny spent their honeymoon, his collection, now grown to 3,000 exhibits, is beautifully displayed. Going from one to another, reading the neat writing of the original scripts, I felt that the great writer would be proud at the honour being done to him.

Like myself, I am sure that Robert Louis Stevenson must have left part of his heart in your beautiful California.

Flood Control Critic Only Partly Right

Robert J. Staal's letter in the Independent-Journal of Feb. 22 evidences lack of information about Corte Madera Creek both pre- and present flood control status. Even more so when he characterizes any storm we've had this season as being of the 100-year variety.

He is correct if, as he says and disputes, Chuck Murphy, county flood control engineer, rated the Corte Madera Creek Flood Control Project "as it now stands is virtually useless." It isn't entirely so, and I should know. The transition structure between the project and the natural creek is in our back yard. We've lived there for 14 years, are veterans of a variety of high and low floods, and have maintained a rainfall record for all of those years.

What the project, to the extent of its progress, has accomplished in Ross is to control the worst and most frequent flooding spot in the low stretch on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard just north of Ross Hospital . . . There has not been a sufficient flooding exposure since the project progressed to its present point to determine what will happen at the transition structure when upstream creek flow gets to those that occurred, in personal experience, on Dec. 19-20, 1969 and Jan. 21, 1970. None of these achieved the awesome 100-year storm status.

Even more significantly, and to be contemplated with trepidation, is what is bound to happen if stream flow gets to those that occurred during the storms mentioned above or occasioned by one of the 100-year variety . . . The result is bound to be flooding throughout the lower portions of Ross including Sir Francis Drake, a river down Kent Avenue, flooding at the College of Marin (a nightmare to them because they've assured construction fund grant agencies flooding wuld not occur and the college might be liable for those funds), and flooding in the Kentfield business and College Park, Larkspur, areas. In such instances, Chuck Murphy and the Corps of Engineers are so right . . .

Secretary Of Labor Brennan Proves Surprise Of New Cabinet

WASHINGTON — Now that the trial run of the new Nixon dispensation is ending, the star turn is a surprise to practically everyone except the star himself. It is Secy. of Labor Peter J. Brennan, who has shown in the cabinet post the advantages of his long experience in the jungle of New York state and building trades politics.

Big, blustery, handsome, with a vocabulary when aroused that a stevedore would envy, Brennan has been asserting his independence in setting his own pace and fashioning his own department. Insisting on the right to name his own assistant secretaries, Brennan walked into the lions' den of the White House and came out unscathed.

Those two formidable lions, H. R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman, had been asserting at least a veto right on sub-cabinet appointments across the board. Brennan went to the White House for a cabinet meeting with his own list, determined to have 15 minutes in private with the President.

A message was slipped into the meeting, "Brennan is going to blow." The secretary of labor found the President in a remarkably receptive mood. He promptly invited Brennan to ride with him on his plane to Florida for the encounter at Bal Harbor with George Meany and the grand dukes of the AFL-CIO. En route Brennan had nearly an hour with the President and emerged smilingly confident that his nominees to run the Labor Department would be approved.

HE WAS WARNED, however, by the smart young men helping him to set up his empire that this should not be taken as final victory. The sun never sets on the tireless Haldeman-Ehrlichman combine as they go about their master's business.

What sets Brennan apart from the big business and money types brought in under the new dispensation is a political base. He had a lot to do with creating the network of labor bosses in state after state that helped to contribute an unprecedented share of the labor vote in November for the Nixon-Agnew ticket.

The President wants to keep this network functioning, and Brennan is the man to do it. The secretary relied in many instances, not on top union bosses, but on officials lower down with a close relationship with the rank and file. From his present vantage point he is ideally situated to keep the network active.

THE PRESENT GLOW of optimism could be of short duration. Ahead this year, major union contracts expire, with the threat of big wage increases and even prolonged and disruptive strikes. As the administration wobbles around on the wage guideline, with the 5.5 per cent ceiling little more than a pious intention, Meany & Co. push for not less than 7.5 per cent and it could go higher.

The wage spiral aside, Brennan faces another dilemma. Conservative Republicans want Congress to pass a right-to-work law which would do away with the closed shop and the compulsion to pay union dues. In view of his desire to keep elements of organized labor within the Republican party, it is doubtful that the President himself will favor such a move.

But Brennan could hardly support a step opposed virtually without exception by the unions. Even though his New York City Construction Trades Council is ultraconservative, certainly on Vietnam policy and as has been frequently charged on letting in minorities, it could never tolerate right-to-work.

BRENNAN'S CLOSE associates wear lapel pins of cold hard hats with an enamel American flag superimposed. The hard hats in New York violently attacked young long-haired demonstrators in the Wall Street district as they protested the Cambodian incursion. Later Brennan led a march of 100,000 construction and waterfront workers in a counterprotest.

Brennan is deeply rooted in New York-state politics, having helped to swing important segments of organized labor behind Gov. Nelson Rockefeller. When Rockefeller runs for a fifth term next year, Brennan will have an active part, if only behind the scenes. He contributed to the defeat of Rockefeller's last Democratic opponent, Arthur J. Goldberg, who also was once a secretary of labor.

In the opinion of union leaders who backed George McGovern, and even some who reluctantly followed the Meany strategy of neutrality, Brennan is considered a tool of the establishment. In his current ascendancy, prepared to do battle with all comers, this troubles him not a bit.

WINDOW ON THE WORLD

Khartoum Slayings May Bring Action On Terrorism

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

One result of the brutal murders of one Belgian and two American diplomats in Khartoum could be a new look at the whole question of international terrorism.

Another could be a new wedge driven between conservative and so-called revolutionary Arab regimes.

By carrying out their latest act of violence inside the embassy of one Arab nation accredited to another Arab nation, the Black September Palestinian guerrillas have demonstrated again that no nation is immune in their declared war of extermination against Israel, carried out in the name of a non-existent Palestinian state.

AMONG THOSE whose release from custody were demanded by the terrorists were members of the West German guerrilla group known as the Baader-Meinhof gang.

It reinforced previous suggestions that a well-developed line of communications existed between various underground terrorist movements throughout the world, including the American hemisphere.

Cleo A. Noel, the U.S. ambassador to the Sudan, was the second American ambassador to be killed by terrorists and the fourth to be seized by them. The first was John Gordon Mein, gunned down on Aug. 28, 1968, outside Guatemala City.

Two others, Clinton Knox, serving in Haiti and C. Burke Elbrick, stationed in Brazil, were kidnaped but later released unharmed.

More than 20 other American officials have been involved in terrorist incidents in the last decade.

PARTLY AS RESULT, the United States has been in the forefront of a frustrating drive to set up curbs on terrorism.

It supported an unsuccessful attempt initiated by Brazil and supported by Argentina to exclude terrorists from the right of political asylum. It died inside the Organization for American States, where it originated.

The United States introduced into the United Nations General Assembly last year measures for protection of diplomats and control of terrorism. It also was rejected.

In January, a movement for effective sanctions against countries that provide havens for hijackers was defeated in the legal committee of the International Civil Aviation Organization.

INSIDE THE ARAB world, the events at Khartoum seem likely to widen an already existing rift between hard-line revolutionary regimes such as Libya, Syria and Egypt and the conservative monarchies led by Saui Arabia.

The killings occurred inside the embassy of Saudi Arabia, a nation upon which the Palestinian Arabs depend heavily for financial support. This support now may be endangered.

It also could have an effect upon Egypt which supports the command movement but also depends heavily upon the Saudis for financial aid.

Whatever the outcome, the slayings give new meaning to a suggestion made with bitter humor by an American diplomat that foreign service officers should receive hazardous duty pay just as though they were serving in a war zone.

Even the air is dry in Kansas.

The Sunflower State is noted for its buttermilk skies. Stronger-type cloud formations are not allowed.

The only law an airplane is permitted to violate in the airways above Kansas is the law of gravity.

The "no booze" ruling is inhibiting to many travelers who ordinarily act as though they think an airplane flies on martinis.

New Drug Laws Contradict Each Other, Attorneys Say

"Total confusion."

These were the words used by a Marin attorney who often represents clients in drug and narcotic cases to describe two pieces of drug legislation passed by state lawmakers last year which seem to be at odds with each other.

The first is the Campbell-Moretti-Deukmaejian Drug Abuse Act, which provides a decriminalizing process for first-time drug offenders.

Under this bill a drug violator can be "diverted" to educational, treatment and rehabilitation programs and come off without a criminal offense on his record if he avoids further arrests for two years.

The intent of the Legislature seems clearly aimed at rehabilitating drug offenders, rather than making criminals out of them.

HOWEVER, ANOTHER piece of legislation, the long and sweeping Drug Abuse Control Act, which was AB192 and was also originally authored by Assemblyman William Campbell, R-La Puente, seems to take a different tack.

Under this act, which goes into effect today, a much tougher view seems to be taken with regard to drug offenders — at least those involved with anything other than marijuana.

The bill slipped by the notice of the press when it was signed by the governor in December, and a short Associated Press story said that "existing offenses and penalties relating to narcotics and dangerous drugs are not affected."

The few lawyers who have waded through the stack of pages which outline provisions of the act have decided, though, that there is a decided change in penalties for drug offenders.

ONE SECTION eliminates the possibility of a possessor of a small amount of any drug other than marijuana being charged with a misdemeanor rather than a felony.

In the past it has been common practice to charge a defendant who had a few pills of some kind with a misdemeanor, as has been the custom with the "one marijuana cigarette" cases.

The new bill, though, makes it mandatory that a felony be charged for possessing any drug or narcotic other than pot.

Although probation can be granted to first-time offenders, AB 192 has another stiff kicker in it.

Anyone who has been convicted a second time of any drug offense other than marijuana (possession, sale, transporting, etc.) faces a mandatory state prison sentence.

"THIS IS WHAT law enforcement officers have been crying for," said Marvin Cahn, San Rafael lawyer whose practice includes many drug offenders.

He said he and other lawyers who have researched the new laws cannot decide whethelr when the "diversionary" step is taken with a first offense, a defendant might get one more chance.

In addition to a great deal of confusion, Cahn predicts that courts will be swamped with many more defendants, faced with mandatory state prison sentences, demanding jury trials.

Roger Smith, director of Marin Open House, an anti-drug center, called the Campbell bill a "disaster" and predicted it would "escalate the problem." Smith, noting that drug addiction is behind a great deal of Marin's crime, said that treatment and rehabilitation aimed at curing the addict, not further criminalizing him, was the answer.

Plan For Saving The Dollar: Tell World It's Beyond Hope

WASHINGTON — The tragedy of the United States is that, while it is militarily the greatest power in the world, it can't do much when everybody starts dumping the American dollar.

We have been so busy defending our honor in Southeast Asia that we haven't been able to defend our money in Europe. I believe that one of President Nixon's biggest mistakes has been his optimism about the American economy. He keeps assuring everyone that inflation is licked, wages are being stabilized, and 1974 is going to be a great year for the nation's balance of payments.

The European mentality is such that the more affirmative the American President sounds about our economy, the more suspicious European bankers and money speculators become.

HAVING LIVED ABROAD for a long time I know how the people over there think, and I believe the only thing that can save the dollar is for President Nixon to stop reassuring everyone that it is healthy.

I think it is essential that the President go on worldwide television, via satellite, and make the following statement:

"My fellow citizens of the world, I wish to speak to you tonight about the American dollar. I must make it perfectly clear that despite stories to the contrary, the dollar has never been in worse shape. If Pat and I lived abroad, I would sell every American dollar I had. Our economy is hopeless and my administration does not have any solutions for saving it. I predict U.S. production will go down, wages will go up, and our balance of payments will be in a shambles.

"I urge every one of you to go to your bank tomorrow and sell your American dollars for whatever you can get for them. I feel, as President of the United States, you would rather hear the truth than be given false promises that America cannot deliver on.

"I am certain that perhaps a future President may restore the American dollar to its rightful place in the world monetary system. But, for the moment, the thing to do is to forget us and do what you consider is in the best interests of your respective countries. Thank you and good night."

NOW THE FIRST THING that would happen after the President made such a speech is that the European bankers and money speculators would get on the phones.

"Did you hear what he said?" a Swiss banker would ask a German industrialist. "He wants us to believe the dollar is in trouble."

"What kind of fools does he take us for? If he says the dollar is weak, then he must know it is strong. Sell my marks and buy dollars immediately."

Then the Swiss banker would pick up another phone. It is the head of a London insurance company calling. "I don't like it," the British businessman would say. "He kept wiping his lips while he was talking. The man's lying through his teeth. Get me out of yen and into dollars immediately."

The French consortium would call in next. "Et izz an American double-cross," the Frenchman would say. "They want to buy their dollars back cheap and stick us with gold. Zut! We will feex them. Sell all our gold and buy dollars tout de suite!"

PANIC WOULD ENSUE amongst the Arab oil sheiks.

"The Americans are trying to sink us by making us sell our dollars. Buy back all the dollars we sold, plus $500 million more, and don't worry what you have to pay for them. No wonder they call him Tricky Dick."

By the end of the day, the orders for American dollars would be so great that the money markets in Europe would have to close. A group of bankers would fly over to the Smithsonian Institution to discuss with American bankers ways of saving their own currencies. But Nixon would remain firm and insist the dollar was still the only money in serious trouble.

If Mr. Nixon has the courage to follow this game plan, he could go down as the greatest President in American economic history.

Please, sir, we beg you to do it. Nothing else has worked, so what do you have to lose?

Coffee Sunday

A coffee for Eileen Bach-y-Rita, candidate for the Mill Valley School District board, will be held at 3 p.m. Sunday at the Larry Haines residence, 28 Nelson Avenue, Mill Valley.

Education Board Wants To Shelve Organization Panel

The Marin County Board of Education will consider petitioning the state Board of Education to do away with the Marin County Committee on School District Organization and delegate its duties to the board.

Asst. Supt. Robert E. Spain said at its meeting Tuesday the board, at the suggestion of member Lee C. Richardson Jr., agreed to talk about a petition at its April 2 meeting.

All 11 members of the committee want to keep it in existence, and have requested a $3,000 budget for fiscal 1973-74 for four meetings next year, and its share of staff.

The committee was first formed in 1956, and has dealt with unification and redistricting matters — last year it redistricted the county board itself, creating two entirely new areas and preventing two incumbents, Patrick W. Pollock and Arnold Dolcini Jr. from seeking reelection.

Marin County Board Of Education Also:

PERSONNEL — Hired Jacqueline Shirley as a hearing handicapped teacher at Gallinas annex at $4,577 a year; Mary P. Honey, part-time teacher at Sunny Hills at $7 an hour; Dolores O'Donoghue, part time teacher at Loma Alta school at $7 an hour; Michael Carlson, bus driver at $3.40 an hour; Barbara Haman, bus driver, $3.24 an hour, and Marjorie Sinka, instructional aide, Marindale school, $3.24 an hour.

CONSULTANT — Agreed to pay Phillip Daro, educational specialist for the University of California, $2,000 for 20 days work training teachers of disadvantaged children, and $375 each to Kay Gingrich and Barbara Nelson for leading a learning center workshop.

MULTIHANDICAPPED — Approved applying for state funds to operate an experimental program for multihandicapped children; it's expected 12 more children will be assigned to Marin county under the state's scheme to shift patients from state hospitals.

POLICY — Adopted amendments to board policies on leaves, substitute teachers and administrators, and temporary employees, but referred an amendment on recruitment to staff for rewriting, indicating they want vacant jobs publicized to all county schools employees.

MANAGEMENT — Disagreed with a list of 11 administrators classified as "management", suggesting that the psychologist, psychometrist and regional occupation program counsellor shouldn't be on it.

PERMIT TEACHERS — After two hours' discussion decided it may recommend that teachers at the Development Center at Forest Meadows, Dominican College, should eventually all be certificated teachers, instead of permit (30 college units) teachers as is presently required; instructed its negotiators to work with the Certificated Employees Council on the suggestion and report to the April 2 board meeting.

MAGNOLIA PARK — Told George McDonald, who was concerned at the lack of speech therapy at Magnolia Park where his son is a student, that 15 of the 42 trainable mentally retarded students there from 14 to 21 years old get speech therapy, and the speech therapist, Glenn Hill, trains teachers, too.

MEETINGS — Set its next meeting for March 20, 8 p.m. at the Center Medical Hospital in Ross; and because of members' other engagements, set meetings at irregular dates: April 2, April 17, May 8 and 22, June 12 and 26, and said when the new board is seated in July regular meeting dates will be announced; adjourned at 12:40 a.m.

A coffee for Donald McEnhill, candidate for election to the Dixie School District board, has been scheduled at 8 p.m. March 12 at the Richard Conner home, 59 Elda Drive, San Rafael.

Kurt Waldheim

The position of Secretary-General of the United Nations has been called "the most impossible job in the world." Kurt Waldheim of Austria is the fourth man in the organization's 27-year history to hold that post. The tall, well-dressed statesman had much diplomatic experience before becoming Secretary-General last year. Born near Vienna in 1918, he fought in Hitler's Wehrmacht as an infantry officer on the Russian front during World War II. He received a law degree from the University of Vienna in 1944. Joining the foreign service in 1945, he served in Paris and later was Austria's ambassador to Canada. In 1958, he headed Austria's first delegation to the UN General Assembly.

DO YOU KNOW — Where is the United Nations headquarters located?

Nixon Says Cities Will Get Funds

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon said today the nation's cities would get at least as much federal aid as they obtained under existing urban programs if his $2.3 billion a year special revenue sharing program for community development becomes law.

"In the years immediately following enactment, funds would be used to assure that no city receives less money for community development than it has received under the categorical grant programs," Nixon said.

He made the statement in a message to Congress on community development.

In the latest of a series of messages he substituted for the State of the Union speech, Nixon also pledged to submit to Congress within six months his recommendations for programs to replace federal subsidies for housing to the poor which were suspended last Jan. 5.

The President said the suspended housing programs had been inefficient, costly and unfair, and had failed to guarantee enough of the federal cash actually reached the poor.

Nixon also said he would propose legislation to replace existing federal aid for community planning programs.

He said he would ask $110 million to pay for planning services in the fiscal year beginning July 1.

He said that was almost 20 per cent of the entire amount spent over the past 20 years on existing planning programs.

Earlier versions of the administration's special revenue sharing program contained provisions intended to guarantee that no recipient governmental unit would have to take a cut in grants as a result of the switch away from federal, narrow purpose programs.

Many mayors, especially big-city Democrats, have complained this year that Nixon is trying to reduce categorical grant programs without assuring them of adequate replacement revenue.

The President has been assuring groups of mayors for several weeks that there would be no loss of funds, but the inclusion of the provision in today's message marked his most direct, public pledge of a continued flow of federal money to the cities.

Prisoners Get Big Welcome

HONOLULU (UPI) — More than 2,000 persons today gave a tumultuous welcome to the last of the freed POWs completing Phase II of Operation Homecoming when their ambulance planes landed for refueling stopovers.

One unidentified woman greeted every returnee she could reach with a long kiss as they stepped off the planes.

"Ooh, that feels really good," one former POW said.

The first welcome on American soil for the 56 former prisoners was marred by the removal of one officer in an ambulance and a staff sergeant who deplaned on crutches.

Lt. Col. Leo K. Thornsneff was taken from the second planeload of 18, after doctors said he had developed a slight fever. They said his condition was good, but would not speculate on when he could continue on to the mainland.

Staff Sgt. William Baird, who came off the plane on crutches with his legs bandaged, was hugged and kissed and showered with leis as he went over to greet the crowd.

Navy Capt. Robert B. Fuller told the roaring crowd that "we would like to offer our humble thanks to you and all the American people who have made this great day in our lives possible."

Air Force Col. Norman Gaddis of Knoxville, Tenn, said "we return without any bitterness or delusion because we have been allowed to return with dignity and honor."

After refueling, the planes took off for air bases in Texas, California, Maryland and Illinois. Eighty POWs landed at the same bases Wednesday. All were released Sunday and Monday.

Their arrival will leave 282 Americans still in prison camps. All were to be out by the end of the month under the terms of the cease-fire agreement, but there still was no word on when the next batch would be freed.

"Happiness is a returning POW," read a rain-soaked sign greeting the 20 POWs returning to Andrews AFB, Md., Wednesday.

Air Force Col. Frederick A. Crow Jr., 47, of Hampton, Va., came off the plane and was greeted by Maj. Gen. Daniel James, the highest ranking black in the Air Force and a pilot who flew in the same unit as Crow.

CRASH SCENE — At least five persons are dead and 33 hurt with four critical, in this Greyhound bus crash near Bakersfield in West Texas. The bus collided with a truck last night on a narrow bridge. It burst into flames and tumbled into a draw. The bus was on a Houston-to-San Francisco cross-country run. (UPI Telephoto)

Five To Seven Dead In Fiery Bus Crash

BAKERSFIELD, Tex. (UPI) — A Greyhound bus loaded with adults and several children collided with a truck on a narrow West Texas bridge last night. The bus burst into flames and tumbled into a draw killing a number of passengers.

The Texas Department of Public Safety first reported that 15 persons died in the accident, but the figures later were revised to "between five and seven."

Twenty-three persons were injured, four critically. They were hospitalized in nearby Fort Stockton and Iraan. Three persons escaped without injury.

The bus wreck was the third since Christmas in a 250-mile area of West Texas and East New Mexico. On Dec. 26, 19 Texans on a ski outing were killed in a bus-truck crash near Fort Sumner, N.M. and 16 others were injured. Feb. 6, seven students were killed in a school bus-train wreck in Littlefield, Tex., 17 others were injured.

Frank Cantu, of La Villa, Tex., in the lower Rio Grande Valley, said he was sitting in the rear of the bus.

"Everything happened so quick when it hit," he said. "As soon as it hit, everything caught on fire. The left side of the bus caught on fire. The passengers were in a panic.

"I pushed open three or four windows. I got the kids and a baby and its mother out. I put two kids on the side of the bridge and some more people. Then I jumped off the bridge.

Cantu said he hurt his ankle and his back when he jumped from the bridge but he spent the rest of the night in a Fort Stockton motel.

The bus was on a cross-country trip from San Francisco to Houston. Its last stop was at El Paso before the crash.

Poll Shows Finch Best Known In Governor Bid

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan's declaration that he won't run for reelection in 1974 creates a wide-open race for the Republican nomination.

The California Poll reported today that of many prominent Republicans considered possible candidates, former lieutenant governor and White House aide Robert Finch is the best known among the voters.

Pollster Mervin D. Field reported that 53 per cent of all voters asserted they "knew something" aoout Finch and another 32 per cent had heard his name.

Attorney General Evelle Younger and Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke were almost as well known. Younger's figures were 51-20 and Reinecke 47-29.

But only 35 per cent said they knew something about state controller Houston Flournoy and another 29 per cent knew his name. U.S. Health, Education and Welfare director Caspar Weinberger was least known with 21 per cent knowing something about him and 28 per cent more recognizing the name.

When level of favorability is assessed, Finch, Younger and Reinecke have high levels of favorability, although there is evidence that Reinecke is slightly more often disliked by non-Republicans than the others.

Finch drew a strong favorable or somewhat favorable impression from 40 per cent while 6 per cent had a somewhat unfavorable or strongl unfavorable impression.

With Younger, it was 41 per cent and 10 per cent while Reinecke had 38 per cent for him and 14 per cent against him.

Flournoy and Weinberger still haven't made much impression on the voters one way or the other. One-quarter of those interviewed had a favorable impression of Flournoy and 5 per cent felt the opposite while Weinberger's figures were 18 per cent and 11 per cent.

Volcano Action Is Not All Bad

HILO, Hawaii (UPI) — Having a volcano spew lava over your property isn't all bad.

A circuit court judge ruled Wednesday that any new land formed by the lava flow becomes the property of the owner of adjacent land.

Judge S. George Fukuoka's decision ended a lengthy legal battle for ownership of eight acres of land formed by a 1955 volcano eruption between the State of Hawaii and Maurice and Molly Zimring. The state had claimed title to the land but the judge ruled it belonged to the Zimrings, who had been paying taxes on it for more than a decade.

Gray Reveals Pay To Sergetti

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon's personal attorney told the FBI he acted as a "disbursing agent" and paid $30,000 to $40,000 during a six month period to Donald H. Segretti, an alleged political saboteur, Acting FBI Director L. Patrick Gray has told Congress.

Gray's statement concerning Herbert M. Kalbach came during his Senate confirmation hearing Wednesday and was the first time that Segretti, a California lawyer, had been officially linked with the White House. Previously, media reports have suggested that Segretti acted as a recruiter for political espionage against the Democrats in last year's presidential campaign.

Gray testified before the Senate Judiciary Committee for the fourth day on his nomination to become permanent head of the FBI, succeeding the late J. Edgar Hoover.

Gray also disclosed Wednesday that:

Information from wiretapped telephones at Democratic National Committee headquarters which was never made public at the Watergate bugging trial was turned over to the White House last year.

Three Nixon campaign workers who had been interviewed by the FBI in the presence of Republican attorneys later asked for second interviews alone.

In a written statement supplied to the committee about Kalmbach, Gray quoted the attorney as saying he paid Segretti's salary and expenses between Sept. 1, 1971 and March 15, 1972 without knowing what Segretti was doing with the money.

"He said he merely acted as a disbursing agent for Segretti's salary and expenses and he has no idea how Segretti received his instructions or whom he reported to," Gray said.

Money to pay Segretti, according to Kalmbach, came from campaign funds collected prior to April 7, 1972 and he kept no records on payments.

U.S. Mail Delivery Called National Joke

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. mail service has gotten worse instead of better since a reorganization 20 months ago was supposed to slow down rate increases and bring faster deliveries, Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., charged today.

Cranston was one of four senators who complained to Postmaster General E. T. Klassen at a Senate Post Office Committee hearing. Cranston said in prepared remarks that the service has become a national joke.

Sens. Lawton Chiles Jr., D-Fla., Edward J. Gurney, R-Fla., and Robert Dole, R-Kan., also testified about complaints they received from constituents.

Cranston said the mail service has deteriorated so badly since the Post Office became the U.S. Postal Service, a public corporation, 20 months ago, that "Postal Service jokes have become a national pasttime."

"America's grand experiment in a quasi-private postal service was intended to slow down the rise in mailing costs and speed up mail delivery," Cranston said. "But in more than a year and a half of operation, postal administrators have apparently decided to reverse this philosophy."

He said he has received complaints about the mail from more than 5,000 Californians during the past year.

Chiles outlined some of the complaints he received and gave these examples:

—A Lantana, Fla., man received a letter his next-door neighbor had mailed to him 14 days previously.

—An Ormand Beach, Fla., woman paid 60 cents to send a special delivery letter to White Plains, N.Y., and it took six days.

—Another letter from an architect's office to a hospital 18 blocks away took 10 days.

"That's mail service at the rate of les than two blocks per day," Chiles said. His constituents "just don't believe the problem is so hard to solve that the government couldn't solve it if it really cared," he said.

Families Sought To Host Students

The American Field Service chapter at San Rafael High School is looking for families who will be host to foreign students next year. The only cost is for food and perhaps some other incidental expenses, according to school principal Peter Palches.

Parachute Team Dies In Crash

SILER CITY, N.C. (UPI) — An Army plane carrying a famed precision parachuting team from Ft. Bragg, N.C., crashed in a wooded area near here today. Reports from the scene said at least 15 persons were killed.

Officials at Simmons Army Air Base at Ft. Bragg, 60 miles southeast of the crash site, said the plane was a black-painted EC47 used by the Golden Knights.

"Based on our reports, the plane carried an 11-man parachute team, two pilots, one crew chief and possibly another man," said a Simmons spokesman. "We're not sure."

The Golden Knights team puts on exhibitions at air shows and special events across the nation.

A newsman at the scene said there were no survivors.

Wreckage, parachutes and bodies were scattered over a half-mile area surrounding the crash, which occurred in a woods just off a highway near the tiny community of Silk Hope.

The Golden Knights are comprised of 62 crack parachutists from across the nation, mostly from the enlisted ranks. Small groups of the entire contingent are assigned to appearances by the Department of the Army.

A military spokesman said there had been no recent accidents, in his memory, involving the Golden Knights in their performances, but one member died two weeks ago in a sports parachuting show at Ft. Bragg. He was parachuting on his own, not as a member of the team.

The Army said the parachutists were enroute to Kansas City for a parachuting performance when the plane crashed.

Highway patrolmen quickly sealed off the crash site to everyone except police officers and rescue workers. The plane went down several yards off a highway.

Disgruntled Inmates Set Fire To Prison

BOISE, Idaho (UPI) — Angry because a popular convict was being sent back to maximum security, convicts at the century-old Idaho State Prison set fire to three buildings Wednesday night.

Corrections Director Raymond May reported buildings housing the chapel and the kitchen-dining facilities were gutted. He said a structure housing a laundry and recreation room was seriously burned, but the fire was under control.

May said the "disturbance"—he did not class it a riot—broke out about 7 p.m. when inmate Larry Trujillo, 26, objected to being returned from the infirmary to maximum security, several miles away from the old prison at a new site under construction.

Trujillo and another convict, Fred Boyinger, 31, were treated at the infirmary at the old prison on the outskirts of Boise and taken back to the new site.

A group of inmates decided to rally around Trujillo, May said, and apparently touched off the fires.

Boise city firemen fought the fires, and state police, and county sheriff's officers and Boise City Police converged on the prison.

About 200 men milled about in an open yard, but caused no further disturbances. Guards with rifles manned towers and walked prison walls.

Bill Evans, associate superintendent of operations, said the inmates were under control today.

Pierre Bitterer: Instant Gourmet

By JOAN LISETOR

Marin's answer to the Galloping Gourmet is the Instant Gourmet, Pierre Bitterer of San Rafael.

Bitterer has been sipping wine as he gives his instant gourmet cooking lessons at the Marin Jewish Community Center for four years. The flair he has developed he hopes will be syndicated into a television series. The producers are looking for sponsors, and, according to Bitterer, it is a $250,000 project.

In the meantime the chef will continue his instruction for groups of about 20 at the center, who, as he makes sauted veal and cucumber dishes, ask questions such as, "How much salt?"

"Some of my students never boiled water before," Bitterer explained. "Ninety per cent of them will cook what they learned in class for their husbands tonight."

Bitterer calls it instant gourmet because instead of starting with the basics, like brown sauce, which he says takes three days to make and isn't much better than ready-made, he is trying to teach the American housewife to use the most convenient methods.

"The most important thing in cooking is to have all of the ingredients ready," he said.

Demonstrating for a class he purposely omitted oil from the dough for apple strudel. He did it to show the women how to make an adjustment if they make a mistake, he said.

Bitterer's two favorite ingredients are monosodium glutamate because it "brings out the individual flavor in each food," and sweet butter, because it "doesn't detract from other foods with a chemical taste."

Bitterer uses a butane gas unit to demonstrate during classes, the same unit he brings to the table when he works as a chef. He has owned restaurants and been a maitre d' in several Marin and San Francisco locations. His Cafe Pierre in the Hotel Mark Hopkins in San Francisco closed recently, but come August he will open another restaurant in the hotel. He is off to Europe next month to purchase china, silver and select wines.

"The restaurant will just seat 60 and be very exclusive. I am going to make it like Lasserre in Paris, which I think is the finest restaurant in the world," he said. "The restaurant will not have candles. I don't like it when you can't read the menu or see the food. Your mother-in-law could be sitting next to you and you wouldn't know it. I don't mean bright lights, but you should be able to recognize the people and the food."

Booths are another no-no in the French style of dining, according to Bitterer.

Bitterer never serves more than two ounces of meat, he said.

"Portions should be small but good. A Frenchman never overeats. He saves the best part for after dinner," the Frenchman said.

(UPI Telephoto)

A New Look These Days On Antisub Plane Crews

By JAMES O. CLIFFORD

MOFFETT FIELD, Calif. (UPI) — The Navy air arm's historic battle cry of "sighted sub, sank same" isn't about to be sung out in soprano — yet.

Navy anti-submarine planes flying the Pacific out of this Naval Air Station south of San Francisco have a new look these days: female crew members.

Carol Kokes, 20, of Hay Springs, Neb., and Lee Alverson, 22, of East Tawas, Mich., are the first women crew members ever to fly on the anti-submarine Orion P-3's.

Both are qualified observes, a former bastion of male supremacy.

THE WOMEN, both third class petty officers, have logged over 65 hours flight time in the last three months.

"My job once the plane gets airborne," Miss Alverson said, "is to sit near a window aft and check for any planes coming at us."

The two belong to a training squadron and the aircraft are unarmed. The Orion, however, is capable of carrying depth bombs, rockets and torpedoes.

A Navy spokesman says the female "crewpersons" are prohibited by law from holding combat jobs. But if the law changes, they could be on the lookout for subs while flying armed planes from Moffett, headquarters for the Pacific antisubmarine warfare patrol force.

It's not easy to become a qualified observer and the women had to undergo rigorous written and in-flight testing.

The in-flight phase of their examination ranged from ditching and bail out procedures to emergency decompression and fire drills.

Their duties begin even before the aircraft, with its crew of five, plus two trainees, roars down the runway. They are responsible for checking emergency oxygen supplies and antenna wires to be sure they are operating before takeoff.

"BASICALLY, I think a woman can do what jobs a man can do," Miss Alverson said. But she admitted there were some tasks "that required a man's strength."

One of her duties, she said laughingly, is taking care of the plane's coffee pot even though hers is not a "coffee, tea, or milk" job.

"We have to make sure the pot is on board and those pots are really heavy."

The plane has two observers so Miss Alverson normally works with an all-male crew. She and Miss Kokes have only flown together on one flight.

"I get along fine with the guys," she said. "I just treat them like brothers."

Jerry Newman, a second class petty officer, says he likes working with the women.

"A lot of guys have negative attitudes about the service and flying," said Newman, 27, a radio operator from Richmond, Ind. "Guys tend to slack off sometimes but these two really throw themselves into the job."

Party Will Observe Reverend's Birthday

By MOLLY MARIN

The Rev. Stephen Reginald Hammond of Mill Valley will be honored at a party Saturday to celebrate his 90th birthday. The party will be held in the home of his son, the Rev. David Murray Hammond in Mill Valley, rector of the Church of Our Saviour in Mill Valley, served by his father prior to his retirement in 1956.

Among the 35 guests will be Mrs. Hammond and the couple's sons Dr. Harry Reginald Hammond of Fairfax, the Revs. W. Reid Hammond of Berkeley, Frederick C. Hammond of San Diego, their daughter, Mrs. Helen Biggers of La Puente and their daughter-in-law, Mrs. Keith Hammond of Ventura, widow of another son who served as an Episcopal minister.

Born in Guilford, Surrey, England, on March 14, 1883, Reverend Hammond was reared in Canada and came to the United States in 1927 to serve as rector of a church in Ventura, where the Hammonds lived for 20 years. After four years in Los Angeles they came to Mill Valley in 1951.

THE TRIP to the Orient which Susan Delaplane will conduct may be a real eye-opener.

Details are being worked out to provide an eye-lift for women travelers who opt for it. The operation, a common one in Japan, will be done by Japanese plastic surgeons. Mrs. Delaplane of Belvedere plans to leave June 18 and has arranged for stopovers at points of interest in Japan, Taiwan and Hong Kong.

NINETEEN-YEAR-OLD Toshiko Salto of Tokyo is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Robert Trieber of Belvedere this week. Her mother, a member of the World Trade Council, is a business associate of the Triebers.

Another 19-year-old woman, Joanne Hhu from Hong Kong, is the Trieber's houseguest this year while she attends California State University, San Francisco. Miss Hhu's aim is to teach biological science in Hong Kong.

MR. AND MRS. Adolph Mueller of Belvedere and their two sons, Peter and Fred, spent two weeks in Mexico in February.

First the family traveled to Mexico City to visit friends from the Muellers' Stanford University days, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Shipsey who own "Carlos and Charlie" restaurant chain in Mexico.

The Muellers visited the historic silver mining town of Taxco, which is now a national monument.

Then they went to Acapulco for deep sea fishing, tennis and beaching.

By chance, they met Mr. and Mrs. Richard McConnell of Tiburon when they isited Cuernavaca.

TELEVISION PRODUCER Fielder Cook of Kraft Television Theater and Playhouse 90 fame was houseguest of Dr. and Mrs. Eugene Kilgore of Tiburon last week.

Stopping in Marin on his way from Hollywood to his home in New York, Cook has just finished a film with Ingrid Bergman and another pilot film with an all-black cast, according to Mimi Kilgore

Designers Call Spring Wear Most Feminine

Designers say this is the most feminine spring collection they have done in years.

Dresses will be an adaptation of the shirtwaist look but softer with swingy skirts and full sleeves. Waists are gathered with a belt, sash or drawstring.

The three-piece suit outfit will include a pleated skirt, shirt and sweater jacket and coat shapes will include the flared tent, the wrap and the four-pocket trench with drawstring waist.

Like hair styles, the hat is short and small. Petite berets with short page boys, tiny brimmed cloches with short cropped hair and the turban for a neat sculptured look.

Evening wear will be subtly sexy in fabrics like silk, flowing chiffon and matte jersey. Touches will include ruffles and life-like flowers.

Dance Classes Held Saturdays

Acrobatic and tap dancing classes are being held on Saturdays at 1 and 2 p.m. at the Almonte Hall in Mill Valley.

Classes are for beginners, intermediates and advanced students of all ages, according to the teacher, Miss Love (Goldman.

Cropped Hair Styles, Page Boy May Aid Hat Industry

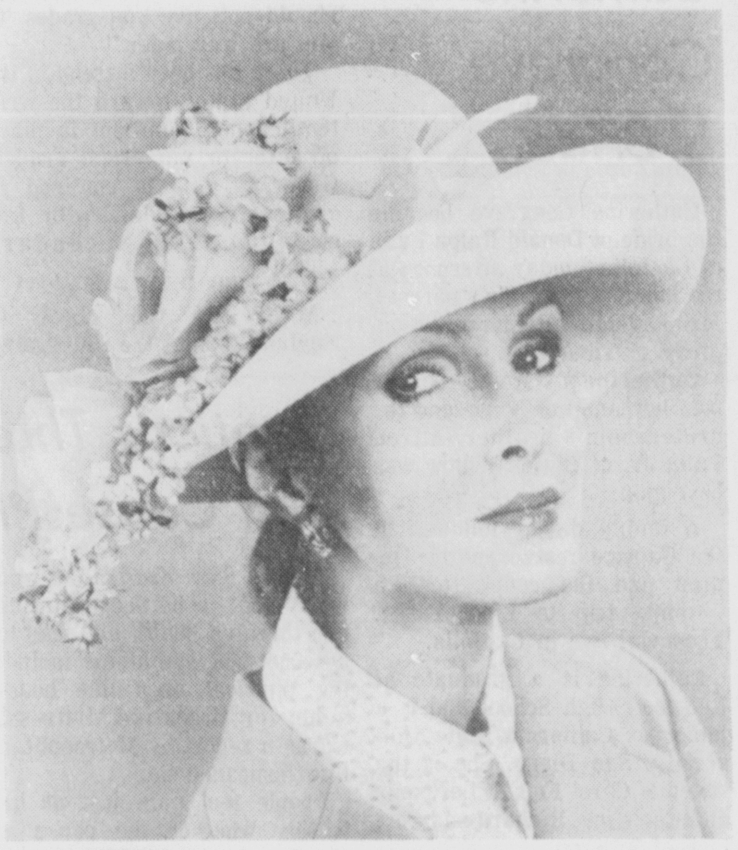
By DIANA LOERCHER
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

NEW YORK — When hat and hair are at odds, it's the head that suffers. Hat designers of the 1960s witnessed with a mounting sense of horror the eruptions of beehives and bouffants, on which hats could find at best an unlikely and uncomfortable perch.

The young people developed a penchant for long straight hair and the uncluttered natural look, which relegated hats even further into oblivion.

With heroic optimism the Millinery Institute quaveringly continued to announce "the return of the hat," but visibility failed to lend credibility to their predictions. Like members of an endangered species forced into ever smaller patches of terrain, hats put in only fleeting appearances at such preserves as ladies luncheons, bridge tournaments, and weddings.

Still, the '70s renaissance of the '50s, with its emphasis on traditional suits and dresses, does hold out some promise for the proliferation of hats. Another auspicious sign is the current fashionability of short, close-cropped hair styles and of the page boy, both of which are particularly compatible with hats.



A CLUTCH of multi-colored spring flowers trim the side of this yellow and white straw hat by Mr. John Jr. It has a cool summer look with its off-the-face shape.

This season there is a stress on casual hats, which can be worn with pants and other day-time wear. Most popular are snappy, snug caps, inspired by tennis and newsboy hats, and soft, floppy-brimmed picture hats, all in fabrics such as denim, poplin, felt, jersey and gingham.

Straws also abound in both sporty and dressier styles. Among the most charming are the peek-a-boos, which cast a romantic filigree of light and shadow over the wearer's face. Many of the straws are shiny, wide-brimmed, and tailored, with a minimum of Carmen Miranda garnishes.

There are a few cloches to be seen (Julie Nixon Eisenhower recently purchased a small-brimmed one in coral felt from Irene of New York). Giving a similar impression of neat sophistication is the turban, also ideal camouflage for the devastated coiffure. (Mrs. Richard Nixon acquired a turquoise sheer wool wrap turban from the same source.)

"Patisserie" pastels are the spring season's most popular colors, but for those who find them too cloying there are enough naturals and navys to go around.

Lea Says

Go back to Natures way of reducing

Okay, you've tried every new gadget — you've exercised and made muscle, you have broiled in steam baths — and ruined your skin, and it made you look years older. You've starved and lost 5 pounds and gained 10 back. You've worn plastic pants and lost inches on your hips, but alas it not only came back, but you have discovered you now are inches bigger — you now have a flabby fanny. Okay — STOP. Go back to nature's way of reducing. Centuries ago the Europeans found a mineral that cooled the body and when applied with pressure it reshaped the body. This European process not only did the cooling, tightening, and re-condition the skin but it reshaped the body — and after each treatment instead of feeling tired, hot cross, and hungry — as with exercise, you will feel cool, confident, slim, and ready to conquer the world. So get up and go to Ann Maries.

Student Grading Of Professors Works Well At One University

RAP:

You asked whether "teacher evaluation" by students had merit.

At our university, it's done regularly, and I believe it has upgraded teaching methods. The professors profit by learning their weak points and feel good about the plus marks they receive, too. For example, if three-fourths of the class agrees the instructor moves too fast and doesn't take time to explain, he revises his approach somewhat.

One of our profs, however, throws the evaluation sheets in the wastebasket. Says they're wastes of time. He is the poorest teacher in our section. In fact, he knows less about English literature than do some of his students. Yet he refuses to be graded by a "bunch of dummies."

I think student grading of instructors (especially at the college level) should be made mandatory. Then the grades could be fed to a computer and not only the teachers but the administrators would receive the results. Only poor instructors would vote against this innovation. — HUMANITIES MAJOR

H.M.:

Administrators might vote against it too: colleges and universities are already snowed under by the "paper blizzard." Think of the extra clerical work! — HELEN

H.M.:

Our mail on "student evaluation of teachers" went about four to one against. The argument (from both sides of the desk) was that tough teachers were often unpopular and might be graded down, even though they turned out the best-prepared students.

(I still kinda like the idea, but not on a mandatory basis.) — SUE

HELEN AND SUE:

I'm a person who likes change. Old clothes bore me. I don't enjoy staying at one job over two years — but I don't quit until I have something better. Even apartments: I start looking around after about six months in one place. And I darn sure wouldn't stay in one city the rest of my life. I'm 22 and restless.

For these reasons, my girl says I'm a poor marriage risk. She thinks I'd be changing wives as often as I change my life style. She has me half convinced, but not in the way she expects: I think I'll remain a bachelor, as I couldn't conform to her stay-put ways.

Is it true that my kind of person is not husband material? — MOVING ON AND UP

M.O.A.U.:

You left out one important thing:do you tire of the "same old" people, too? If you establish lasting relationships — and really want marriage — I don't think your changeability in other areas would matter. Who isn't restless at age 22? — SUE

DEAR MOVING:

But —find a girl who has shallow roots, too. You'd never make it with "Miss Stay-Put" — unless one of you changed. — HELEN

RAP:

I'd like to warn teenage girls who enter national beauty contests. Be sure you are with a reputable organization like Miss American Teen-ager (which you wrote about in January). It charges nothing of the girls, and the prizes are great. Not so with some of the newer spin-offs!

I entered one of those contests, and discovered it was mostly for the profit of the organizers. They told me there was no entry fee but, after I registered, I was asked to either pay $100, or get businessmen to buy $100 worth of ads for the contest program they publish. I don't know how much more they would have gouged from me but, as you can guess, I didn't go on to the "national finals."

My advice: stay with the well-known contests that appear on network television. And if any teen "national" outfit asks a girl for money —bow out fast. In fact, she should turn her information over to the attorney general — ALMOST A SUCKER

Catherine Congreve Is Bride

Catherine Congreve became the bride of Donald Ralph Palla of La Jolla Sunday afternoon at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard N. Congreve of Tiburon.

Catherine's sister Christine was her maid of honor and the bridegroom's brother, Alfred Palla Jr. of Button Willow was best man.

A family dinner followed at the Caprice restaurant in Tiburon and the couple took a wedding trip to Lake Tahoe. They will live in La Jolla.

Catherine is a graduate of Redwood High School and is a junior at California State University, San Diego. She is the sister of Carol Fels of Larkspur and Christine, Richard and Corinne of Tiburon.

She is the granddaughter of Willard Congreve of Chicago, Ill. and Mr. and Mrs. Roy H. Lippincott of Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Palla of Bakersfield are parents of the bridegroom. Donald is a graduate of Bakersfield High School and California State University, San Diego, and is owner of a jewelry store in La Jolla.

Radio Shows Will Change Names, Times

"Jorie Talks" is the new name for the KTIM show, hosted weekly by Jorie Parr of San Rafael. The program, formerly called "What's Happening," has been moved from Wednesdays to Tuesday mornings at 9 o'clock and features the livelier arts with a Marin slant.

Also moved to Tuesday mornings is Diane MacMillan's "Kitchen Time in Marin," which will follow "Jorie Talks" at 9:30 a.m.

This Tuesday artist Ellen Schlesinger of Fairfax, whose specialty is sensuous paintings, and Mindy Ginne of the Devtra Center in Larkspur, telling how to give a massage, will be guests on "Jorie Talks."

Bedroom Sets

NEW YORK (UPI) — The bridal market accounts for about one-third of the annual sales of new bedroom furniture; 18.8 per cent of the annual sales of new living room furniture; and 12.9 per cent of the annual sales of new dining room furniture.

PARENT AND CHILD

Time For Unhappiness On Grading

By CYNTHIA PARSONS
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

It's about this time each year that parents discover how dissatisfied they are with the type of report cards used by the schools that their children attend. It may surprise some parents to discover that there are almost as many parents dissatisfied with report cards which include comments from each teacher as there are families unhappy with numerical or letter-grade classifications.

When one second grader, who does not get letter grades on work done in school or on quarterly reports, learned that a friend going to a different school got "grades on everything," he was shocked. "Why that's not right. You're just starting out in school and they should not give you grades 'til you are way older."

There has been a trend in the United States toward the written teacher comment in place of letter or numerical grades. Generally this is confined to elementary grades, with few exceptions in secondary schools.

MANY OF the schools in England using the integrated school day and family grouping, sometimes called open classrooms in the United States, don't give any written grades to the children from one year to the next. The teacher may make an occasion to talk with the parents and tell them how their child is progressing in his work. This progress report is in regard to how well the teacher thinks that child, individually, should be performing. It is in no way a comparison among children of the same age.

Many teachers in the United States who have to write a paragraph about each child's work three or four times a year will say that such a chore is almost meaningless. Time does not permit a full discussion of a child's interest and work, hence the few sentences are merely cliches. They generally don't tell a parent anything about a student's understanding of his subject; instead they tend to describe behavior and attitude.

Such phrases as "Billy concentrated more this period during arithmetic lessons," or "Helen has done poorly this period in social studies because she's been lazy," don't give parents a clue about Billy and his ability to add, subtract, multiply and divide. They certainly don't tell the parents what Helen has learned about the early settlers in North America or British rule in India.

Opponents of letter grades argue that not much is learned either from giving Billy a "B" in arithmetic and Helen a "C" in social studies.

What, then, is to be done so that parents have a report about what their children are learning? The answer just may be for each parent to come to school at least twice a year and talk with every teacher a child has, in high school as well as elementary school. In many rural areas, as well as in large cities, adjustment will have to be made so that working parents can have appointments at their convenience — either on Saturdays or designated evenings.

This type of report gives parents an opportunity to get beyond the cliche, beyond the superficial analysis. It gives the teacher an opportunity to find out what kind of help the pupil is getting from home, and what compensatory steps need to be taken to provide what may not be readily available. The children, for example, who live close enough to a public library to use its resources, have a distinct advantage over those students whose homes can't provide good encyclopediasand other important reference materials.

IF TEACHERS were made dramatically aware that the majority of their pupils did not have access to rich library resources for homework assignments and special outside study, they might either give different homework or provide the children with access to the school library at convenient times. But without teacher-parent conferences, such a need might not surface at all.

Even if a school now provides written comments on report cards, parents might well ask also for conference time. It might be a Parent-Teacher Association project to see that every parent is able to get to school at least twice a year by providing transportation.

It's true that many teachers prefer dealing with parents "in absentia." But parents who work for understanding from mutual concern can break down this resistance, and can find out what they need to know about how well the school is providing for their child at the same time that they find out how well their child is responding to what is offered at school.

Emotions Threaten Health And Cause Physical Ills

Anger, fear, frustration and worry that is bottled up inside can threaten health and lead to a variety of symptoms including physical ones like headaches or digestive distress, warns a report by Metropolitan Life Insurance Co.

People feel pain just as intensely whether the cause is physical or emotional and failure to seek professional diagnosis and advice can and often does lead to more serious difficulty later on, the report continued.

More and more doctors, said Metropolitan Life, are aware of the connection between certain physical ailments and the emotions. Sometimes just talking over problems fully and freely with a sympathetic friend can help. And parents can practice an important bit of preventative medicine by helping their children to be in touch with their own feelings and to express their emotions constructively.

Suggestions for relieving the tensions of everyday life: balance work with play, get enough sleep and rest, work off tensions with physical exercise, talk out troubles, learn to accept what you cannot change and have regular checkups.

CMA Makes A Pitch For Proper Diet

A well-balanced diet, one that includes proteins such as meat and fish, dairy products, vegetables and fruit and breads and cereals will provide more nutrition than can be gained through supplementary vitamins, says the California Medical Association.

In terms of your health, there is no difference between the vitamins you get in these foods and those you buy in the drugstore or health food store, the CMA Health Tips newsletter reported.

Supplementary vitamins are harmless although extravagant, they said, and there is definite evidence of harmful effects from excess of Vitamins A and D.

A great deal of mythology is being circulated concerning the magical effects on sex life, fertility and mental acuity obtained by fortifying yourself with Vitamin E. The CMA said that while there is a great deal that medical science still seeks to find out about some of the lesser known vitamins such as E, it is so widely distributed in the foods you normally eat that it is virtually impossible to provoke a Vitamin E deficiency.

Eileen Judah Pledges Troth To San Leandran

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Judah of Tiburon announce the engagement of their daughter, Eileen, to Mark W. Stafford of San Leandro.

Eileen is the sister of Chester Judah Jr. of San Francisco and Ray Judah of Tiburon. She is a graduate of Sir Francis Drake High School, College of Marin and U.S. International University in San Diego. The future bride is employed by Trans International Airline in Oakland.

Mark is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Nile W. Stafford of Naperville, Ill., and the brother of Jon M. and Mary K. Stafford and Mrs. Arthur D. Johnson. He is the grandson of Mrs. Roy Cavanaugh of McBain, Mich. The future bridegroom is a graduate of Naperville Community High School and the University of Illinois. He is employed by Westinghouse Electric Co. Transportation Division in Hayward.

A May 19 wedding is planned.

AT LAST THE STORY'S OUT! Why, you almost never see a wrinkle on a Hollywood Model!
The 3-Minute Miracle That Can Change Your Life!
Actually makes wrinkles, lines and crowsfeet disappear from sight for up to 6 to 8 hours or longer... with Sensational
Star-Skin
Presenting Star Skin (The Professional Temporary Wrinkle Remover) that in less than 3 minutes time can make you look up to 10 to 15 years younger.
Ever wonder why nowadays models and movie personalities seem to look 10 to 15 years younger than they really are? Plastic surgery you say? Not NECESSARILY! Not for the past few years that is . . . and don't let anyone ever tell you differently! For, what you are about to discover is the simple 3 minute trick (used by models, movie and TV personalities) that can take years off your appearance . . . make lines and furrows disappear from sight . . . actually make wrinkles vanish completely for up to 6 to 8 hours at a time . . . and it's as simple as washing your face.
NOT A MAKE-UP, NOT A COVER UP, BUT A THRILLINGLY FAST, AMAZINGLY EFFECTIVE TEMPORARY WRINKLE REMOVER! You see, until a few years ago, the only way a Hollywood model could possibly retain that vibrant glow of youth was through the use of plastic surgery, BUT THEN came news of an exciting breakthrough: News of a wondrous compound, that when applied to lines, wrinkles, crows-feet or even deep haggard-looking circles under the eyes.
ACTUALLY MAKES THEM DISAPPEAR FROM SIGHT FOR 6, 7, EVEN 8 HOURS AT A TIME. (Yes, actually fades them away . . . in just minutes!) Not a makeup or cover-up that tries desperately to hide and conceal these lines and signs of age. Not a hormone or some harsh chemical compound (why it is so safe and gentle you can use it as much as 3 times a day, and as often as you like) — this temporary wrinkle remover, called Star Skin is now available in this city for you to try . . . and entirely at our expense.
JUST 2 DROPS. APPLIED IN 3 MINUTES . . . AND YOU GROW 10 TO 15 YEARS YOUNGER-LOOKING . . . INSTANTLY! To apply, simply take a drop or two on the tips of your fingers and gently pat over lines, wrinkles, crows-feet, or any other area of the face or neck you wish to make smoother, softer, firmer-looking. Then wait 3 minutes . . . until your skin revitalizes its appearance . . . takes on its youth-giving effects . . . until Star Skin vanishes from sight. Now go ahead and apply your regular makeup . . . your Star Skin treatment is as simple as that.
And remember, because Star Skin is completely safe and gentle . . . you use it once in the morning, then once again in the evening . . . to keep yourself perpetually looking younger.
So for that look of youth . . . for the most thrilling experience you have ever had before your very own mirror . . . the sheer wonder of watching yourself grow 10 to 15 years younger-looking before your very own eyes . . . visit our cosmetic department tomorrow.

Mrs. Jack Heringer Is President Of Sausalito Police Wives Unit

MRS. JACK L. HERINGER
Heads Police Wives

Mrs. Jack L. Heringer of Petaluma is the new president of the Sausalito Police Wives Auxiliary this year.

Cheryl Heringer is a charter member of the auxiliary, which was formed two years ago to promote friendly relationships among police department wives and good community relations.

Mrs. Heringer is also secretary of the Petaluma Valley Homeowners Association and serves on the mayor's committee to restore the former Christian Church of Petaluma for use as a community center.

Mrs. Heringer is a graduate of West Linn High School in West Linn, Ore., and attended Portland College and Santa Rosa Junior College.

She and her husband have lived in Petaluma for two years, living in Marin for the previous seven years. They have two children, Yvette Dion, 9 and Jacie Lee, 2. Cheryl Heringer is interested in sewing, bicycling, gardening and reading, but likes to devote much time to community activities.

She said that the auxiliary will select a service project later in the year and plans a spaghetti dinner, family picnic and holiday parties.

Other auxiliary officers fr the year are Mmes. Blake Hoffman, vice president; Stephen Willis, secretary; Robert Klein, treasurer; James Wright, publicity and historian; and Gary Verdi, sunshine chairman.

Resolution Asks An End To School Book Sex Bias

A resolution calling for an end to sex role bias in textbooks has originated in Marin and will be submitted to the state convention f the California Congress of Parents and Teachers in San Diego in May for a vote.

The resolution came from the Henry C. Hall School Parent-Teacher Association of Larkspur, according to Mrs. Dallas Wagner of San Rafael, president of the 14th District P-TA, who submitted it to the state resolution committee.

It calls for awareness of sex role stereotypes in education,especially in textbooks, and encourages publishers to eliminate sex role bias and urges the State Department of Education to be aware of the materials being put out to schools with regard to such bias, Mrs. Wagner said.

"It is a reinforcing of awareness that we believe the state and county schools offices already have," she said.

Feminist and other women's organizations have called attention to sex role stereotyping for girls and women in textbooks for the past several years, pointing out in particular the passive roles assigned to girls and women and the active, exploring roles given to boys and men in texts.

The state P-TA meeting will be held in San Diego May 2 to 4. The Henry C. Hall unit resolution is the only resolution submitted through the 14th District P-TA which covers Marin and Sonoma counties.

Information On Foster Homes Due

An information day on foster care homes will be held Saturday at 10 a.m. at the Discovery Day School in Mill Valley.

A panel of foster families including foster children will speak and luncheon will be served at noon. Questions about foster parents and children will be answered by participants.

Some 60 children are currently in foster placement under the auspices of the Marin County Probation Department, according to Margaret Tomczak of community resource development, and homes are needed now for teen-agers.

Another community information day program on foster parents and children is scheduled for San Anselmo on April 14.

Recruitment is handled by the Volunteer Bureau of Marin, 725 A Street, San Rafael.

Marriages Remaining On Uptrend

NEW YORK (UPI) — Despite the new lovestyles — living together without benefit of marriage certificate — the number of marriages continues a 25-year upward trend in the United States.

"And they will continue to do so," say market analysts at Modern Bride, basing their projections on data from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

"By 1975, for example, there will be 700,000 more marriages than in 1965 — an increase of 40 per cent in 10 years.

About four out of five of these marriages are first marriages."

The report shows that there are around 2.2 million marriages a year in the United States. Included are the approximately 1.7 million first marriages.

The bridal market is $7 billion a year big. The market in 1970 accounted for $5 billion in retail sales, plus $2 billion more for expenses connected with the wedding, reception and honeymoon.

THE BROADWAY SCENE

Classy Little Musical Makes It Big

By JOHN BEAUFORT
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

NEW YORK — "A Little Night Music" begins with the solo entrance of a very large baritone to preside over a very small piano. At least in the musical sense, neither is overly forte. Soon, the baritone is joined by four other singers. The sonorities of the elegantly costumed quintet and the tinkle of the pretty piano establish the tone and mood for the classy operetta-style musical Harold Prince has brought to the Shubert Theater.

The rueful turn-of-the-century comedy about amorous dalliance and ardent devotion was borrowed from Ingmar Bergman's small 1955 movie classic, "Smiles of a Summer Night." The Hugh Wheeler-Stephen Sonheim version does not, at first viewing, resemble a classic in the "My Fair Lady" or "Fiddler on the Roof" sense. It is instead a leisurely, lyrically nimble, musically piquant diversion. It contrasts sharply with the chrome-edge tensions of Prince's "Company" and the gaudy retrospection of his "Follies."

Once more, Boris Aronson's setting does much to evoke and sustain the atmosphere of a Prince production. Aronson's screening birch groves and his exterior of a 19th Century Swedish country mansion — revealed in a startling theatrical stroke — rise romantically from a carpet of green.

The scenery is handsomely complemented by Florence Klotz's elegant and picturesque costumes. Tharon Musser bathes everything in luminous light and twilight; don't overlook the real candles in the banquet scene.

The resulting aura suits an ironically philosophical comedy about the pursuits of love and the foolishness of lovers. Set tripping by Sondheim, their hearts beat naturally in three-quarter time, a tempo congenial to Patricia Birch's occasional choreography.

"A Little Night Music" comprises a fragile web of interwoven plots. The Wheeler version loses the subtlety and fastidious elegance of the original; otherwise, Mr. Wheeler has handled the scenario adroitly, considering the difficulties involved.

The intrigues of this summer night principally concern a cynical, middle-aged lawyer (Len Cariou) and his very pretty, very young wife (Victoria Mallory); the lawyer's idealistic son (Mark Lambert), an intense seminarian ardently in love with his stepmother; a provincial touring star (Glynis Johns), whom the lawyer once loved; the star's current lover, a noodleheaded dragoon (Laurence Guittard); and the dragoon's beautiful, neglected wife (Patricia Elliott).

Having spent a longish first act establishing relationships, "A Little Night Music" assembles the matched and mismatched at the country estate of the actress's mother. A former courtesan, she disdains the gaucheries of an upstart age, and she does it in the grand Hermione Gingold manner. As the haughty, naughty grandmama, Miss Gingold delivers her lines with gilt-edged gusto and scoopful relish; in this era of nervously devalued dollars, we should all be grateful for the durable Gingold standard.

Miss Johns glisters amusingly as the fading but still glamorous star and she summons a wistful pathos for "Send in the Clowns." As the silly lawyer, Cariou demonstrates that the legal mind is no match for young love.

The Misses Mallory and Elliott are notably pretty and sing well. Guittard supplies the right air of fustian fury for the philandering dragoon. The cast as a whole is engaging and attractive even though the performance is not altogether consistent in style.

The pleasures of "A Little Night Music" are for the most part relaxing rather than stirring. It is a musical for those who delight in Sondheim's contrapuntal felicities and witty rhyming (the most ingenious since Cole Porter's, judging from first-night response). "A Weekend in the Country," "You Must Meet My Wife," and "The Miller's Son" (sung by D. Jamin-Bartlett) seemed to arouse the most enthusiasm.

At its best, the new show at the Shubert is wreathed in the smiles of a Broadway night.

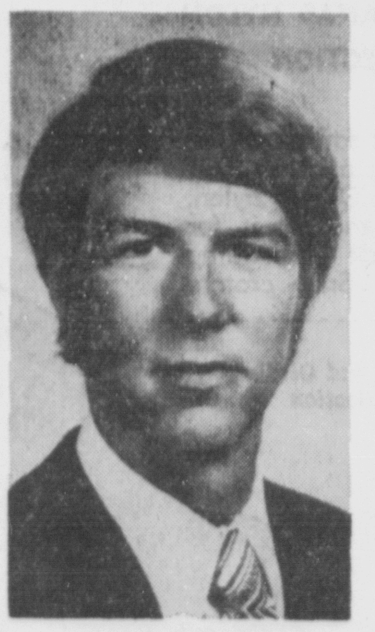
Fairfax, Kentfield Seniors Are Elks Lodge's Top Prize Winners

LAUREN JEAN KEATING
Top award



WILLIAM LARKINS JR.
Outstanding senior

A Fairfax girl and a Kentfield youth have won $100 top awards in the San Rafael Elks Lodge's annual "most valuable student" contest, according to V.W. (Pete) Marshall, youth committee chairman.

Winner of the competition for Marin senior high schools was Lauren Jean Keating, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Keating of 3 Cynthia Court, Fairfax, and a senior at Sir Francis Drake High School.

First place in the boy's contest was won by William L. Larkins Jr., a senior at Marin Catholic High School and the son of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Larkins Sr. of 222 Evergreen Drive, Kent Woodlands.

Miss Keating has been a member of the California Scholarship Federation and Honor Crew all four years of high school. She also was awarded the Daughters of the American Revolution good citizenship award.

In addition to these honors, she has been student body president, class vice president, on the Representative Assembly and chairman of the coordinating committee for the School-Within-A-School program.

She also has done summer tutoring, helped in political campaigns and worked with Young Men's Christian Association youth groups. She plans to attend University of California, Santa Cruz.

Young Larkins also has been a California Scholarship Federation member for four years and has won a National Merit Scholarship, California Scholarship, Pacific Gas and Electric Co. scholarship, Elks Leadership award and was named best actor in Marin Catholic dramatic arts.

He has been class treasurer, student body treasurer and was student body president in his senior year.

He also has participated in music, sports, dramatics and journalism activities at the school. Out-of-school, he has participated in YMCA, Marin County Youth Commission, Hike-for-Help, Walk for Cerebral Palsy and other such activities.

He plans to attend either Stanford University or the University of California.

Second place winners were Lisa Ann Bollen, a senior at Terra Linda High School, and Corwin J. Hull, a senior at Redwood High School. They received $50 each.

Third places went to Barbara Wendy Hill of San Domenico School and Mark Stewart Ward of Terra Linda High School. Their awards were $25.

Prizes were awarded on the basis of scholarship, extracurricular activities, personality, leadership, perseverance, resourcefulness and financial need.

Special "Maple Lawn Awards" of $50 were given to Diane Bessee of San Rafael High School and to Hull.

Next Concert At Dominican Announced

The Dominican College Music Associates will present Edith Zitelli, soprano, and Adolph Baller, pianist, in the third concert of the season's chamber music series at 7:30 p.m. March 18 in Caleruega Hall.

The program, a benefit performance for the Music Associates youth scholarships, will include "Frauenliebe und Leben, by Schumann and Lia's recitative and aria from Debussy's "L'Enfant Prodique." Music by Mozart, Kirke Mechem, de Falla and Bizet will also be included.

Mrs. Zitelli is founder and president of the Musical Repertory Theater and has been a participant at the Berkshire Music Center and Tanglewood.

Baller has appeared in concerts since he was 9 years old, both as a soloist and as an accompanist to Yehudi Menuhin and as a member of the Alma Trio. He currently is teaching at Dominican.

Organized Crime Said Bank Threat

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The banking industry should look on organized crime, which is spending billions in illegal booty to infiltrate legitimate business, as a competitor, an American Bankers Association conference was warned yesterday.

Infiltration into legitimate business is the major development in organized crime in the last 10 years, said Eugene T. Rossides, former assistant Treasury secretary and now a Washington lawyer.

He urged the bankers to work with police and honest business customers to fight that well-financed move into the mainstream of commerce.

The fight against organized crime, now operating on an international scale with money flowing into numbered Swiss bank accounts is a tough one, he said.

Rossides left the Treasury Department in January after serving four years as assistant secretary supervising Customs, Secret Service, and other enforcement agencies. He was a U.S. representative on Interpol, the international agency cooperating in exchange of information on crime operations.

He said American bankers are hurt by the unfair tactics syndicate-controlled businesses employ against legitimate firms who are bank customers.

"The syndicate-controlled business can arrange to block or delay a competitors flow of needed supplies, instigate labor trouble, or foul up trucking and transportation services," Rossides said.

He said that bankers and their honest customers should develop contact and cooperation with law enforcement agencies working on organized crime and banks should support community councils in developing techniques to combat organized crime.

Rossides said syndicate operators like to move into businesses with a lot of cash flow from which they can skim their illegal take.

Among these, he said, are coin vending machines, gambling casinos, and hotels and restaurants. He said they also move in on trucking and transportation, construction, and waste disposal firms.

In a time of credit crunch, syndicates can use loan sharking to drive businesses into default and thereby take over. They can use bankruptcy to hide their own illegal profits from tax investigators, he said.

"The idea that organized crime is controlled by Mafia Italians is a myth, Rossides said.

"The Mafia is only a part of organized crime. It knows no ethnic or racial barriers. The leadership includes Irish, Jews, and all nationalities.

Rossides declared he did not know of any major metropolitan area in the nation where organized crime was not operating in some degree.

He said there is no accurate estimate on the annual income of crime operations. But the take on gambling alone has been estimated at from $6 billion to $7 billion a year, he said.

Strep Infection Leading Disease

Streptococcus infection, accounting for a reported 59 cases, was the most prevalent communicable disease in Marin County last week, according to Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, Marin County health officer.

There were also 22 cases of gonorrhea, one case each of syphilis, tuberculosis and salmonella and seven cases of infectious hepatitis, she said.

POGO STICK JUMPER UNDAUNTED

Nancy Berry, 12, had jumped about 7,000 jumps (left) when her pogo stick broke. While trying to transfer to another stick, her foot touched the ground, disqualifying her from competition. She went back to finish 11,066 jumps anyway. Undaunted, the Arlington, Ohio, girl will try again with a new stick this weekend. According to the Guiness Book of World Records, Stephan Newman, 12, of Great Yaywood, England, completed 11,052 jumps on June 27, 1971.

Antipoverty Funds May Be Extended

The Community Action Marin board was told last night federal officials may extend funding to the agency past the March 31 cut-off date previously announced.

Executive director Alfred R. Conklin III said the extension was tentatively agreed to Monday by Office of Economic Opportunity officials to provide time and money for a proper phasing out of the Marin antipoverty agency.

He said a team of officials will review agency books and records to determine how much time and money it will take to close down the agency.

Conklin said federal officials also indicated a $14,000 grant for Marin County's Senior Coordinating Council would be approved prior to the shutdown.

Exchange Club Picks New Slate

George Piazza has been elected president of the new Exchange Club of San Rafael, a service club for business and professional men, which is meeting at noon Tuesdays at the Holiday Inn in San Rafael.

Other new officers are Jeffrey McAlpin, vice president; Robert Parks, secretary, and Marshall Armstrong, treasurer. Members of the board of directors are Ray Varano, Kenneth Hardison, Robert Wooll, Edward Kadel, Albert Gambetti and Robert Kwasneski.

Report On General Plan Due Wednesday

San Rafael's citizens advisory committee will hear a report by city consultants on the general plan at 8 p.m. Wednesday in city hall, according to Tina Ferris, committee publicist.

The advisory committee has also decided to meet on the first and third Tuesday of each month at 7:30 p.m. in San Rafael High School, she reported.

France Flight Boycott Continued By Airlines

PARIS (UPI) — More than 35 airlines continued their boycott of flights into France today in the 19th day of an air traffic controllers' strike that snarled hotel reservations and jammed express trains and buses from Brussels, 200 miles away.

Only eight airlines sent flights in or out of Orly airport, guided by military air controllers who have been directing traffic over French air space during the strike by the civilian air controllers.

The majority of airlines refused to fly over France, a boycott which began after a collision Monday of two Spanish passenger liners which brought death in flames to 68 persons aboard an Iberian airlines DC9.

Orly airport officials said only 12 arrivals and 12 departures were recorded up to midday. The only companies operating were Pan American, TWA, Swiss Air, Air Algeria, Tunis Air, Jordanian Airlines, Yugoslav and Middle East airlines, officials said.

Luxury hotels reported disruption of reservations. The Plaza Athenee and the George V said they had received "many" cancellations. Other clients were late for their reserved rooms because their airliners landed in Brussels and they were being brought to Paris by bus, hotel officials said.

A reservation clerk at the George V said the delayed air passengers "are taking all of this in good humor. They are fatalistic about strikes."

Paris' two airports were virtually deserted. Travelers lined up in railway stations seeking passage to other cities.

Courses Offered In San Anselmo

A variety of courses for the young and not-so-young, ranging from a children's band to make-up techniques and antique repair for adults is being offered this Spring by the San Anselmo Parks and Recreation Department.

Classes for children include organic gardening, arts and crafts, tiny tots' activities and the magical music band.

Classes for teen-agers and adults include quilting, antique repair, yoga, drawing, belly-dancing and tennis.

More information on the recreation program, which begins this month, is available from the city's recreation office in Memorial Park. All classes will be held in Robson-Harrington Park, according to Gary S. Howell, parks and recreation director.

Volunteer Firemen Plan Annual Dance

Noato volunteer firemen will have their 42nd annual St. Patrick's Ball at 9 p.m. March 17 at the Novato Community House.

The Owls, a six-piece band, will play, and proceeds will go toward a disability insurance and sick fund for volunteers.

Ike's Grandson Unsure About Future Career

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Lt. (jg) David Eisenhower may look for a job in government or in the writing field when he is released from the Navy at the end of the month, but he has no plans to take a White House post.

Helen Smith, First Lady Pat Nixon's press secretary, said that the President's son-in-law had toyed with the idea of takng a law course but had not sought admission to any university to date.

She noted that Eisenhower's father, former Ambassador John Eisenhower, is an author and is currently writing a book about his father, Dwight D. Eisenhower. She said that David has a "natural bent for writing."

Arrest Made In Auto Theft

San Anselmo police arrested a San Anselmo man yesterday on suspicion of auto theft because, they said, they saw him driving a car on Monday that had been reported stolen the day before.

Mark Allen Warner, 22, of 1320 San Anselmo Avenue, was booked into Marin County Jail and held in lieu of $1,000 bail to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Warner, questioned by police yesterday, led officers to a car parked in Fairfax that had been reported stolen from Los Angeles Boulevard on Sunday, according to police. Warner said he fell asleep in the car after having a few drinks and drove away the next morning thinking the vehicle had been loaned to him, police said.

College Strings Plans Concert

The College of Marin string ensemble will present a concert of Shostakovich and Schubert works at 8 p.m. March 16 at the Tamalpais in Greenbrae.

Members of the ensemble are Mary Helen Weinstein and Carolyn Thode, violin; Stephen Levintow, viola; Mary True, cello; Ken Parker, bass, and David Di Grazia, piano.

Tickets to the program, part of the College of Marin concert and lecture series, will be available at the door.

Illegitimate Son Goes To Father

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (UPI) — A young soldier won custody of his 2-year-old illegitimate son Wednesday over the objections of a county adoption agency in which the baby's teenage mother had placed it.

Daniel Lucero, 20, Pacifica, Calif., currently on active duty with the Army at Ft. Carson, Colo., won sole custody of little Anthony Lucero in a hearing before Superior Court Judge Melvin E. Cohn.

The soldier's parents Mr. and Mrs. Leo Lucero, will care for the child until he is able to transfer back to California, or win an early release from the service, said attorney George Corey.

Both parents of the baby were in high school when the child was born. Authorities prevented Lucero from marrying the mother because she was 16 and a ward of the court. So Lucero joined the Army in order to provide a stable financial support for the little boy, testimony disclosed.

The mother corresponded on a regular basis while Lucero served in Vietnam, testimony said. The soldier's parents visited the mother and baby regularly and included them in family outings.

But when Lucero came home from Vietnam last summer, the girl refused to see him. She put the baby up for adoption without his knowledge and ran away from her foster home, testimony said.

The San Mateo County home she left the baby with contended the child had been properly offered for adoption and prospective parents had been selected.

But Lucero brought court action to win his child back.

Unavailability Of Ambulance Leads To Study

The unavailability of an ambulance which made it necessary last month for a police patrol car to deliver a critically burned San Rafael woman to Marin General Hospital has led to a review of county policy of contracting with a single ambulance firm.

The county administrator's office said yesterday it is studying how and at what cost service can be improved and whether to contract with the other Marin firm, Bay Cities Ambulance Service, as well as the presently exclusive contractor, United Ambulance.

When the San Rafael woman was burned in a fire at her apartment, two United ambulances were out on calls and the third was on the Tiburon Peninsula, too distant to wait on in view of the woman's painful condition, according to police officers on the scene.

Would-Be Skyjacker Is Shot; Wife Found Slain

SPOKANE, Wash. (UPI) — A would-be hijacker was shot and captured at Spokane International Airport Wednesday after he shot an Air Force sergeant, beat a weatherman with a rifle and demanded a plane.

The man's wife was found dead of a gunshot wound in their home.

Officials said the man, identified as Larry J. Bonner, 22, of Cheney, Wash., a student at Eastern Washington State College, was hospitalized in fair condition with a severe head wound.

Police said indications were that Bonner's wife, Sharon, 21, was killed before Bonner left for the airport. How she was shot was not known.

A shotgun was found in Bonner's car at the airport, but investigators would not say whether it was the same type of weapon that killed Mrs. Bonner.

Spokane County Sheriff's deputies said Bonner drove up to the airport armed with a rifle and screamed, "Get me an airplane," as he approached Bill Keating of the National Weather Service.

Keating was struck on the head and cheek with the butt of the rifle.

Deputies said the assailant then shot T.Sgt. Buddy Miller in the arm. He was hospitalized in satisfactory condition.

Bonner then tried to invade a Northwest Airlines ticket counter, deputies said. But security officer James Worshom fired from a balcony and the slug struck Bonner behind the left ear.

Deputies said the incident ended 10 minutes after Bonner arrived at the airport.

Agent To Pro Player Is Seeking $39,000 Fee

The agent of a professional basketball player has filed suit in Marin Superior Court to collect $39,000 in fees he claims are owed him.

R. Steven Arnold of Corte Madera claims John Mengelt, now a guard with the Detroit Pistons, owes that sum on a 1971 contract. Arnold, who now works for the World Hockey Association, said he agreed to negotiate contracts and give financial advise in return for the money.

The suit filed by San Francisco attorney Albert L. Boasberg said Mengelt was supposed to pay $6,500 in 1972, $7,500 this year, and is further obligated to pay $7,500 in 1974 and 1975 and $10,000 in 1976.

The basketball player, who was a second round draft choice when he graduated from Auburn University in 1971, was guaranteed a salary of at least $62,500 for four years, according to the suit.

He was originally signed by Cincinnati, then traded to Detroit.

Frenchman Is Seized With Boat

A 24-year-old Frenchman was seized yesterday by the U.S. Coast Guard in San Francisco Bay aboard a stolen sailboat he said he was sailing home to France.

Booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of grand theft was Claude Lemoine, who told police he was a French citizen and gave no local address. He was held in lieu of $5,000 bail to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Officers said the boat, a 40-foot yawl owned by John White, 40 Toyon Lane, Sausalito, was reported missing at 7:30 a.m. yesterday from its slip at the Sausalito Yacht Harbor.

Witnesses at the yacht harbor told police that a man with a French accent had admired the two-sailed vessel on several occasions and was seen in the area of the boat at 3 a.m. yesterday.

Design Review Law Studied In Larkspur

Amid half-jesting warnings that Larkspur may be following Tiburon down the antipetunia path, Larkspur City Councilmen last night reviewed a proposed ordinance creating a new environmental and design review board.

The ordinance was then referred to the city planning commission for a public hearing, to be followed by later public hearings before the council.

The new board would replace the defunct Architectural Review Committee. It would have sweeping powers over architectural design, landscaping and other factors "to protect the city from the effects of inharmonious, bizarre and out-of-scale developments." It would review practically all developments except new single homes, and may extend even to control over the colors used in repainting existing buildings large enough to "have a significant visual impact."

Greenbrae developer Niels J. Schultz Jr. objected to proposals for requiring a bond to assure upkeep of landscaping of large projects.

He cited a recent "Reporter's Notebook" by Independent-Journal reporter Pat Perry, which satirized Tiburon's new control that extends even to the landscaping of single homes, by telling a fable of "getting busted for planting petunias" in violation of review committee edicts.

"I'll send you each a copy" of Mrs. Perry's column, Schultz promised the coulcilmen.

The councilmen countered by singling out the Disco and Safeway stores as lacking sufficiently maintained landscaping, and called for better controls.

The new review board would be financed by charging fees equal to .05 per cent of the value listed on the building permit, to review the developer's plans.

The council adjourned to a special meeting at 7:30 p.m. Monday, for closed-session interviews of nine candidates who have applied for the proposed new review board. It would have five members.

The Larkspur City Council Also:

OPEN SPACE — Voted 4-0, with Councilmen Neil R. Brixon and Alfred J. Malvino expressing reluctance, to impose a 120-day moratorium on development of the North Ridge open space area, including Little King Mountain and the south side of Baltimore Canyon. Attorney Wallace S. Myers, representing the owners of Little King, warned against indefinitely freezing out use of the land. The vote had previously twice been delayed. Mayor William G. Fleckles was absent last night.

POUND — Formally amended the city animal control ordinance to raise impound fees to $10 for the first stray dog offense, $15 for the second and $25 for each additional offense.

APPEAL — Overruled planning commission denial of a variance for ingress and egress and parking for the Dollars 'n Sense Store, provided owner Russell Merret obtains an agreement to use property leased by the adjoining Arco station.

TEXACO — Voted 3-0 to approve architectural plans for a station at Magnolia Avenue and Doherty Drive, but withheld approval of the proposed price signs, pending their possible relocation. Councilman Robert H. Lee abstained to avoid conflict of interest; his firm designs such station.

COUNTYWIDE — Acting on previous discussions, endorsed the proposed countywide general plan, wit comments calling for modification of the housing mix goal.

DEATH TRAP — Citing recent traffic fatalities on Doyle Drive south of the Golden Gate Bridge toll plaza, wrote the state Highway Commission urging a higher priority for its improvement.

SPAN — Ordered a letter sent to the Coast Guard, asking that the Northwestern Pacific Railroad bridge over Corte Madera Creek be kept open except when trains need to cross. Boat.

MEETING — Ordered drafting of an ordinance amendment to provide that the council will have regular meetings the first and third Wednesday of each month. Councilmen after experimenting with the semimonthly sessions, said they liked the more frequent, less lengthy meetings.

SAN QUENTIN — Extended for another 120 days the development freeze on the San Quentin Peninsula, due to expire April 13.

SIGN ORDINANCE — Heard from Lee that he is recruiting a citizen committee to review the city's sign regulations, with a first meeting tentatively set for March 19 or 22.

FIRES — Introduced an ordinance amending the city fire code to require detection equipment near the kitchens of homes, and special sprinklers and alarm systems in multiple unit dwellings and motels.

CITY-COUNTY — After expressing satisfaction with an experimental one-year membership in the city-county planning council, agreed to a three-year extension of membership.

WORKSHOP — Agreed to meet at 8 p.m. Wednesday with Golden Gate Bridge District directors to work on plans for the Larkspur ferry terminal.

NOISE — Also ordered city staff to report at the Wednesday session on steps taken to quiet noisy delivery trucks making predawn deliveries to the Alpha-Beta market.

PARK NAME — Asked the park and recreation commission for comments on a letter from resident Elizabeth Bray, who proposed renaming Piper Park to Larkspur City Park.

Bay Area's Air Should Meet 1977 Standards

REDDING (UPI) — A member of the state Air Resources Board says the San Francisco Bay Area should come "very close" to meeting federal air pollution standards by 1977 without using such methods as gas rationing.

R. Robert Brattain of Pebble Beach said after Wednesday's board meeting that anti-smog devices on motor vehicles will keep pollution emissions in the Bay Area at federal standards.

"There will be no necessity for gas rationing or other means to reduce vehicle miles traveled, as proposed for Southern California," Brattain said.

The board received staff reports outlining possible measures to meet federal pollution standards in all air basins in the state. The board took no action on the reports.

Brattain noted the state has applied for a two-year extension on the 1975 deadline for meeting the federal standards.

Fast Freighter On Maiden Trip

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A new freighter capable of trimming three days off the 11- day sailing time between California and Yokohama reached San Francisco Wednesday on her maiden voyage.

The $22 million President Jefferson, owned by the San Francisco-based American President Lines, was built in Mississippi and cruised at about 27 knots.

She is 699 feet long, weighs 30,000 tons and carries 1,186 35-ton sealed cargo containers.

She has no masts or booms and relies on huge cranes ashore for loading and unloading.

Capt. Charles P. Gedney of Orinda said that at most ports "we will be in an out in 12 to 15 hours."

Session Set Tonight On Larkspur's General Plan

Larkspur City Councilman Robert H. Lee and Planning Director John E. Roberto reported last night that representatives of every neighborhood group in the city — except possibly the Greenbrae Boardwalk area — would meet tonight to form a citizen's committee to work on revising the Larkspur General Plan.

The organizational meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the council chamber.

Roberto reported 76 city residents have said they'd be interested in participating in the project, on which the state has set a July 1 deadline. The city's new planning consultant, Herman D. Ruth will meet with the citizens. No resident of the boardwalk area responded to the invitation, Roberto said.

Roberto said the citizens will be organized into six to nine subcommittees specializing in such topics as city ordinance revisions, open space and conservation, housing, and business district and technical elements. Each subcommittee is expected to elect a chairman tonight.

The council had planned to appoint a steering committee last night to guide the overall project, but at Lee's suggestion, postponed naming the committee to the council's scheduled special meeting at 7:30 p.m. Monday.

New York Tops Per Capita Tax

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — New Yorkers pay a higher per capita tax than residents of any other state, according to an analysis by the Empire State Chamber of Commerce.

The chamber's figures show that residents of New Jersey pay the highest share in federal taxes—$1,598 for every resident —and New Yorkers are second, by $3, at $1,595.

However, New York's $689 per capita state and local tax burden is the highest in the nation and pushes the combined federal-local tax to a new high of $2,284, the chamber said yesterday.

The chamber's analysis showed New Jersey second in total tax load at $2,097; Illinois, $2,063; California, $2,055; Massachusetts, $2,021; Michigan, $1,852; Pennsylvania, $1,773; and Texas, $1,479.

Crackdown Set On Slot Cheats

CARSON CITY, Nev. (UPI) — The Nevada Assembly unanimously approved a bill Wednesday cracking down on slot machine cheaters.

The measure provides maximum penalties of $5,000 and 10 years in prison for persons who use drills, wires and other devices to make the machines pay off.

The state's gambling industry reports that cheaters have taken millions of dollars in slot machine winnings.

BROKE AND HAPPY — Dick McGovern enjoys everything about his nursing studies, even such a routine task as taking a temperature. Deciding to become a nurse was a major change for the former producer of television commercials, but he hasn't regretted the decision to switch careers. "I've never been broker or happier," said McGovern, a student in the College of Marin's nursing program.

NURSING PROGRAM

Bachelor Finding New Career Very Rewarding

By PATRICIA PERRY

Dick McGovern had a good job producing commercials for a Sacramento television station. His salary was high and the work glamorous.

On weekends he worked with handicapped children in a Big Brother program, an activity he'd started years before when he was in the Navy.

Then, two years ago, he realized he was looking forward to his weekend volunteer work more than his weekday career. He quit his TV job, and enrolled in the College of Marin nursing program.

"It was a difficult decision. . .all my friends thought it was just a lark. . .all I can say is, I've never been broker and happier," said McGovern.

He is 35 years old, a bachelor from a family of six boys. He's coming up to his final state licensing examinations in July after nearly two years at the Kentfield campus.

"I think we all get a new set of values as we get older," McGovern said. "I guess I wanted to work with people, instead of things. In fact, I think everybody is a little envious of a person who can do what they really want to fulfill their desires. I was lucky, I didn't have any family responsibilities to prevent my switching careers."

McGovern is able to go to college full time by using his GI Bill entitlement, by working part time at Ross Hospital and by an assortment of other jobs —yard work, washing windows and tending bar. He rents a room in a San Rafael home, paying part of his rent in yard work.

He chose the College of Marin's registered nurse program because of its reputation statewide. (Students must score 350 points to pass the state licensing program; most College of Marin graduates score in the 500s.)

Entrance to the program is difficult. More than 500 persons applied for admission this fall and 200 qualified. Out of these, 55 enrollees were selected at random by computer.

Only four men have graduated from the college's R.N. program since 1965, but 11 men currently are enrolled.

Program director Lyla Cromer said the increase in male students is part of the changing role of nursing. In fact, many hospitals are specifically requesting male nurses because they want to have a mix in staff.

McGovern, who hopes to start work in a hospital after graduation this summer, doesn't mind what sort of nursing he does, although he hopes eventually to return to college and get his bachelor's and master's degrees and teach nursing.

But he admits he especially enjoys working with children.

"I think it's realistic to have a male nurse in a pediatric unit. Most of our children are subjected to a totally female environment — from kindergarten they're usually with women teachers until eighth grade. Children should be able to relate to the father as much as to the mother, instead of the father just being a disciplinarian."

McGovern had no nursing experience, but feels his television experience helped him in dealing with people and relating to their different life styles. The college nursing students are thrown into a hospital environment right from the beginning of the program, working under supervision in Bay Area hospitals.

He said he doesn't find nursing physically taxing, and says he's continually fascinated and excited about developments in the profession.

"Nurses are getting more and more responsibilities, and the doctors are relying more on their skills so that the nurse is the extension of the doctor's care. And I can't speak highly enough about the program; Miss Cromer and the instructors and the students are the most supportive people I've ever met."

With an increasing number of men looking at nursing as a future profession, McGovern had this advice:

"I would recommend any male seeking a career in nursing to really investigate and find out what nursing is all about. I feel most men should know where their head is before they go into nursing — so much is teaching patients. Find out what they expect to get out of nursing, but most important, find out what nursing expects to get out of them."

BART Panel In Mood To Spend $75 Million

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Bay Area Rapid Transit District's engineering committee on Tuesday approved spending $75 million for new equipment, including $6 million for the improvement of automatic train controls.

The full board is expected to take a final vote on the expenditures Thursday.

BART's automatic controls have been criticized by the state government as unsafe and Erland A. Tillman, the district's director of engineering, said $441,000 would have to be spent on them before service could be extended to San Francisco.

Federal financing for two thirds of the cost is expected.

Of the expenditures approved, $42.3 million would be for 100 cars, $6,250,000 for electric substations, $5,469,000 for fare collection equipment and $3 million for bus shelters, canopies and wind screens.

Landmark Lawsuit Eyed On Petaluma Growth Rule

A precedent-setting lawsuit aimed at Petaluma's growth control plan will be filed soon in Sonoma County Superior Court, according to representatives of the Construction Industry Association of Sonoma County.

Jack O'Neal of Young America Homes Inc., Rohnert Park, said today the suit should be filed "very shortly." Attorney Malcolm A. Misuraca of Santa Rosa said he is still researching the case and is not certain when the suit will be filed.

The suit is expected to challenge Petaluma's unique environmental design plan which sets a limit of 500 new living units per year. The process used to select who may build under the limit is also expected to be challenged.

"Our association does not intend to defy or attempt to limit any reasonable and constitutional attempt by the City of Petaluma or any other agency to implement proper land planning," O'Neal said.

"Every reasonable land developer, home builder and anyone else in the construction industry can only favor good planning that protects all of us, but under no circumstances should there simply be a race to enact any piece of legislation that appears at first flush to do a job before it is very carefully considered to see whether it does more harm than good."

Any suit against the city will be considered a landmark case since Petaluma is the first city in the state — and perhaps the first in the nation — to let developers in on a selected basis.

Other cities throughout the country have expressed interest in adopting a similar policy, but are awaiting a lega test

City Atty. Edouard E. Robert warned the city council when it adopted the policy that no precedents have been set on its legality and that a lawsuit could result.

Newspaper Libel Suit Is Planned

The attorney for a 26-year-old woman charged with an armed robbery in the Co-Op Market in Corte Madera said yesterday he would file a $500,000 libel suit on her behalf against an Alameda County newspaper that printed a commentary on the case.

The libel, attorney Paul A. Harris said, was in the tenor of an article in the Inter-City Express, which seemed to imply the woman, Stephanie Kline, had encouraged and induced perjury by witnesses when she stood trial last year in Alameda for a car bombing that killed a Black Panther.

The implication both caused her "great mental anguish" and lessened her chance of receiving a fair trial on the Marin charge, Harris said. He charged the article in the newspaper which reports Alameda County's court cases was printed "with malice or at least with reckless disregard of the truth."

The suit, which was to be filed today in Alameda Superior Court, asks $250,000 general damages and $250,000 punitive and exemplary damages from the newspaper and five unnamed persons.

"The article itself insinuates that Stephanie's alibi witnesses lied for her in the first trial, and therefore implies that she was in fact guilty. This is an insult to the jury that acquitted her as well as an attempt to prejudice future jurors in her impending case," Harris said.

Miss Kline was acquitted last August in Alameda County Superior Court on a charge of possessing a bomb, which exploded in her car and killed a 22-year-old Black Panther. Defense witnesses testified she was at a party when Tommy Davenport was blown up on Jan. 30, 1972.

Four days after her arrest in Marin, the East Bay publication, according to Harris, ran the following front page column titled "Incompetent, Irrelevant and Immaterial:

"You remember Stephanie Kline?

"She's the one who was acquitted by a jury here last August of possessing the bomb which went off in a Volkswagon (sic) parked in a Broadway drive-in. The explosion killed a Black Panther follower.

"Well, a troop of Ms. Kline's followers traipsed to the witness stand and provided her an alibi at the time the bomb went off. Yes, they testified under oath. Ms. Kline was in her San Francisco apartment attending a party at the time.

"Well Ms. Kline got knocked over the other night in Marin County —caught in the act of robbing, along with three others (sic) persons, a market.

"Yep, and one of those arrested with Ms. Kline on the armed robbery charges, was one of her alibi witnesses in the Alameda County action."

Harris said the paper has refused to retract the statement although one phone call would show none of her codefendants in the Marin case testified in the bomb trial.

(Lloyd MacDonald, publisher of the Inter-City Express, told the Independent-Journal today, however, that his paper published a retraction when it learned it had erred in reporting one of Miss Kline's witnesses to have been arrested in Corte Madera.

(MacDonald said the retraction and expression of regret appeared in the same place in the paper on Jan. 24 as had the previous comment, part of a feature column, not part of its regular news stories.)

Miss Kline was arrested with John Turner, 27, of no fixed address, Candice Kay Yockey, 26, of San Francisco and Claudia Vonetta Grayson, 20, of Oakland, after a holdup of two grocery store employees.

The four, who have been linked to leftwing activities, have been in jail since their arrest awaiting trial in two weeks. Bail is $20,000 for Miss Kline and Miss Grayson and $30,000 for the other two.

Guard Unit Is Feature Subject

San Rafael National guardsmen were featured in the February issue of Sunset Magazine for their tree planting efforts in the Sunset District of San Francisco.

Members of Company D, 579th Engineer Battalion, worked with members of the Innter Sunset Action Committee to plant 200 trees in sidewalks. Guardsmen were pictured in the magazine operating air hammers to break up concrete and planting the trees.

San Rafael guardsmen also set up a field kitchen to feed community volunteers.

Novato Parks Panel Asks Part Of Revenue Funds

The Novato Parks and Recreation Commission is seeking about one-third of the city's revenue sharing funds for its capital improvements budget for 1973-74.

According to recreation director Edward W. Adams, commissioners agreed last night to seek $40,000 of the city's $115,000 revenue sharing funds. Since one third of the city's tax rate, 32 of 95 cents per $100 assessed valuation, goes to parks and recreation, commissioners believed revenue sharing should be one-third, Adams said.

With the revenue sharing money, $10,000 could be used to convert the house on the O'Hair property, Novato Boulevard and Sutro Avenue, into a teenage center, he said.

The funds also would provide $20,000 for development of the Lynwood School play area, an additional $7,000 for Olive School Park and $3,000 for Marin Highlands Park.

The proposed capital improvements budget is $167,000 with $72,085 to go toward purchase of the O'Hair property and Heifetz land in the Scottsdale area of South Novato for parks. This year's budget is $154,255.

Commissioners put $4,260 from the proposed recreation budget, eliminating $1,260 for an additional aide at the swimming pool and $3,000 for a Friday night junior teen program at junior high schools. The proposed recreation budget is $166,990, up $21,005 from this year.

Old Adobe Panel Has New Position

The Old Adobe School District board, Petaluma, last6night created the position of assistant superintendent to take charge of curriculum planning.

Schools Supt. Dean D. Magowan said the board approved the new position to free him from some tasks and to give more attention to innovations in curriculum.

Magowan said he would prepare job specifications including pay scale and recruitment procedures for the March 15 board meeting. Magowan said the board agreed an additional administrator would improve efficiency in the district office.

Magowan said the board also reviewed responsibilities of principals and agreed their main concern should be working with staff, students and programs within their own schools. The board said principals should be responsible only for coordinating special programs such as speech training, remedial reading and psychological services.

One Issue Solved At Mill Valley Library

The Mill Valley City Council and city library board last night temporarily patched up their differences over library spending.

City Mgr. William H. Cunningham reported today that the council voted to give the library an additional $600 to continue operating the rest of this fiscal year without reducing hours.

In return the library board gave up proposals to cut back on part-time staff, but held to its plan to close the library the week of April 9-14, giving all the library employees an involuntary week's vacation without pay. The staff had agreed to the plan, and the council's motion included thanks to the librarians for their contribution, Cunningham said.

The library also will cut spending on periodicals and new books for the remainder of the fiscal year, Cunningham reported.

Councilmen and library board members have been bickering for weeks over proposed solutions to the library spending problem, which has been running about $2,000 a month over the budget.

Part of the spending cutback will be effected by delaying hiring a replacement for Librarian Alberta L. Hankenson, who resigned late last month in the middle of the dispute.

Information Center On Alcoholism Opens

The Marin Committee of the National Council on Alcoholism has opened an information center at 1299 Fourth Street in San Rafael.

The centers offer free pretreatment counseling for problem drinkers, alcoholics and their families. Referrals are made to appropriate agencies, according to council officias.

College Board Plans To Fire Ethnics Coordinator

The Marin Community College District board last night said it will fire ethnic studies coordinator Carlos C. Iraheta June 30.

Iraheta, 31, was hired last September to the new position over the objection of faculty, who opposed his teaching classes in regular departments.

Since then Iraheta, who was formerly chairman of the La Raza (Chicano studies) program at San Francisco State, has been pushing for the creation of an entire ethnic studies department at College of Marin.

Trustees are scheduled to discuss his proposal for the ethnic studies department at a special workshop session on April 11.

According to Earlene Jones, college district publicist, trustees met in closed session for an hour, and later in the open meeting concurred with the firing recommendation of the faculty's evaluation team.

Mrs. Jones said the board didn't discuss the dismissal, and gave no report on the evaluation.

Iraheta said today he wasn't surprised at his firing — "It's been a very controversial position right from the start," he said, "most minority instructors are put into highly controversial programs."

Iraheta has contended since his appointment that he is an ethnic studies coordinator with no ethnic studies department to coordinate. At present such courses are scattered throughout all the college's departments.

To meet trustees' requirements that the coordinator have nine teaching credits, Iraheta is teaching a history class and a literature class, both in Chicano studies, and a directed study class.

Minority groups at the college, particularly American Indians, began pressing for establishment of an ethnic studies department last fall, urging that courses then spread among the anthropology, art and other departments be gathered into a new ethnic studies department taught by minority instructors.

Iraheta was hired on a one year probationary contract. The board, which created the ethnic studies coordinator position, didn't say last night whether they intend to replace Iraheta, said Mrs. Jones.

Luke Warm Reaction To Seal Park

A proposal that Marin County create a harbor seal sanctuary and park on a Strawberry Peninsula sandpit has met with only a luke-warm reception from the director of county parks and recreation.

"It's something to look into," said Pierre W. Joske, adding he doubted Strawberry area residents "would put up with" a formal park in the area.

The proposal was offered by Strawberry Recreation District director Thomas Miller, who said the county could purchase the property on the east side of the peninsula and use it as a public park in the summer and as a harbor seal and waterfowl refuge in the winter.

The sandpit is surrounded by 60 vacant acres, which have been locked up in ownership litigation and so far have escaped residential development.

Joske said the site, or a portion of it, could be a candidate for open space acquisition by the new regional park district but noted district funds for this year have been tentatively committed to lands elsewhere.

Improved Mail Petitions Grow

The number of petitions being circulated asking the federal government to improve the quality of mail service in Marin County is increasing daily, according to Carroll A. Snyker, manager of Marin County Chamber of Commerce and Visitor's Bureau.

Individuals, business firms and organizations are circulating the petitions to be signed and sent to the postmaster general, he said.

"The petitions to the postmaster general will have some effect, but the final say on improving mail will have to come from the Congress," Snyker said.

Behr Elevated To Education Panel

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, yesterday was appointed to the Senate Education Committee, regarded as one of the key committees of the upper house.

The action by the rules committee to fill a vacancy on the education committee also removed Behr from the less important local government committee. He also serves as vice chairman of the public utilities and corporation committee, and is a member of the health and welfare committee and natural resources and wildlife committee.

Marin Legal Aid Group Plans Suit

The financially troubled Legal Aid Society of Marin has filed suit in Marin Superior Court for $5,000 it claims the Economic Opportunity Council of Marin (now called Community Action Marin) owes the society.

The society threatened to sue last April after one of its board members claimed the antipoverty agency had "bamboozled" the legal aid society by withholding $5,000 in federal funds for administrative work that was never done.

The charge was one of many claims of misuse of funds by the agency which led to the resignation of W. Robert Lomax as head of the agency.

However, the anti-poverty program, as well as legal aid, depends primarily on federal funding that has been threatened by cutbacks proposed by president Richard M. Nixon.

Attorney Charles R. Baumbach, who filed the suit, could not be reached today for comment on why the legal aid society waited a year to sue or on how his agency can collect if antipoverty funds are cut off.

Dial-A-Story For Children

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Youngsters in San Francisco can now have a three-minute story read to them simply by dialing the Public Library at 626-6516.

When the connection is made this week they will hear Ruth Grace, who directs the library's early childhood education project, reading on tape a story entitled "Whistle for Willie" by Ezra Jack Keats.

It's about the problems of a boy named Peter who wants to whistle for his dog.

Effie Lee Morris, coordinator of children's services, said that stories would be changed weekly.

IMPALA SS

46,000 MILES

$995

This absolutely like-new Chevrolet Impala Super Sport 2-dr. hardtop coupe has been used strictly as a second car around Marin county by former original lady owner.

This sand beige coupe has like-new custom interior with all the Chev SS extras like automatic, radio, heater, power steering, w/w tires, tinted glass plus lots of other little extras.

The unusually low mileage on this car is reflected by its condition. If you need a really nice car but are limited by the amount you can spend —then see this one. DWV 608.

Public Notice

Czar Smith Winters, Atty.

NOTICE OF SALE OF REAL PROPERTY AT PRIVATE SALE
No. 21 248

Superior Court of California, County of Marin

Estate of MARY E. EGELER, also known as MARY EGELER, Deceased.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that, subject to confirmation by the above-entitled court, on Tuesday, April 17, 1973, at 4:00 p.m., or thereafter within the time allowed by law, the undersigned as Executor of the Will of MARY E. EGELER, Alias, Deceased, will sell at private sale to the highest and best net bidder, on the terms and conditions hereinafter mentioned, all right, title and interest of MARY E. EGELER, Alias, Deceased, at the time of her death, and all right, title and interest that the estate has acquired in addition to that of the deceased, in and to the real property located in the County of Marin, State of California, described as follows:

A single family residential property known as 13 Roosevelt Avenue, (Santa Venetia), San Rafael, Marin County, California, (Assessor's Parcel No. 179-173-06), more particularly described as follows:

Lot 15, in Block 4, as shown upon that certain Map entitled "MAP OF SUBDIVISION A, GOLF LINKS TRACT NEAR SAN RAFAEL" recorded January 14, 1908 in Book 2 of Maps at Page 107, in the Office of the County Recorder of the County of Marin, State of California.

The sale is subject to current taxes, covenants, conditions, restrictions, zoning ordinances, reservations, rights, rights-of-way and easements of record, or shown by accurate survey and inspection.

Bids or offers are invited for said property and must be in writing and will be received by undersigned at the office of his attorney, C. S. Winters, Esq., 49 Golden Hinde Boulevard, San Rafael, California 94903, or may be filed with the clerk of said court at any time after publication of this notice and before the making of said sale.

The property will be sold on the following terms: The executor prefers cash in full within twenty (20) days after confirmation by the court, ten (10) per cent of the amount bid to accompany the offer by certified check or bank funds. However, terms for payment will be considered, and in the absence of a higher net cash bid, installment payments will be considered over a lower net cash bid. Taxes, rents, operating and maintenance expenses, and premiums on insurance acceptable to the purchaser shall be prorated as of the date of confirmation of sale. Examination of title, recording of conveyance, transfer taxes, and any title insurance and escrow charges shall be at the expense of the purchaser.

The undersigned reserves the right to reject any and all bids prior to entry of an order of confirmation of sale, and to accept a term sale in preference to a cash sale if in the best interest of the estate.

Panel To Give School Board Ideas On Plan

The Sausalito School District's master plan steering committee, which has been preparing a master plan of goals and objectives for the district, will present its preliminary recommendations to the school district board at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the district office, 630 Nevada Street.

The steering committee already has recommended that the district consolidate operations, locating all students in one school.

The committee suggests it be built on the Bayside School site.

Funds for constructing the new facility could come in part from the $276,000 the district will receive for Central School from the city of Sausalito which is purchasing the vacant building.

The master plan committee also has recommended that students from Bayside could be housed in the district's other school, Martin Luther King.

NCO, Airman Of Month Are Named

A Vietnam veteran and a former school teacher have been named noncommissioned officer and airman of the month for February at Hamilton Air Force Base.

T/Sgt. James Dozier of the publishing branch, a 35-year-old Vietnam veteran, was honored as the outstanding noncommissioned officer. Sergeant Dozier is a native of Laurel, Miss., and previously served with the Air Force Reserve Officer Training Corps. at Commerce, Tex.

Airman 1/C Bradley Scott, a 26-year-old instructor with the Equal Opportunity Office at the base, was honored as the outstanding airman.

Airman Scott, a former school teacher, holds a bachelor's degree from Grover City College, Pa. He is a native of Clarion, Pa.

Drake Trip Commission Is Advanced

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — An Assembly committee yesterday approved a bill establishing a special Sir Francis Drake Commission despite criticism the group would divert attention away from "critical social problems."

The 24-member commission would exist for eight years to organize a celebration commemorating the 400th anniversary of Drake's voyage around the world and stop over at San Francisco Bay. It would receive no public funds and operate on private donations.

The bill (AB252) by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, cleared the Ways and Means Committee on a 13-1 vote and went to the floor over the objection of Assemblyman John Vasconcellos, D-San Jose.

"I just don't think we need another commission, especially of this type, when there are major public problems to be resolved," Vasconcellos said.

"This is a way to divert people's attention from current critical social problems by dancing about something in the past," he said.

Assemblyman Alan Sieroty, D-Beverly Hills, who voted for the measure, objected to one provision which authorized the commission to appoint a "Company of 400," a group of individuals who would underwrite the celebration project. He said the title "Company of 400" was "offense" and should be called something else. Supporters said this merely reflected the 400th anniversary of Drake's voyage.

Job Decision Due

The Marin County Mosquito Abatement Board will decide whether to fill a part-time position left vacant by the retirement of Charles Petrolini with a permanent full-time employee at 7 p.m. Monday at the board office, 201 Third Street, San Rafael.

Minibikes, Go Karts Session Set

Ever-increasing use of off-highway vehicles — such as minibikes and go-karts is causing such safety hazards in Marin County that a special program has been arranged Saturday to educate community leaders on the problem.

Organized by Virgil S. Hollis, county superintendent of schools, and Jerry Diaz, chairman of the county's Off Highway Vehicle Committee, the program starts at 9 a.m. at the county schools office.

In the afternoon participants will tour the Gambonini ranch in West Marin, where there are 50 miles of trails on 4,000 acres. Many local motorcycle groups use the private ranch near Synanon on the Marshall-Petaluma road.

Hollis said the meeting was called "because of the increased use of off-highway vehicles in the county, and the various problems and frustrations created for both the user and the non-user."

The Marin Motorcycle Association, led by president Frank Joiner, will give a motorcycling demonstration at the ranch at 2 p.m.

Guilty Pleas To Lesser Charges In Stabbings

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A San Francisco man has withdrawn his innocent plea and entered guilty pleas to modified charges stemming from the fatal stabbings of a former San Rafael resident and another person.

Superior Court Judge John Ertola on Tuesday ordered James E. Walters, 31, to appear March 28 for probation report and sentencing on the charges of second degree murder and voluntary manslaughter of former Marinite Eugino T. (Gino) Fagnani and John More. Walters originally was charged with murder. Judge Ertola accepted the pleas to the lesser offenses on a motion by the district attorney.

The stabbings took place last December after Walters was evicted from a party in a San Francisco apartment building managed by Fagnani.

Guilty Pea To Heroin Charge

Marie Hendrix, 25, of Marin City, has pleaded guilty in Marin Superior Court to a felony charge of selling heroin to an undercover narcotics agent.

She admitted the count after Judge David Menary Jr. and Deputy Dist. Atty. Raymond E. Gilbert agreed she will receive a suspended prison sentence and no more than eight months in jail and three years' probation. Sentencing was set for April 9.

A second felony charge, possession of heroin, was dismissed.

Undercover agents arrested Miss Hendrix Oct. 31 at the Corte Madera Shopping Center after five balloons of heroin changed hands.

Auditions Set For 13 Roles

The Mill Valley Childrens Theater Company will hold auditions tonight for 10 adults' roles in its upcoming production of "The House That Jack Built."

Adult auditions wil be held at 7:30 p.m. in the Old Mill School Auditorium.

Children's auditions are scheduled for 3:15 p.m. tomorrow in the auditorium.

Experienced actors, singers and dancers are sought, according to director Marney McArthur Coscia. The play will open in Mill Valley in May and there are plans for a tour of the Bay Area with the production.

Novato Recreation Classes Announced

The Novato Parks and Recreation Department is offering pre-school creative dance classes, yoga courses and a women's volleyball league, according to recreation director Edward W. Adams.

A women's volleyball clinic will be conducted at San Marin High Gymnasium from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. today and league play will start at the school next Thursday, Adams reported.

The eight-week creative dance course for students from 4 to 6 years old will start at 1:15 p.m. tomorrow at the Novato Community House with Claire Porter as teacher.

An eight-week course in yoga will start at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday at the Novato Community House with an evening class opening at 7 p.m. next Thursday at Hill Junior High School.

Pre-registration will be taken and further information can be obtained at the department office, 917 Sherman Avenue, from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Mondays through Fridays.

Special Course For Parents

A six-week "communication course" for parents will start March 28 from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. at the Family Service Agency of Marin, 1005 A Street, San Rafael.

The course is aimed at helping parents both listening to their children and expressing themselves to the youngsters, according to an agency spokesman.

More information may be obtained by calling the agency.

NOSTALGIA MAKES OLD TOWNE NEW SHOPPING ATTRACTION

One of the most popular attractions at Old Towne, Southern California's newest shopping center, is the Market Place. Similar to the Farmer's Market, the Market Place is an open plaza with tables and chairs spaced around a gazebo, where continuous musical entertainment is featured. More than 20 quality eating places run around the perimeter of the Market Place. The enclosed, air-conditioned shopping mall contains 215 small, quality stores and restaurants, all with a turn-of-the-century theme.

SINGING SECURITY GUARD — Bruce Bishop, 51, was one of more than 100 persons who auditioned for the job of singing security guard at Old Towne, which features continuous entertainment for shoppers.

UNUSUAL ARTISTRY — Crystal culptore Felix Moslein puts the finishings touches on the mast of a Spanish sailing ship sculptored on a glass ball. The art work took 220 hours. Moslein is one of 30 artists who are residents of Old Towne.

TOUCH OF THE PAST — Designed as a turn-of-the-century community, Old Towne's three-quarter-mile Old Towne Lane features nostalgic storefronts depicting more than 50 styles of architecture from the Old West to the early 1900s.

LEISURELY PACE— A couple of unidentified customers try their skill at checkers to break the leisurely pace of shopping at Old Towne. The checkerboard, placed atop a nail keg, sits outside the general store in the new shopping center.

Tars In Ventura Today

By RALPH CHATOIAN
I-J Sports Editor

VENTURA — College of Marin's basketball team will be battling against Riverside City College today at 3 p.m. in the opening game of the 22nd annual California Community College state basketball tournament.

The Marin-Riverside game will be aired live by KTIM with radio station manager Bob Dinsmore handling the play-by-play action.

It will be the first of four opening round games involving eight conference champions. Marin is champion of the Camino Norte Conference and Riverside is titlist of theission Conference. The Tars of Marin sport the best record of 11 participating teams, 26-3, while Riverside is 28-5.

Compton College (25-6) carries the No. 1 rating among the teams and gained the favorite position by beating Santa Barbara City College 60-59 last week to win the Western State Conference crown.

Compton meets the East Los Angeles Huskies, also 25-6, of the Southern California Conference, in the last of the four games at Ventura College gym.

Other first round pairings: Santa Ana, (25-5) of the South Coast Conference vs. City College of San Francisco (23-7) of the Golden Gate Conference; and Long Beach City College (24-6) of the Metropolitan Conference vs. College of the Sequoias (18-13), Valley Conference.

Semi-finals are on Friday night, with the winners meeting Saturday night for the championship following an afternoon playoff between the losers for third. Losers of tonight's first round games will be eliminated.

Four conference winners among the small junior colleges will play at Ventura College Friday and Saturday for the small college division title.

Shasta (22-8) of the Golden Valley Conference plays Barstow (21-8) of the Desert Conference in the opener at 3 p.m. Friday, and Merced (16-14) of the Central Conference meets Menlo (23-6), Coast Conference, in the second game.

The small junior college division playoff for third place Saturday afternoon and for the championship Saturday night will be preliminary to the large schools' championship game.

Hair Furor On Track Team

Sports

Thursday, March 8, 1973 Independent-Journal, 31

By LEW CODDINGTON

Three students at Terra Linda High School have been prevented from running on the school's track and field team because their hair length does not conform to the team's grooming standards.

The three, all seniors, are Peter Ray, Mark Timmerman and Dan Bowman. They did not draw equipment Friday, would not have participated in meets which were rained out Saturday and Tuesday, and are not expected to be present today when the Trojans meet Piner and Montgomery high schools in a triangular meet in Santa Rosa.

Two others, senior Kevin Silva and junior Randy Hall, reportedly were dissatisfied with grooming requirements but their decisions not to participate were based on other factors as well. A sixth, student body president John Peterson, decided Monday to run after earlier indicating an unwillingness to do so.

"No, I will not take the others back on the team, even if they cut their hair," said coach Barry Amsden. "They've already had more than their fair opportunity to return."

The absence of Ray, Timmerman and Bowman stems from their unwillingness to meet a compromise grooming standard adopted in a meeting Friday by Amsden and the team members.

According to Amsden, the compromise standard forbids facial hair and hair so long it would fall into the eyes, requires sideburns to be trimmed but does not limit their length, allows hair to touch the shoulders, and permits hair to grow over the ears but requires it be tapered.

The compromise replaced an athletic department-wide "guideline" which banned facial hair and hair falling into the eyes, forbade sideburns below the bottom of the ear, said hair on the side must not cover the ear, and stipulated hair in back may not fall on the shirt collar, Amsden said.

The students considered the adoption of the more relaxed compromise standard "a victory," but argued in favor of

Attitude Of Giants Pleases Fox

Combined AP & UPI

PHOENIX — Manager Charlie Fox says he's pleased with the attitude of his San Francisco Giants on the eve of the opener of their 24-game exhibition season.

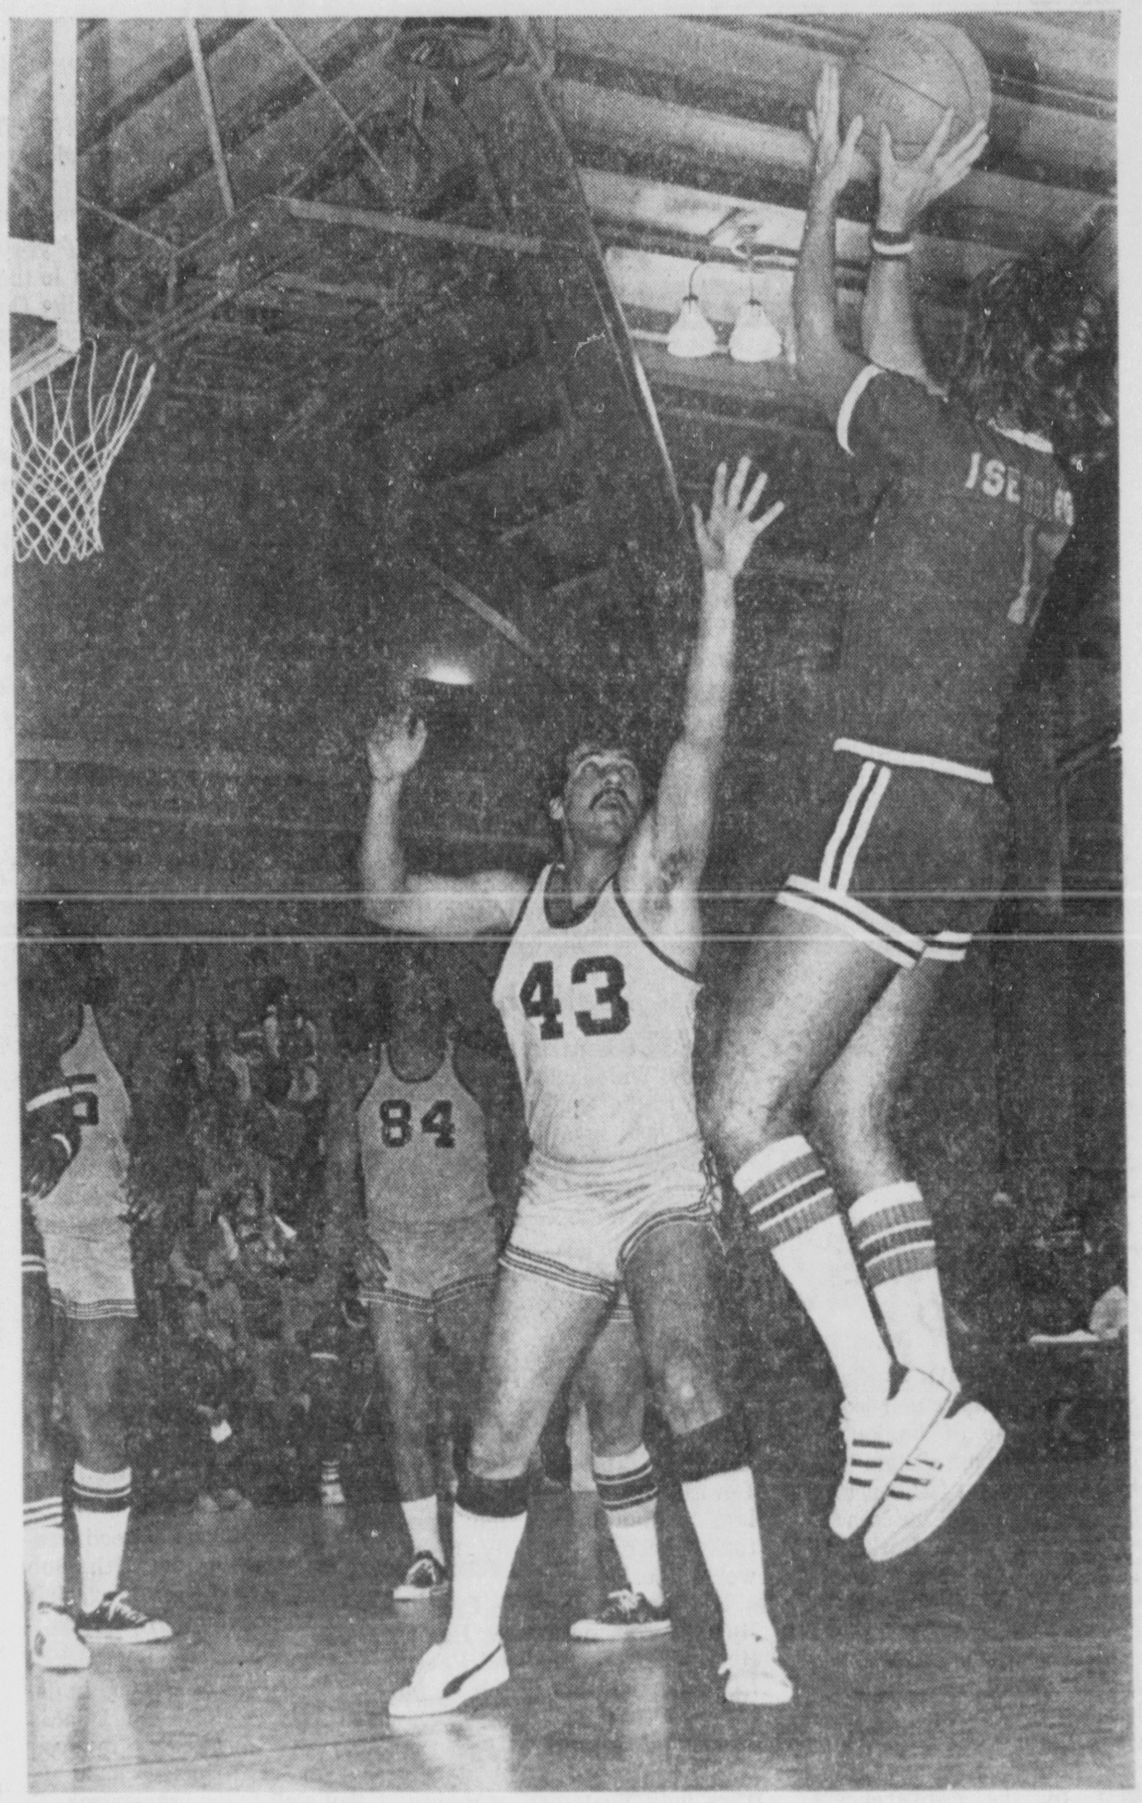
The Giants, who moved here Wednesday night after 10 days training at Casa Grande, "worked hard and well," Fox said, and he couldn't see how they could have advanced in their training more than they did.

Fox liked another thing about the early training: "They are always talking baseball among themselves, both on and off the practice field."

Second baseman Tito Fuentes and catcher Fran Healy were holdouts and missed the Casa Grande portion of the training. Both were reported en route by automobile Wednesday.

First baseman Willie McCovey is expected to miss Friday's opener at Scottsdale against the Chicago Cubs. McCovey has been taking cortisone treatments for pain in his insteps and swollen knees, and Fox has named Ed Goadson to play first against the Cubs.

Another guy glad to leave Casa Grande is pitcher Jim Barr whose trunk was stolen Wednesday.



INDIANA BASKETBALL — John Isenbarger (17) of the San Francisco 49ers, a former collegiate basketball player for Indiana University, popped this jumper over Jerry DePoyster (43) of the Oakland Raiders last night in the "Super Bowl VIII" benefit basketball game at Redwood High School. The Raiders' Tony Cline (84) watched.

BASKETBALL GAME

49ers In 'Super Bowl' Win Over Raiders At Redwood

By TOM THOMPSON

The San Francisco 49ers are "Super Bowl VIII" champions today — at least in basketball. The 49ers outlasted the Oakland Raiders, 73-69, last night in a benefit basketball game at Redwood High School.

Dubbed "Super Bowl VIII" by Redwood athletic director Al Endriss, the game was played before a sellout house estimated by Endriss at 2,600, "the largest ever in our gym and probably the largest in Marin." Endriss said an estimate of how much money was raised for the Central Marin Babe Ruth League and the Redwood Benchwarmers athletic booster club wouldn't be available "for a couple of days."

John Isenbarger of the 49ers displayed the class of the evening, leading all scorers with 19 points. Isenbarger played basketball his first two years at the University of Indiana before the grid Hoosiers went to the Rose Bowl in his junior year, that is when he decided to stick with football.

Few of the players looked like they really belonged on the basketball court. Not very many cagers are seen that stand of 6-foot-5 and weigh around 250 pounds like the Raider linemen Art Shell or Art Thoms. Thoms held his own, however, with 16 points.

It was the lighter players who seemed to provide the scoring threats, with Niner Bruce Taylor, pouring in 17, including the winning free throw in the last minute of play, and Fred Biletnikoff, with his pro receiver's hands and speed accounting for 18 points for the losers. Raider runningback Charlie Smith contributed 16.

It was the fifth game during the grid off-season the two teams have played against each

Sharon Vs. Jeanne In Dallas Tennis

DALLAS (UPI) — Sharon Walsh of San Rafael today must confront the same problem she couln't solve last week: Jeanne Evert.

Miss Walsh, seeded eighth in the $37,000 Maureen Connolly Brinker women's tennis tournament, will meet Miss Evert of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., in today's second round, after having lost to her last week in the circuit's first tournament, the S&H Green Stamp Classic in Fort Lauderdale.

Miss Evert, 16, earned the spot opposite Miss Walsh by defeating Becky Vest of Jackson, Miss., yesterday 5-7, 6-1, 6-4. Meanwhile, her sister Chris was breezing to a 6-0, 6-0 victory over the chief attraction of the tournament — Cindy Brinker, 15, daughter of the former tennis great for whom the tournament was named.

"I was happy to play Chris," said Cindy. "I thought it was a great experience to get to play her. After all, not many people get the opportunity. Experience is what counts."

In another important match yesterday, sixth-seeded Linda Tuero of Metairie, La., struggled past Isabel Fernandez of Colombia, 6-7, 7-5, 8-6 in two and a half hours.

BASKETBALL: ERROR IN GAME DAY

Drake High School (24-5) will play Castlemont (22-1) of Oakland at 7:30 p.m. today in the first round of the basketball Tournament of Champions at the Oakland Coliseum Arena, not Wednesday as was erroneously reported yesterday.

Other games scheduled today pit Salesian (22-7) of Richmond against Arroyo (20-6) of San Lorenzo at 4:30 p.m.; Berkeley (26-6) against Dublin (19-3) at 6 p.m. and defending champion San Joaquin Memorial (22-5) of Fresno against Wilson (25-9) of San Francisco at 9 p.m.

If Drake wins, the Pirates will meet the Memorial-Wilson winner at 9 p.m. tomorrow in the semi-finals; if they lose, they'll face the loser of that game at 6 p.m. tomorrow in the consolation bracket.

Marin Tar Swim Team Has A New Look — Women Divers

By RON LENT

The 1972 College of Marin swim team divers may not grab many blue ribbons, but they will certainly catch a lot of judges' eyes. Pretty Kathy Quinlan and Ronnie St. Germaine are the first females to compete on a Marin County male team at the high school or junior college levels.

California Junior College Association rule changes this year permit females on J. C. teams; but California Interscholastic Federation rules bar gals from competing on state high school male teams, according to Marin County Athletic League commissioner George Corson.

Although their diving experiences are limited, Tar swim coach Bob Justice is confident they will be an asset in a heretofore all-male domain.

"Ronnie is working out pretty well," Justice says of the 5-foot-5, 125-pound sophomore from Terra Linda High School.

One Tie, Two Defeats For Marin Nines

The three Marin high school baseball teams which played yesterday won, but at least San Marin didn't lose.

The Mustangs played to a 4-4 tie with St. Ignatius in a game called due to darkness after seven innings in San Francisco. Redwood lost to El Cerrito, 5-4. Drake fell to Riordan of San Francisco, 10-1.

San Marin (0-0-1) rallied for two runs in the top of the seventh on an RBI double by Ken Niebur followed by a single by Marty Nagel, but S.I. squeeze-bunted home the tying run in the bottom half of the inning.

Redwood (1-1) took a 4-0 lead with a four-run uprising in the fourth inning, as Doug Hartman smashed a three-run homer, but El Cerrito scored one in the fourth and four in the fifth to win. Giant pitchers issued six walks in the crucial fifth inning.

San Rafael's game with Mission of San Francisco was called off due to wet grounds at Albert Field, with no plans made to reschedule it, coach Jack Sims said.

A's Sign Holtzman, But Not Blue

MESA, Ariz. (UPI) — The Oakland A's signed one top hurler while trade rumors swirled about another one.

The World Champs cut their holdout list to two when Ken Holtzman, 19-11 last time around, came to terms Wednesday for an estimated $60,000.

Meanwhile, owner Charlie Finley refused to confirm or deny reports from the Texas Rangers camp that the team was "very close" to a deal for the unsigned Vida Blue.

There was no word on the status of catcher Dave Duncan, the other unsigned player.

Seals Lead League In Ties

OAKLAND — The lowly California Golden Seals have wrested from Montreal the distinction of being the National Hockey League team with the most ties.

A 2-2 deadlock with the Buffalo Sabres here Wednesday night gave the Seals 15 ties to 14 for the Canadiens who have 45 victories to the Seals' 11.

The tie was the second for the Seals against Buffalo, which has only a one-point lead over Detroit in the scrap for the fourth-place playoff spot in the NHL East.

Buffalo's Norm Gratton scored at 12:36 of the first period on a power play tipin, and exactly one minute later Gerry Meehan caught California goalie Marv Edwards out of position and whipped the puck into an empty net to send Buffalo ahead 2-0.

Joey Johnston scored on a power play for the Seals at 2:04 of the second period, and Rick Smith whipped in a 30-foot shot at 15:51 of the third period to earn California the tie. Johnston's goal was his 23rd

Mrs. Court Vs. Riggs April 28

Combined AP & UPI

SAN DIEGO — Margaret Smith Court of Australia is coming to the defense of women's tennis.

Winner of 13 of the past 14 tournaments on the women's tour, Mrs. Court agreed yesterday to accept a challenge by 55-year-old Bobby Riggs made to Billie Jean King last month.

Riggs and Mrs. Court will meet in a winner-take-all, two-out-of-three set match for $10,000 April 28.

Riggs, 1939 Wimbledon champion, is putting up $5,000 of his own money and San Diego Country Estates the other $5,000.

"I'm delighted Mrs. Court accepted the match," Riggs said. "I've played many of the great stars of the game. At this stage of my career it will be most satisfying to face the top woman player in a match that may open a new era of tennis competition."

Basketball

LOS ANGELES — All-American Ed Ratleff, Cal State Long Beach's sensational senior, has been named as the Pacific Coast Athletic Association's most valuable player for the second straight year.

The announcement of the selection by the conference's eight basketball coaches was made yesterday.

DETROIT — Jim Harding resigned his four-year post as head basketball coach at the University of Detroit, effective July 1, when his contract runs out.

Football

PITTSBURGH — Bob (Woody) Widenhofer, linebacker coach at the University of Minnesota last season, has signed as assistant defensive coach of the Pittsburgh Steelers, it was announced today.

Steelers head coach Chuck Noll said Widenhofer, 30, will not specialize in any single phase of defense.

Horse Racing

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — For what is believed to be the first time in history, Churchill Downs yesterday accepted a late nomination for the Kentucky Derby — nearly three weeks late.

The nomination of I Will Rule, a colt owned by Hokin House Farm of Highland Park, Ill., was postmarked Feb. 6, in plenty of time for the Feb. 15 midnight deadline.

But it did not arrive at the track until yesterday, a month after it was mailed.

The late nomination raised to 218 the total of Derby hopefuls nominated for the 99th running of the run for the roses May 5.

Skiing

MT. ALYESKA, Alaska — Bernadette Zubriggen, Switzerland, yesterday won the women's giant slalom World Cup ski race with a time of 1:23.21.

TIEDEMAN, TRUMBO ARE SELECTED

DAVIS (UPI) — Guard Steve Tiedeman and coach Bill Trumbo of basketball champion Sonoma State have been singled out for honors in the Far Western Conference.

Tiedeman won Basketball Player of the Year honors while Trumbo was named the circuit's Coach of the Year.

Tiedeman, a guard who had a 22.6 scoring average while leading the Cossacks to their first league championship, was named on every ballot cast by the conference's sports information directors and newsmen covering FWC games. Tiedeman also received honorable mention recognition yesterday on the UPI Pacific Coast College team announced yesterday.

A distant second was Gary Fox of U.C. Davis while Dave Moore of Chico State was third.

2 Veteran Umpires Are Out Of Jobs

NEW YORK (UPI) — Two veteran umpires—Mel Steiner and Stan Landes—will definitely not be back at work in the National League this season and the status of two others—Augie Donatelli and Ken Burkhardt—remains in doubt.

Fred Fleig, National League supervisor of umpires, said Wednesday night that Steiner, 56, is being retired and that the contract of Landes, 49, is not being renewed. Landes has not reached the league's retirement age of 55 but no reason was given for his dismissal.

"You'll have to ask National League President Chub Feeney about that," said Fleig from his residence in St. Petersburg, Fla. "I can't comment on it. He's handling it."

Contacted at his home in Sherwood, Wis., Landes said he was being let go because of his work with the Umpires Association.

Landes, who has worked three World Series and three All-Star games, including the 1972 contest, said the league told him his contract wasn't being renewed because of personal problems.

But Landes discounted that and said the cause was his being outspoken as a member of the Umpires Association, including his actions at a meeting in Chicago last November. The following week, he said, he got his dismissal notice.

"They couldn't shut me up," he said. "Maybe I'm too honest but I speak what I believe is the truh. I don't want to deceive the public."

Landes, who in 1964 was the association's first president, said he is opposing the decision and added that the case is now before the regional National Labor relations Board.

Fleig said the names of Donatelli, 58, and Burkhardt, 56, had been scratched from the league's roster of umpires for the coming season, but that it was possible both would return this year.

day, Oakland held an intrasquad game with The Bill Posedels getting home runs from Billy Conigliaro, Frank Fernandez and Ted Kubiak to defeat the Grover Resigners 8-2.

The A's planned to concentrate on fundamentals before opening up their 28-game Cactus League schedule Friday here against Milwaukee.

Jim Hunter, Dennis Myers and Darold Knowles will go for the A's in that one.

Redwood Leads Way In Swim

Led by John Redig and Spencer Eldred, Redwood High School has compiled eight of the 11 best marks in Marin County Athletic League dual-meet swimming competition this season.

Redig has recorded the top times in the 200-yard individual medley and the 50 and 100 freestyles. Eldred has the top marks in the 200 and 400 freestyles. Each was a member of the pace-setting 100 medley relay team.

The best times:

200 medley relay — Redwood (Redig, Eldred, W. Lager, Dunham); 1:48.6; 200 free — Eldred (R), 1:52.6; 200 I.M. — Redig (R), 2:06.9; 50 free — Redig (R), 23.8 (twice); Diving — Schindler (R), 223.0; 100 fly — Patocchi (N), 59.2; 100 free — Redig (R), 52.0; 400 free — Eldred (R), 3:59.0; 100 back — Atwood (T), 1:01.9; 100 breast — Miller (TL), 1:07.0; 400 free relay — Redwood (Russell, Silcox, Dunham, M. Lager), 3:39.5.

are tempered, but he adds, "the rains have hurt. She is a bit smaller than Ronnie and gets cold faster. Kathy also has other interests which have stopped her from working out very much. She is taking part in the school production of Fiddler On the Roof, and, so, she has issed practices to go to rehearsals and to keep up with her class work."

Both girls have gymnastics backgrounds which enable them to display good body control in dives. "They have a feel where their bodies are when they are in the air; this enables them to control themselves better in their dives," Justice explains.

The coach adds that Kathy, an 18-year-old freshman from Tamalpais who is 5-4 and 115 pounds, and Ronnie, 19, have been accepted by their teammates. "The guys say our girls are pretty good-looking."

The girls hope to help the team improve on last year's 3-2 record in the Camino Norte Conference. The Tars were third in the CNC and were 8-8 overall. They are 1-1 this season.

"We should be about third again this year. West Valley and De Anza are powerhouses. We can't touch them, but Santa Rosa, Solano and us are about equal," Justice said.

"Lack of people," according to Justice, is the biggest problem facing the Tar team. "We give away quite a bit." With only 13 members, including the two divers, the Tars are limited; but the talent is there.

"We should have a good freestyle relay team with Bob Dunker, Bruce Fromberg, Jeff Grant, and Gary Hartsough," Justice says. The coach also expects Grant to be good in the butterfly along with Dennis Knowles "if he gets in good shape. Kit Thomas should do fairly well in the breaststroke."

Justice also had good words for Dunker whom he deems a "good all-around swimmer." Dunker is a sophomore from Ohio, Fromberg a sophomore from Terra Linda, Grant a sophomore from Terra Linda, and Hartsough a freshman from Tamalpais. Thomas and Knowles are sophomores from Terra Linda.

Dave Schindler, a sophomore from Redwood competes in the breaststroke and freestyle events but is sidelined now with torn shoulder ligaments sustained while competing on the wrestling team. Grant is also a wrestling team member.

Others on the team are freestylers John Taylor, a freshman from Drake; Dave Peters, a sophomore from Petaluma, and Steve Grinnell, a freshman from Tamalpais, and breaststroker Steve Berryman, a freshman from Tamalpais.

Upcoming events in Mrin include a 49er-Drake faculty game in San Anselmo on March 3, and a 49er game at San Rafael High later in March.

So far, the 49ers have compiled a cage record of 23-1, while the Raiders are 13-8.

IN BASEBALL

Pirates' Shift In Poor Start

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The Pittsburgh Pirates' great experiment of 1973 is having trouble getting off the launching pad.

Manny Sanguillen, the Pirates' catcher in recent seasons, has been shifted to right field to replace the late Roberto Clemente and has run into some problems already.

On Wednesday, Sanguillen misjudged one fly ball, letting it drop for a double, and fell down fielding a base hit in his four innings of play as the Detroit Tigers romped to an 8-3 victory over the Pirates in exhibition play.

"I'm satisfied," said Pirate Manager Bill Virdon when asked about Sanguillen's play, but he did admit that, "Clemente would have caught that ball but I can't compare Sanguillen with Clemente."

Sanguillen's future in right field depends on the success of young catcher Milt May. If May can prove he's capable of hitting major league pitching, then Sanguillen probably would remain as the Pirates' right fielder. Otherwise, he would return behind the plate and open up the right field slot for some talented youngsters.

Jim Northrup and Dick Sharon had homers to highlight the Tigers' 16-hit assault on five Pirate pitchers.

In the only other exhibition game, designated pinch-hitter Frank Tepedino stroked four hits, including three doubles, and Ken Bennett drove in four runs with a three-run homer and a single as the New York Yankees crushed the Minnesota Twins 11-4.

Ron Swoboda also drove in three runs and Celerino Sanchez and Fred Frazier had homers for the Yankees, who played second line players almost exclusively. Rookie Mike Adams homered for Minnesota.

Left-hander Ken Holtzman signed with the Oakland A's for an estimated $60,000, leaving only Vida Blue and Dave Duncan unsigned among the world champions, and Rod Carew signed for $55,000 with the Twins. Harmon Killebrew and Jim Kaat have yet to sign with the Twins.

Relief specialist Mike Marshall agreed to terms with the Montreal Expos and Jerry Johnson, another reliever, signed with Cleveland, which obtained him from San Francisco Wednesday.

In other news around the camps, Mike Ivie and Fred Kendall, competing for the starting catcher's job, collected five hits between them in the San Diego Padres' intrasquad game and Bob Boone and Greg Luzinski drove in three runs each in the Philadelphia Phillies' first intrasquad game of the spring.

Gary Peters, a 35-year-old veteran trying to catch on as a free agent with the Kansas City Royals, made a good showing in an intrasquad game, retiring all nine batters he faced and allowing only one ball to be hit out of the infield.

NBA Involved In Television Suit

NEW YORK (AP) — The Columbia Broadcasting System must show cause March 13 why the National Basketball Association should not be compelled to enter into good faith negotiations with American Broadcasting Company Sports, Inc.

State Supreme Court Judge Wilfred A. Waltemade signed a show-cause order Wednesday.

ABC filed a suit earlier in the day asking that the NBA's 1973-74 contract with CBS be declared null and void. No formal contract has been signed but ABC charged that an agreement has been made with CBS pending a turndown by ABC of a contract that is unacceptable and offered "not in good faith."

The defendants were also directed to explain why they, pending trial and determination, should not be barred from entering into or performing any agreement between the NBA and CBS for the telecasting of NBA games during the 1973-74, 1974-75 and 1975-76 basketball seasons.

HAIR

further loosening or abandoning of the restrictions.

"Track or any other sport at Terra Linda or any school is for the individuals, not the coaches," said Bowman, who said his hair is shoulder-length and cut in a shag. "It's not really fair — you're busting your rear end anyway, and then not to be able to compete because of this.

"I'm really into backing these people (the dissidents) and I'll back them fully."

"I think if hair isn't in the way (the length) should be up to the individual person," said Ray, whose hair extends to the middle of his back.

Federal district judge George B. Harris of San Francisco, ruling in the famous Redwood hair caseqon March 10, 1970, upheld the right of individual coaches to set grooming requirements, however.

"I can see where it would have to go both ways, but I can't see rules like this in this particular sport," said Timmerman, who describes his hair as a bit more than shoulder length. "Track differs from some sports, like swimming, where hair obviously gets in the way."

Amsden said Silva and Hall were dissatisfied with the regulations, but that Silva also citd "a good paying job" and Hall "a matter of studies" for not running.

Peterson was dissatisfied Friday with the compromise, but met with Amsden Monday and decided to run. His hair already met the requirements. "The team met a compromise and as far as I can see if I held out it would be to no advantage — our effectiveness had ended," he said.

Peterson said a resolution adopted last Tuesday by the Terra Linda Student Council, over which he presides, was "one of the major reasons the athletic department may have changed." The resolution called the original strict departmental guideline "a detriment" and said it should be "immediately terminated," Peterson said.

Asked why he instituted the compromise standard, instead of eliminating all restrictions, Amsden said, "I felt it was more important at this point to support those athletes who had abided by the standard and who had given something of themselves in order to compete, rather than take the position of being more liberal."

Bicycle Race Series Sunday

By LEW CODDINGTON

For the third consecutive year, high school students with bicycles, helmets and a lot of nerve will be streaking through the valleys and laboring up the seemingly endless hills of Marin as part of a series of races sponsored by the Marin Cyclists.

The second of these, the San Geronimo Criterium, is scheduled Sunday. Cyclists are planning to assemble at the intersection of San Geronimo Valley Drive and Railroad Avenue at 9 a.m., with the race to begin at 9:30.

There will be racing in three classes — A, B and C. The A's will do 13.2 miles and the B's and C's 8.8 miles. Classes were determined by the results of a 10-mile time trial held last Thursday, but generally speaking Amateur Bicycle League of America members end up in Class A, high school juniors and seniors in B and freshmen, sophomores and girls in Class C.

There will be eight other races from now through May 28, including a three-day stage race during Easter Vacation, April 17-18-19.

Points are awarded for each race, and at the end of the series trophies will be given for the best overall rider and the best team (school), and prizes will be awarded the top three racers in each class.

Entry fee for all 10 races is $4, part of which goes toward a trial membership in the Marin Cyclists, enabling the rider to participate in the regular club races as well. Any high school student is eligible.

In the time trials last week, Tim Anderson of Tamalpais High covered the 10-mile course near Corte Madera in 24:21. Other top times included Tom Pickett of Redwood, 25:19, and Tim Lessley of San Marin, 25:50.

For further information on the series, contact Russ Fujiwara at 41 Staghound Passage, Corte Madera, after school hours.

KEEPING YOUR COOL — Among the problems besetting the swimming program at Drake was a heating difficulty at the pool. A gas line broke recently, coach Dave Ramos reported, so the water temperature has hovered at 56 degrees instead of the normal 78.

TOC TRIVIA — The chief attraction of the basketball Tournament of Champions is Cliff Pondexter of San Joaquin Memorial of Fresno, a 6-6 All-America center. If the name seems familiar, it's because his older brother, Roscoe, is the sixth man on Long Beach State's nationally ranked team. A third brother, Sam, starts at forward for Memorial.

BUSY MAN — Redwood coach Doug Basham will be a bit schizophrenic on Saturday. His skiing team is scheduled to compete in its league championship meet on the slopes of the Sierra, while the track team is supposed to take part in the Marin County Athletic League Relays at College of Marin. It's a tough commute.

IMPORTANT MAT-TERS — Last weekend's state wrestling tournament in Hayward gave Northern Californians their first look at the grapplers from the Southland. There's little if any difference in technique, reports Terra Linda coach Bob Hetherington, but quite a difference in strength and skill.

The sentiment was echoed by the parents of the two Trojans who qualified for the meet, Jon Loberg and Ron Losk. "The caliber of the wrestlers is amazing," complained Robert Loberg.

THE SKI SCENE

Sun Valley Area Is Mecca For Skiers

By CHARLIE COANE

The mystique of Sun Valley may have begun in 1941 when Sonja Henie starred in the movie, "Sun Valley Serenade," but today this Idaho resort is better than ever.

Many skiers who have traversed mountains throughout the world — France, Austria, Germany, Italy, Canada, wherever — claim that for all-around fine skiing, Sun Valley has no equal.

Persons come from all over to ski at Sun Valley, but it was astonishing for me to learn that 35-40 per cent of the skiers are from the greater Bay Area.

"Of course there are many tours from the San Francisco area to here," reports marketing vice president Chip Fisher, "but most people just arrange things themselves and spend a week. And we have many people who return year after year."

From the Bay Area, Sun Valley is reached by a relatively easy 11-14 hour drive (depending upon how many stops, how fast you drive, and the weather). You can drive it straight through or stop in such glorious spots as Elko or Wells, Nev. The resort is reached via Interstate 80 to Wells, left on Highway 93 and keep going til you're there. You can also fly to Boise or Twin Falls an go by bus or car from there — or fly to Hailey, 13 miles away from Sun Valley.

What's so special about Sun Valley? First and foremost, the skiing. For beginners and beginner intermediates, there's Dollar Mountain and connecting Elkhorn — two perfectly groomed testing grounds, located near the village of Sun Valley, for budding skiers. But Bald Mountain (better known as Baldy) is where the action is. There is such a variety of runs on nearby Baldy, that it boggles the mind. I skied there for six straight days in perfect sunshine and still missed several.

The caliber of skiing on Baldy is very high and many of the top hotdoggers will leave you muttering to yourself. There are several easy runs, but in general, Baldy is for people who have skied before. Some of the runs such as Limelight, Lower Holiday and Exhibition are also for people who have skied before. A lot. The world-renowned ski school, now under the direction of Paul Ramlow, has 200 instructors and is extremely well organized.

When people come to Sun Valley, most are there for a week or more. Weekends are less crowded because people are arriving and leaving on Saturdays and Sundays. Lift lines? The advertising says virtually no waiting lines, and for the most part, it's true. I caught a couple of long lines (maybe 10-15 minutes), but I would guess my average wait was one minute. They added a few lifts this year, including a triple chair, which really helped.

The village of Sun Valley abounds with fascinating little shops throughout the mall. One mile away is Ketchum, and two miles from there are the access lifts to the top of Baldy. The village runs shuttle busses to and from Ketchum and Baldy, and visitors can also stay in Ketchum or right near the access lifts to Baldy — so near that it's a 30 second walk to jump on a chairlift.

The non-skiing activity seems almost endless: a scenic apres ski cocktail, a sleighride to dinner, dancing to a wild band, a gathering in a hot outdoor whirlpool. Whatever you want to do, it's probably there. There are also plenty of family-type accomodations and activities.

The people that work around Sun Valley are all so friendly and helpful that it creates a very nice mood. And the place has far more than its share of good looking girls and handsome men. It's also not unusual to, as I did, ski past Barbara Streisand, bump into Cliff Robertson at the Lockout Restaurant on top of Baldy or ride the chair behind Janet Leigh, or encounter other well-known people.

Mogul Ski Club has a special trip April 15-21 to Jackson Hole for members and guests; all inclusive, $150-$165 per person. For more information, get in touch with the Club at 163 Tunstead Avenue, San Anselmo.

Nicklaus Is Favored In Doral Golf

MIAMI (UPI) — The Doral Eastern Air Lines $150,000 golf tournament opens Thursday and since Jack Nicklaus will play, he's the favorite.

Nicklaus these days is the favorite whenever he plays. He didn't play in the Citrus Open last week in Orlando.

There are other reasons for the blond long ball hitter's role as favorite at Doral: he is the defending champion, has always played well on the long Doral Country Club "blue monster" course, and has been honing his game for Doral.

Nicklaus was unhappy with the way he played in the super-rich Jackie Gleason classic a few miles north of here two weeks ago and took last week off to sharpen his game.

"I'm mad at the way I played at Inverrary, that's why I'm playing more to get ready for Doral," Nicklaus said. "I'm playing more than normally."

Nicklaus has played the Doral 10 times for an average of 70.47 strokes a round, way below any other contestant.

The Golden Bear was only four shots behind Gleason winner Lee Trevino and there is little doubt he will be in contention again this week in a field that includes Trevino and Citrus Open winner Buddy Allin, but which will be missing Arnold Palmer and Billy Casper.

Palmer said after the Gleason tournament he would skip Doral.

"I'm not going to play at Doral because I don't think I'm playing well enough to be competitive," he said at the time. He did play in the Citrus Open, but missed the cut.

Another who missed the cut last week was Forrest Fezler, the young pro who missed a four-foot putt at Invarrary that would have forced a playoff with Trevino.

Normally, because he missed the cut in the previous tournament, Fezler would have to qualify with the rabbits on Mon-

Inverrary, granted him a sponsor's exemption.

Fezler also has noticed his newfound popularity. "It's kind of nice, really," he blushed after he was asked for his autograph.

Casper is skipping the Florida tour again this year because of his allergy to Florida grass and because he thinks he needs a rest.

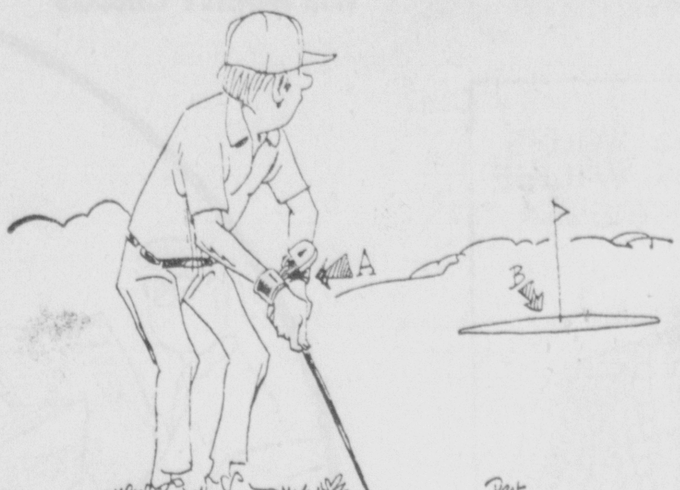
TREVINO TALKS GOLF



Delicate Pitch-And-Run

By LEE TREVINO

The key to making this shot a winner is to keep the wrists locked. A flippy-wristed player, as Tommy Bolt calls 'em, doesn't have any business fooling with the pitch-and-run.

For one thing, a delicate touch is important. We're talking about a little tester that takes a lot of practice. Most businessmen don't have time to work on the refinements of the short game. The winning golfer takes the time.

Since it's a three-quarter shot, it's better to hold the backswing down — something like a long putting stroke. The distance requires a small arc, making the approach to the impact area even more sensitive.

Concentrate on not breaking the wrists. This makes the shot easier to judge, simpler to control. The dude who cocks his wrists and unwinds on a pitch-and-put is going off half-cocked. He'll either blade the shot or hit it "fat," meaning a dumper.

Pick a target area for the ball to land in. Playing the ball off the right heel, try to hit the area with enough speed to run the ball to the flag.

It's only a long putt, amigo — except some of it's in the air.

Westmont, Montana Fives Win Places

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Westmont and Eastern Montana have won spots in the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics small college tourney, which starts March 12 in Kansas City.

Westmont nudged Azusa 60-57 Wednesday with Fred Devaughn hitting 15 for the winners and Dennis Vanzant 25 for the losers.

Eastern Montana downed Alaska 98-91 in a playoff between two district winners.

Meanwhile, UPI named its all-Coast team and it could well rate as the All America team. UCLA's Bill Walton and Long Beach State's Ed Ratleff were first-team All Americas last year and should repeat.

Smooth Keith Wilkes of the nationally top-rated Bruins is also on the team as are the nation's two top scorers, William Averitt of Pepperdine and Ray Lewis of Los Angeles State.

Making up the second team were skyscrapers Mike Stewart of Santa Clara, Kevin Restani of University of San Francisco and Rich Kelley of Stanford along with Olympian Tom Henderson of Hawaii and Pacific-8 scoring leader Louie Nelson of Washington.

Basketball Results

John Huff won the battle by scoring 27 points to 25 for Larry Schmidt, but Schmidt won the war by leading his MacArthur's team to a 54-47 victory over Manzanita last night in a San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department adult basketball game. In the only other scheduled encounter, the Sharks won by forfeit.

Marilyn Won't Talk About Fritz

ROCKFORD, Ill. (UPI) — Mrs. Marilyn Peterson doesn't want to talk about the marital problems which her husband, Yankee Pitcher Fritz Peterson described earlier this week.

The 29-year-old mother of two remained in seclusion today in Northern Illinois near the home of her parents, who protected her privacy.

A source close to the family said Mrs. Peterson fears the more that is said, the worse it will be for her two young sons, especially her impressionable 5-year-old.

As for the marital "swap," which Peterson described as having taken place with another Yankee Pitcher, Mike Kekich and his wife, Susanne, the source said it never existed.

"We don't understand, but we figure if he (Peterson) keeps talking long enough, he'll hang himself," the source said. "We thought we knew him, but obviously we did not. He's changed."

"We loved him like one of the family."

Mrs. Peterson is seeking a divorce at her husband's request. The source said she will maintain custody of her sons.

HOW TO PLAY WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

South's Cautious Play Saves A Difficult No-Trump Contract

Sometimes only one of your opponents is dangerous, and you must therefore avoid losing tricks to this player. It may be quite safe to lose a trick to the other opponent. The difference does not depend on which opponent is more skillful or makes more noise; it is purely a matter of position.

1 ♣	Pass	2 NT	Pass
3 NT	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead — ♠ 7

SOUTH TAKES

West opened the seven of spades, and East put up the ten. South properly won with the queen of spades.

At this stage, East was the dangerous opponent. If East won a trick, he would lead another spade, and West would take the rest of the spades.

NOT DANGEROUS

West was not dangerous. If West won a trick in some other suit, he could not safely attack spades. To do so would give South a second spade trick.

South recognized this and looked for a way to develop the clubs without giving a trick to East. There wasn't very much that South could do, but he saw one cautious play and promptly made it.

WEST GETS TRICK

At the second trick, South led the low club from his hand, instead of the queen. West naturally followed with the jack of clubs, and South triumphantly played a low club from the dummy. This gave a club trick to West, who could do no damage, and set up the rest of the clubs.

EASY VICTORY

West led a heart to dummy's king, and South continued with a club to his own queen. Now he could get back to dummy with the ace of hearts to cash the rest of the clubs. He made game easily with five club tricks, one spade, two hearts, and one diamond.

The result would be quite different if South took the first club trick with his queen. There would be no way to run the clubs without giving East a club trick. Then East would lead a spade, and the hand would blow right up.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner deals and bids one spade. The next player passes, and you hold:

♠- K Q 5
♥- J 10 3 2
♦- A Q 5 4
♣- Q 5

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two diamonds.

You cannot jump to three spades with only 3-card spade support, nor to two no-trump with only Q-5 in one of the unbid suits. Show a suit of your own and await developments.

Watch Harpoons

DURBAN, South Africa (AP) — The 608-ton Durban-based whaler Edwin Cook was almost sunk by one of its own harpoons. The vessel was holed when a harpoon protruding from a sperm whale it had shot ripped through the hull when a wave pushed the dead mammal against the ship.

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By GORDON B. GREB

True of false? Knowing what today's birthday brunch accomplished is easy for anyone who reads books, attends movies, or watches television.

1. Lynn Redgrave, London-born daughter of Sir Michael Redgrave, is 30 today. She turned naturally to the stage on finishing school, since acting seemed to be all in the family. Her father was knighted for it. Her sister Vanessa was in it. You saw her in such films as "Tom Jones" and "Girl with Green Eyes." Is it true she won an Oscar for her role in "Georgy Girl"?

2. Cyd Charisse, 50 today, has danced and sung with Hollywood's best. Besides having toured with the Ballet Russe, she was Fred Astaire's dancing partner in two musicals, "The Band Wagon" and "Silk Stockings," nd was directed by Gene Kelly in his film, "Singing in the Rain." Her husband is singer Tony Martin. True? False?

3. Sam Jaffe, veteran stage, screen and TV actor, was born in New York City 75 years ago and he's made more movies than candles on his cake. Still seen in character roles on TV these days, he's probably best remembered as Vince Edwards' wise counselor on "Medic." Thirty-six years ago he played the role of the ancient ruler of Shangri-La in the film, "Lost Horizon." True? False?

4. Stuart Chase, now 85, published a book as recently as three years ago called "Man Thinking." This prolific American writer has been surveying the state of the union, particularly its economy and democratic ideals, since he was graduated from Harvard in 1910. Is it true he won the Pulitzer prize for his book, "The Proper Study of Manding"?

ANSWERS

1. False (nominee); 2. True; 3. True; 4. False (best-seller).

WELCOME TO SAN RAFAEL

The northbound Irwin Street off-ramp in San Rafael will take on a new look this spring — complete with Mission bell, palm tree and freeway landscaping — with construction of this city sign and plaza, according to Norris M. Rawles, public works director. The city council recently earmarked $14,978 from the city general fund, as well as a $7,322 gift to the city, for the improvement under a joint powers arrangement with the state division of highways. Included in the beautification plans is landscaping, sidewalk and bench installation on Hetherton Street from Second Street to Mission Avenue, not shown on this state division of highways sketch.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER J. WIKEL, C.P.A.

New Rules Change Maximum Tax Rate For Capital Gains

The new rules for capital gains provide for a maximum rate of 25 per cent, on the first $50,000 of long-term capital gains before the 50 per cent deduction. Any gain over $50,000 will be taxed at not more than 35 per cent because only 50 per cent of long-term capital gains is taxed and the top rate is 70 per cent, so there will be an effective maximum tax of 35 per cent on long-term gains.

This whole thing only applies to you if your taxable income is over $32,000 for a single taxpayer and if you are married and filing a separate return, over $22,000, and if filing a joint return $44,000. If you qualify as Head of Household then your taxable income must exceed $38,000 before the above applies.

The untaxed portion of a long-term capital gain is a tax preference item and is added to other tax preferences and taxed at 10 per cent to the extent that they exceed $30,000 and the regular income tax.

Only 50 per cent of long-term capital losses can be used to offset ordinary income.

The $1,000 maximum capital loss deduction has been reduced to $55 for married persons filing separate returns.

After 1969, all casualty (or theft) gains and losses on business property or capital assets eld for more than six months must be combined. If the casualty losses exceed the casualty gains, the net loss is treated as an ordinary loss without regard to whether there may be noncasualty gains of business property. If, however, the casualty gains exceed the casualty losses, the net gain is treated as a business property gain and must be consolidated with other gains and losses under Section 1231 (Business Property).

Horses and cattle purchased after 1969 and held for draft, breeding, dairy or sporting purposes are considered business only if you hold them for at least two years.

A lump sum distribution for 1970 or later, out of employee benefit plans, which was accrued in plan years beginning after Jan. 1, 1970, is capital gain only to the extent that the taxable portion exceed the employer contributions. If the distribution was employer stock, a special rule applies.

After July 25, 1969, the sale of letters, memorandums or similar property by the creator or for one for whom they were prepared or created is considered ordinary income.

After Jan. 1, 1970, the transfer of a franchise trade mark or trade name is treated as oridnary income if the seller retains any significant power, right or continuing interest.

Basis for original issue discount bonds after May 27, 1969, is increased by the bondholders amortized discount income.

If you had an involuntary conversion you now have two years after the year in which part of the gain on conversion was realized in order to replace your property.

If you make an approved disposition of certain low income housing after Oct. 9, 1969, and replace that with qualified low income housing either by purchase or building within one year after the first year in which part of the gain was realized, you can defer tax on the gain.

Conservation or land clearance farm expenses deducted after 1969 are recaptured in full or part as ordinary income when the land is sold if held less than ten years. Farm losses after 1969, which were used to reduce non-farm income, will be recaptured as ordinary income on sale of the farm in some cases.

Depreciation claimed after 1969 on livestock sold after 1969 is treated as ordinary income on the sale under Section 1245. Some depreciation on Section 1250 property sold after 1969 and claimed for years after 1969 may be recaptured as ordinary income.

California has some very important capital gain changes for 1972.

If any of these items apply to you, be sure to check the rules carefully before filing your return.

How To Trace Old Certificate

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. Where can I ascertain if a stock certificate dated 1891 has any value at the present time? The company is Pueblo Consolidated Land Co. and the certificate had a value of $500 when bought.—H.O.

A. You have several possible sources to check for information. One is a New York brokerage company which specializes in appraising obsolete securities. For a moderate fee R.M. Smythe & Co. will trace this certificate. Write to them at 170 Broadway, New York, N.Y. 10038 for assistance.

My library reveals that in 1917 a company with a similar name, Peublo Realty Trust had offices in Denver, Co. According to the Poor's Industrial Manual of 1918 this company was affiliated with Colorado Fuel & Iron now 86 per cent-owned by Crane Co., 300 Park Ave., N.Y.C. 10022. A letter to the latter corporation's secretary, N. Pacun, may turn up some relevant information. However, individuals often retain stock certificates as curios, even though minority interests have been discharged by the issuing or acquiring corporation.

A third potential source of pertinent facts is the secretary of the state of Colorado. This is, of course, assuming that the company which issued the certificate was the above-named Colorado firm.

Q. About three months ago I bought 200 shares of Stanray (NYSE). These shares have gone down in value and I am concerned. What do you advise?—N.S.

A. In view of the strong economic recovery now under way, I see no reason to dispose of this cyclical railroad and aircraft equipment supplier. Not only should Stanray benefit from increased capital equipment spending which normally accompanies business upswings but newly developed products should also contribute to higher profits. As of Sept. 30, 1972 backlog was up 85 per cent to $33 million. For 1973, earnings of $1.75 a share appear possible, placing the price earnings multiple at the historic low level of 7 times. Shares should be held for their above-average recovery potential.

Food Price News Halts Stock Rally

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices moved lower toward the close today after retreating from an early advance that had produced gains in the past four sessions.

The rally turned around following a government announcement of a sharp gain in the wholesale price index for February. The surge was sparked by continuing high food prices.

Belief that the world monetary situation is about to come under control has largely been responsible for the recent market advances. Analysts said improved investor spirits over monetary matters probably kept today's loss moderate.

Declines led advances by less than a 7-to-6 ratio.

Prices were mixed in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Houston Oil & Minerals moved higher on the Big Board after reporting sharply higher fourth quarter earnings.

'Fly By Night Travel' Opens For Business In San Rafael

A new travel agency with the intriguing name of "Fly By Night Travel" has just opened in San Rafael at 1330 Lincoln Avenue, suite 110.

It is owned by Mrs. Frankie Weir of Mill Valley and managed by Mrs. Wilma Webb of Novato. Mrs. Webb, who has been in the travel business for 17 years, was a partner in Travel Spectrum Inc. at 951 Front Street in Novato until that office closed on March 1 after three years of operation. The main office of Travel Spectrum is located in San Francisco.

Fly By Night Travel purchased the assets of the Travel Spectrum office in Novato.

"We handle a lot of entertainers, and since many of them travel at night, we hit on the name Fly by Night," said Mrs. Webb. "It's sort of a catchy name."

Fly By Night will specialize in group travel in connection with rock concerts by the younger set. It also handles all airline reservations and provides travel service to individuals, groups, and commercial enterprises.

MARITIME ELECTRONICS at Clipper Yacht Harbor in Sausalito has been purchased by Edmund V. Boland of San Anselmo and Gordon L. Patton of San Rafael, who have long experience in marketing and management for vending machine and soft drink companies.

They bought the Sausalito shop from Jack Hecht, who plans to leave soon on a cruise.

The new owners said Maritime Electronics in Sausalito will be open hereafter on Saturdays and Sundays and will concentrate on wholesale distribution to boat dealers of various marine equipment, particularly high frequency radio-telephones and radar.

Boland and Patton also purchased Maritime Electronics in San Jose and will operate both stores under the same name and with existing staff.

Boland came to San Anselmo last September from New Jersey where he was vice president of Rowe International, vending machine manufacturer. He also worked for Coca Cola in Chicago. Boland has 30 years of experience in marketing and management.

Patton, a resident of San Rafael for two and one-half years, was vice president and general manager of a San Francisco firm that produces background music for restaurants and medical offices. Before that, he was sales manager for vending machine manufacturers.

YVONNE HARRIS has been promoted to installment loan officer at Redwood Bank's San Rafael office.

Mrs. Harris graduated from Tamalpais High School in 1963 and joined Redwood Bank in 1964 as a clerk-typist. She was secretary until her transfer into lending a year ago. In her new position, she will be responsible for the installment loan department. Mrs. Harris is treasurer of the Sickle Cell Anemia Foundation of Marin and a member of the American Institute of Banking.

EDWARD P. MORPHY, San Rafael real estate appraiser, has been named to the Narrative Report Seminar Faculty and Reviewing Sub-Committee of the Society of Real Estate Appraisers.

His committee duties will involve teaching special real estate appraisal courses and reviewing demonstration reports. Demonstration reports are written by candidates for professional designation by the Society of Real Estate Appraisers to demonstrate their qualifications as appraisers.

A STEREO ANALYSIS clinic will be held tomorrow (Friday) and Saturday at the Town and Country Village TV in the Strawberry Town and Country Village.

Peter Straube, the owner, has invited factory representatives from the McIntosh Company to conduct the clinic. He said the public is invited to bring in amplifiers and pre-amp receivers, regardless of age, make or place of purchase, for free analysis.

The clinic will be held from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. tomorrow and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday.

I. J. (IKE) ELY of San Anselmo, who handles bookkeeping and income tax preparation for small businesses and individuals, has moved downstairs to the ground floor of the Cheda Building at 508 San Anselmo Avenue.

Ely had his office upstairs in the same building for the past three years but moved to the ground floor for the convenience of his customers.

QUIK STOP MARKET at 4 Bolinas Avenue in San Anselmo is under the new ownership of Leonard Bessenhoffer of Fairfax, who has two and one-half years experience in the food industry.

Bessenhoffer took over last month from former owner Issa I. Masarweh of San Francisco, who sold the franchise because of illness.

The new owner of Quik Stop said he will stress personalized service to his customers. "I want to create the atmosphere of a friendly, neighborhood store," said Bessenhoffer.

CHRISTOPHER J. HEGARTY, president of C.J. Hegarty & Co. of Tiburon, has been elected to the 1973 National Board of Regents of the College for Financial Planning, Denver.

The Financial College was set up in 1969 to provide greater professional expertise for the dually licensed stock broker, insurance agent, mutual fund representative and others who provide long-range financial counseling.

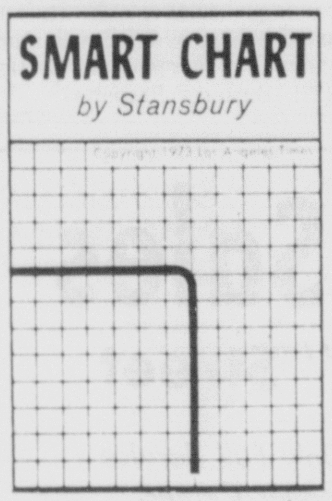
More Hospitals Will Be Acquired

I-J Special Report

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — Hospital Corp. of America, which owns Ross General Hospital and about 40 other hospitals nationwide, plans to acquire American Medicorp, Inc., which operates 38 hospitals in 10 states.

John C. Neff, president of HCA, and Bernard J. Korman, president of American Medicorp., jointly announced an agreement in principle on the proposed acquisition. The agreement is subject to approval of the board of directors and stockholders of both corporations and further investigation by both companies.



"We tried a revolutionary advertising strategy—the unvarnished truth."

Three Millionth Vehicle Is Produced

I-J Special Report

SAN JOSE — The Ford Motor Co's assembly plant in Milpitas produced its three millionth vehicle — a golden glow Pinto Runabout — Tuesday, Feb. 27.

The first vehicles — standard-size Fords and light and medium trucks — came off the lines at the Milpitas facility almost 18 years ago, March 1, 1955. Since then the plant's employes have built 1,828,635 cars and 1,170,365 trucks
